...Study to be extended

The Community got good news recently to the effect that the original six months Community Services Survey grant asked for last April but allowed by the Department of Manpower Planning in Tallahassee for only two months to Sept. 30, will extended to Feb. 8, 1979

Although the four member survey team being led by Angela DeVasher and monitored by Trustee Rose Hanna has visited nearly 3,000 homes out of the estimated 6,500 in the incorporated and unincorporated areas of Port St Lucie, many of the residents were not at home or were out of town. Having the additional four months will make it possible to return to such homes and complete the survey community-wide, according to Center President Dick Lundin.

The data stemming from the questionnaires being filled out by area residents, either with or without the help of the survey workers, is being tabulated by the workers on Friday afternoons for the use of the Center's Community Services Committee, its Master Planning Committee, and Planner Mike Szunyog of the City of Port St. Lucie.

"We're really into the swing of things now and the workers are doing a great job for the Community Center," said Mrs. Hanna.

In addition to Angela, crew chief, survey workers are Rosie Phillips, Celie Mae Hudson and Lillian Barker.

Center seeking flea market items

Sellable items of furniture, clothing, appliances, toys, plants, kitchen ware, fishing tackle and other items can be donated to the upcoming Flea Market sale on December 9 and 10 to benefit the Port St. Lucie Community Center, according to Morris Rogat, chairman

Items will be picked up at the home if donors call 878-1388 or 878-1390. Booth space is also available, and persons desiring boothes can call Rogat at 878-2888.

Rogat also asked for volunteers to help at the flea market.

Social Security Answers Questions

Q. I'll be 65 later this year, but I'm not planning to retire. In fact, I'll probably work for several more years. Can I get Medicare when I reach 65, or do I have to retire?

A. You don't have to retire to get Medicare hospital insurance protection. Even if you keep working, you will be eligible for this protection at age 65 if you have worked long enough under social security or railroad retirement. Anyone who is 65 or older can enroll for Medicare medical insurance. To make sure you get the full protection of Medicare starting with the month you reach 65, you should apply at the social security office about three months before you are 65.

Q. A few months ago, I started getting social security retirement checks. I know that if I work, some of my benefits may be withheld because of my earnings. Would other kinds of income affect my monthly checks?

A. In general, income not earned from employment or self-employment wouldn't affect your benefits. This includes dividends from stocks you own, interest on savings accounts, pensions and other retirement pay, income from annuities, and gifts or inheritances. Special rules apply to some kinds of income, however. For more information, contact any social security office.

Double taxation war drums are beating again in PSL

Although it may take a long time to solve the issue, assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman said Monday that Port St. Lucie may be in line for a substantial rebate of funds from Lucie county if he is successful in proving the county has taxed the city for services it doesn't provide here.

For several years city officials have complained that Port St. Lucie residents are victims of double taxation by the county.

For several years city official have complained that Port St. Lucie residents are victims of double taxation by the county.

The basic contention of city council members has been that city residents are paying more in county taxes than the value of services the county provides within the city. One issue along that line has been that the county has no recreational facilities or services convenient for city residents and has not adequately helped fund the city's Sportsman's Park. Another argument forwarded by the council is that if the city weren't paying extra funds to the Sheriff for extra police protection, the normal level of protection would not be adequate. Still other arguments have been forwarded that while the county taxes all landowners, including those in Port St. Lucie, county engineering, legal, zoning and building, planning, and administration services are of little or no benefit to city residents.

CHARLES DORFMAN, assistant city attorney, outlined a procedure Tuesday for taking a resolution to the long-standing squabble between city and county officials over double taxation.Though he cautioned a final solution may take awhile and could take legal action to achieve, he said once the issue is resolved, the city may be in for a substantial tax rebate from the county. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Following a joint meeting between city council and county commission members in the summer, when county commissioners declined to fund some capital improvements requested for Sportsman's Park, the city legal staff was instructed to see how the city might force the county to cease what council members feel is double taxation.

At a city workshop meeting Tuesday, Dorfman reported results of that study and got the nod to continue efforts to pinpoint areas of double taxation.

"Over the years, a slow evolution has taken place recognizing the inequality and inequity of the situation wherein the municipality is taxed by the county and the revenue so raised is used for the benefit of unincorporated areas to the exclusion of the municipality," Dorfman said. As a result of this evolution, he noted, a 1976 state supreme court decision was handed down stating counties have no right to tax city residents for a service if there is "no real and substantial benefit to city dwellers..."

Dorfman pointed out that in a later court case, a formula was devised for computing how much tax revenue credit a city should get in cases where no real or substantial county service is provided. That formula is arrived at by computing the percentage of county taxes that are paid by city residents. Then, that percentage figure is used to compute the amount of tax rebate the city should get for the specific county services that aren't of substantial benefit to the city.

Mayor William McChesney said Tuesday afternoon that he believes city residents pay about $875,000, or approximately 15 per cent, of the amount of county taxes collected for the county general fund. If that figure were used in the court formula, it would mean that for each county service not substantially rendered to the city, 15 per cent of thi total cost of that service would be due as a credit on taxes charged city residents.

Dorfman recommended Tuesday that the next step should be for a study to isolate the county services of no substantial benefit to the city. He said this will be "a difficult job and may take a while to complete." However, he noted that effective on Jan 1, 1979, the county will have to start using an accounting system uniform with city accounting systems. The new system should help in determining how much in taxes from city residents are spent on a particular service. He said he is hoping soon to receive a 500-page computer print-out on the county budget so an audit of how tax funds are spent can be made.

After that has been done, Dorfman recommended that the city should pass a resolution enumerating services it feels it is being unjustly taxed for and petitioning the county to set up a mechanism for resolving the double taxation issue. Then, after a 90 day wait for the county to respond, if city officials still aren't satisfied, legal action could be taken to seek a tax rebate.

Dorfman said the course of action he recommended Tuesday "puts the county on notice that the city is resolute in its desire to seek equalization of taxation and services."

City council members expressed favor for Dorfman's recommendations and told him to continue pursuing the double taxation charges in the past by saying they feel the city is the guilty party in double taxation.

Dorfman said "there are still many bridges to be crossed, but eventually this could result in long-term benefits to the city because the formula would be adjusted year after year as the figures change.

Lights may make for safer walk to school

A proposal for installation of 18 new streetlights to help Port St. Lucie youngsters find a safe way to school got a favorable reception Tuesday at the city council's workshop meeting.

City Public Safety Director Douglas Stout noted a recent complaint by a resident, who said he almost ran over a school-age child because it was too dark to see him. Stout said with double sessions at the local elementary school, students are now in the dark on their way to school in the morning. And, once daylight savings time ends later this month, he said afternoon session students will be coming home in the dark.

Stout studies the area and came up with a recommendation for 18 new lights. He proposed seven lights along Floresta Drive, four along Curtis St., two along Marion Ave., and five along Irving St. He said all those streets serve as collector streets for kids on the way to school.

The city council members said they liked the proposal and told Stout to get cost estimates on the lights. Then, they said, a proposal will likely be presented to the county commission and school board to see if those groups will share in the cost as they did in a recently completed sidewalk project. Stout noted Irving Street is a county road and that the need for the lights is created by the school. Except for the two proposed lights on Marion Avenue, poles to hold the lights are already erected.

rrently, the Port St. Lucie school only one in the county on double ons, and school superintendant Nolan Skinner has said even if ditate funding could be found for elementary school, it would still year before the school could open. as also said it may take several s before the needed funds could me available.

st July, the school board proposed cial two mill school tax to be d to regular school taxes for the four years in order to raise funds new elementary school in Port St. e and another one in the north of the county. But voters thumpingly rejected the special d a short time later school board members adopted a budget for this fiscal year at the same tax rate as last year. That budget provided no funds for a new school. Also, funds from the state for new school construction were already committed to Westwood High School, which opened in 1977.

"The more I've looked into how to come up with the money for a new school, the harder it looks. So, we're going to get the school board to support an ad hoc committee to investigate means of financing," Mrs. Shelton said.

At a recent meeting to the Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association the idea of a committee was discussed and received support, said Mrs. Shelton. She noted that Don Porter and Don White of that group are in favor of the idea, as is General Development Corporation vice president and PSL general manager Bob Seeley and Port St. Lucie Bank president Herb Haughton.

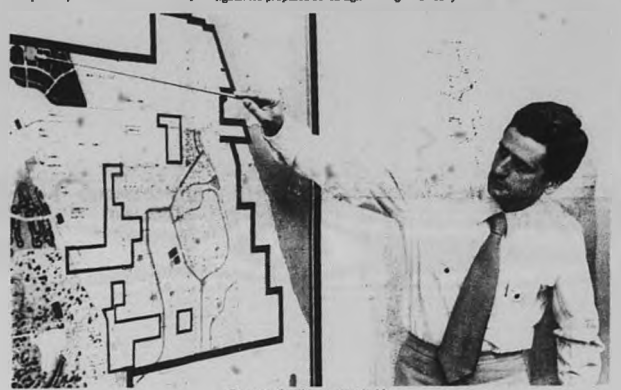
Mrs. Shelton said a petition against double sessions that has been circulating in recent weeks will be delivered to the PTSF meeting and that she'll take that with her next Tuesday when she goes to the school board meeting to seek their support of the committee. That meeting is 7:30 p.m. at school system offices on Deleware Avenue in Fort Pierce. The committee would be composed of persons from throughout the county, Mrs. Shelton said.

In addition to talk about the committee, the PTSF meeting will also feature a spokesman from the Martin County Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach, who will outline the center's projects.

Halloween Spook Hour at library Thursday

The Port St. Lucie Branch Library will hold its annual Halloween Spook Hour on Thursday, October 26.

The party will start at 3:30 p.m. and will last approximately 45 minutes. Children are asked to be sure to wear their Halloween costumes. There will be Halloween games, spooky stories, and witches brew to drink. Due to limited space, a ticket will be necessary to attend. The tickets are free, and may be picked up at the front desk in the library. The Spook Hour is for children ages 6 through 11.



For more details, see story inside.

HARVEY NEWMAN, owner of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront mobile home parks, points out the location of a proposed 740-unit Golf Village mobile home park he is proposing for Port St. Lucie. The park, to be located east of U.S.1 and a little east of present buildings in the GDC Industrial Park near Walton Road, was given site plan approval by the city Planning and Zoning Board Monday and will soon be presented to the city council for final approval. Committee to unravel complex sign law

After hearing city building department head Ralph LaChance comment that 90 per cent of the signs in Port St. Lucie are probably in violation of city ordinances, Planning and Zoning Board members agreed Monday to appoint a committee to study the problem and possibly come up with a new sign law.

LaChance said he has been having problems lately trying to decide what is and is not a proper place to allow a sign within the city. One of the most frequent problems, he noted, is that many persons are seeking to place signs within city rights-of-way along streets. He said he has been trying to determine if that is legal, and if so, is it legal for signs other than directional signs.

Even the issue of what is and is not a directional sign, as opposed to a sign to primarily benefit a business, seems to be cloudy. He noted that General Development Corporation has a number of signs giving directions to Sandpiper Bay Resort and gold facilities and that other firms are seeking to have signs pointing to their businesses. Another problem voiced lately at city meetings is the presence of for sale signs on tracts away from the land or home that is for sale.

Assistant City Attorney Charles Dorfman proposed the committee to study the intracies of the present sign ordinance to see if things can be made a little clearer. He pointed out during an interview Tuesday that while he feels the sign ordinances are clear enough to be enforceable, he said the laws are complicated. He said the size and type and location of signs are governed by a number of factors, including the zoning of the particular land they're placed on and the purpose of the sign, and he said residential signs and commercial signs have different sets of reules to follow.

Until the committee reports back on its findings, Dorfman suggested that sign applications be considered on an individual basis and said if anyone has a question about the validity of a present or proposed sign, they should check with the building department.

When he told Planning and Zoning Board members Monday that a two-year phase out of non-conforming signs should have already occurred by now, LaChance said there are still many signs in the city that still don't conform to city law, adding that as many as 90 per cent of the signs may be in violation.

SIGN PROBLEM--Just who may erect a sign within the city of Port St. Lucie, where it can be placed and what it can say are becoming increasingly complex problems for city officials as more and more requests are being made for new signs. After hearing city building department head Ralph LaChance say that as many as 90 per cent of the signs in the city may be in violation of current sign ordinances, Planning and Zoning Board members agreed to have a committee study the problem. Though all of the above signs along Port St. Lucie Boulevard give directions, some also serve partially as advertising. The committee is expected to come up with guidelines on what rules should apply to directional and advertising signs. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

THE SPOOKS ARE GETTING excellent advance publicity, ir their annual appearance at the PTA carnival set for ct.28 at Jensen Beach Elementary School, with the help of e students and the art department. Here a few of the more original posters which will appear in area store windows are shown by art teacher Ann Smith, left, and Susan Merritt, right, chairman of the PTA carnival committee. The winners of the contest hadn't been decided as of Monday, but they'll be announced soon. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Kids of all ages will frolic at JB Halloween carnival

A bonanza in prizes, ranging from a trip to Nassau to choice gift certificates, will be bringing parents by the score out to the Halloween carnival being staged Oct. 28 by the Jensen Beach Elementary Parent Teachers' Association.

The carnival will begine at 1 p.m. on the school campus on Savannah Road. The children will have a costume parade prior to the carnival, with line-up and registration beginning at 11:30 a.m., according to parade chairman Debby White. The parade will take off at noon. Judging will be done on the funniest, prettiest, scariest and most original costumes, at each grade level. The prizes will be silver dollars donated by the Stuart Bank.

While the carnival is for the youngsters, "kids" of all ages will be getting into the act, according to Susan Merritt, carnival chairman. Among the bigger ones will be Bill Joliffe, a director for the Barn Theatre, who will make the occasion twice as scary by doing Halloween make-up on the kids. He promises clown faces, bloody scars and strange noses.

Assistant Principal Lou Rizzolo will be making buttons on his button machine, and Mr. Hi-pockets, on stilts, will be strolling around the grounds with his pockets stuffed with prizes. A balloon clown will also be making the rounds.

During the afternoon, the fun will center at all kinds of booths, including Go Fish, Spin-a-Prize, Dig-a-Gift, Bean Bag Toss, Sponge Throw, Football Toss, Lollipop Tree, Coin Toss, Apple Bite, and a very spooky Haunted House. Other booths will be selling hot dogs, soft drinks, cotton candy and popcorn. A plant booth, a cake walk and bake sale are also being readied for the occasion. The new school T-shirts will be on sale so that the kids can wear them on T-Shirt Day in November.

The list of prizes is long – in addition to the Nassau cruise, it includes a lawn mower, gas grill, luggage, gas camping stove, a "basket of cheer," pizza cooker, a fresh ham, a hamburger cooker, a $25 savings bond, and three gift certificates. Students are selling tickets in the shopping centers this week and next.

All proceeds will be used to buy playground equipment for the school.

Halloween art fest set Oct. 27

The Chamber of Commerce is again getting into the Halloween act with the annual window painting contest, according to chairman Mary Killer.

All the school children in the area are invited to get into the act of painting store window, throughout the community's shopping centers, on the afternoon of Oct.27. The art will remain on display through Monday, when the parents will be asked to come and make it disappear, Mrs. Killer said.

It's a fun time for all incipient spooks, goblins, witches and pumpkins, Mrs. Killer said. All residents are invited to come out and watch the artists at work.

Steak for winners, beans for losers in C of C drive

Beware of the week of November 27, for Mitchell's Marauders and Campbell's Crusaders will be loosed on the town.

Don Mitchell, president of Jensen Beach Bank, and Dick Campbell, editor of The Mirror, will have two teams of Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce members seeking to hold the first "steak or beans" membership drive in this Chamber's history.

At a meeting Tuesday, Mitchell and Campbell laid out the rules for the drive. Each will select his team from businessmen and women in town. The teams are limited to ten persons, not including the team captain.

November 10, the Friday before the drive begins, the two teams will meet at the Chamber office to select the rest of the members. The teams will alternate selections. Then, on Monday, the teams will endeavor to sign members and new members during the week.

On Friday, November 17, the teams will meet at 4 p.m. to turn in their memberships and dues payments. Teams will receive five points for a member, ten points for a new member, three points for a contributing member, and an extra ten points for any membership in which the business pays a voluntary investment of $100 for Chamber membership.

That Friday night, the teams will meet at the Sheraton Resort Inn on Hutchinson Island for their steak or beans dinner. The Sheraton Resort Inn is sponsoring the dinner for the Chamber, and Ed Villadonga, general manager, has promised a steak feast fit for a king for the winners. He would not comment on the beans menu for the losing team.

The Chamber teams also plan to make the drive do the job of getting comments from the businessmen in the twon on what the Chamber needs to do to help the community more.

Winds fail to blight sunday fun

BY SALLY LATHAM

The monsoon season, which seemed determined to blight all outdoor activity during the past week, failed to discourage the appetites of some 750 who turned out Sunday for the Barbeque and festival which capped off Fire Prevention Week for seven of the ten fire departments in Martin County.

Though the gales whistled and whipped throughout the afternoon, those who braved the brisk breezes got a full measure of entertainment as reward for their staying power. In addition to a hearty chicken dinner, the afternoon included races for the kids. a program of melodic a capella singing by the Sailfish Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, and square dancing by the lively seniors from Ocean Breeze Park.

Some people who had been planning to take in the barbeque said they stayed away because they were afraid the cautious firemen wouldn't take chances with flying sparks before the errant winds.

But barbeque they did in the big outdoor pits on the Jensen Causeway.

"We served between 700 and 750 dinners," Fire Chief Joe Luciano said. "We were sorry that the lines had to wait so long, but the trouble was we had fire but no heat – the wind was blowing it all away."

When they did get fed, diners found the food plentiful.

"we didn't hold this one to make money," Chief Luciano said. "We got bigger chickens and gave the people more for their money. This one was to say thanks to the fire departments throughout the county for their Fire Prevention Week participation."

The departments turned out in full with their equipment. The causeway was lined with fire trucks and cars of every size and description, from seven of the ten units in the county. They were, in addition to Jensen and Rio, the Palm City, Tropical Farms, District 2, Stuart, and Hobe Sound.

Among the stars of the afternoon was the Rio Fire Department, which gave a dramatic demonstration of the "Jaws of Life," the big shears with which wrecked cars can be taken apart to extricate accident victims. They dismantled a "junker" station wagon, while the Jensen Area Samaritans helped with the removal and treatment of the "trapped" PASSENGERS.

The afternoon was one of total community participation. Chamber of Commerce President Fred Meeker brought and manned the public address and loud speaker system for the singers, dancers, and for County Commissioner Frank Wacha, who emceed the event.

The dinner was prepared, cooked and served by the Fire Department members and auxiliary, and Chamber executive Helen Richardson was present to lend her support.

Assistant Fire Chief Will Bowman was in charge of the races which began the afternoon's fun for the youngsters. He announces that the winners were:

100-feet one-legged hop, boys and girls ages under 10: Derrick Meer, winner; Robert Paolantonio, second;

100-feet one-legged hop, boys and girls ages 10-15: Nancy Wright, winner; Frank Vozzolo, second;

100-feet three-legged race, boys and girls under 10: Robert Palant and Gary Rhoads, winners; Derrick Meer and Chuck Thigpen, second;

100-feet three-legged race, boys and girls 10-15: Leighan Browning and Lori Beswick, winners; Scott Beckey and Frank Vozzolo, second;

50-yard dash, ages under 10: Derrick Meer, winner: Kim Thigpen second;

50-yard dash, ages 10-15: Frank Vozzolo, winner; Scott Beckey, second.

Chief Luciano, who is also president of the Martin County Fire Chief's Association, said he was delighted with the success of the Sunday event, especially in the face of the adverse weather.

"I'm so pleased we got such full participation," he said. "I particularly want to thank Don Wilkie, who served as Fire Prevention week chairman, and Bob Wright, Barbeque chairman. Everyone pitched in to make it a success."

Stone visiting area to discuss inlet

U.S. Sen. Richard Stone is in the area this week, with heartening news that the St. Lucie Inlet is back in the running for government funding, after it got shot down a week ago by the Presidential blanket veto of the Public Works Bill in which it was included.

On Tuesday, Sen. Stone gave talks and conferences in Indian River and Okeechobee Counties, and on Wednesday, he visited St. Lucie County and Martin County, speaking at a luncheon in Stuart.

The revised public works appropriation measure, he explained to The Mirror, was put back into the congressional mill last week following a flood of letters and telegrams protesting the veto which was aimed not at the Florida projects – the st. Lucie Inlet and the improving of the Port Everglades harbor at Fort Lauderdale – but at several projects in other states that President Carter opposed.

The revised measure, Stone explained, eliminates 17 of the proposed projects, but retains all the ones relating to Florida.

"I.....believe these water projects planned for Florida are very important to solve Safety and environmental problems," Stone said. "In addition, they will create many needed construction jobs."

The new construction starting money in the revised bill gives the St. Lucie Inlet $1.5 The lower overall-long-term expenditure to widen and deepen the channel, and to install permanent improvements including an additional jetty is expected to add up to more than $6 million.

As Stone noted earlier, the improvement will be a savings to the government, because for the past several years, the Army Corpos of Engineers has spent nearly $500,000 annually to clean out the sand which with one or two hard storms shifts back to the old pattern, and must be done all over again.

In the past years, the inlet has claimed a number of lives and has wrecked scores of boats. With permanent repair and improvement, it is hoped the danger will be measurably minimized.

A FATHER-DAUGHTER TEAM goes into the act to demonstrate the purpose of one of the exercise stations at Langford Park, being installed as part of the Parcours which will soon open as a work-out center for people of all ages. The athletic twosome are Fred Dukes and his teenage daughter Michele, who are obviously hanging around waiting for more excitement to develop. The parcours, equipment for which was purchased with a $4,000 gift from the American Heart Association, is being installed by the county. It is due for a dedication ceremony in the next few weeks. DARLENE R. NELSON

Darlene Nelson Joins Stuart Nat'l

Darlene R. Nelson was appointed assistant cashier in the installment loan department at Stuart National Bank, according to Jack T. Williams, bank president.

A 1968 graduate of Dan McCarty High School, Ft. Pierce, she was formerly in the installment loan department at the Sun Bank of St. Lucie County. In addition to her banking experience, she has completed courses in both principles of banking and installment loans given by the American Institute of Banking.

She is married and has two daughters, ages 7 and 4. The family resides in Port St. Lucie.

Mrs. Nelson joined the staff at Stuart National's main office at 301 E. Ocean Boulevard.

DARRELL WARD

Ohio man is named Stuart Bank V-P

Darrell E. Ward has been named senior vice president of the Stuart National Bank, according to Jack T. Williams, the bank's president. Among his responsibilities will be the supervision of commercial loan activities.

Ward is a former vice president and commercial lending officer for the Southern Ohio Bank in Cincinnatti, a $250 million dollar institution with twelve branch offices. He was responsible for organizing and managing the bank's commercial credit department, implementing loan policies and management training programs.

Ward is a member of the American Institute of Banking and brings over 17 years of experience to Stuart National. He attended the West Virginia Institute of Technology and graduated from Center College in Charleston, West Virginia. While at Center College, he majored in both accounting and computer programming operations. He has since completed advanced courses in banking and management at the American Institute of Banking and Xavier University.

Ward and his wife, Janet, have two daughters, ages 10 and 3, and are both active in the United Methodist Church.

Stuart National Bank's main office is located at 301 E. Ocean Boulevard, with full-service branch offices at the Monterey Plaza, and at Indian River Plantation on Hutchinson Island. A third full-service branch at 1500 E. Ocean Boulevard is currently under construction and scheduled to open in December

Elsie Hutton
Some Straight Talk to Martin County Voters

A little bit about myself and my background - I am Mrs. David E. Hutton, my husband is with Sears Roebuck & Co. We have two children, Robin Sherrill - who is married and lives in Lake Charles, Louisiana, and David Jr., a Freshman at Martin County High School. We've lived and worked in Florida since 1960 and in Martin County since 1966.

I have served as a Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court and as Chief Deputy Supervisor of Elections under Mrs. Isaacs and Mrs. Randolph respectively, so I have had the good fortune to train under two excellent theachers. I started at the bottom and worked myself up. When Mrs. Randolph resigned last year to be married, she recommended me as her replacement. However, the present Governor, a Democrat, appointed a member of his own party as a temporary officer to fill the vacancy until the next general election as required by law.

I never expected to run for public office and every now and then I have to pinch myself to be sure all of this is real. But I do have the on the job experience and qualifications to serve as your Supervisor of Elections.

As your Supervisor of Elections there are many things I would like to accomplish. I would first continue the voter registration drive begun in 1974 by my former boss, Sandra Randolph. The time has come to set up permanent voter registration for the outlying areas. I want to personally visit these areas once a month on a regularly scheduled basis. What better way for an elected official to keep in touch with the people she serves than registering them to vote!

Now, LET ME ASK YOU, - are you aware that my opponent is committed to investing heavily in voting equipment that they are crushing for salvage in South Florida? AS A MATTER OF FACT - Broward County traded their lever voting machines (like ours) in 1974. Since that time they've been stored in a warehouse in Ft. Lauderdale. This summer they crushed over 600 of them and got $5 apiece for junk.

The Supervisor of Elections has over a $100,000.00 a year operating budget and that's not peanuts! That's our tax $'s she's throwing away! Who needs a fleet of Edsels? THE POINT IS - we are paying top tax $'s. Let's be modern, efficient and up to date. Ask me about the alternatives.

Questions, call 334-6785 or 283-1905

With your help, I will operate your Elections Office in the most efficient, professional manner

PLEASE VOTE FOR ME, ELSIE HUTTON, for Supervisor of Elections that the bid for the job was

The construction bid is $756,900, and the total cost of the new city hall has been estimated at $883,000. The contractor has 270 days to build the city hall, which could pose a problem to the city. The present city hall offices are being rented from a firm which has had two court battles with the city and may soon have a third. The present lease of the city hall space runs out next July and city council members are hopeful they'll have a new home before having to consider a renewal of the lease or other temporary office space.

The new city hall is to be located on a 14-acre tract at the northwest corner of Port St. Lucie and Alcoso Boulevards.

WHITE CITY CEMETERY

NOT FOR PROFIT

SOONER OR LATER, you or your family must select a cemetery estate. If you put it off until "later", which means when needed, you know it must be done hastily, unwillingly, unhappily and alone. If you do it "sooner", which means now, you know you can do it carefully, calmly, pleasantly and together.

We are in our third and final phase of development of the new section. The Association is once again offering spaces at a predevelopment price. These may be purchased with a small deposit and monthly payments. Since the Association is non-profit, there are no interest or hidden charges.

Drive with care in OBP

It looks as though we bragged a little too much about our marvelous Florida weather, anyway this horrible rainy stuff will make the snowbirds feel more at home for the first few days. They must have known what was in store, as only about 35 blew in last week to make the season total around 200. They were:

Clyde & Lila Redinger; Dr. Jasper & Dorothy Robertson; Niles & Elsie Smith; Otto & Dorothy Schorer; Bob & Ruth Reity; Frank Geerinckx; Charles & Ruth Ford; Betty MacNab; Doug & Murriel Wooley.

Claude Keppler; Guy & Louise Fusco; Ed Doersam; Mildred Clark; Henry & Ruth Blair; Manuel & Ana Torres; Rose Shriner; Pearl & Melva Atchison; William & Shirley Browning; Ken & Verna Bartlett.

Just a word of caution, folks that have been away from the park for a few months tend to forget, that there are many folks on narrow streets that can't step as lively as they could; slow down and give them a chance to find a safe spot. Also, we'll now have to watch the whizzing traffic on 707 and look both ways before venturing to cross, as "DOT" won't sanction traffic signals, even though the town will pay for them.

A couple of bikes were stolen recently. Many have locks and chains handy but don't bother to use them. In this day and age, if you value your bike, lock it up. Also, it's up to all of us to report suspicious actions to the Sheriff's Dept. They will investigate quickly. Call them at 283-1300.

Felix, the ferret, is the mystery animal reported last week. Mrs. Maxie Bessmer (334-6100) called to say, it's her pet that got lost one night last week. If seen, notify her and she will try to get it.

Remember, free blood pressure checks, 9 to 11 a.m., Fri. Oct. 20 at

SPANISH CLASS

People in the Jensen are are reminded of the intermediate conversational Spanish class which had its first session Wednesday (Oct. 18) at Martin County High School. The 12-week course will include intermediate level grammar and other specifics

Langford Field; by Martin County Health Dept. nurses.

Park Events

Keith & Barbara Creager (Son-in-Law and daughter of Ruel & Beulah Mertz) gave an outstanding slide show, Sun. Oct.8, in the clubhouse. They took the folks on their 32 foot yacht "Rebel" (Golden Hinde class) on the first leg of their around-the-world cruise. They will follow the path of Sir Franicis Drake, even to leaving Plymouth, England on the same day, but 400 years later.

This first leg was a stormy one, with mast high waves and Barbara having to climb the mast to repair storm damaged rigging. However, they did make it, safe and sound and as soon as son Robin, is out of the service in January, Keith and Robin will be off on the remainder of the cruise. Many stayed after the slide show to ask questions and wish them a smooth and safe journey.

Ceramics will be the first activity, Mon. and Fri., 9 to 12, with Belva Dean the Adult Education instructor. There'll be a $2.00 registration fee for the 12 week course. For information, call Belva at 334-4085.

President Nina Ziegelhofer of the Camera Club has called a meeting of the monthly program chairmen for Wed. Nov.8 (time and place to be announced). Nina also, would like to have all OBPers who have been traveling this summer and taking pictures, get in touch with her so programs can be scheduled. Tel. 334-7386.

Ambulance & Hospital

A donation was made to the Jensen Beach Ambulance fund by Pearl Stiegman in memory of Walter Kronenbitter.

Ann Hagna, 3 Cypress was taken to the hospital by ambulance last week and is in intensive care. Grace Brownell, Westend Blvd., was taken to the hospital by Gert Kline for tests and examination.

Ed Doersam, 5th Ave., is back here recouperating after surgery in the north.

Rambling Around

A wedding of interest to Ocean Breeze residents took place at 4 p.m. Oct. 13, when Mrs. Ann Bartle, 11 Cypress and Dr. Charles L. Smerling of 3727 Melba Dr., Jensen Beach, were united in marriage at a double ring ceremony, which was held in the chambers of Judge Marc A. Cianca, in Stuart. The bride wore a dress of dusty pink with silver accessories. Her attendant, Mrs. Dorothy Beck, 5 Banyan, wore a mint green suit with gold and white accessories. The groom's attendant was his brother William smerling of Leisure Village. Dinner at Ocean Village, Hutchinson Island followed, then they left on a short trip to the west coast, before returning home to 3727 Melba Dr.

Lee & Julia Gabler, 11 SW 7th, have just returned from Rehoboth Beach, Del., where they spent the summer. There they have an apartment only ½ mile from the beach. They made some trips to Pennsylvania to visit relatives, but spent most of the summer enjoying some very nice weather. They are friends of Bernie Yowler and in 1969 he said give OBP a try, and like all the others, once tried, they'd found their Shangri-La.

Leta Keith, Vista Dr., and Ada Baum, Pepper St., drove up to Florida Fellowship Foundation with Luella Miner for the Oct. 8 & 9 conference at the "Api-Center". Leta says the conference voted to oppose legalized casino gambling in the state of Florida. ExOBPers Boyd & Emily Smith were there and all had a very enoyable time, staying at Gateway Inn and eating at Sweden House.

Manuel & Ann Torres, 6 Cypress, are just back from spending the summer in South Bend, Ind., where Manuel was an executive accountant with Bendis Corp. until he retired in 1967. They first spent 2 years touring Europe and winters visiting Manuel's 98-year-old mother in Puerto Rico, before coming to OBP last Nov. They have a married son in Michigan, and there are 3 grandchildren. Manuel & Ann enjoy the beach most of all, and go there every day for a swim.

Bun & Rose Miller, 32 Bay are just back from a May to Oct. stay in Brookston, Ind., their home town, where Bun was a rural mailman. He said it was a great job, even at one third the pay they now get. They came to OBP in 1958 after a short stay at Riverside Park, because they heard the fishing was great, but it is now shuffling for Bun and Bingo for Rose. Bun said they had a nice summer, not too hot, some rain at first, but that mad good crops to feed his son-in-law's hogs.

Pete & Peg Muller, 19 Kumquat have been away from May to Oct. First, they did some senior sitting with Pete's sister for 6 weeks up in New York State. Then, it was on to Hendersonville, N.C., for a summer of shuffling, where many wins changed Pete's status from amateur to pro. However, they did take 16 days off for a tour of Hawaii and 4 of the islands. Pete, to be different, said the summer was the hottest ever in Hendersonville with many violent afternoon thunder storms.

Tunnel-Drive propulsion is a brilliantly engineered inboard power system. Since its introduction in 1969, millions of hours of use by boaters have shown it to be highly reliable, efficient and trouble-free.

What is Tunnel-Drive propulsion?

Basically, it's a simple yet unique system that houses the shaft, strut, prop and rudder in a protective tunnel right in the deep-V "Sea-Track" hull. (See illustration front cover.) No running gear is exposed below the keel line, and the prop moves through the water at a near 90 degree angle for more efficiency. It is the most advanced and successful inboard system in years. Advantages are numerous:

Shallow Draft Because the power train and steering gear are located above the keel line, Penn Yan boats draw an average of 14 inches less than most inboard boats equivalent size. The 12,000 lb. 30-footer, for instance, draws only 22 inches. And all boats up to 24 feet draw only 14 inches. Nose up to beaches. Poke into coves. Then run in a heavy sea . . . It's no wonder Penn Yans with Tunnel-Drive propulsion and "Sea-Track" hulls are being called the "go anywhere" boats.

nns, Thibedeau bring county seat race to O.R.A.

a contest for the district four St. County commission seat came tdoor Resorts of America on nson last week when Republi- incumbent Ed Enns and Democrat challenger Phil Thibedeau addressed the park's residents on a wide range of issues, including the use of tax money, emergency services, recreation and road paving.

TY COMMISSIONER Ed Enns met with south St.Lucie County residents ek at Outdoor Resorts of America to tell the group why he feels he should lected as commissioner. He cited his opposition to the state Department of portation's road project delays and the commission's action to hold the line as factors in his favor.

Thibedeau began the discussions by noting that the tax millage rate for the new fiscal year took a slight rise over last year's rate and by accusing the county commission of waiting until problems reach a critical state before dealing with them.

Enns was quick to rebut the latter charge, saying the commission does plan ahead and doesn't wait for a crisis before acting. He also noted that the increase in the millage rate was a technical rise, and said the actual number of dollars to be taken in by the new millage figure will remain the same as last year. He said in the last eight years the county commission has "held the line" on taxes, with the exception of one year. He said he cast the only negative vote on the budget in the year of the significant tax rise.

Thibedeau told the small audience of mobile home park residents he has 24 years experience of public service work, including more than six years as the county civil defense director and experience as director of the homicide bureau in Dade County. He said it was he who designed and implemented the 911 emergency phone system in the county and was responsible for getting para-medic teams incorporated into the county rescue-ambulance system.

Enns told the audience Thibedeau was not alond in implementing those services and said many others deserved credit too.

Both Enns and Thibedeau seemed in agreement that the response time for fire and ambulance service to the county's southern portion of the island was in need of improvement. Enns said the county fire chief is currently looking for land south of the nuclear power plant for a new fire station, but he said it may be a number of years before it can be built. "It's easy to promise services, but it's tougher to raise the money to provide the services," Enns said. He noted that when persons moved to ORA, they knew they were moving into an area away from emergency services and he said it will take time before there is enough money for a new station. In the meantime, he said, the county has issued a certificate of need to allow the Jensen Beach Samaritans to serve the south county residents.

Thibedeau said the south portion of the island was one of the areas in greatest need for closer emergency service and said he'd work toward that end if elected.

The challenger also told the group that the county doesn't have a single active recreational facility south of White City and only has one park for active recreation north of Taylor Creek. He also criticized the county commission for not demanding from state official the resurfacing of A1A.

Enns countered by saying the county commission has taken a tough stance against the state Department of Transportation (DOT) on A1A and other road projects and that the county lead the movement to return control of the fifth and sixth cents of state gas taxes to counties for use on road projects. He said as a result of pressure on DOT, bids for resurfacing 10 miles of A1A from the south county line northward should be let next June. As for recreation, he said "As you provide more, it's going to cost more," and said of the squabble over recreation in Port St. Lucie, "They don't seem to want county-wide recreation; They want to do it themselves." He added that a committee is now studying recreational needs to determine where to spend $100,000 in recreational funds.

When asked if he felt the mobile home park residents were getting their money's worth for the taxes they pay, Enns replied, "There are 77,052 people in the county and I don't know of one that feels he's getting his money's worth. But there are so many intangible services you may never use that are costly." He cited cash for the court system is spent, but doesn't directly affect all persons.

Thibedeau proposed a 15-member citizens advisory council, to be made up of three appointees from each county commissioner. He said this would provide more input into county government and help in solving problems that came before the commission.

Enns said if the people wanted such a council, he'd not object to it, but added that he often gets phone calls from citizens and said the council might filter out some of his direct contact with citizens.

Thibedeau said the county only has shelter space for 4,000 persons in the event of a hurricane and he called for more shelters and a law to require all new mobile home parks to have facilities to house at least 90 percent of the park's population. Enns said he felt with the sophistication of advanced weather warnings that has evolved over the years, there will be sufficient warning for park residents to evacuate the island with their mobile home rigs before a hurricane strikes.

Thibedeau, 48, was raised in Florida and has lived in the county for 14 years. He attended the University of Miami and Florida State University.

Enns, 45, was born and raised in the county and has a business administration degree from the University of Florida. He operates an insurance agency in Fort Pierce and has been a county commissioner for the past eight years.

PHIL THIBEDEAU, Democrat challenger for Republican Ed Enn's county commission seat, told south county residents last week that he feels he's the man for the job because of 24 years of public service experience. He said while he was county civil defense director, he designed and implemented the 911 emergency telephone system. Enns countered by saying Southern Bell and a number of other county officials deserved a portion of the credit. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

CFC advised of new rate desision delay

The Coalition of Florida Consumers, which has opposed the petition of General Development Utilities to the Public Service Commission for a water and sewer rate increase, has been advised of a further delay in the PSC final ruling in the case.

CFC President Jack Lindsley said he had received a copy of a letter sent the PSC by attorneys for GDU, taking exception to the findings of the hearing examiner.

"A decision was scheduled for Oct. 25," Lindsley said, "but the GDU people need time to prepare their exceptions, so a ruling probably will not be handed down until Nov. 20."

Lindsley commented that the CFC feels the examiner "in our opinion essentially granted what GDU asked for."

He said the organization is to receive a copy of the GDU exceptions this week.

No Anglers Club meeting on Nov. 7

Due to the general election on Tuesday, Nov. 7, the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club meeting normally scheduled for that evening at the North Port Marina will not be held.

The marina will, as usual, be a polling place that day.

A new meeting date will be announced later.

SL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The St. Lucie Historical Society moved to a new location, the Sizzlin's Steak House at 2024 S. Federal Highway in Fort Pierce, for its first fall meeting on Tuesday. Plans were made for a car trip to Lake Kissimmee, Zolfo Springs and Okeechobee on Saturday, Oct.28. Those planning to attend may call Lucille Rights, president of the society, at 464-6682 after 4 p.m.

Elmer and Corinne Cox celebrate 50th

Several Port St. Lucie community leaders were among the 200 guests attending the Golden Wedding party given for Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cox on Oct. 7, at the home of Mrs. Cox's sister, Regina Bishop on Hartman Road.

The honor event, which brought together a distinguished aggregate of people prominent at county and state levels, was a double header in the Cox family. It was also the second birthday of the Cox granddaughter Jennifer Grace, who was present for the occasion with her older sister Tracey Lynn. The two are the children of the Sheldon J. Coxes.

The Bishop home, which is a community conversation piece in that Mrs. Bishop had it moved en toto from its original location on Orange Avenue Extension when the path of I-95 came through, was lavishly banked with floral arrangements sent as gifts to the honor couple.

Among the old friends of the two attending the party from Port St. Lucie were Mayor and Mrs. William B. McChesney, Vice Mayor and Mrs. Paul Reeb, Councilman and Mrs. A. Merle Anderson, City Treasurer Gerald R. Van Patten and Mrs. Van Patten, and Building Director Ralph LaChance and his wife.

Others attending included Judge and Mrs. Alto Adams, Fort Pierce Mayor and Mrs. Buell Brown, Sheriff and Mrs. Lanie Norvell, and Mrs. Evelyn K. Nash of Clewiston, sister of Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Cox.

The anniversary clelbration was more than a fond memory shared by the honor couple, because Elmer Cox and Corinne Kellems met in Fort Pierce while he was working as a reporter on the Fort Pierce News Tribune. She was a native of Indiana, but began coming here with her family when she was a teenager.

The two said their vows on Oct. 8, 1928, at the Catholic Cathedral of St. Augustine.

They left this area when Elmer was hired by the Gannett Newspapers in Albany and Utica, N.Y. After 14 years in that area, he accepted a post with the U.S. Office of War Information, a job which took him overseas for 20 years. For 16 of those years, Corinne was with him and became one of the state department's overseas "hostesses with the mostes." She became a favorite of the late Charles Bolen, Ambassador to the U.S.S.R., and of the late Secretary of State Dean Acheson, among others.

The Coxes' travels through Europe with the government took them to London, Oslo, Norway, Berlin, where he was one of Gen. Lucius Clay's report officers when Clay was military Governor, and Rome.

Elmer also became a good friend of Willie Brant, Mayor of West Berlin and later Chancellor. They maintained correspondence for years.

During their Berlin sojourn, Corinne attended a milinary design school in Paris, an art she has continued to improve on over the years.

The Coxes' last post in Europe was in Helsinki, Finland, where he served as Press Attache for the State Department for two year.

Since returning to the United States and to this section of Florida, Elmer Cox has been involved in several ventures, his most recent one as City Manager for Port St. Lucie. He has also taught at John Carroll High School, reported for his old "alma mater," The News Tribune, and has served as deputy director of the Community Action Organization.

The couple lives at 102 Gatewood Ave. Their son Sheldon is an engineer with Southern Bell.

Methodists plan annual bazaar

The United Methodist Women of the Port St. Lucie United Methodist Church, 298 S.W. Prima Vista Blvd., will hold their annual bazaar on Fridy, Nov. 3, in Goddard Hall from 7 a.m. till 3 p.m.

A Continental breakfast will be served from 7 to 9 a.m. Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m. The menu will include chicken casserole, mashed potatoes, green beans and cranberry relish, soup, sandwiches, desserts and coffee.

The booths will feature all kinds of handmade gifts, toys, jewelry, candles, books, Christmas decoration, and home baked goods.

Wine tasting at Spanish Lakes

If your palate is pleased by wine,you're in luck.

A wine tasting event will be conducted from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 26, in the lounge at the Spanish Lakes recreation center.

There will be a charge of 50 cents, which will be donated to charity and which will entitle you to four glasses of the wine of your choice. A variety of wines will be provided, with an expert on hand to explain various grapes, wines and wineries.

This time, although the ...ersal the presentation were both ...ed to fine-tuning by practice, the ...ences were in Europe and ...n't participate.

...to be daunted, Meissner, who was one of a professional trio which sang with such bands as Paul Whiteman's and others three decades ago, recruited another professional and talented member of her family, nephew James Michael, to fill in the missing links in the production, a parody on Fiddler on the Roof.

James Michael proved the perfect foil and substitute, and understandably so. The young artist, who is a teacher and manager as well as a performer, has a group much in demand all over the Miami area. The James Michael trio is this season booked for the Diplomat in Hallandale, the Fontainbleu, the Colonial Inn on Miami Beach (where Hollywood producers will be monitoring the show,) and many other well-known (and expensive) night spots.

The Saturday night performance at Amelia Island showed the true professionalism of all three – Campbell, Meissner and James Michael. Although they had only minutes to rehearse lip advance with an incomplete base (thankfully old pros at the game of improvisation) the "Not Ready for Deadline Players" again proved their mettle by eliciting a standing ovation from a lively and enthusiastic audience.

To be given much credit for versatile and well-seasoned accompaniment are these musicians, who had expected a piano as part of the instrumentation, but were left without one by the oversight of the advance guard for the press association.

Instead, pianist Morty Lichstaen manned the tapes and the sound levels while leader Tony Nobili on the violin, Henry Cornely on the cello, accordionist Ronald Trionzi and Brent Turnow on the drums held remarkably fine sway as back-up men.

Understandably, too, when you learned that two of them including Cornely, are full-time members of the Jacksonville Symphony, and the others may be found regularly at top dinner and night spots around Jax and St. Augustine.

The performance, the visiting brass were informed, was not merely fun and games. The tapes made of the show – many of which were ordered before the convention was over – are being sold, with the proceeds all going to the Claudia Ross Memorial Fund, initiated by The Mirror. Claudia was a valiant one. A former investigative reporter for The Mirror, she was killed during a news assignment in Bangkok, Thailand.

New: Babysitters Unanimous

BY SALLY LATHAM

...ew mothers of young children, ...Port Salerno to Port St. Lucie but ...in the Sewall's Point area, are ...g the curse off the term ...sitter" by making the people ...to realize how important they ...

...day morning, Janice Roihl, wife ...Dr. Norbert Roihl, opened her ...fluent Riverview Road home in ...'s Point to potential babysitters ...had been invited via newspaper ...isement to a coffee.

...was a two-way screening. Or ..., a three-way introduction: the ...thers in pleasant conversation ...coffee and goodies discovering ...qualifications of the seven older ...en who responded to the invitation; at least some of the responders finding out over coffee if this indeed, were their cup of tea, and a dozen wee ones, from babes-in-arms to toddlers making up their own minds who they'd prefer as their adoptive grandmothers.

And for the older women, Mrs. Roihl and her cohorts are hoping, that is exactly the role they'll be playing.

"We're looking for recent widows, or grandmothers who are missing their own grandchildren who live somewhere else – ones who are dying to love and be loved by our children," Mrs. Roihl said.

The turnout for the coffee, which may become the first of a series, was mostly of older women, because the teenagers were in school. But the young mothers are hoping to get teens into the pool, too.

"We're going to contact the guidance department at the high school, and try to recruit some of the younger girls for sitting in the evening," Mrs. Roihl said. "We want them, too. But we need more mature women for sitting so we can go out during the daytime, for our Thursday tennis game or for parties, and especially for weekends or longer when our husbands have to go out of town on conventions, and we want to go with them."

Among the first seven who responded, the backgrounds ran the gamut from a former professional babysitting service manager from Miami to a great grandmother of four. Another was a retired trained nurse, and yet another was a widow who apparently hadn't ever been in the gainful employment fleld in her life.

"She was probably scared when she answered our invitation to apply to P.O.Box 1819, Stuart," Mrs. Roihl said. "She learned that babysitting is a non-competitive field."

As indeed it is. Have you ever tried to get a qualified babysitter when you needed one at the spur of the moment? For the babysitter who has established herself, it's a seller's market.

And, as Mrs. Roihl says, if you don't think it's a competitive venture, it's not a bit frightening.

The seeds planted by Mrs. Roihl and her sister mothers are even now spreading abroad.

"We've already got a waiting list of 20 mothers, wanting to get in, Mrs. Roihl told The Mirror. "They recognize it as a community service."

GETTING TO KNOW YOU, as the song goes, and it was all part of the experience for tads and adults alike Monday morning, at the home of the Dr. Norbert Roihls, on Riverview Drive in Sewall's Point. It was a "baby-sitter screening" party, and the babies to be sat with had as much fun as the adults, as can be seen by the threesome in the foreground. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Cubs learn fire safety

Ten Cub Scouts of Den 5, Pack 801, were indoctrined into fire safety Thursday evening, in a dramatic demonstration staged by Fire Chief Ed Smith and his men of District 2.

The demonstration, given in North River Shores, included the proper way to use a fire extinguisher, how to put out a stove grease fire, and the dangers of using flammable hair spray.

"I got a full education myself," said Peggy Lyon, den mother.

Also accompanying the boys were Den Chief Jeff Lyon and Noel White, a big brother of one of the Cubs.

Boys attending the program were Syndey Lyon, Jeff Neubauer, Matt White, John Stipo, Matthew and Carlton White.

Jerry Howe of Jensen Beach is Cubmaster of pack 801.

10" Chef's Knife This is an all-purpose knife for heavy-duty jobs. Its large, curved blade is ideal for dicing, chopping or mincing fruits and vegetables. Use it for cutting and slicing large pieces of meat, poultry or fish, too.

8" Slicer Knife Carves roasts, chicken, turkey and handles other medium size kitchen jobs.

8" Butcher Knife For heavy-duty kitchen work. The blade shape makes cutting raw meat easier.

6-3/4" Fillet Knife A multi-purpose knife with a long, thin blade to make easy work of filleting meat, poultry and fish.

6" Utility Knife A versatile knife with a longer blade for light slicing, dicing and meat trimming. Ideal for making sandwiches.

5" Boning Knife Its short, narrow blade is designed for easy boning of meats, fish and poultry.

3" Paring Knife Perfect for small jobs and for peeling, paring or slicing fruits and vegetables.

9" Sharpening Rod The perfect complement to your set. Easily, quickly and professionally sharpens all knives. The handle is designed for sure, sturdy grip and the long rod makes sharpening safer.

Publix brings you gourmet cutlery at budget prices.

Ekco Eterna Stainless Steel Cutlery

Use the kind of quality cutlery professional chefs do. Start collecting your set of Ekco Cutlery — at budget prices from Publix.

Knife edges are hollow ground to a long-lasting razor sharpness. Handles are natural beechwood, contoured for an easy, sure grip. Each piece is perfectly balanced for a true cut. And since they're stainless steel, they won't rust or tarnish.

Start collecting your set at Publix this week. Every week you'll find a new selection to add gourmet convenience to your meal preparation, plus you'll find storage racks and cutting boards, too.

Steak Knife Perfect for table use.

Tigers begin 'Fearsome Foursome' schedule

BY DONNIE WILKIE

...The tent of Martin County's head coach Fred Chase begins Friday night, as the Tigers ...rsue Homecoming 1978 with an ...nference showdown against ...beach.

...ll honesty, it is possible that the ...rs could lose all four of their ...ng games. It is also possible ...they could win them all--that's ...ecently matched they are with the ...esome Foursome," as they are ...called.

...e of the sting might have left the ...Indians after last week's ...cking at the hands of number ...ranked Merritt Island, 55-14. But ...previously undefeated Indians ...d some punch in the early going, ...r passed their way through the ...Mustang defense.

...member that Martin County's ...defense is why the Tigers are not ...alled and in the Suncoast ...Eastern Division lead.

...of Vero Beach ties Fort ...Central, a team that has been ...g lots of fun running up big ...against nobody opponents. Last ...victim was Twin Lakes, and ...ubstitutor finally came up with a ...count after FPC quarterback ...Barriner stopped throwing ...been passed.

...Cobras have almost nothing left ...y for, because Lake Worth needs ...to win one out of two games ...at the same nobodies that the ...and Tigers walloped to clinch ...second East's spot in the state ...playoffs.

...the Cobras come the Raiders ...Cedar Central, technically a team ...3-1 record, but one that's really ...ed. You see, they won their ...two games, including a big upset ...Delray Beach Atlantic, but then ...out that fullback Johnny Rowe ...ineligible according to the rules of ...Florida High School Activities ...ation.

...e forfeits which resulted account ...dies Central's two losses, and ...e of this, the Raiders, who had ...ly clinched their state playoff ...the Atlantic opener, will not ...r in the post-season playoffs.

Last Friday night Atlantic beat a stubborn Cardinal Newman squad to clinch the district title, with a little assist from the FHSAA.

Finally, Boca Raton will provide the last opposition of the season. The Bobcats have lost two games, but both to contenders--Fort Pierce Central (43-28) and Lake Worth (34-15) last week. As you might be able to figure out from the scores, the Bobcats' defense is suspect.

Take away all the forfeits and all games between the four teams involved, and their combined record is 16-3, a considerable improvement over Martin County's opponents during the first six weeks of the season.

The Vero Beach game will be preceded by a wonderful display of homecoming floats built by the four classes to MCHS. The Class of 1979, a dominant class as far as competition among the classes, has departed, and it's anyone's guess who the winner of float competition will be. All homecoming activities will be held before the game, with the exception of the crowning of the new Homecoming Queen, which will take place at halftime.

In the Suncoast Eastern Division race, Martin County and Fort Pierce Central trail Lake Worth by one game, in both cases a defeat at the hands of the Trojans. In MCHS' case, it was the 28-21 setback in Stuart, while Fort Pierce took it on the chin at Lake Worth, 19-7 in perhaps the worst game of the year for Coach Phil Farinella's forces.

Fans attending the Vero Beach-Martin County game are advised to get to the stadium early, because big crowds have watched MCHS in all three of their home starts.

Cobras face 'City Title' game

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE--Not since the days of the bloodbath rivalries in West Palm Beach has there been as much talk about an intra-city football game.

But in Fort Pierce, ever since the 1978 season began, there has been a barrage of questions and opinions by curious fans about the game that pits once-beaten Fort Pierce Central(4-1) against FP Westwood (6-0).

But in Fort Pierce, ever since the 1978 season began, there has been a barrage of questions and opinions by curious fans about the game that pits once beaten Fort Pierce Central (4-1) against FP Westwood (6-0).

Needless to say, when you look at the records of the two teams involved, the issue of who will win plays second fiddle to the notion that FP Central will try to run up the score.

Central, behind the awesome "GOLD CRUSH" defense and the on-target arm of quarterback Peter Barriner, poured it on poor Twin Lakes 48-0 last week, and are ready for an all-out assault on their hapless, cross-town rivals.

The feeling in Fort Pierce is that over a period of years, as the population of Fort Pierce expands westward, Westwood will come up with a winning team to match their fine head coach Charles Hines. But right now, in truth, the Panthers are in the same boat once occupied by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the NFL.

The winless Panthers have played two good games this year. One of them came against Cardinal Newman, a team that certainly does not represent the talent found in most of the Suncoast Western Division. But the other came in a fine effort last week against the highly-touted Pahokee Blue Devils. Westwood lost the game, 23-6, but for most of the night the outcome was uncertain.

Quarterback Terrence McGriff threw to key interceptions in the fourth quarter to effectively kill any chance that Westwood might have had of attaining their first-ever victory.

Westwood had drawn even at 6-6 when Ken Byrd took a handoff from Clarence Weathers on the second half kickoff and ran down the sideline for an 88-yard touchdown. The extra point run failed, so the score remained tied.

But on the next play from scrimmage, Pahokee's Slyvester Kelly broke through the defense of the Panthers and turned on the speed, something which Pahokee backs have been known for throughout the past 10 years.

It was goodbye, Mr. Kelly, and goodbye, football game. The run covered 73 yards and was followed by a two-point conversion which gave the Blue Devils a 14-6 lead. They later scored again to put icing on the cake.

Nevertheless, Westwood Coach Hines felt his team played a good game for the most part. That is not to be taken to mean that the Panthers will do it again against FP Central, which wants to at least break into the state's top ten in Class AAAA before the season ends. The Cobras probably won't win the conference, as rankings are all they can play for, and high scores mean more votes in the poll.

By having this game played at Lawnwood Stadium (8 p.m., Friday night) the Cobras gained an edge schedule-wise, because it will count as an away game. And since each team plays five games away and five at home, the Cobras have six at home thanks to being the visitors in this game on their home turf. (Westwood also uses Lawnwood for their home games.) Westwood will have this advantage next year.

But Friday night, the Panthers will have no advantages, except the knowledge that no matter what happens, the clock will eventually run out.

T-C Condo group will meet

Grass law is in for more challenges

...e city's second grass ordinance–...ed after the first one was ruled ...nstitutional last January–is due ...o for four challenges.

...e several years the city had a law ...the books prohibiting the growth ...grass taller than six inches. When ...ns were found in violation of the ..., residents were notified of the ...ation and asked to cut the grass.

...ylight Savings ...s this Sunday

...aylight Savings Time will official-...ed at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 29.

...rea residents are reminded to turn ...r clocks back one hour before ...g to bed Saturday evening. ...erwise, you may be arriving for ...rch or other events an hour early ...Sunday morning.

If they didn't do it, the city had it done and billed the land owner for the job. And, if the owners didn't pay the bill, the city attached liens against the land for the amount of the bill.

But when Robert Schweiger of Clearmont St. was cited last year, he challenged the law and, after losing county court, won a circuit court ruling that the law was unconstitutional.

So, early this summer, the city passed a new grass law. There were several changes in the new law over the old one, including one to up the limit to 12 inches before a lawn would be found in violation. Then a Davie, Florida attorney, Dimitry Alexander, wrote he'd challenge the law in court–on grounds that it's unconstitutional. So far, that court case hasn't been heard.

River projects eyed, boat trip is planned

...uring the Monday meeting, ...ded by Black, Hughes Brininger, ... White and Bob Tew, Brininger ...ested a new boat tour. "This time, ...n't think we have to go out looking ...violations. I think we should do it ...to emphasize the beautiful things ...t the river and to stress how ...portant it is that the river be ...ected," he said.

...her committee members con-...red and it was decided to plan for ...new boat tour around the mid to ...er part of November.

...e lot of new people have come here ...the last tour and they ought to ...e the river shown to them," Black ..., noting that city planner Mike ...oyog has indicated he'd like to ...e along and that city manager ...ard Silvia and city engineer ...am Miley have joined the Port St. ...e city staff recently. It was also ...ed to invite some county officials ...didn't make the last trip.

...addition to deciding to have the ...tour, the committee members ...ssed three waterfront projects. ...k said at Vikings Landing in Port ...Lucie developer Victor Georgeff ...received a state Department of ...ronmental Regulations (DER) to ...a lake on the project and to ...duct a dredge and fill operation ...t of the lake.

...e also noted that Georgeff is ...ing permission to have installed a ...ina in the interior of the Vikings ...out project with a waterway ...ing to the river. Black said a weir ...igned to separate the river from ...marina and that a mechanical ...ce to lift boats and carry them into ...out of the river is planned. The ...is to conduct a biological survey ..., then a hearing will be held on the issue.

In the cases of both of Georgeff's projects and in the case of hidden River Estates, the NFCC members said they'd been monitoring developments to see that steps are taken to preserve the river.

When asked if the group would take a stand against the projects, the members said they would have to obtain more information before making a decision.

The Hidden River Estates project is one that will apparently bring about a renewed effort to get county commissioners to pass setback and buffer zone laws along the river.

Brininger explained that as a result of the last boat tour, Port St. Lucie city council members passed an ordinance establishing a 15 foot buffer zone along the riverbanks that are within city limits. The law forbids destruction of most all types of vegetation within that zone. He also said the city has laws to require a 50-foot setback from the river for construction of single-family homes and a 75-foot limit for multi-family dwellings.

The county was asked after the last boat tour to enact a buffer zone law. However, before the ordinance effort got up much steam, the county attorney became ill and resigned. A new county attorney was hired, but Black said he'd been busy with a backlog of work and hadn't gotten around to the river law yet.

Don White was appointed to speak to county officials about the river law again and to seek more stringent setback requirements along the county portion of the river. White said he'll seek the same setback requirements as the city has and that he'll ask for at least a 50-foot buffer zone to preserve riverbank vegetation. "We asked the city for a 75-foot buffer, but they cut it to 15 feet. That's just too narrow. It should be at least 50 feet to do any good," Brininger commented.

The Hidden River Estates developer is seeking permission to dig a cove in a lowland area and to build a marina that would be connected to the river by the cove. The NFCC group said they'll ask for a copy of the developer's permit application and for a copy of DER regulations to see what is allowable. The project is along the Degan waterway.

"What we're concerned about is the filling of and tampering with the lowlands. The state stopped opening canals to the river to avoid damage to the river and I think doing work in the lowland areas would probably cause the same sort of pollution. It would affect the loser life along the riverbanks and disrupt the river ecology," Brininger said.

But not long after the attorney challenged the law, a Boca Raton couple, Pierre and Marina Vignau, wrote to say they want to contest the law on environmental and aesthetic grounds. The council set a hearing for that couple on Nov. 18.

On Tuesday, city council members received letters from two new land owners who don't like the law. Olimpio Filips of Stuart asked for a hearing and said he'd explain his reasons for the objection to the law at the hearing. And, Anthony and Louise Murphy of Cincinnati, Ohio, wrote saying they protest the law and will have Mrs. Bertha Gerard of Fort Pierce to represent them at a hearing. They said they feel the law is discriminatory and unfair.

The council decided to schedule the two newest protests for a hearing on Nov. 18, the same day as the Vignau hearing.

In other action Tuesday the council approved first reading of an ordinance to amend the neighborhood business zoning classification by spelling out more specifically what sort of businesses can operate under that zoning. They also passed on first reading an ordinance setting forth criteria for areas where churches can be built in the city.

First reading of an ordinance to rezone a six acre tract to allow construction of a Southern Bell exchange office was approved, as were first readins of ordinances to annex, then zone, a six acre tract along Kitching Cove for a 36-unit garden apartment complex at the south end of Pruitt Road.

Site plan approval was granted to Paul Zinter for construction of a Shop-n-Go convenience store along Port St. Lucie Boulevard near Airoso Boulevard.

And, final site plan approval was granted for the city's first mobile home park. The park, to be known as Golf Village, is to be built just east of existing buildings in the GDC Industrial Park off U.S.1. It is to contain 740 units. Harvey Newman, developer of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront parks, said he hoped to start work on the new park "in about three hours" after the council gave its approval and said the first occupancy in the park could occur as early as next June.

McDonald says abolish PSL

BY BOB FRYER

Want to do away with double taxation? Abolish the City of Port St. Lucie.

At least that's the suggestion of Fort Pierce attorney C.R. "Pete" McDonald.

The attorney, who has twice fought the city in lawsuits this year, made the suggestion Tuesday when he was at city hall checking on last-minute details in preparation for filing a third lawsuit against Port St. Lucie.

McDonald has represented Bay Associates, Inc. president Peter Smith twice in lawsuits over Smith's plans to expand Southport Shopping Center. He noted Tuesday that "I'll be asking to be placed on the agenda for a city council meeting, as representatives of the second largest land owner in the city, to ask for the abolition of Port St. Lucie."

He said doing away with the city would be the easiest means of solving the controversy over double taxation that is brewing between the city and county.

"You can get all the services you need by abolishing the city. Then the county would have to offer police protection and all the other services. They're (the city) setting up their own bureaucracy," he said.

When asked if he was serious about asking to be on the agenda to speak on the subject, he replied that he is and that he'll ask to be on a city council meeting agenda in about two weeks.

In the two suits McDonald has fought against the city, the first suit resulted in a ruling that Smith was entitled to two of four building permits he was seeking as a means of expanding the shopping center. In the second suit, he was denied a request to build a retail store building similar to one that was authorized in the first suit. That second suit is now under appeal.

Recently, McDonald said he'd file a third suit against the city on behalf of Smith. That suit is to protest the city council's rezoning of Smith's 7.2 acre shopping center tract to a residential category.

The third suit was expected to be filed a couple of weeks ago, but as of Tuesday hadn't been filed. McDonald was asked if he still planned to file it and he said he'd do so by the end of this week. He said the suit would be brought on grounds that the tract ought to be declared commercial and that the city acted illegally in zoning it residential. He said the city didn't follow its own law in rezoning the land and said if the court ruled the land is to stand as residential property, the suit will ask for damages from the city for the loss of value of the land.

McDonald checked city records Tuesday on the rezoning matter and said only six of all the property owners within 500 feet of the shopping center tract had written to object to it being expanded.

City employee Will Radcliffe responded by saying if the people didn't write, it was assumed they were in favor of the measure to rezone the land residential.

Then McDonald said General Development Corporation owned land within 500 feet of the tract but didn't receive a letter asking that firm's opinion of the rezoning matter. "Because they didn't follow their own ordinance (on notifying surrounding propertyowners), we're saying the rezoning was invalid," he commented.

Halloween carnival is Saturday

The Port St. Lucie Woman s Club is making final preparations for their third annual Halloween Carnival to be held on Saturday, October 28 ath the Community Center, Prima Vista Blvd.

The day's events will start with a parade at 2:00 p.m. Children and adults who wish to participate whould meet in the vacant lot on the south side of Prima Vista at the intersection of Floresta at 1:30 p.m. The parade route will begin there and follow Prima Vista to the Community Center.

Judges will be stationed along the way to review the costumed children and ribbons for best costumes will be given out at the end of the parade. Children will march according to age groups, and organizers say several local youth groups will march in units. There will be ribbon for the best unit.

Parade marshals will be Victor Blackmer, principal of Port St. Lucie Elementary School, and Mrs. Queen Townsend, the school's assistant principal.

A special visit from Mother Goose and several favorite monsters is expected.

The witches and monsters have invited everyone to come visit them in their haunted house from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. and from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Eight booths will be set up to keep you busy at games.

Several other attractions including a space room to bounce around in will be on hand.

Scheduled to be dunked in the dunking booth will be Doug Stout, Public Safety Director of Port St. Lucie; Leonard Silvia, Port St. Lucie City Manager; Dewey Hudman, President of Little League; Darrell Peters, Little League Coach, and Fred Kiesel, Auxiliary policeman.

Refreshments will be available corn dogs, pizza, hot dogs, cokes and coffee.

School Board talks impact fees

St. Lucie school board members held a discussion Tuesday night on the feasibility of imposing an impact fee on new developments for the purpose of financing school construction, but indicated they'll have to study the matter further before reaching any decision whether to have a fee.

Sam Shannon, executive director of the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council, explained the concept of an impact fee to the board members.

Although figures ranging from $2,00 to $800 were discussed as to what the impact per unit might be on a community for added services. But after other sources of income for schools were considered, a figure of about $870 in "unmet funding needs" was arrived at by the Treasure Coast council in the case of a Martin County development. Shannon reportedly mentioned the figure may be a little higher is St. Lucie County.

Port St. Lucie resident Don White, a member of the Taxpayers for Revision of School Financing, said his group "is largely in support of the idea, though we have some members who disagree." He said Shannon's reasoning for charging an impact fee on new development is "Because people coming into the area, creating the need for added services, should be expected to pay a greater proportion for services because the people already here have paid and are paying for services."

White noted that the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council will soon be issuing recommendations on General Development Corporation's planned Midport project, slated to house 5,503 persons in the next 10 years. GDC has already offered to give 84 acres of school land in the project to the school board. One of the duties of the planning council staff is to determine what impact the new development will have on the school system. As the council staff has done in the past in Palm Beach County, it could recommend that GDC pay an impact fee on the units in its Midport project. "And there was talk of getting GDC to do it voluntarily," White said.

Fred See, school board finance director, said a question arose over the legality of charging an impact fee. He said the Collier County school board recently passed an impact fee law, but it hadn t gone into effect yet.

The St. Lucie County school attorney, Frank Fee, was instructed to contact the Collier County school attorney, Frank Fee, was instructed to contact the collier county school attorney and the Martin County school attorney to research the legal feasibility of charging an impact fee. Martin County is considering an impact fee of its own.

School Board member Jeffrey Frust openly favored the impact fee idea, but board chairman Ed Raikes said he could not go along with it. However, no decision was made on the impact fee idea and See said it's an issue the school board will have to study more before reaching a decision. "We discussed the idea of an impact fee several years ago, but this seemed a little more concrete as to when the fee would be charges and we talked this time a little more about just what price range might be involved," See said, nothing that Shannon said the fee might be charged when building permits are issued, rather than at the time a home or apartment is purchased.

At a Port St. Lucie Elementary School Parent-Teacher-Student-Friends Association meeting last week, Frust told the audience he favored the impact-fee concept, but said he was sure the idea would be opposed by GDC and other developers. He told the group they'd have to be organized in their support for the fee if it was to become a reality.

School superintendant Dr. Nolan Skinner said that although the Midport DRI is coming up for review soon and probably prompted the discussion of an impact fee. The fee, if it becomes a reality, would be charged for all new development and the revenues from the fees would be spent in the areas where they were generated, Skinner said, explaining, "We couldn't expect the south county development to pay a fee and have it go for construction of a school in the north part of the county."

Skinner and Furst both compared the fee to hook-up charges developers pay for water and sewer service. "In the case of water and sewer, the existing residents don't have to pay for the hook-up of the new residents, and that's the idea behind the impact fee. The new residents would be paying for the new demands they create for services," Skinner noted.

City Hall work beginning

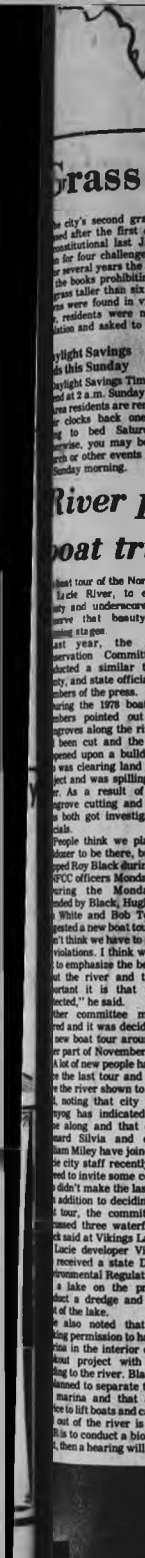
By the time you read this, if all goes right, work will have begun on the new Port St. Lucie city hall.

After numerous delays, Mayor William McChesney said Tuesday evening that all last-minute problems have been ironed out and that "As of tomorrow (Wednesday, Oct. 25), work will begin on the site and that will mark the first day of the 270 day time limit on construction of the city hall."

From the time city council members decided more than a year ago to build a new city hall, there have been a wide variety of delays in getting to the point of actual construction. It took longer than anticipated to select an architect and longer than anticipated to approve final plans. Then there were delays in the bidding procedure; the ceremonial groundbreaking was set back a couple of times; and it took longer than expected to arrange financing for the building.

A Fort Lauderdale construction firm, Gerrard and LaRoche, Inc., was awarded a bid of $758,900 to build the 13,000 square foot city hall and it was thought the company would start the job several weeks ago.

After that obstacle was hurdled, a problem arose over a land survey for the city hall site. At a meeting of the contractors, architect Hank Riegler, city manager Leonard Silvia, Mayor William McChesney and assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman, the survey issue was resolved Tuesday afternoon, McChesney said. He explained that on Wednesday, the contractors would double check the site elevations and that the construction supervisor would move onto the site to officially start the clock on the 270-day building



JEFFREY FURST–St. Lucie County School Board member Jeffrey Furst met with Port St. Lucie Elementary School Parents-Teachers-Students-and-Friends Association last week to tell them he's concerned about the lack of money for a high school here. He asked PTSF members to attend a school board meeting today night to support a proposal for an impact fee on developers to help pay for new schools. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Inlet money's okay, so now, just wait!

With President Jimmy Carter's belated okay on the bill which includes funds for the St. Lucie Inlet, the county commission is ready to hurry up-and-wait for the funding which will get the long-sought permanent improvement off the ground.

"We'll probably throw the first rock in the jetty in May or June," Martin County Administrator Jack Noble told The Mirror Thursday.

The president, after vetoing the $10 billion public works bill that contained several projects in mid-western states which he considered extravagant and unnecessary, finally put his blessing on an amended bill which granted the moosey for St. Lucie inlet last Wednesday night.

The new bill was the goahead for the Inlet, which both the county and the corps of engineers had tried unsuccessfully for over such a long period of years, many are still finding it hard to believe the doors have been opened.

When Carter vetoed the original public works bill, he drew a barrage of mail and telegrams from indignant residents and officials from the entire area. One woman sent letters to every congressional name she could muster. Some of the incumbents and other candidates coming up for election in November initiated telephone campaigns to get constituents to voice their protests. They must have proven effective.

I'm sure they had a great deal to do with the presidential decision," Noble said.

Three of this area's men in Washington have fought for the inlet permanent improvement, principally Sen. Richard Stone, Sen. Lawton Chiles and Rep Skip Bafalis. On a number of occasions, Stone has pointed out the economic necessity of deepening and widening the waterway, the only ingress from ocean to river in a 20 mile radius in either direction.

Some $500,000 a year has been spent to dig out the shifting bottom sands, and with every storm they have shifted back again, making it necessary to repeat the process annually. The improvement plan calls for another jetty, using the fill from the bottom to enrich the Jupiter Island park, and deepinging and widening the channel from ocean to mid-intracoastal waterway.

It is also hoped that the improvement will dimish the danger to life which the inlet has posed in past year. Over the last decade, many lives have been lost because of the hazardous conditions that exist there.

Although the expenditure of funds has the presidential okay, much red tape remains before the work can get underway, Noble indicated.

"The Corp of Engineers waits for the official word from Washington," the administrator said. "Then it has to go out for bids."

After the bids are let and the preliminary plans approved some seven or eight months hence, it will still be another year, at least, before the situation can begin to be alleviated, Noble indicated.

The installing officer, Optimist International Florida Governor Tom Sewall is at right. The installation was last week at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant.

SPIRITED COMPETITION–The ghostly originality of the young artists at Jensen Beach Elementary School will be cropping out all over town this weekend, when the winning posters in the Halloween Carnival contest are placed in area store windows. Among them, from left, are: Eric Thompson, first grade; Leslie Binger, fifth grade; Karen Green, third grade; Robi Johnston, fourth grade; Tod Fote, fifth; Kathryn Matlock, third; Leah Walden, fourth; Mike Knoll, second; Jennifer Baker, first; and Jeff Wissel, second. Behind them are Nancy Box, poster chairwoman, and Susan Merritt, chairwoman for the PTA bazaar which will be staged on the school grounds all Saturday afternoon. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Halloween arrives this weekend

Halloween may not arrive, officially, until Oct. 31, but for the kids of the area, this weekend is the Time of the Great Pumpkin. Ghosties and creepies, goblins and witches, skeletons and black cats will be on the prowl on Saturday, when the big fall event of the year, the Halloween Carnival takes over the scene at Jensen Beach Elementary School.

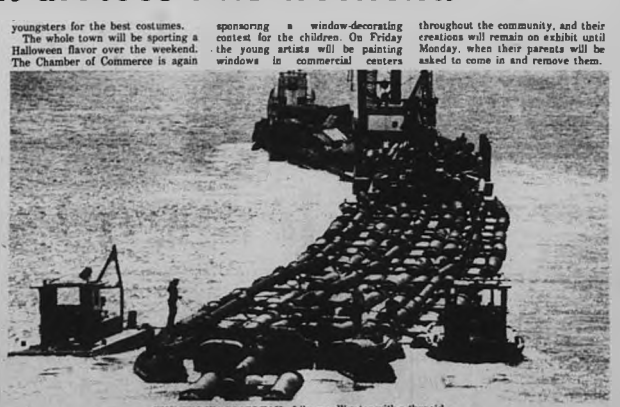
The coterie of creatures will begin assembling at 11:30 a.m. for the costume parade leading up to the main event. To help make the scene more delightfully horrific, Bill Joliff of the Barn Theatre will be lending his expertise by doing professional fright makeup on the kids. Prizes will go to the funniest, prettiest, scariest and most original among the costume-wearers.

The carnival will open to the public at 1 p.m., and those attending will have a full afternoon in store – a haunted house, games and booths of every kind, including the ones with food to fill up the people the monsters and witches are scaring the stuffings out of.

A real carnival atmosphere will pervade, heightened by the presence of Mr. High Pockets, a Balloon Clown, and other "carney" type characters.

The big attraction for many will be the long list of prizes which will be given away during the afternoon, the biggest being a cruise to Nassau. Thirty silver dollars will go to the youngsters for the best costumes.

The whole town will be sporting a Halloween flavor over the weekend. The Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring a window-decorating contest for the children. On Friday the young artists will be painting windows in commercial centers throughout the community, and their creations will remain on exhibit until Monday, when their parents will be asked to come in and remove them.



THE TUG WAGS ITS TAIL–Like an alligator with a thyroid problem, the little tug waga its block3-long posterior of pipes along the glistening Indian River waters, unhurried and unharried by other traffic on land or water. No matter if you draw curses from impatient motorists on the bridge above.

Halloween safe fun

"The American Legion is particularly interested in 'Making Halloween a Safe and fun Night,'" Commander Richard Neeson of Jensen Beach Post 126 said.

Halloween is usually accompanied by happy thoughts, but in some households this year it will be a sad occasion because of the death or injury of a child member of the family.

Children cross dark streets on trick-or-treat expeditions and many are injured or killed annually by automobiles. Other catastrophes that have happened in the past include candles igniting flammable costumes, tripping and falling due to costumes being too long, and children being mischevious against persons who do not treat them. It is unrealistic to think that trick-or-treat will soon be stopped as a Halloween activity.

Why not encourage the children to do this right after school, perhaps from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., and before the evening meal? Parents should not let any young children out after dark by themselves. Parents should see that the children never eat any treats until the parents themselves have had a chance to sort through the goodies to eliminate any suspicious items.

If children wear Halloween costumes, parents should see that these garments are flame resistant. If the costumes treated with flame-resistant material are washed or cleaned, they lose their fire-resistant properties. These should be treated after cleaning or discarded when dirty.

Children have difficulty seeing when they wear Hallow n masks because of the small slits for the eyes. Cosmetics or stage make-up can be used rather than masks.

Reflective tape should be applied to the arms and legs of the costumes, or costumes with reflective decorations should be used after dark.

Anglers tell wind to blow away

BY SALLY LATHAM

Everybody's blowing off about the wind.

Never, say all the weather experts, has the annual October mistral hung around so long before.

"We always get one windy period in October," said Tommy Stewart of the Sailor Nook, "but it's never lasted before for more than six or seven days. This has been going on for two weeks."

The gales and gusts, which haven't diminished for more than a few hours at a time since they began, have kept all but the biggest boats from going out in the ocean, and have been whipping the combers in the Atlantic to such steady heights that none but the brave dare to go surf-fishing.

Even the rivers, sheltered as they are by the protective necklace of Hutchinson Island, have been rendered somewhat unpleasant by the junior-sized tempests. The Indian River, says Tom, has been "spitting up" its debris, covering the banks with all sorts of noxious junk. The wayward wind, it would appear, is waywardly trying to spoil the fun for everyone.

Only three determined fishermen reported catches out of the surf during the past few days. They were Molley Johnson, who caught three whiting on cut shrimp, and Bob Mulawa and Ron Ellis, who got 16 blues on cut mullet.

The best river catches were made by Charlie Kessler and Johnny Crawford, six snook, one drum, three mangrove snapper and one sheepshead on live shrimp, from a boat at the Crossroads; Pat Patterson and Ed Wagner, 23 trout and three flounder on Trout Touts; George Fries, out with Fred Muller on the Froggy III, one trout, a croaker and five spots on shrimp;

Also Floyd Gilkum, two snook, the biggest 12 pounds, out of the C-24 canal on MirOLure; Paul Rafferty, a 29 pound snook off the Roosevelt Bridge on live mullet; Jim Lane, a six and three quarter pound channel bass off Jensen Causeway on live shrimp; Irv Fisher, seven trout on MirOLure; Oscar Dishman, two flounder on live shrimp;

R.Phillips and Debbie Phillips, 27 sand perch off the Jensen Bridge on live shrimp; Charlie Arend, seven trout and one flounder on Trout Touts;

Dave Lamb, at Jensen Bait and Tackle, also blames the wind on the lean list of reported anglers. Charlie Arend told him about catching seven trout and a flounder on Trout Touts;

Dave Norman, a seven pound snook and four snapper on live shrimp off Seminole Shores, and Dave Smid, a 17 pound snook on live mullet and a five pound grouper, from the Ten Cent Bridge

Architectural review idea growing

Although Port St. Lucie city planner Mike Szunyog says he does not feel a proposed city Architectural Review Committee should go as far as dictating architectural styles, it might exercise some control over materials used in local buildings.

Last July, Szunyog brought up the idea of a committee to review architectural plans for structures to be built in the city, but the idea didn't get off the ground then.

Last week, however, when Vice Mayor Mike Reeb mentioned it, his fellow council members voiced enthusiasm for the idea.

Just what the powers of the committee will be isn't known yet. Szunyog noted in a recent interview that the proposal for a committee will probably go to the city's Planning and Zoning Board for input, then come up for review by the city council.

"The committee will, I imagine, set some kind of criteria or standards for buildings. I don't think it should dictate architectural styles, but it may have some control over what sorts of materials are used, such as natural materials or ones compatible with the surrounding environment, th make it tasteful, Szunyog said, adding that there may be some difficulty in defining what is and isn't tasteful.

"I would not go so far as to recommend we require all Spanish architecture or anything like that, but the committee might keep things from becoming garish," the planner said.

Most likely, the committee will consist of persons with some architectural background, Szunyog noted.

Boca Raton, Vero Beach and St Lucie County have each provided Szunyog with ordinances relating to landscaping and architectural requirements, and Szunyog said he'll study these for ideas on what the city's committee jurisdiction may be.

Graybush in NATO exercise

Navy Engineman Fireman Dennis C. Graybush, son of Conrad J. and Laura Graybush of 206 W. Prima Vista Blvd., Port St. Lucie, Fla., is participating in the major NATO exercise "Display Determination."

He is serving as a crew member aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany, homeported in Gaeta, Italy. His ship is operating as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

"Display Determination" is designed to demonstrate and improve NATO's capability to reinforce and resupply Southern Europe.

His command has joined with forces from Belgium, Greece, Italy, Portugal, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the Federal Republic of Germany for the exercise.

Midport DRI hearing is set January 16

Port St. Lucie city council members voted Tuesday to set January 16, 1973, as the city's hearing date for General Development Corporation's application to build 2,201 housing units in the Midport area east of U.S. 1 yielding a projected population of 5,503 by the year 1987.

The project, which under state law is considered a Development of Regional Impact, DRI, is to encompass 1,250 acres and is to contain 657 single family units, 536 medium density units, and 1,008 multi-family units.

In addition to city review of the project, it must also be reviewed by the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council. Recently a large booklet on the project, which is considered GDC's official DRI application, was deemed to contain sufficient information for the regional council to make its review.

That review is now underway and the planning council staff is expected to have a series of recommendations on the application ready for the council's November meeting. Word that the application contain sufficient information was required before city council members could set the date for their review of the project.

QUESTION: I am an accountant, and for the two years I have been trying to decide whether to invest in an existing apartment house or to buy some land and build one myself. Considering all the profits builders make, I'm inclined to build. What do you think?

ANSWER: Many people ask the same question. Building apartments can be profitable. However, you should be aware of the risk involved. It is an economic law that the greater the return, the greater the risk involved.

In apartment-house development you must consider site acquisition: is the site properly zoned? Can it be rezoned? Can it be acquired at the right cost? Are the necessary utilities available? Can the ground support the structure without extensive improvements?

You must be certain that a market survey is conducted that considers the following questions: Do population trends substantiate a demand for apartments? Does the survey show enough potential rental income to justify construction costs? Is the housing market strong enough to warrant construction and permanent financing?

You must then insure that construction costs are controllable to the extent that he does not exceed a realistic budget that allows for contingencies such a poor weather, material shortages, and labor problems.

These are but a few of the complexities involved in developing income-producing properties. By the inexperienced the road to profit accumulation normally lies in owning income property that is already developed.

Let's discuss your investment dream. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by.

GIANT COVER-UP—The Ricou Building at the corner of Commercial Street and Palmetto got a gaudy slip-cover job over the weekend, when the two-story concrete structure underwent a brilliant orange and green de-bugging operation. The orange was particularly appropriate, because it matched the orange outeropping underneath, in a new shop, "The Tiger Touch," which opens this weekend. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

15 years ago in The Mirror

Mrs. Edith Setterfield opened the Swinging Door Gift Shop on Commercial Street.

County engineer Moseley Collins resigned and Fred Bell was named to replace him in Martin County.

Negotiations were under way with Southern Gulf Utilities to bring water to Hutchinson Island.

Sheriff Roy Baker and Deputy Ray Heisley installed speed signs on Sandra Drive following the hit-run death of a poodle puppy.

A three pound can of shortening was 39 cents, boneless round roast was 79 cents a pound, apples were five pounds for 49 cents, and sliced bacon 39 cents a pound.

"We have the toothbrushes, do you have the time?" was the plea of the house of refuge for volunteers to scrub baby turtles.

Mrs. Alexander Lund and Mrs. Sydney Lowrie were new members of the Jensen Beach Garden Club.

Ten years ago

The Jensen Beach Mirror won the sweepstakes award as "Florida's Best Weekly Newspaper" at the Florida Press Association convention, and Richard E. Campbell, Mirror editor, was elected president of the newspaper association.

Mrs. William Clark Shepard, Ross Philbrick and Jack Sailer were appointed to the Martin County Museum board.

Al Walker installed Walter Redit as a new member of the Jensen Beach Lions Club.

Mrs. Marian Semske was surprised with a belated birthday party.

Hurricane Gladys hit the west coast of Florida.

Bowlers of the week included Estelle Johnson, with a 432 series, 102 pins over her average, and Dick Campbell, a 580 series, 120 pins over his average.

Five years ago

The Martin County Commission laid plans for a traffic signal at Commercial Street and Savanna Road.

Pictures planning the next telephone directory for Jensen Beach (to avoid a major battle over listings) were Glenn Sutton and Bruce Abernathy of Southern Bell, and Chamber directors Virginia Van Dien, Jon Chicky, Gary Wright, and Chamber manager Helen Richardson.

Twin Banyan Plantation, a project that would place two sixteen story buildings, five twelve story buildings, ten townhouses, and 46 two and three story apartment buildings, got under way with construction beginning on the 178 acre tract at Walton.

Jack T. Williams announced that the Bank of Stuart name was being changed to Stuart National Bank.

General Development Corporation announced plans for a third championship golf course at Sandpiper Bay.

Robert Seeley told home owners "not to be timid" in airing gripes about the development of Port St. Lucie. They weren't. Seeley had replaced Jack Sheridan as general manager of PSL.

The Stuart City Council renewed its ambulance service with the country club area of Port St. Lucie.

Irons attends banking convention

David B. Irons, President, First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, left Tuesday, October 17th, for Honolulu, Hawaii to attend the annual American Bankers Association convention. Irons will be accompanied by his wife, Marjorie, for the five-day convention.

Among the many guest speakers scheduled to address the convention are, W. Michael Blumenthal, Secretary of the Treasury, and David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York. Robert MacNeil, executive editor and anchorman of the Public Broadcasting System program, "The MacNeil-Lehrer Report" will moderate a panel discussion exploring government involvement in the private sector.

In addition, 20 professional interest sessions will be held offering a close look at subjects of importance to the banking industry. For spouses, a daily program will be held, designed to acquaint and educate them on the issues and management concerns faced by bankers.

There will also be an exhibition of the latest developments in banking services, equipment and systems from more than 80 firms.

Store security seminar at IRCC

This fall the Mid-Management program at Indian River Community College will offer another of their many interesting and popular seminars entitled, "Store Security."

This seminar is specifically designed to aid the store owner or manager in coping with and, hopefully bringing under control, the continuous problem in areas such as shoplifting, bad checks, employee theft, and credit card abuses.

The seminar will begin on Thursday, Nov.2,from 6 to 9 p.m. in Room B-108, and run through Dec. 21,meeting each Thursday evening.

For further information, call Bob Rizzo at Indian River Community College, 464-2000, extension 272.

New shop

A new shop is opening in the downtown area, just in time for Christmas shopping.

It is the "Sunshine Tree," a craft outlet for handmade items. The owners are two well-known local women, Cathie (Hoke) Teal and Nancy Fredricksen.

Mrs. Teal says they plan on handling all sorts of gift items on consignment, from Christmas plants and ceramics to Macrame.

The address of the new store is 7 East Court, located behind the Bicycle Shop on Commercial Street.

ON SEA VOYAGE–Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freitag of Hutchinson Island, Jensen Beach are seen aboard the Royal Viking Sky, on a cruise which took them from San Francisco, to Los Angeles, Puerto Vallarta and through the Panama Canal to ports in the Atlantic. The Freitags, who marked their golden anniversary several months ago, have spent most of their time since traveling around the globe.

JUST A TWIST OF THE WRIST is all it takes to maneuver the perfect Japanese dinner, according to Chief Chef Inoue, who prepared the meal for The Mirror and hosts, at the now-famous Benihana of Tokyo, in Sewall's Point last week. The occasion was highlighted by the opening of the pearl-laden oysters, being given away this month to the ladies. They've nearly run out of pearls at all the restaurants in Florida, says manager Kenno Young, but owner Bruce Hyatt is keeping the local restaurant supplied come what may. Beanie is Guest of Art Associates

E. "Beanie" Backus, the dean of Florida landscape artists, will give an oil painting demonstration for the Art Associates of Martin County at a meeting Friday, Nov.3. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov.3, in the Harry Hoke Community Room, of the First Federal Savings and Loan at Commercial Street and Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach. Visitors are welcome.

Concert Jan 16 has exciting program

The Fort Pierce Mutual Concert ...nation has a rich fare for ...sters, in the coming months, ...ging from the classics and ballet to ...Norman Luboff Choir.

...e schedule includes:

...ch 4: The Jamz Dutton Percussion ...ensemble;

...16: Robert Guralnik, pianist;

...eb 27: Ballet Folk;

...arch 18: The Norman LUBOFF ...oir;

...pril 16: The Florida Symphony ...chestra.

...All the performances will begin at 8 ...m at the new St. Lucie County ...e Auditorium at 15th Street and ...ginia Avenue in Fort Pierce.

...ll of the attractions have national and international reputations, and are expected to create much excitement among music lovers, according to Association President Roger White.

The Jamz Dutton Percussion Arts Orchestra, including eight musicians who use nearly 100 different instruments, is a visual treat as well as an audio one. Founded in 1969, the group puts to use such exotic instruments as the African Kalimba, Guiro, Cabasa, Tubo, Reco-Reco, Chocalo, Cencerro, Temple Blocks, antiquye cymbals and vibra-slap. The musicians are constantly changing instruments and positions, sometimes in mid-beat.

Robert Guralnik, the Jan. 16 attraction, has appeared in recitals and as soloist with orchestras all over the U.S. and Western Europe. With Harold Guskin of the New York University Performing Arts Center, he has created "Chopin Lives," the program he will play here.

Ballet Folk, the Feb. 27 production, was a hit here in past seasons, and is expected to be a high point of the concert series. Founded in 1972 in Moscow, Idaho, the dancers use the folk songs of the mid-American to weave their ballets telling the tales of literature and legend of the country.

The well-known Luboff Choir, which has more than 50 LP hit albums to its credit, will sing a balanced program of classics and semi-classics for which it is so famous.

As the program says: Don't expect the fanfare of a Madison Avenue Gimmick or a Hollywood parade. Rather expect to be lifted gently and taken into a world where the gimmick is replaced by nuance, and the flashy labels by the beauty of a universal thought."

The Florida Symphony, the final concert of the season, will again be under the baton of associate conductor Maria Tunicka, who has been a growing star with area audiences in her last three stints at the baton of the big musical aggregate. Featured artist this year will be Brian Ganz, a 17 year old native of Washington, D.C., and student of Leon Fleisher. Ganz has been hailed by critic Paul Hume of the Washington Post as "A BIG TECHNIQUE AND SOME SOLID INSIGHT INTO THE MAKING OF DIFFICULT MUSIC."

Attendance at the concert series is by season membership. Adult memberships ($20) and student memberships ($10) can be obtained by sending checks to Fort Pierce mutual Concert Association, P.O. Box 3853, Fort Pierce, Fla. 33450.

First National will have new branch

Dennis S. Hudson, Jr., Chairman, First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, has announced the approval by the Comptroller of the Currency of the bank's application to establish a branch in the Stuart Shoppin Square at 2280 S.E. Federal Highway, Stuart. The location is presently occupied by Pic-A-Pants, a retail clothing store.

The Stuart Square branch will be a full service facility, including three drive-ins, walk-up window, and a complete loan department. Plans for the new branch call for an opening early in 1978.

Roy H. Hicks, Assistant Vice President and Loan Officer, has been selected Branch Manager. Hicks has over 20 years of experience in installment lending and branch management.

First National presently operates a branch at 1000 N.E. Commercial Street in Jensen Beach, and construction is also underway for a branch at 2110 East Ocean Blvd., which is scheduled for opening this year.

School improvement bonds are sold

...he final door to a $12.5 million ...ool improvement program for ...rtin County was opened Monday, ...en the bond issue was bought by the ...Petersburg firm of William R ...ugh & Co.

...ol officials were elated with the ...bid received from Hough, which ...s an effective interest rate of 5.98 ...cent. Last week's announcement ...a similar bank that they are ...wing their prime interest rate ...made them fearful that the sale ...d cost more.

...e only other bid, of 6.05 percent, ...e from John Levine & Co., and would cost $9.4 million for the 30-year period. The Hough bid will mean paying $6.2 million in interest in the same period.

The only other step necessary before putting the improvement money to work will be the signing of the issue. Supt. of Schools James Navitsky and the school board attorney will go to New York during the second week in November for the signing.

A large share of the bond money will be used to build a second high school for Martin County. The rest will be used for expansion and remodeling to relieve overcrowded conditions.

Dedication today

Several area members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary are taking part in dedication ceremonies today for a dock at Martin Memorial Hospital, designed and intended to serve injured or ailing boaters along the St. Lucie River.

The dock was built by a donation from the late William Matheson, whose life was saved by his close proximity to the hospital, after he had fallen from his boat near the Pelican Inn dock.

The late Mr. Matheson, who died several months ago, specified that it be known as the Vernon Chason Dock, to honor one of the two men who assisted in his rescue.

TUNNEL DRIVE

Tunnel Drive propulsion is a brilliantly engineered inboard power ...system. Since its introduction in 1969, millions of hours of use by ...boaters have shown it to be highly reliable, efficient and trouble-free.

What is Tunnel-Drive propulsion?

Basically, it's a simple yet unique system that houses the shaft, strut, prop and rudder in a protective tunnel right in the deep V "Sea-Track" hull. (See illustration front cover.) No running gear is exposed below the ...waterline, and the prop moves through the water at a near 90 degree angle for more efficiency. It is the most advanced and successful inboard ...system in years. Advantages are numerous:

Shallow Draft Because the power train and steering gear are located ...above the keel line, Penn Yan boats draw an average of 14 inches less ...than most inboard boats equivalent size. The 12,000 lb. 30-footer, for in...stance, draws only 22 inches. And all boats up to 24 feet draw only 14 in...ches. Nose up to beaches. Poke into coves. Then run in a heavy sea . . . It's ...no wonder Penn Yans with Tunnel-Drive propulsion and "Sea-Track" ...hulls are being called the "go anywhere" boats.

Dedication today

Several area members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary are taking part in dedication ceremonies today for a dock at Martin Memorial Hospital, designed and intended to serve injured or ailing boaters along the St. Lucie River.

The dock was built by a donation from the late William Matheson, whose life was saved by his close proximity to the hospital, after he had fallen from his boat near the Pelican Inn dock.

The late Mr. Matheson, who died several months ago, specified that it be known as the Vernon Chason Dock, to honor one of the two men who assisted in his rescue.

Penn Yan
TUNNEL DRIVE

Tunnel Drive propulsion is a brilliantly engineered inboard power system. Since its introduction in 1969, millions of hours of use by boaters have shown it to be highly reliable, efficient and trouble-free.

What is Tunnel-Drive propulsion?

Basically, it's a simple yet unique system that houses the shaft, strut, prop and rudder in a protective tunnel right in the deep-V "Sea Track" hull. (See illustration front cover.) No running gear is exposed below the keel line, and the prop moves through the water at a near 90 degree angle for more efficiency. It is the most advanced and successful inboard system in years. Advantages are numerous:

Shallow Draft Because the power train and steering gear are located above the keel line, Penn Yan boats draw an average of 14 inches less than most inboard boats equivalent size. The 12,000 lb. 30-footer, for instance, draws only 22 inches. And all boats up to 24 feet draw only 14 inches. Nose up to beaches. Poke into coves. Then run in a heavy sea . . . It's no wonder Penn Yans with Tunnel Drive propulsion and "Sea Track" hulls are being called the "go anywhere" boats.

Rambling Around

Otto & Dorothy Schorer, 16 Ocean Breeze Dr., had a summer for themselves. First, visits to Kentucky and Pennsylvania to visit family, then to Norwich Lake near Huntington, Mass., for a week to get their cottage on the lake ready for the summer.

Then, off they go, by "SAS" to Helsinki on 747; Ferry to Stockholm; Bus to Oslo; Ferry to Copenhagen; and back to USA. It was just a wonderful trip all the way, the people were most friendly, and the eating. Wow! They've been on a diet ever since. It was the lakes of Finland, rivers and palaces of Sweden, mountains and fjords of Norway, and the flat fairyland of Denmark, that appealed to them most. Of course the dollar didn't go far, but as it was all prepaid, the $2.50 coffee and $1.00 per egg didn't bother them one little bit.

Almost before they were comfortably settled at the lake, they got a chance to take another great tour. It was the Balkan Rhapsody. Bus to Boston; Flight to Belgrade; Bus to Budapest; Bucharest, Sofia and back to Belgrade for the flight home. This too was a remarkable trip and the contrast with the other outstanding for in the Balkans the people were restrained and unsmiling and poverty was pronounced. Then, back to OBP for a rest and to resume a strict weight reducing diet, as the food was again "just great."

Dick & Julia Aumiller, 1 Indian River Dr., are back from a summer at Port Royal, Penn., where the 30 degree temperatures were too much, especially after a summer of 100 plus weather. They were delighted to get back to balmy temperatures, even if it did mean turning on the air conditioner. They did have a busy summer with the Senior Citizen activities and music, but as both are feeling fine, they'll soon be busy with park and senior activities. Teddy says "hello."

Harry & Jeannie Jewsberry, 10 Mango Dr., are back after spending June to Oct. up Detroit way, where they did some "house sitting" while the family took vacations. It was a great growing year, so the big garden did require plenty of weeding. Going up by Auto Bus to Lima, Ohio, was delightful and coming back with daughter Jean & Jim McClain was more so. As for the weather, Harry said, "Nice and cool"; Jeannie said, "Too awful cold, no more Michigan. next year we'll try North Carolina. Jeannie, we're glad you're back a-cookin' again.

Gail & Pauline Bentz, 41 SW 5th Ave., spent April to October at their home on Oliver Lake in northern Indiana. It was a good hot summer they said, great for garden and grass growing. Gail was busy with the grass and golfing while Pauline got her cook book ready. It's "gone to press" and should be ready in a few weeks. They came back by 165 with a stop off at the Grand Ol Oprey in Nashville and got a chance to see Porter Wagner and Minnie Pearl. Then, no sooner back, than Gail helped Ruel Mertz land a 27 inch snook, so they got a good "welcome home."

Letters From OBPers

Wingerters wrote to Veronica Snyder, saying after 4 days of rain, the skies were bright blue in Arizona. Getting a new mobile home set up in Mesa, they'll write again when all settled.

Ethel Lowe writes to the Nixons from New York State, saying the summer weather hasn't been too pleasant, so glad she'll be starting back earlier, Oct. 28, before the storms. Mentions "berries" but not too clear, you'll have to question her when she gets here next week.

Dot Snyder of Oak St. writes from New Jersey, saying she fell off a stool while painting, and hurt her back. Doctor says to wait two weeks. Have for sale signs on lawn, so maybe I'll have the house sold by that time. Let you know, when to expect me.

Phase III is beginning to shape up with 6 houses already in place and Ross Tilton cracking a whip to get more in. Sharyon is keeping a rooming tab on newcomers which so far are Charles and Betty Brown on lot 380, Donald and Fern Power on lot 410, Louis and Madeline Gall on lot 404, Fred and Thelma Patterson on lot 384 and Donald and Dorothy Weitz on lot 413. We hope to see them around the campus shortly.

More from Sharyon - Our Beginners square dance class is still taking members. They meet on Thursdays at 4 p.m.

a cpr Course

If enough residents are interested, Ray LaFrey would like to have a CPT class preferably on Tuesday evenings. No, Leroy, this is not Craps, Poker and Roulette, but a Cardiac Pulmonary resuscitation class which is sorely needed in this park. Who knows? Incidentally Ray is a member of the Good Samaritans just outside our gate ready to serve you in an emergency. If you are willing to devote some time to this effort, let Sharyon know so she can make up a class. Anyone interested in music lessons? Take a look at the notice on the board. Haven't you always wanted to play the piano?

By the time you read this, you will be within striking distance of the Halloween Dance on Saturday, Oct 28. Tickets are on sale at the office at a nominal fee and are going fast. Dress is optional, come in a costume, or dress naturally. No streaking allowed!

Pancakes

Here is another annual event coming up on Nov. 11. Chef Oscar Mathieson's Pancake breakfast. If you miss this one, you have no one to blame but yourself. Several men in the park will be selling tickets. Tickets at the door will be fifty cents extra. Oscar has to have some reading on how much stuff to get, so buy early. We'll remind you again of this in a later edition of the Mirror. Forgot to mention the Halloween Dance is a BYOB and there will be live music.

Here comes Corporal Myrt Penney's report up the driveway delivered by his eminence, Al McIntyre on his ten speed bike. She says that Lucille and Matt Berhinig of Warner Drive just returned from a six week trip all over Europe but principally Germany, Austria and Italy. Matt says flying is the only way to go. What did you have in mind, water skis or a pogo stick! Seriously, they said it was a most delightful trip and he figures by working part time for the next ten years, he can pay off Lufthansa. Thelma and Earl Graham's daughter, Marlene is visiting from Tampa, and Maxine and Sam Graber of Emerald Drive are celebrating the birth of their first grandchild.

EMERALD DRIVE??? Ed Zimmer, you've been scooped! Ginny Staas is home from the hospital and recuperating from surgery. Glad to have her back. And Myrt says did you know that Bill Anderson is the only male member of a ceramics class of twenty five women. Egad, man, you're taking your life in your hands. One slip and there you are. Marty and Bob Sowers returned from their summer place in upstate New York near Albany. Welcome home.

Seaman 1st Class Stell McIntyre reporting from LaVaughn Circle says the Bruyns are back from Georgia and the Carolinas after a strenuous two weeks of watching the colors change. They visited some friends in St. Augustine.

Here is a note from our newest of reporters over in Phase Two, Audrey Skiles. She and her husband Walter live at lot 243 Sunshine. She wants to extend the welcome sign to their newest residents on that street, the Hookers, Davis and Very, and tell us that Louise Hager just returned from a trip to Germany where she visited friends and relatives. Also that the Clarks of the same street just returned from a trip to Mexico.

It should also be added that Walter and Audrey also became grandparents for the first time. If we are not mistaken, that is the third grandparent incident in the past two weeks.

With all this reporting of new arrivals in the park, I've seen no mention of Bill and Edna Hoefling. Bill joined our poker card recently, much to my chagrin, and Edna is playing pokeno like mad. Welcome to you both, Jersey people you know, cream of the crop.

Now that we are getting volunteers to gather news in the various areas, let us add one word of caution to reporters. Residents like to read the fruits of your labor with no effort, but remember, if you spell their names wrong they will send you to the wall without a blindfold or a last cigarette. Thanks to the following for having helped out thus far: Stell McIntyre, Doris Petersen, Myrt Penney, Vi Simpson, Audrey Skiles and Ed Zimmer.

Do I hear any more bids? Speak up, need coverage for Forrest Lane in Phase Two and also Woods Way. Be good to each other.

SHOW OF SUPPORT--Members of the audience at last week's Parent-Teacher-Student-Friends Association meeting at Port St. Lucie Elementary indicated they'd support a proposal to have an ad hoc committee study new ways to finance school construction. The idea was to have been presented to the school board Tuesday night, but nobody spoke about it. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

ITE RIGHT--This group of Cub Scouts had a little arranging the words for their fire prevention Monday night when they presented a skit at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School. Pack 488 of Port St. Lucie has spent recent weeks learning about fire safety. The correct message is, "Remember, never give a bad fire a place to start." (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Science, God, atom is topic

A mixture of science and humour are ingredients Dr. Arthur C. Schouw will combine during a speech he's planning to give at the St. Lucie County Civic Auditorium at 8 p.m., Friday, Oct.27.

The nationally known scientist, who developed the first portable heart-lung machine and who holds patents in many areas, will give a speech titled "Science, God almighty and the atom."

Tickets can be purchased from the center's box office.

Also scheduled soon at the civic center is championship wrestling at 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov.11.

Norvell says stop for buses on US 1

Sheriff Lanie Norvell would like to remind all residents that since U.S.1 between Midway Road and Edwards Road has been resurfaced and turn lanes installed, all motorists traveling in either direction are now required by law to stop for a stopped school bus picking up or discharging passengers.

Stopping for a stopped school bus is required anytime unless there is a grass median or barrier dividing a highway. If this is present, then oncoming traffic is not required to stop.

Organ Club will meet on Saturday

The regular monthly meeting of The Organ Club will be held on Saturday, Nov.4, at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Prima Vista

Williams, of Martin county, was year and she plans to go xt year. "There" was the shared legislature held in in July, at which aged 60 and over (one man from all over the state met for to draw up a list of what the of the community regards priority subjects for the legislature to act on. Ms. told the meeting about her ns and provided insights into legislation is shaped and its way through House and who underwent a routine not ind of Spartan during their ng were housed in dormito- people to a bathroom), ll it to it at the Capitol, and night sessions -speakers or give them background on ative process. But, still and experience was an exhil- ing, the speaker said, and she to back next year, either as a or as an observer. She said ants were divided into five committees, each of which was expected to produce 10 bills for action by the Silver Hairs. In the preparation of these bills, they had all the staff and professional assistance that the regular legislature has. And, just like

Congress or any other legislative body, the Silver Hairs did 90 per cent of their final voting on the bills submitted on the last day of their session.

The bills approved will be submitted to the legislature when it mleets as may be re-written, amended or (unlikely) accepted almost intact. Among the subjects covered by the bills were: revision of Medicaid and poverty guidelines; health cost containment; licensing of dentarists (technicians who make false teeth); home health service; establishment of a separate department on aging; transportation; education; eansumer issues, and real estate taxes.

A review of the constitutional revision questions to be on the Nov.7 ballot was given by Don White, who recommended a "No" vote on all except questions 3 (single legislative districts) and 6 (merit retention of county and circuit judges). Don and Fred Wiggin also discussed the action of the Health Planning Council in recommending approval of two nursing homes, one in Port St. Lucie and one in Fort Pierce. Both men stressed the dominance of Palm Beach county in the Regional Health Planning Council, to which the recommendations now go. Palm Beach has 18 representatives on this Council, while St. Lucie, Martin, Indian River and Okeechobee counties together have 13.

Before Ms. Williams got into the substance of her remarks on the Silver Haired legislature, she pointed out that representation on the Regional Health Council is based strictly on population. And she also pointed out that, even if the nursing homes are approved, there still will be a long waiting list of people in the county trying fruitlessly to get in, because of the fact that privately operated facilities cannot and will not accept those who can't meet their price structures. Medicare doesn't do low-income people much good in such cases.

Muriel Syzak, head of the membership committee, welcomed the following new members: Ms. Florence Miller, Ms. Ruth Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mazzucca, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Talpos, Mr. and Mrs. Frank James and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wendels. That makes a total of 14, to whom we extend a cordial welcome, and brings our membership to 368. During her remarks, Muriel urged the new members and old members as well to get into the swing of things and to volunteer for activities that the chapter is engaged in. There's no doubt that those who get the most out of membership in the AARP are those who put the most into it.

First Baptist plans Old fashioned day

On Sunday, October 29th, Port St. Lucie First Baptist Church, 115 Solida Drive, will be having an Old Fashioned Day, as well as High Attendance Sunday in Sunday School. Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. with the morning service beginning at 11 a.m. Dinner on the grounds will follow the morning service.

Everyone is urged to wear an old fashioned costume as there will be judging of costumes, old fashioned games, a cake baking contest by our Deacons, and an old fashioned hymn sing, followed by refreshments. Everyone is invited to attend an old fashioned day of fun followed by our evening service at 7 p.m.

Diabetes group to meet Monday

The next meeting of the Indian River Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation will be Monday, October 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ft. Pierce Community Center, Indian River Dr., Ft. Pierce.

The speaker will be James Harrell, M.D. (OB-GYN) of Stuart. His topic will be "Pregnancy and Diabetes". Refreshments will be served and any interested persons are invited.

Mrs. Murphy and the poet laureate

BY SALLY LATHAM

Last Murphy, a long-standing ...e of Hibernian arts, letters and ..., is back at her Edgemoor Drive ... after a trip to Ireland which ... her one of the most fulfilling ...ences of her life.

...body knows her Erin – she was an ...ative Irishman for several years ... the life of her late husband, ...ugene vibrator inventor Owen G. ...rphy. They raised cattle on their ... at Green Ann between Denmare ... Sneem. Her love of the Emerald ...shines through a clear shamrock ... when she speaks of those days.

...at this trip gave her poetic soul a ...ver-to-be-forgotten enrichment – a ...n scent with Ireland's poet-laureate ... McCarthy.

...e went with her 81-year-old uncle ...oughton of Albany, N.Y.

...He visited us many times while we ...re living there," Mrs. Murphy told ... Mirror. "He wanted to see Ireland ...e once more before he died."

...d a good time Sy had, too, filled ... enough memories to last him a ...ole of lifetimes.

...ey celebrated his 81st birthday at ... Park Nuille Hotel, where Grace ... always stayed when she came to ..., Mrs. Murphy said. Among ...celebrants was a member of the ...ily, Mary Spillane, with whom ... stayed while in Ireland.

...ere's an old pub in the family– ...ane's Bar in Temple Noe," Mrs. ... explained. "We got to see all ...ks – they're all great big now ... they all remembered us, and ...ed us home. They remem- ...d Unk, too."

...ide from her appreciation of the ...e of the Irish with poetry, Mrs. ... was eager to make the ...uaintance to meet the great Sean ...Carthy, author of seven books in six ... and whose poetry and song are ...nd in record albums all over the ...rld and the United States, because ...ual friend of hers, Bernard ...ucher of Salerno, is also an old ...nd of the poet's.

...e story of her meeting with ...Carthy as best told in Lois' own ..., which she calls "A Day to ...member."

...was beautiful, bright and sunny. ...Uncle Sy Boughton, Mary Ellen ...ge and myself) drove over the ...Cuddy Reeks (mountains) ... is grueling at best, on to ...ead to find Sean McCarthy, ...rld's poet laureate.

CLOSE ENCOUNTER OF AN ERSE KIND is shared by Lois Murphy of Edgemoor Lane, Stuart, and Irish Poet Laureate Sean McCarthy, at his home in Ireland. At right is Mary Spillane, who was hostess for the local traveler during her stay in the Emeral Isle.

"After many inquiries, we were directed to a pub, 'Anglers Rest'.

"No, he was not there, but we did get directions to his home. As we were about to leave, this great size of a man got off a bicycle and started to the door. Someone told him we were looking for him and he came over to stop us before we left.

"'Come in, come in,' he said. 'We'll have a drink and talk.'

"His drink was lemonade.

"I told him my reason for looking for him, and he was most charming. He said we would go to the house to talk. He apologized for being covered with paint – he was doing the house.

"To say he is overwhelming is putting it mildly. He could not have done more to please. He made tea, showed us through the house and grounds, which are all beautiful.

"He has just finished a new book, 'The Hungry Wind', has written seven books in six years, and made 157 records.

"A day to remember? We will never forget it."

Sean McCarthy is a poet of wide scope, both in subject material and in living. He has homes both in Ireland and in Greenville, S.C., in the United States; his records are as big sellers in this country as they are abroad.

And small wonder, when one reads books like his "Darling Kate and other poems". These poems touch every level of human emotion.

And of every heart in every land. Like "A New Land," written from the stance of an Israeli sabra. One stanza alone expresses the universality of McCarthy poetry:

"One day when this world is sane and all good men are free,
"We'll go together, you and I, to the shores of Galilee.
"We'll gaze across our father's land and hear a wild bird call.
"At night we'll see Jerusalem, and stand by the Wailing Wall."

Lois Murphy may have had some sad moments of recollection during her sojourn in Ireland. Her husband, brilliant inventor and charming human being, died at their Green Ann home of a heart attack, at the age of 50. But this happy day with the great poet gave a glow to her memories that shouldn't dim for some time to come.

New Boy

Oh, Mommy, I must tell you, when I got to school today
A new boy sat beside me, he comes from far away;
The teacher made us welcome him, his christian name is Jack,
But wait until I tell you, Mom, his skin is coloured black!

The teacher, he got angry when the boys began to snigger,
A boy beside us laughed a lot and kept on saying 'nigger';
Jack, he didn't talk at all, but once I heard him sigh,
Oh, Mom, I felt so sorry, the tears were in his eye.

At playtime he went on his own, he didn't play at all,
I watched him as he stood alone, his back against the wall,
He looked so lonely there, Mom, looking at the ground,
The other boys were kicking ball and running all around.

And then tonight, the strangest thing, when we came out of school,
A lady met him at the gate, and I felt such a fool:
She caught him in her arms and called him 'Darling Boy!'
And do you know what's stranger still? They love like you and I!

LITTLE BUT MIGHTY–The tug, known as the bulldog of the harbor, is a mighty midget for any man to handle, especially when what you're pulling is hundreds of feet long. And the Tug Mark had its work cut out for it, Monday, as it snaked an awesome tail of pipe behind it down the river. It couldn't have been an easy task, with the wind whipping up whitecaps on the water. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Howey-in-the-Hills proud of concert and Pep band

A 17-piece concert and "Pep" band for Howey Academy's athletic contests, assemblies and events has emerged in three short weeks at this Central Florida. coeducational college preparatory school.

Under the baton of Music-Chorale Director William F. Custer, a Master of Music degree holder and a percvussion teaching specialist, the band will shortly make its public debut as the first of its kind in the school's 23-year history.

"The band is well-balanced as to instrumentation for concert and Pep work. The interest and work of the players has been great in both individual and unit effort," Director Custer said after the band's first full-scale rehearsal last week.

Custer, related to the Civil and Indian War hero, General George Armstrong Custer, has been giving individual and group instruction in the newly-created auditorium-like "band room", especially rebuilt for this important school cultural and spirit activity.

Taxpayers' ass'n prepare booklet on tax info

A helpful handbook on the structure of city, county and state taxes in Martin County has been published by the Martin County Taxpayers' Association, and is available at the tax collectors' office in the courthouse in Stuart.

The booklet, according to E.C. Wareheim, president of the Martin County Taxpayers Association, was compiled to answer questions asked most frequently by the taxpayers.

"Florida," Wareheim writes in the introduction, "has a complicated taxing system, with sometimes confusing exemptions. Direct assistance from the state to the counties and municipalities in many areas of governmental endeavor complicates the system and frequently hides what is being accomplished at the spending level in the tax structure."

The informational brochure starts with the taxing at the county level, and explains the taxing districts which include the South Florida Water Management District and other agencies which control utility services.

The gamut of taxing agencies is covered, ranging from the school board, ad valorem taxes, property taxes, homestead and personal exemptions, the sales and use tax, and intangible personal property tax. It also contains information on the corporation income tax, motor fuel tax, licenses, and other state taxes.

Some information particularly useful to new residents is included.

No one pays a higher rate of interest. No one provides a higher annual yield. No one has a lower minimum—just $1,000 for any certificate of deposit.

First of Martin County's savings plans let you be a smart saver. You can put some of your savings in a regular account where they will be immediately available, yet earn the highest allowable interest. Then you can invest other funds in good return, short term certificates. For higher yields, that will help build a nest egg for you, there are a variety of longer term certificates to choose from.

Whichever plan, or combination of plans, you choose, your savings earn interest compounded daily and are safely insured up to $40,000 by an agency of the federal government.

Now, where should you invest your savings to get the highest return, with the greatest protection?

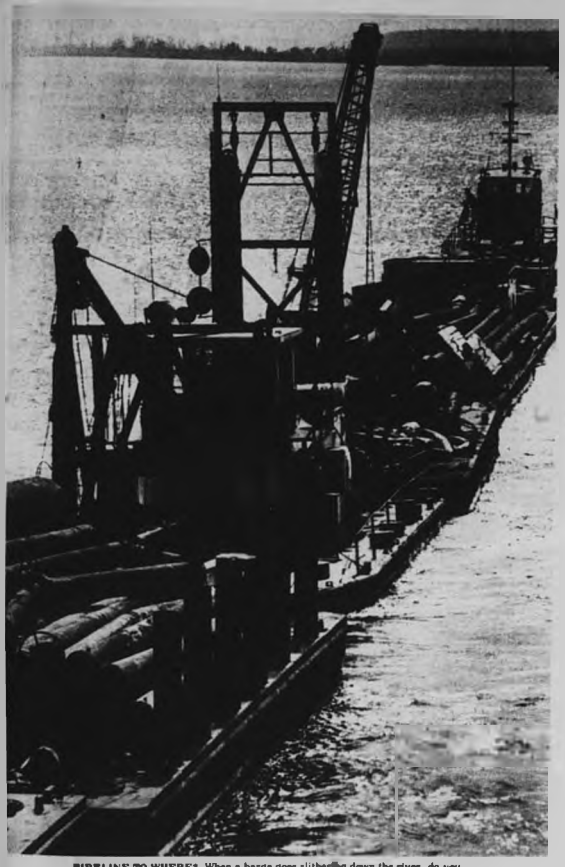
'...S A LONG LONG TRAIL AWINDIN'—or at least there was Monday, as a behemoth some three city blocks long made its way downriver. The "trail" appeared to be pipe for some major dredging job down the line somewhere. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)



PIPELINE TO WHERE?—When a barge goes slithering down the river, do you ever wonder where it is headed, or what mighty purpose it has in the picture of our country's future? Perhaps it is taking the material to build sewers for a whole city, or to construct an offshore well, to help solve the nation's energy crisis. Whatever, you may as well ponder, because you're not going anywhere until the bridge goes down again. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Garden Club has two new members

The Jensen Beach Garden Club heard a talk on Orchid Trees (Bauhinia Variegata) at its Oct. 19 meeting at the Community Church.

Mrs. Signa Morris, the program speaker was introduced by the new president Doris Taylor. Two new members were introduced to the 58 members and three guests attending.

Mrs Morris showed the club how to make triangular arrangements with flowers from the garden. Arrangements, with the theme of "Autumn Gold and the Beach Comber" were judged. Winners were: Mrs. Irene Stephanson, first; Mrs. Mildred Greenland, second, and Mrs. Ella Lee, honorable mention, on the Beach Comber class. Carole Stephenson and Mrs Doris Taylor both had second places on the Autumn Gold arrangements.

Hostesses were Mrs. Lyall F. Brown, Mrs. E.A. Cotter, Mrs. Carl Schmidt, Mrs. John Koman, Mrs. John Barnwell, and Mrs. William Jochinsen. The guests included Heidi and Adale Van Caulart and Gertrude Wagner.

"Every customer's different. It keeps me on my toes."

"I make sure there's a big variety of sizes and cuts out there in the beef case — both U.S.D.A. Choice and ProTen. But not all my customers are big beef eaters, so I'm just as concerned with our pork, ham, chicken, lamb, veal — everything else. I think we've got better variety than any place in town."

Social Security Answers Questions

When I moved, I left my forwarding address at the post office, several months after that, I still didn't come. What happened?

A forwarding address at the post office will only temporarily change the address of your Social Security check. For changes in your status, such as address, you must be reported directly to Social Security, so that our records can be adjusted. Generally, if you report the change well before the 12th day of the month, it will be reflected in the next month's check, including delivery to a corrected address.

THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE HEREBY ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. That the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida, hereby accepts the voluntary petition for annexation dated October 11, 1978, submitted by ANDREW A. HENRY and ALBERTA D. HENRY, his wife, who are the simple owners. Based on said petition, and the fact that the land hereinafter described is contiguous, and within three miles of the present City of Port St. Lucie, and the petitioners being the sole owners of such land, and said land being reasonably compact, the following land, located in the unincorporated area of St. Lucie County, Florida, is hereby annexed to and incorporated within the municipal limits of the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida:

The South 4 acres of Government Lot 16, Section 15, Township 37 South, Range 40 East, St. Lucie County, Florida, more particularly described as follows:

Begin at the Southeast corner of Section 15, Township 37 South, Range 40 East, thence run North 0 degrees 11'56" West along the East line of said Section 15 a distance of 329.18 feet; thence run South 89 degrees 54'59" West a distance of 874.41 feet, to the East shore line of the North Fork of the St. Lucie River; thence run in a Southerly direction with the meanders of the said East shore line to a point on the South line of said Section 15; thence run North 89 degrees 57'32" East, along the South line of said Section 15, a distance of 843.61 feet, to the point of beginning, containing 4.63 acres, more or less, excepting the East 30 feet thereof, located at 3190 Pruitt Road, Port St. Lucie, Florida.

and the same is and shall hereafter be considered as part of the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida.

SECTION 2. Pursuant to Florida Statute (71.041(3)), this Ordinance shall be passed after same has been published once a week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation within the County. This Ordinance, upon its adoption shall be filed with the Clerk of the Circuit Court, St. Lucie County, Florida, and with the Department of State.

SECTION 3. The municipal boundary lines, having been altered through such annexation, shall be revised and shall be filed as a revision of the City Charter with the Department of State within thirty (30) days of the adoption of this Ordinance

SECTION 4. This Ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days after its final adoption

Social Security Answers Questions

Q. I receive widow's benefits from my deceased husband's record and an SSI check. What do I have to do to have all my benefits sent to my bank account?

A. A separate Standard Form 1199 must be completed for each type of benefit that you receive. Since you receive two benefit checks, two separate forms must be completed.

Social Security Answers Questions

Q. Am I allowed to work and still get student benefits? I've heard that students have to limit their earnings like retired people.

A. Students have the same basic restrictions on work and earnings as retirees. At the time a child's benefits converts to student benefits at age 18, he completes forms outlining his restrictions since he will be receiving the checks himself. At that time, the annual earnings test is briefly explained. For this year, a student may work and earn up to $3,240 with no reduction in benefits. Also, if a student is paid by his employer to attend school he is not eligible for benefits.

If you have a question, please call 464-5700 or 283-5700.

Nicholas J. Flora

Nick Flora is one of the many retirees who have taken the volunteer firefighting department as a way of staying active in their community.

Flora is 68 years of age and has been a member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for the past six years. He holds the rank of lieutenant with the department and spends an average of 40 hours per month attending the drills and sharing in the responsibilities around the fire station.

Prior to moving to the area, Flora had ten years experience in a New Jersey fire department and was also qualified in first aid.

Flora, who resides at 370 Flora Road in Jensen Beach, says his most memorable experience was helping to build one of the fire trucks, an old G.I. surplus unit.

Eugene A. Peer

When the Rio Fire Department decided to incorporate, Richard Pinsky called upon his friend, Gene Peer, a local attorney, to help. Peer met with the department and helped them incorporate.

He also made many friends, and became a fireman twenty months ago.

"After meeting the members, I came to like them and understand the need for firemen in the area," Peer says.

Gene Peer, 32, lives at 2170 NE Dixie Highway with his son, Jason. He cannot recall a most memorable fire, but thinks all fires he has fought are memorable. He spends six hours a month in training.

Peer's working hours prevent him from being around the fire house as often as he would like to be, but he credits the department with helping him learn in the time he has to attend. Would he recommend others to become involved in volunteer firefighting? "Absolutely," Peer says.

One of the long time members of the Rio Fire Department is Jim Gass,26, who was signed up as a member by his father, Bill Gass, head of the department, nine years ago, when he was 17.

He lives with his wife, Kathleen, on Brendon Court in Rio, and works in a boat yard.

Another of the many volunteers who spend much time in the department cleaning the gear and training, Jim likes being a fireman, and recommends it to others.

Bob Wright, 30, has been an active member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for two and a half years.

In addition to his demanding work as district manager for a convenience store chain, Bob averages approximately 25 hours per month attending the weekly drills and working at the station.

Before joining the local department, Bob had prior firefighting experience while serving in the Navy for four and a half years. He was aboard the aircraft carrier America, off the coast of Korea, when the seventh deck of the ship burned.

While he has not yet had the opportunity of attending the Fire College in Ocala because of his working hours, Bob says he is looking forward to attending as soon as he can take advantage of the special courses offered.

He lives at 1201 Skyline Dr., in Jensen Beach.

Jensen volunteers' history is one of community support

While it is a well known fact the people of Jensen Beach have always taken great pride in their community, never failing to come forth in support of area prdjects, no matter how large or small, that support has never been more in evidence than with the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

How many folks realize the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department is the only fire department in Martin County that has literally purchased all its own vehicles?

While a certain amount of funding is derived annually through special district taxes, it is the people of Jensen Beach who have donated all the funds used to purchase the trucks and much of the equipment for their fire department.

Today, the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department has a fleet of six units and a department which ranks second to none in Martin County.

It was Randolph Spinney, a comparative newcomer to the area, who was so concerned over the lack of fire protection in Jensen Beach that he, along with other interested citizens, went to the Martin County Commission with a request that some type of firefighting equipment be placed in the north county area. The venture was successful in that the county agreed to give the group and old used truck complete with tank.

The truck was housed in an old frame structure at the foot of Commercial Street on Indian River Drive adjacent to what is now the Jensen Bait and Tackle Shop.

Even though the rig was considered a real junker, it was the beginning of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

The handful of dedicated men who worked diligently to repair and man that truck were the original volunteers of the Jensen Beach Fire Department.

The year was 1947.

With the organization of the local volunteer fire department, it was William "Boots" St. Clair who became the first fire chief, a position he held for thirteen years before stepping down in 1960. St. Clair was, and is, the owner-operator of his own garage in Jensen Beach.

Randolph Spinney served as assistant chief throughout the early years and as chief from 1964 until his retirement in 1977, when Joe Luciano took over the top position. Chief Spinney died last June.

While the volunteers were proud of their one-unit department, they realized it was just the beginning. They were aware of the impending growth of the area and recognized the need for more and better equipment.

To raise money, the firemen held cookouts, spaghetti dinners, day-long picnics and even square dances. St. Clair noted that local businesses were very generous in donating supplies to be sold for these various fund raising functions.

"Many are the square dances that were held at Seymour's Inn and I couldn't begin to recall all the contributions of food and drink that Poor Bob's Restaurant supplied for our fund raising get-togethers," St. Clair said.

Later, the fire department appealed to every resident of the community by letter soliciting cash donations, a practice which has continued on an annual basis from that time on.

The important thing is, however, that in every instance, be it in the form of a letter or a fund raising social function, the people of Jensen Beach have turned out in support of their fire department.

By 1956 the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department had sufficient funds to purchase the first new truck. The truck was equipped through a combination of county funds and local money.

It was in the mid 1960's the land was purchased by the county to move the fire station from Indian River Drive to the present Palmetto Street location. The building was then constructed using 60 per cent county funds and 40 per cent local funds raised by the department.

Today there are six units at the Jensen Beach Fire Station.

Starting with the smallest, there is the chief's car, a station wagon which is equipped with first aid equipment, fire extinguishers, axes, shovels, tow chain, entry tools, jumper cables and even a stretcher. It is equipped with 4-wheel drive and is the first unit at the scene of a fire.

Truck No. 101 is strictly a woods truck and is equipped to carry 300 gallons of water.

Number 102 is the lead attack truck and is used for structure fires. It has a standard drive and is never used off the road.

Truck No. 104 is a combination house and brush unit which the count equipped with a 500 gallon tank. It also h a 4-wheel drive.

The latest unit to be purchased by th department was a 1976 tanker truc equipped with a 2,100 gallon tank.

Truck No. 106 was purchased in 1972. I is equipped with a 600 gallon tank an has a 34-foot ladder which is usuall referred to as a "snorkel" or "cherry-picker."

While it is inevitable the local fir department must expand to keep pac with the rapidly growing area, certai facts remain unchanged....the dedica tion of those who serve on the voluntee fire department is ever present, just a is the support, both moral and financia of the Jensen Beach residents.

Kenneth 'Ken' Wright

Ken Wright, 30-year-old husband and father, has served with the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for the past year.

Prior to joining the local department, Ken had acquired more than seven years firefighting experience with the U.S.Navy and he had served for a vriel time with the Palm City Volunteer Fire Department.

Employed full time in the construction business, Ken manages to spend about 25 hours per month doing his part with the Jensen Beach Volunteers , attending drills and sharing the other responsibilities at the fire station. He is assisting in the coordination of Fire Prevention Week activities for the local group.

"A most memorable experience relative to firefighting? I suppose it would have to be the prompt action by our department which saved a house in St. Lucie County several months ago," he said. "We were called to assist at the fire, responded immediately, and we were successful in putting it out before the St. Lucie Department arrived at the scene.

That's what volunteering and community service is all about.

Michael J. Quinn

Mike Quinn, at the age of 31, is one of the long time members of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

Mike, who resides at 103 Savanna Road with his wife Joan, joined the department when he was eighteen and has been an active member from that time on. Being the youngest member at the time, the department presented Mike with his own special set of keys to one of the trucks on his 21st birthday.

While Mike works full time as a deputy with the Martin County Sheriff's Department, he still spends about 15 hours per month attending the drill sessions and working around the fire station.

His most memorable experience as a firefighter was the Reiger fire in Sewall's Point.

Mike holds the rank of deputy chief with the local fire department.

One of the valuable members of the Fire Department acquired during the past year is Lt. Lou Slockbower, who has been very active in all facets of department work, but especially with the rolling stock.

"Lou has sanded and painted all the trucks, on his off-time and at no cost to the department, outside his working hours with Jensen Beach Cabinets," Chief Joe Luciano said. "He has saved the department nearly $500 a truck.

He is very devoted to serving the fire department, the chief added.

Jensen fireman's auxiliary plays an important role in the department

Long before the organization of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary, it should be noted the wives of the volunteers always played an important role in the efficiency of the local fire department.

Before the elaborate communication system we enjoy today, emergency calls were passed along to the various firemen by their wives who had set up individual telephone call lists.

In the event of an emergency, be it day or night, the local fire chief would receive the original call. While he would leave immediately for the fire station to sound the alarm, his wife would make several phone calls to the homes of other firemen whose wives would in turn go through their own call list to notify others.

Because of the quick action on the part of the wives it was not unusual for several of the volunteers to arrive at the station simultaneously with the chief.

Over 30 years ago in the mid 1950's the ladies got together and organized the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary, a dedicated hard-working group who support the equally dedicated volunteer firemen.

Most of the members are wives of the firemen. The balance are Jensen Beach area residents who have been sponsored by a member and approved by majority vote. The group meets the first Monday of the month at the firehouse to discuss ways to assist the firemen in their work. Some of the projects are rummage and bake sales, barbecues on the causeway and White Elephant sales at their meetings to make money to stock the kitchen and for incidental expenses.

For many years the Auxiliary joined the firemen in preparing and serving food to hundreds of persons on the causeway for the Fourth of July celebration and other events.

During fires of any duration, the women are on hand to make coffee and sandwiches, pots of chili or kettles of hot soup. A memorable all-day brush fire in the savannas brought the women out in force for 12 to 15 hours to cook not only for the Jensen Beach firemen, but also for volunteers from Rio, Port Salerno, District 2 in Stuart, Palm City and other fire departments. Food was served over a period of hours as the tired and hungry men brought the trucks back to the firehouse to have the tanks filled with water.

At 7:30 the next morning the women were back again preparing breakfast following an early-morning structure fire where Jensen Beach was assisted by Rio firefighters.

Charter members, many of whom are still active with the Auxiliary today, include Hazel Willeke, Martha Spinney, Eleanor Sprague, Kitty Robertson, Juanita Proffitt, Ann Worthan, Bea Poux, Mildred Tilton, Gladys Dickensheets, Dorothy Smouse, Betty Baker, Elsie Dean, Georgiana Kranitz and April Willeke.

Mrs. Dorothy Ross is currently president of the auxiliary. Former presidents include Dorothy Luciano, Hazel Willke, Juanita Proffit, Gladys Dickensheets, Martha Spinney, Sara Jane Wache, Ruth Bowman, Marie Yurillo, Kitty Robertson, Dorothy Smouse and Mildred Vossmer.

Albert W. 'Sparky' Ross

President

Sparky Ross, 68 years of age and a retired electrician, has been a volunteer firefighter with the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for five years now.

"As a member of the community, I enjoy the company of the men and would certainly advise anyone to join in the community service," Ross said.

Before moving to the area, Ross had experience serving with the fire department in is hometown of Franklin Lakes, N.J.

Aside from the weekly drills, Ross is always available to solve or handle any electrical problems which may arise. His most memorable firefighting experience was a structural fire on Christmas Eve.

Ross resides with his wife Dorothy in Jensen Beach.

Department loses valuable members

The past year has been touched by sadness for the Jensen Fire Department. Two of its most valuable members were lost to death.

Chief Randolph Spinney, who had been with the department for nearly 30 years, died June 6 at the age of 84. Chief Spinney retired two years ago, but had continued serving with the department, coming to the fire station nearly every day.

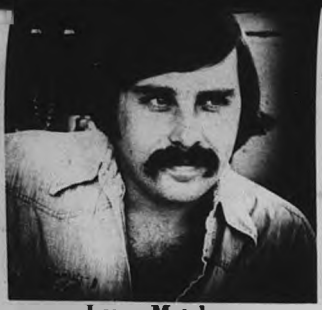
Chief Joe Luciano felt the loss most keenly, having succeeded Chief Spinney in the post.

"I always used to kid him," he told the Mirror. "I'd tell him that even if he was sick or on his death bed, if he heard that plectron, he'd jump up and run."

The woman's auxiliary's loss was Mrs. Ann Flora, whose husband Nick Flora remains as department secretary-treasurer, and continues his active service.

"She was the type of person that if you had a barbeque or a sale, you'd ask "Would you–" and before you could get the word out, she'd jump up and volunteer," Chief Luciano said. "When she walked into a room, it lit up."

"She was a real volunteer's volunteer," said Luciano. "We're not only going to miss her personally, the fire department misses her for her devoted service."



Larry Metzler

A friend who is with the forestry service interested Larry Metzler in joining the department in Rio. The 29 year old volunteer has been with the fire department for 3 years, after having served as a volunteer fireman in Louisville, Kentucky.

Larry lives at 525 California Avenue and is "extremely pleased with his work as a volunteer.

It really rounds out one's life in the community," Metzler said in recommending the fire department to anyone interested.

He spends ten hours a month in training and service, mostly on Monday nights and on weekends. His most memorable experience in fire fighting came at the Fireman's Field Day in 1976.

William Yurillo, Jr.

Although only 23 years of age, Bill Yurillo, Jr., has been a member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for the past seven years.

"It was my father, being a member of the department for many years, who influenced me to join," Bill, Jr., said.

While Bill has had many memorable experiences as a firefighter, he is quick to say the most memorable would have to be the LP Gas truck fire helped to extinguish at the intersection of Savanna Road and 707A several years ago.

Bill spends approximately 30 hours per month working with the local fire department.

He resides at 308 South Street with his family when not in school. He is a student at the University of South Florida.

George Ruff

George Ruff is one of the newest members to join the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department. In the department just over a year, George says,"My experiences in the Fire Department have been interesting and I find it to be a most gratifying job."

"I think everyone should volunteer their services in one way of another to help their community," George said.

He spends about 15 hours per month attending the training drills and helping around the station.

George, 22, resides at 3398 N.E. Jeanette Avenue in Jensen Beach.

Kovarik estimates he spends 33 hours a month working around the fire station in his spare time, and oversees the captain to make sure that all equipment is in working order. He has been with the department six years.

"I enjoy it, very much so," Kovarik says of his volunteer service, and added that he would like to see "all men who are able to lend a helping hand take an active part in becoming a volunteer."

The associate membership are available to the youth of the community, 13 through 17 years of age who are interested in participating in fire department functions.

Jamie attends the weekly drill sessions and shares in the responsibilities and duties just as the firemen do. He learns how to use all the equipment and various firefighting techniques. While the associate members can work around the trucks during an emergency, operating the pumps, laying hoses and use the radio equipment, they do no actual firefighting, nor do they drive the trucks

Jamie spends between 20 to 30 hours per month attending the drills and sharing in the routine chores at the station

At the age of 18, Jamie will step right into the regular department as a qualified firefighter. Jamie is a Martin County High School student.

Vote on Tuseday Nov. 7

Voters to decide state and local races

BY BOB FRYER

Three local political races are included on the St. Lucie County ballot next Tuesday when voters from throughout the state will go to the polls

Statewide races include a contest for governor and lt. governor between Democrats Bob Graham and Wayne Mixson and Republicans Jack Eckerd and Paula Hawkins.

Additionally, there are three cabinet seats contested. Democrat George Firestone opposes Republican Ander Crenshaw for secretary of state; Bill Gunter, the incumbent Democrat, is up against Republican challenger Jeffrey Latham for the state treasurer's post; and Democrat incumbent Ralph Turlington faces GOP opposition from Herman Williams for commissioner of education.

St. Lucie County is one of a number of counties in the 26th state senate district. That seat is being contested by two West Palm Beach men, Democrat incumbent Harry Johnston II and GOP challenger William "Bill" Riker. In the 28th state senate district, of which St. Lucie County is also a member, it's again a Democrat incumbent, Don Childers of West Palm Beach, against a Republican opponent, Billie Brooks of Riviera Beach.

In a more localized contest, Democrat incumbent Dale Cassens of Fort Pierce is challenged by Republican Chuck Nergard of Port St. Lucie for the district 76 state house seat. District 76 includes nearly all of St. Lucie County and the northern, Jensen Beach, area of Martin County.

In the Cassens-Nergard contest, both candidates cite experience as a factor that they fell qualify them for the job Cassens, a 43-year old county native in the citrus grove business, has held the post for the past two years. Prior to that he was on the county school board and before that was chairman of the Bi-racial Advisory Committee for the couty school system.

"One of the reasons there seems to have been little interest in our race is people feel there is not much difference between us, but I dispute that," Cassens said.

He said philosophically, he didn't see a great difference between himself and Nergard, but said he felt that since he is a member of the majority party in the legislature, he believed he could get more done for the area

Cassens said Nergard has accepted contributions from lobbyists, while he is one of the few house members who does not accept such funds. He said he has returned $3,200 in contributions from lobbyists who sent in money anyway.

Achievements cited by Cassens include playing a part in getting funds for the St. Lucie Inlet improvement, resolving the king mackerel controversy, helping solve septic tank problems in Port St. Lucie, and getting road construction activity accelerated in Martin and St. Lucie counties. Traffic lights for U.S. 1 at Spanish Lakes and Rio Mar Drive, and resurfacing of A1A in the Martin and St. Lucie counties are all to be done soon, he said.

His goals for the next two years, if re-elected include passage of a bill to require a two-thirds vote in both state houses for a tax increase, a bill to make prosecution of fraudulent unemployment and workman's compensation claims easier, and a bill to give governments and school systems incentive to install solar energy systems in new buildings.

Nergard also disagrees with the idea that he and Cassens are alike. "We have a lot of philosophical differences," he said.

Nergard, a realtor, held the District 76 seat for five terms before deciding not to run two years ago. He disputed Cassens' argument that he could not get things done as a Republican in a Democrat-dominated house, and said he would retain seniority that would assure him a choice of committee assignments.

Nergard says he feels a lot of red tape could be cut in state government and that by reassessing spending priorities, pressing needs could be met without tax increases. He wants a moratorium on the hiring of new state employees, as he says for every new state worker in Tallahassee, enough paperwork is created to require a new employee at the county level.

He cited the construction of several new schools, the state purchase of Savannas wetlands, and beach acquisition as achievements during his administration. If elected, he said he would get Palm Beach, Martin and St. Lucie county officials together with State Department of Transportation officials on the missing link of I-95 "so the DOT can't pass the buck. There's no reason why we couldn't have moved forward on I-95 in the last two years, but there's been nothing done but a few public hearings." He also said he would work for building a south St. Lucie County bridge to Hutchinson Island.

In the District Four county commission race, Republican Ed Enns of Fort Pierce is challenged by Democrat Phil Thibedeau. Both candidates again cite experience as a quality on their side. Enns, 43, has been a county commissioner for eight years and Thibedeau, who once served as county civil defense director, says he has 34 years of experience in working with the public.

Thibedeau, a 48-year-old south-county resident, says he was instrumental in developing the 911 emergency phone system and an emergency medical service system. Enns says others deserve to share in the credit.

Thibedeau is critical of the commission for not providing active recreational facilities south of White City, and says emergency service and evacuation plans for island residents are inadequate.

Enns said, "It's easy to promise services, but it's tougher to raise the money to provide the services." He cited holding the line of taxes and putting pressure on the state DOT for road projects as achievements.

In response to a suggestion by Thibedeau to have a 15-member citizens' advisory committee for the county commission, Enns said he wan't opposed to the committee, but said he is always available for calls and gets plenty of direct contact with constituents.

Jensen Beach attorney Dean Tooker is opposing Vero Beach resident Ken Sharp in a non-partisan race for a circuit judge seat. Voters from St. Lucie, Martin, Indian River and Okeechobee counties will decide the outcome of this race. Tooker was Martin County attorney for a number of years and Sharp was a city and school board attorney in Indian River County.

County voters will also be asked to decide whether the Fire Board should continue to be composed of two Fort Pierce commission members, two county commission members and an appointee by the governor, or to be comprised solely of county commissioners.

Voters will be asked whether two district judges, Spencer Cross and John Moore, should be retained, and will also be asked to vote for or against eight state constitutional revisions and a casino gambling propositions. A sample St Lucie County ballot is contained in today's issue of The Mirror.

leas surfacing for school funding ding crunch has hit the St. unty School system, and, now me time has passed since a d special school construction ue was overwhelmingly d in July, persons are g to talk about alternative to the funding problem.

BY BOB FRYER

county population has been at a very healthy rate and the has been greatest in Port St. where for the last half year the granted an average of more housing permits per month. . Lucie Elementary School, student population of about 980 last report, went on double this year.

the July two-mill school tax as defeated, school officials ams a number of steps in preparation for building a new elementary school in Port St. Lucie. It was to have taken about a year to build.

Shortly after the tax vote, the school board adopted this year's budget at a 6.95 mill tax rate--the same as last year's millage figure. School construction funds from the state were earmarked for paying off the construction of Westwood High School, and not nearly enough other money was available to start a new school. In fact, school officials made blush forecasts that it may be several years before their first priority--a new school in Port St. Lucie--could be built. And, they added that other areas of the county are growing rapidly and will also need new schools in the next few years.

One complaint by school system officials is that the state system of providing funds for schools is complex and inadequate to meet the needs of a rapidly growing county, such as St. Lucie.

At a recent Port St. Lucie Elementary School meeting of the Parent-Teacher-Students-Friends Association, two approaches to solving the funding problem were suggested. PTSF President Wendi Shelton asked for a show of hands from the audience if they favored suggesting to the school board that an ad hoc committee be formed to investigate avenues of funding. The response was unanimously in favor of the idea. At the next school board meeting, last Tuesday, the committee was not mentioned. The idea may be suggested at a later date, however.

School board officials did hear a discussion on the idea of imposing an impact fee on all new dwelling units built in the county. Board member Jeffrey Frust who had earlier attended the PTSF meeting and spoke about the impact fee. At the PTSF meeting, he likened the impact fee to water and sewer hook-up fees, saying newcomers should have to pay the cost of the facilities that are needed because of their move into the county.

Frust said the impact fee would be earmarked for school construction only, and emphasized that the fee probably would not generate enough cash to solve the immediate need for a new school, but would help in meeting long range needs. "You could be talking about a half a million dollars a year," he told the parents. He also said that if he can not convince the other school board members to favor the impact fee idea, he would personallly oppose the planned General Development Corporation Midport project when it came up for Treasur Coast Regional Planning Council review (in December) if an impact fee was not assessed to GDC. The Midport project is to house 5,000 people by 1985.

At the school board meeting, Treasure Coast council executive director Sam Shannon outlined the mechanics of the fee. He said the cost of school construction needs which would be created by the new arriving residents would have to be determined, based on the cost of the facilities needed and the average household population. Subtracted from that figure would be the amount of funding normally available through state and local sources. He said he did not know what the fee figure would be for St. Lucie County. Figures from $870 to $1,300 were mentioned at the board meeting as ones computed in Martin County.

The board has ordered staff members to do some research on the impact fee and the topic is expected to be discussed at a board meeting soon.

The two candidates for the district 76 state house seat, Dale Cassens and Chuck Nergard, have commented on the school funding problems. Cassens said the state has a far greater demand for school construction funds from counties than it has money for those counties. He suggested "The school board should take another look at funding (new school) locally." He said a .55-mill tax increase, to be earmarked for school construction, would, when added to the money that is received from the state, help the board get over the pressing funding shortage fairly soon.

Nergard said he felt it was the state's responsibility to pay for new schools, and allid with a reorganization of state spending priorities, the money could be made available.

city council members balked at the plans. The council eventually voted to rezone the entire tract to a residential category. There was a provision in the rezoning to allow the existing stores, plus stores in two buildings that Smith won the right to construct as a result of one of the court suits, to operate in a non-conforming status.

But the suit claims that as a result of the city council action, the value of the land has been reduced and that the amount of damages Bay Associates is suffering exceeds $400,000. The suit asks either for a court ruling to declare the entire tract as commercial property or for the city to pay the alleged damages. The suit also maintins that the rezoning was improperly done.

Port St. Lucie attorneys have 20 days to respond to the suit before a hearing date is to be set. City mayor William McChesney was asked to comment on the suit Tuesday, but declined to do so.

DALE CASSENS

...ecent incumbent Dale Cassens ...t Pierce is challenged by ...ican Chuck Nergard of Port St. ...the district 76 state house ...rict 76 includes nearly all of ...County and the northern ...Beach area of Martin County. ...Cassens-Nergard contest, both candidates cite experience as a factor that they feel qualifiy them for the job. Cassens, a 43-year old county native in the citrus grove business, has held the post for the past two years. Prior to that he was on the county school board and before that was chairman of the Bi-racial Advisory Committee for the county school system.

Achievements cited by Cassens include playing a part in getting funds for the St. Lucie Inlet improvement, resolving the king mackerel controversy, helping solve septic tank problems in Port St. Lucie, and getting road construction activity accelerated in Martin and St. Lucie counties. Traffic lights for U.S.1 at Spanish Lakes and Rio Mar Drive, and resurfacing of A1A in the Martin and St. Lucie counties are all to be done soon, he said.

CHUCK NERGARD

Nergard says he feels a lot of red tape could be cut in state government and that by reassesing spending priorities, pressing needs could be met without tax increases. He wants a moratorium on the hiring of new state employees, as he says for every new state worker in Tallahassee, enough paperwork is created to require a new employee at the county level.

He cited the construction of several new schools, the state purchase of Savannas wetlands,and beach acquisition as achievements during his administration. If elected, he said he would get Palm Beach, Martin and St. Lucie county officials together with State Department of Transportation officials on the musing link of I-95 "so the DOT can't pass the buck. There's no reason why we couldn't have moved forward on I-95 in the last two years, but there's been nothing done but a few public hearings." He also said he would work for building a south St. Lucie County bridge to Hutchinson Island.

WILLIAM J. TAYLOR

William J. Taylor, incumbent in the race for State Representative of District 77, has served in the legislature for the past two years.

A resident of Tequesta, the Democratic legislator has served as chairman of the Health and Rehabilitative Services subcommittee, and takes credit for increasing help for retardation and mental health services throughout the state.

A native of Hartford, Conn., he is married to the former Ann FitzGibbon. They have nine children.

They are members of St. Jude's Catholic Church, and have been active in the Palm Beach County and the Florida Associations for Retarded Citizens. He is owner of the Village Funeral Home in Jupiter.

Prior to entering the legislature, Taylor was a councilman for the village of Tequesta. He has also been president of the Jupiter-Tequesta Chamber of Commerce, and on the board of the United Way of Palm Beach County.

DR. WILLIAM MYERS

Dr. William Myers, chairman of the Martin County Commission, is relinquishing his seat at the county level to run for state House of Representatives District 77, in opposition to Bill Taylor.

Dr. Myers has given as his reason for going after the higher office the necessity of getting more equitable legislation for the Martin County and surrounding areas. He has said this section has been back-seated because Martin has no personally involved representatives in Tallahassee.

He said in a recent statement: 'If you've gotten the feeling that I like local governments control rather than state or federal, you're picking up the right vibrations. In Martin County we have asked the legislature to remove us from PSC control, have asked to form our environmental control board to do the work of DER, and a Water Management advisory board to do the work of the Southern Water Management Board."

DEAN TOOKER

Dean Tooker, a former Martin County Attorney with 21 years of law practice, is one of two contenders for the circuit court judge seat in the 19th Judicial District left empty by the retirement of Judge Wallace Sample.

A resident of Jensen Beach, Tooker says he feels his long years of courtroom experience qualify him for the judgeship.

He is a native of Patchogue, Long Island, N.Y., and earned his law degree from the University of Miami. He came to Martin County after a brief practice in Dade County, and he and his wife settled their home on Skyline Drive in Jensen.

Tooker has been very active in community life. He was charter president of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club; a past president of the Jensen Chamber of Commerce, and a past Exalted Ruler of the Elks.

The Tookers have three sons. The family attends the All Saints Episcopal Church.

G. KENDALL SHARP

Kendall Sharp, a Vero Beach Attorney, is one of the two lawyers seeking the vacated seat of Circuit Court Judge Wallace Sample, who has retired.

Sharp graduated from Yale University, and received his Juris Doctorate from the University of Virginia. He has been practicing law in Indian River County for the past 15 years.

He has held only one public office, that of public defender for the four-county area of Indian River, St. Lucie, Martin and Okeechobee Counties, but he has represented the Indian River School Board and hospital as the attorney for those public bodies. He has also acted as lawyer for the Florida Drainage District, and for the community of Indian River Shores.

He and his wife Mary and their two daughters live at 3554 Ocean Drive, Vero Beach.

He has served as chairman of the 19th District Judicial Circuit Grievance Committee, and as president of the Indian River County Bar Association.

REX ANDREWS

Rex Andrews, a Stuart accountant, is one of two contenders for the District 3 Martin County Commission seat, running against Lavon "Bud" Bagwell.

The 40 -year-old Andrews is a graduate of Pahokee High School, going on to earn an Associate of Arts degree from Indian River Community College and a Bachelor of Arts in accounting from Florida Atlantic University. He saw three years of service with the U.S.Navy, from 1956 to 1959.

Andrews says he has had a lifelong dream to serve the public, and feels his knowledge and experience in accounting will help the commission reconcile the budget.

The planks in his platform are fiscal restraint; completion of the St. Lucie Inlet and park, and completion of I-95, though he doesn't say which route he favors.

He and his wife Ann have two children and one granddaughter.

BUD BAGWELL

Lavon "Bud" Bagwell, a Floridian since 1949, is running for the District 3, county commission seat being vacated by Dr. William G. Myers.

A Lieutenant Colonel retired after 22 years with the U.S.Army, he studied business administration at the University of Maryland and is studying business and banking at Indian River Community College.

The 47 year old candidate and his wife Betty live at 9064 S.E.Pelican Island Way, The Soundings, Hobe Sound. He is a past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10132, and is a member of the Emara Shrine Temple in Lake Worth. He has served for two years on the Martin County Zoning Board of Adjustments.

He says he will be a full-time commissioner "and available at any time to listen and help." His goal is to help bring clean, light industry to the area "to keep our young people here and not make them move away in order to find jobs that pay a living wage."

MILDRED PERRY

Mildred Perry, candidate for the Martin County School Board District 1, who was actively opposed to the $12.5 million bond issue, is calling for a more economical method of running the school system.

She is asking better communications between teachers, administrators and parents to determine if and why a student is failing to make progress in school.

She is calling for an appointed superintendent; reevaluation of teachers every two years; reevaluation of administrators, better classroom discipline and management.

She is also asking for earned promotions and diplomas, with mandatory functional literacy tests for diagnostic purposes. She asks that books and supplies be available, and a summer remedial program for failing students.

NORMA MILLER

Candidate for Martin County School Board District 1, Norma Miller is making her first try for a political seat. She became involved when she spent five months doing public relations for the school bond issue.

"In that time I found a lot of other things that need looking into," she said this week. "There needs to be far more communication among the administrators, teachers, the entire system and the public."

As the bond money becomes available, she said, "we're going to be spending about $16 million in construction, and I want to be on hand to be sure the money is spent wisely."

The wife of Vice Mayor Robert Miller of Stuart, the candidate has been active in many civic affairs in the county. She is activities chairwoman of the Sailfish Club, she is a member of the Concerned Citizens of Stuart, and on the Downtown Revitalization Committee.

The Millers live at 800 North Fork Road. They have three children.

ELSIE HUTTON

Elsie Hutton, candidate for the office of Supervisor of Elections, seeks the seat now held by incumbent Peggy Robbins.

Mrs. Hutton worked in the courthouse as Chief Deputy Supervisor of Elections for more than four years under Sandra J. Randolph, who resigned a year ago to marry.

Mrs Hutton's major platform is economy in the office which has a $100,000 a year budget. She contends that Mrs. Robbins has wasted taxpayers' money in purchasing used voting machines from Pasco County for $6,900, and in spending other thousands on transporting them to the polling places. Hutton claims she can save the taxpayers money by getting a Votomatic system like the ones used in Dade, Broward, and Palm Beach counties.

She contends that such a system could be expanded to include voter registration, the purge, demographic information required by state law, and precinct walking lists.

PEGGY ROBBINS

Peggy Robbins, the incumbent in the race for Supervisor of Elections, is a Florida native, and taught kindergarten for 12 years, in St. Mary's School. She served on the School Board for four years, and was named to several state-wide legislative committees dealing in the realm of education. One of the most important was the Southern Governors' Committee for Education.

On the issue of lever voting machines versus computerized voting, which her opponent is bearing down on hardest, Mrs. Robbins said, "I don't feel Martin County is quite ready for it (computerized voting) yet.

"I'm not saying one is good and the other is bad," she told The Mirror. "There are flaws in both systems. But there has never been a computer system that can't be defrauded."

Mrs. Robbins also stands on her record of taking voter registration into every part of the county. She has used the Red Cross mobile unit to register people in areas which aren't easily accessible to the courthouse, and has kept the office open on Saturday's for those who couldn't come in during the week.

The students winning the ticket-sales contest were Robi Johnston, Sammy Staley and Lisa Madierras. They received $15, $10, and $5 respectively.

New dock is dedicated at Martin Memorial Hospital

A 50-foot dock dedicated as an instrument of mercy last week at Martin Memorial Hospital, was the brainchild of a man who nearly drowned in a boating accident in the same vicinity.

Co-benefactors in building the structure were Ralph and Frances Evinrude, and the late William Matheson, prominent civic leader and for years a member of the Martin Memorial Hospital board, whose life was saved in 1974 by Vero Chason of the Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 58. The dock, to be used for emergency landings of waterway victims, was dedicated to Chason.

Mr. and Mrs. Evinrude, who were present for the noon-time ceremony, were commended for their share in the project by Ralph Hartman, Jr. past chairman of the hospital board, emcee for the event.

Spectators included dignitaries on both land and water. Several yachts from the CG Flotilla coursed slowly around the end of the dock during the ribbon-cutting, as they shared in the honors being paid to Chason.

Hartman related the story of Matheson's rescue. Matheson, he said, had been alone in his open motor boat, and was near the Pelican Inn dock close to the hospital when he was thrown overboard. The boat churned in circles around the helpless victim. It was spotted by Kenneth Rathbolm of Stuart, who called the Coast Guard. The Guard station in turn called the Capt. Von Jourdan, of the CG Auxiliary, and he alerted Chason to the scene.

When Chason, assisted by Gene Hull of Seagate Harbor, reached the victim, Matheson was bobbing helpless and unconscious in the water. The rescuers pulled him out and rushed him to the Pelican Dock, where they were met by ambulance.

Matheson devised the idea of an emergency dock while he was still hospitalized.

"It was Bill's wish, as soon as he was out of the hospital, to give money for a dock," Hartman said.

The ribbon was cut by Peggy Matheson, widow of the man who gave a large share of the money. She unveiled the dedicatory plaque naming it as the Vernon Chason dock.

The dock will be open to hospital visitors, but not for fishing or other recreational use, hospital administrator Guy Cromwell said. It must be kept clear for emergencies, which occur several times a year in the St. Lucie river.

THE DREAM FULFILLED--The ribbon on the new Vernon Chason pier, an avenue of mercy for people getting sick or hurt at sea, is cut by Mrs. Peggy Matheson, widow of the prominent man who conceived the idea, with the help of Ralph Hartman,Jr., past chairman of the Martin Memorial Hospital board. Matheson and Ralph and Frances Evinrude provided the funds to make the pier possible. (Staff photo by Sally Latham) concerning your suggestion for a County Water System at Jensen Beach to supply Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island as well—in fact, all the way to the Nuclear Power Plant in St. Lucie County, no less. To define our terms more precisely, the chemical soup you would get from a county-supplied water system in Jensen Beach would be a long way from the pure water we now get from our individual wells.

Letters to the Editor

...back seat to no one in my ...tion of pure drinking water, ...have some serious doubts ...

Your fears of 15 years ago were apparently unfounded. In spite of a phenomenal growth in that period, Jensen Beach is doing quite well with our present system of septic tanks and private wells. We are blessed with an abundance of good, fresh water within easy reach, and our type of soil and drainage provides one of the most efficient and effective means of disposing of human waste through septic tanks. Our regulations governing both wells and septic tanks are efficient and doing an excellent job of maintaining the status quo. I see no reason for alarm.

Your concern, apparently, is chiefly with Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island, both of whom think of themselves as part of the affluent minority. Things haven't changed any in either location as regards availability of fresh water. There was no water on the island when the developers moved in; the water supply on Sewall's Point has not changed since the developers took over; but both the island and Sewall's Point could get all the fresh water they need through their own efforts. Indian River Plantation with their Reverse-Osmosis System is an excellent example, and I suggest that Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island would be well advised to follow their lead.

You don't in your suggestion say how much your plan would cost or how it would be financed. How much would it cost each Jensen Beach home owner? To obtain the finances, would water system hookups be mandatory? How much a front foot would it cost the property owners? Would the county insist on a Jensen Beach sewer system at the same time? How much a front foot would that cost? Would it be $80, $75, $100 or more a front foot? How much would county water cost a month—$10, $15? It is not difficult to get these estimates.

What you are suggesting is a Pandora's Box that, in my opinion, would be better left unopened—unless of course, the residents and property owners of Jensen Beach feel a burning desire, that they cannot deny, to add to their tax burden by financing a water system for Hutchinson Island and Sewall's Point. Of course, I am sure these affluent communities would be most grateful.

Sincerely,
Charles Schilling

More Straight Talk to Martin County

I am running for the office of Supervisor of Elections because I am the best qualified person for the job. I worked as Chief Deputy Supervisor of Elections under Sandra J. Randolph for nearly 4½ years. I also had another excellent teacher, Louise V. Isaacs, the Clerk of Circuit Court. So I know my way 'round the courthouse. It helps to get things done when you know the ropes!

Last year, Mrs. Randolph resigned because of domestic duties....as a result, the Governor appointed a caretaker of the office 'til the people could make a sejection. He appointed a member of his own political party.....my opponent.

I want to be your Supervisor of Elections. The Voters of Martin County need to be told what my opponent wants to commit them to. If she gets her way.....we will soon be in the antique business! I know that may offend some people....but I love Martin County and care enough to take that chance.

Last year, my opponent flew to Dade City and bought 16 used lever voting machines from Pasco County. This year, in her budget request, my opponent asked the County Commissioners for $28,000 for more lever voting machines.

We are currently using the Shoup lever voting machines. Last year, Mr. Shoup died and the R.F. Shoup Voting Machine Company was sold for inventory. This poses a question as to parts and service in the future. For example.....if you were listening to the radio Sept. 12th, you would have heard that the voting machines in Indiantown were not working, there was much confusion.

The Supervisor of Elections has over a $100,000.00 a year operating budget and that's not peanuts! That's our tax $'s she's throwing away! Who needs a fleet of Edsels? THE POINT IS - we are paying top tax $'s. Let's be modern, efficient and up to date. Ask me about the alternatives.

...Candidate for District 78, State Representative Chuck Nergard stands tall...not just because he's 6' 2" and looks like he was born to be a leader, but because he is a man with training and experience, character and integrity. A man who has and will devote time to help solve the problems of anyone. A man who was regarded as one of the hardest workers in the Florida Legislature, he has and will continue to oppose efforts to enact a state personal income tax. He has worked for more efficiency in state government, and believes that excess government spending is the major cause of our high inflation. An active churchman, involved community worker, solid family man with a wife, daughter and son, Chuck Nergard will continue to make the kind of state representative you'll be proud of.

Area loses clout in health council reorganization

The voting power of the four smallest counties in this area's five-county Health Planning Council, which local board members had already complained was weak, is now officially weaker.

The Health Planning Council is authorized for 30 board members from Palm Beach, Martin ,St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties.

When the council was formed two years ago, the four smaller counties, referred to as the Indian River delegation, has 12 members and there were 18 board members from Palm Beach County.

In spite of complaints from the smaller county board members that the Palm Beach members often outvoted them, council executive director Richard Warfield, said under the original composition of board members, the Indian River group actually had more representation than their population warranted. He said federal officials threatened to cut off funding to the council if the board wasn't reorganized on the basis of population.

As a result, back in February, four Indian River group board members--one from each of the four counties--resigned their post and were made ex-officio (non-voting) members. This in effect, left the board with 26 voting members.

The council was hopeful that by last May, the U.S Congress would act to allow more voting power from the four smaller counties.

But Warfield said it was hoped that by last May, the four ex-officio members could be reinstated as voting members.

"But the legislation dragged on. It was on the floor three times in the last week of the last session of Congress, but got pushed aside," he said.No action was taken on the proposed legislation before Congress adjourned.

So, at a council meeting last week, the council voted to formally reorganize. The vote means the four ex-officio members will retain their non-voting status and that, probably next month, four new voting members from Palm Beach County will be added to the council. This would give that county a 22 to 8 margin in voting power compared to the Indian River board members.

Warfield said he hoped that next year Congress will pass legislation to allow the four ex-officio members to regain voting power. He said it will probably take a year before that can become a reality though. If that happens, the four new Palm Beach members could keep their seats, as "through natural attrition of terms, we will have at least four Palm Beach county members who will leave the council by then."

In addition to the reorganization vote last week, there was a proposal for two alternative plans of action concerning Indian River Committee membership. The Indian River Committee includes the health planning council board members from the four smaller counties, plus others from those counties. Port St. Lucie health council board member Gerald Girard said the Indian River committee has acknowledged receipt of the committee reorganization proposals, but said the committee members don't seem to like either of the two proposals (one of which calls for the abolition of thi Indian River Committee). He said the Indian River Committee will meet next Wednesday to discuss the proposals.

The Health Planning Council, which this year is operating on a $340,000 budget--with all but $15,680 coming from the federal government--is in charge of reviewing all health service program plans for the five-county area.

Hadassah luncheon set for Nov. 6

A most unusual and delicious luncheon will be served at the meeting of the St. Lucie-Martin County Chapter of Hadassah to be held on November 6, 1978 at the Northport Marina, Prima Vista Blvd., Port St. Lucie.

Festivities will commence at 11:00 a.m. with cards and other games to be played after lunch.

There will be a donation coverage.

To The Voters of St. Lucie County

We are finally at the brink of election day and it occurred to me that this would be a last opportunity to express my profound appreciation to all of you who have maintained your faith in the American system and in the voting process.

Regardless of who you choose in the race in which I am competing, and I'm sure by now most of you have made your choice, I am sincerely grateful that I have had an opportunity to campaign and to have so many citizens consider me for the privilledge of serving you.

It remains overwhelming as I go about and reflect that it is my name on all those signs you have been seeing, and that it is me you well may elect to be your commissioner. If that is the case, I will serve you equally in faith.

In the meantime all I can say again is, Thanks for the privilledge.

Sincerely, your friend,

Philip Thibedeau

Hartman-Tilton-Wilson opening

The insurance firm of Hartman-Tilton & Wilson opened the doors of a new office in Port St. Lucie on Wednesday, enabling the firm to give that area a broader scope of service.

Hartman-Tilton & Wilson has been serving Port St. Lucie and Spanish Lakes for the past three years, from the office formerly located in the Citizens' Federal PSL branch.

But we have been feeling the need for more space," partner Norman Wilson told The Mirror. "We now have 1500 square feet of floor space, plus a rental office."

The new office, at the northern entrance of Spanish Lakes at 8800 S. Federal Highway, will be run by Bonnie Postlewaite as office supervisor, Mary Wilkinson, underwriter and Graham Laidlaw.

Wilson, Ralph Hartman Jr., and Ransom Tilton are the current partners in the general insurance firm which was founded in 1921. There are 14 employes in the combined offices.

"We carry all types of insurance," Wilson said. "we have a separate division for life insurance, with Albert Winters as manager."

It's time to elect a man who's tough on crime.

Endorsed by The Stuart News

Endorsed by The Jensen Port St. Lucie Mirror

Elect Dean Tooker circuit judge.

Time to make neighborhoods safe.
A devoted husband and family man for twenty-three years, Dean Tooker believes it's time to make neighborhoods safe for citizens....unsafe for criminals.

Time to stop the drug pusher.
Dean Tooker has children too. He's a firm but loving father who wants to help parents stop drug pushers from robbing society of its most precious possession.....the innocent young.

Time to consider the rights of victims.
An advocate of fair law, Dean Tooker believes it's time to consider the rights of law-abiding victims of crime.

A time for Dean Tooker.
It's time to elect a man with over twenty-one years's trial experience. A man who has served the public for thirteen years. In a time when the habitual criminal threatens our communities, it's time to elect an experienced advocate who believes in swift impartial justice.

Vote on November 7th. It's time to elect Dean Tooker co circuit judge.

Holiday Outlines

BY BETH BOWES

Paul and Ethel Pinkiewicz are enjoying a visit with Paul's sister-in-law, Mrs. Josie Pinkiewicz, who comes from Belford, N.J. Josie will be with them for three weeks.

It is good to see the Shuffleboard Courts in use again with the Holiday Out team getting in many hours of practice.

Irene and Ray Stewart, good friends of Martha and Jim Lewis from Akron, Ohio, are down here on a lot near the Lewises for the month of November.

Ann and Al Crisconi took their motor home down to Key Largo last week in search of some good fresh lobster. They found lobster all right and brought plenty home, but were shocked at the price of all the fresh seafood.

While in Key Largo, they went out on the glass bottom boat to the coral reefs of John Pennekamp State Park, an experience they both enjoyed.

The first meeting of the So and So Club, will be Thursday, Nov 2, at the rec hall at 10 a m. Every woman in the park is welcome to come and learn, and exchange new ideas. Catty Ullmann and Ruth Arbo are co-chairwomen, call them for more information. Last year this was a very interesting, successful club. Let's make it better this year and have fun.

The leather class started last Thursday, with a good group attending. Mr. C.Ullmann and Irv Ringer host and teach this class at 11:00 a.m.

A chance to meet two candidates, running for St. Lucie County Commission-They were invited last Tues eve to H.Out rec hall to talk and answer questions from the floor were, incumbent Mr. Ed.Enns and Mr. Philip Thibedeau Mr Dean Tooker, candidate for Circuit Judge was present. Fifty interested voters came and were glad to meet, talk and listen as so many of our voters are new in the state, and want to know their candidates better. The hostesses were Betty O'Donnell, Maureen Holmes, and Ruth Bowes. They wish to thank all who came.

Many people showed an interest when the St. Lucie Mobile Library arrived on Tues. It's an excellent service that we all appreciate.

Sophie Tucker has returned for exercise classes. She is most welcome as the girls miss their dancing lessons, too.

Don and Dee Finch spent the summer at 'ole' home grounds in Michigan, visiting their daughter and family, and some fishing (No report on the catch). After leaving Michigan, they spent a week at Nashville, Tenn., for the National Disc-Jockey Week. They had a great time and also visited Grace land in Memphis, the home of Elvis Presley. It was interesting. They found H.Out in good shape, and were glad to get back home.

Nancy and Ted Lontz, have enjoyed having their grand-daughters Kimberly & Stacy Sullivan of Barnstable, Cape Cod. This was a first for them. A trip to Florida, flying and sight-seeing to all the big attractions. They have had a delightful stay, enjoying the pool at H Out. They will fly home on Mon., the 30th

Rita and Bob Royal returned to H.Out from an exciting 3 weeks They took their daughter Donna to Disney World for two days, then Donna flew back to Miami to her husband. Then the trouble started, a few major repairs on the car had to be attended to before they reached Charokee, N.C. Bob had an indian cut his hair and the indian remarked that Bob had already been scalped but he would trim him. Lack of hair , or was it the temperature, that nearly froze during the night. The leaves were beautiful in full dress, some say it is the best color in 15 years. The days were warm. Water was rationed in Little Switzerland, N.C.

Beryle and Cecil Roy are enjoying their new trailer and now are shopping every day for porch furniture. Ralph and Jean Taylor went to West Palm with them and were a big help.

The Valleys returned this week sporting a new motor home.

Edie Pointon is home from Martin Memorial fully recovered, but sorry to report that Fred Kellner is still there.

The Kramers left H.Out last January and toured U.S., Canada and Mexico. They drove in to the park this week ready to settle down now.

Irma and Bob Barton have been sailing the high seas all summer. The last report was that they would be in Nassau this week.

Edna Young's treatments are paying off. She is pedaling her bike along with the rest now.

The Norris Gilberts and Rays treated themselves to a delicious dinner Thursday nite. It was the maid's night off.

A nice group went to the Elks Club for dinner Sat. nite; Ullmanns, Blacks, McConnells, Arbos and Alice Perrault.

A birthday celebration was given for Emile Fanucci (29), Helen Allison (30), and Gert Long (31). Cake and beverages were served to all the well-wishers. I don't know for sure, but hubby Bob bought a new trailer for Gert, and she is very happy with all the room she has, after weekends in their Winnie motor home.

Al & Peg Ray enjoyed a beautiful weekend with their son and family. Peg is sorry she neglected the column last week.

Dobby and Rita Dobson are back, and Dobby is wearing a brace on his neck and back but is coming along well after his major surgery. Keep up the good work.

Ambulance, Hospital and Obituary

Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Maher made donations to Ambulance Fund in Memory of Jennieve Zimmerman and Lester Adams.

Florence Huston of Melaleuca was taken to the hospital last Saturday; on the same day George Hall of Cypress came home.

Mr. Fred Schmidt of 11 Kumquart died last week. He is survived by his wife Anna.

Rambling Around

Trudie Chinaz of Oak had her daughter, Mrs. Hal McCary of Philadelphia Tenn visiting last Saturday and helping Trudie celebrate her 39th birthday. Her daughter couldn't stay long as she had to be back to her Appaloosa Horse ranch where one of the 38 horses was judged World Champion "English Pleasant".

Niles and Elsie Smith are back from six months at their country home near Valparaiso, Ind. The weather was great, but on their trip to Oklahoma City was a hot one... temperatures day after day at 100 degrees.

George & Nellie Hall of Cypress didn't get a chance to go back to their hometown (Toledo, O.) this year as they were not quite up to it. Grandson will be down to visit this winter and a daughter lives in Port St. Lucie so they will not be lonely.

Gene & Jo Eisenbarth of West End Blvd. are back from a three-month stay in Marrietta, Ohio. That is the oldest town in the northwest territory, right on the Ohio River. They had nice cool weather, even too cool at night, but that made the foliage just beautiful.

Carl & Dorothy Huggins, of Banyan are back from 6 months up Cadillac, Mich. way. That is Carl was back, but Dorothy was at the OBPers favorite Saturday past-time, a rummage sale. It seems about the first thing they did was go to a Square Dance. They are both fit-as-a-fiddle and, no wonder, as Carl said they had a good summer of mostly 'R&R".

Fred & Hulda Tyler of Vista Drive just found out it is possible to do some things without a car. The other day Hulda wanted to visit a friend of 56 years ago when they worked together at Chase Manhattan Bank. Her friend lived in Boynton Beach. Bill Montanero took Hulda over to the bus station where she boarded a bus to Miami and within a couple of hours was with her friend.

Len & Mary Ann Blanchard of Banyan are also back from five months in Manton, Mich where they have family and relations nearby. They are the second couple this week to say it was a cold summer in Michigan. Had furnace on all the time and there was snow before they left

However, in between the shivers they attended a family reunion of 65 at Lansing.

Ben Tourville of Margo is back from summering in Northampton, Mass where she is busy with her volunteer work at the Cooley-Dickinson Hospital. That in turn leads to her going on tours with the Hospital Auxiliary each year. This year it was to France, Corsica and Monaco. Forty passenger bus took the whole road in mountainous Corsica which was thrilling, but while in Paris, Ben ate at the same restaurant where she and Bill had eaten some 18 years prior. Next year Egypt.

Letters From OBPers

Randy & Mary Kitchin of Key Lime write from Linden N.J. spent last three years at Holiday Out, but now are OBPers and hope to be back around Nov. 1, so Randy can fish the inlet. Fall is beautiful up here they say, but "Jack Frost" has arrived, so they will depart.

Harry & Ellen Oaks, ExOBPers had quite an article in the local paper about the closing of their garden, that has been the talk of the town for the past 28 years. They had beautiful iris, phlox, peonies and marigolds, but at the ages of 80 and 86, they have about decided to grow vegetables in the future. All their friends here wish them many more years of gardening happiness, flowers or vegetables.

Iva Gill writes from Belegrade, Maine that she spent 48 days in hospital getting pacemaker rewired. Has kept up with OBP from copies of Mirror left her by summer friends. Best wishes to all.

...s of GDV include the accounts of Guerdon for all periods. Guerdon was acquired by GDV on July 27, 1978, in a transaction accounted for in a manner similar to a pooling of interests. GDV's results include the accounts of Wold Brothers from January 1, 1978, the effective date of acquisition in a transaction accounted for as a purchase.

Wood Brothers contributed $15.0 million to GDV's $36 1 million pretax income for the nine months. Wood Brothers pretax income for the comparable 1977 period was $5.9 million.

Guerdon contributed 89.3 million to pretax income for the nine months ended September 30, 1978, and $6.6 million to pretax income for the comparable period last year.

The Company's General Development operations in Florida contributed $14.8 million to pretax income for the nine months ended September 30, 1978, compared with $15.3 million in the same period last year.

GDV's results for the nine months reflected substantially improved single-family home deliveries by Wood Brothers and General Development and higher home shipments by Guerdon. General Development's homesite sales showed vigorous improvement. Reflecting continued strong single-family home sale, GDV's backlog has increased in the period and stood at 3,132 units at September 30, 1978, compared with 1,829 units at the same date last year.

GDV acquired 63.5 per cent of the outstanding shares of Servomation Corp. in September, 1978 and expects to acquire the balance in a merger to be completed in January, 1979. GDV began consolidating Servomation's results from October 1, 1978. The cost of the acquisition of 100 per cent of Servomation, which will be treated as a purchase transaction for accounting purposes, will approximate $102 million. Servomation is engaged in the sale of food, beverage and tobacco products through vending machines, cafeteria and institutional food serice operations. During its fiscal year ended July1, 1978, Servomation reported revenues of $445 million and net income of $14.3 million, compared with fiscal 1977 revenues of $411 million and net income of $11.7 million.

GDV, with annualized revenues now approximating $1 billion, is one of the nation's leaders in housing and food services.

Mrs. Gould to speak

Sue Hickman Gould will be the guest speaker at the Beautiful Waters Homemakers Club when the group meets at 1 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 12, at the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

Mrs. Gould will talk about "The Widow's Friend," taken from a series of booklets she wrote for women who find themselves alone.

Three classes remain on "Woman and her finances"

It still isn't too late to plan to attend the three remaining sessions of "Woman and her Finances" on November 6,13 and 27. The meetings are held at 7 p.m. at the Center. Charlotte DeVane, vice president of the Port St. Lucie Bank, is conduction the sessions and the charge is $1 per class.

Timothy Wills is commissioned

Timothy B. Wills, son of retired U.S. Air Force Senior Master Sergeant and Mrs. Lebo J. Wills of 1726 Hondo Road, Port St. Lucie, has been commissioned a second lieutenant through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program and awarded a B.S-B.A. degree at the University of Florida.

The lieutenant is a 1974 graduate of Fort Pierce Central High School.

Donor list grows as work progresses

The honor roll displayed in the Trustees Lounge at the Community Center, listing those clubs and business donating $100 or more to the Center's building fund since the current drive began in 1977, continues to grow and President Dick Lundin says it's time to tell the community who they are.

"The financial support these donors have given means so much to our building program that we need to tell people who they are and to urge them to think kindly about them when they are in the market for products or services they offer," Lundin said.

Because the honor roll or leader board contains blocks of $100-$499, $500-$999, $1,000-$2,499, $2,500-$4,999, and $5,000 and over, we're simply going to itemize donors by the block they qualify for based on total 1977-78 donations, he explained.

In the $100-$499 block: Baslow-Hentschel Motors; Guy Bruni; Indian River Federal S&L Ass'n; K-Mart Corporation; MacMillan and Shear; Dr. Jack Webb, Chiropractor; Welcome Center Real Estate; Winn Dixie Stores; Beautiful Waters Homemakers; Gab-N-Eatas; German-American Club; Port St. Lucie Art Club; PSL Jr. Woman's Club; PSL Lioness Club; PSL Republican Club; PSL Yacht Club; Rio Linda Garden Club; Ft. Pierce Midas Muffler.

In the $500-$999 block: First Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n; First National Bank of Fort Pierce; PSL-River Park Homeowners Ass'n.

In the $1,000-$2,499 block: Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n; Port St. Lucie Bank; Sun Bank of St. Lucie; Port St. Lucie Woman's Club.

In the $2,500-$4,999 block: None

In the $5,000 and over block: Tropicana Products; General Development Corporation; Travel House of Florida.

These are our big donors. Next month, we'll update this list and itemize all who have purchased $25 building blocks in 1977-78.

Thanks for a great show

A big thank you for a wonderful youth talent show to Kathy Gibson who planned and arranged the entire Show, and to her husband, Wayne, for his able assistance.

To those great Junior Woman Clubbers who welcomed the guests, distributed programs, and sold refreshments Nancy Shadowen, Carol Koob, Ethel Ewing, Linda Duncan, Marion Mercer, Iris Buchanan, Linda Heckendorn, Cathy Caldron, Mary Ann Eporloni, Ginny Gaffney, and Joan Eastman.

Subsequent to the Flea Market, there will be an auction by Rogat in February, which, like the Market, will also be a fund-raising affair for the Community Center's Building Fund. Colonel Rogat plans to obtain on consignment a full line of power tools and to auction also any other large items donated, but not sold, in December.

Rogat, an experienced auctioneer, is seeking assistants. "We'll need four or five pit men to take the bids and keep track of the bidding. They will have to receive some preliminary training, so we'd like to have them volunteer by early January. If you'd like to be part of the February auction, get in touch with me whenever it is convenient, but as soon as possible."

Fashion show, card party add up to fun afternoon

It will still not be too late by the time you receive this Comet to arrange to attend the Holiday Fashion Show and Card Party at the Community Center on Saturday, Nov. 4, at 1 p.m. There will be a dessert served, lots of door and table prizes to be awarded, and a chance to view the latest styles for the upcoming holidays. Fashions will be from Clothes Quarters and will be modeled by Bess Tommi, Grace Stabler, Gudrun Schlarge, Mae Roach, Mary Conser, Gail McCoullough, and Barb Philly.

June Andrews, June Johnston and Agnes LaFrance are co-chairing the event and their committee includes Olga Atkins, Nickie Porter, Dora Edwards, Mary Conley, Betty Miller, Madeline Trumbower, Wanda Lundin, Betty Jones, Anita White, and Marion Wehner.

Tickets can be obtained from the Center Office or from Ethel Krall at 878-2948, or Anita White 878-1663.

w Year's Eve planned

intrepid chairmen, Butch d Betsy Horner, are working to sign up a band for New Eve, one which will have a eal for the various ages and those who want to celebrate ar's Eve at the Community Center.

They are tentatively planning to repeat last year's success with champagne and breakfast. We'll get publicity out just as soon as their plans are finalized.

The Center sports a new look

It would appear that each month the Center acquires a "new look" in terms of personnel changes! As of now -- and the picture could change by this time next month -- this is where we stand with staff.

We lost our full-time clerk-typist, Regina McPhee, because CETA withdrew funding of that position and transferred her elsewhere. For the time being, Office Manager Helen Ingram handles all the office detail alone. In the afternoons we have two part-time paid office assistants, each working alternate week 20-hour shifts, Marcie Hale and Virginia Chite.

CETA also withdrew funding of the snack bar manager position, so, on a temporary basis we have Carolina Mola coming in on Tuesdays and Fridays, in order to keep the Snack Bar in a semblance of operation on our two busiest days.

We now have a full-time Center manager, Rachel Cook, about whom more is written in an accompanying article. Clarence Kemp remains as Chief Building Coordinator, and George Boos as his assistant, each working 20 hours per week. Tony Pucciarelli is in charge of maintenance and he is paid by CETA. Billy Lemon is on contract for weekly cleaning.

These are the only paid positions at the Center -- two full time, 40 hour per week employees, 4 part-time employees, each at 20 hours per week, two part-time employees at 8 hours weekly, plus one employee paid by CETA (Comprehensive Employees Training Act) funds. All other work is handled by volunteers and is UNPAID. As we grow, our work load increases and we need more volunteers! Please!

With so many new people moving into the area, perhaps this is an opportune time to point out again that the Community Center is simply that - it belongs to the community residents; it is their money that makes its existence possible and its operation to continue. We have no revenue except that which you make possible through your attendance at the events and classes offered, your rental of the Center facilities, or your participation in the services available such as the blood pressure clinic or clerical. There are no memberships sold to the Center; no one "belongs", but we all share in its activities and contribute to its support. You are free to drop in anytime, except when the building is rented to a private group for a wedding reception, commercial party, or something similar. Someone will be happy to show you around, give you a schedule of activities, and answer your questions. The hours are 8 to 4:30, Monday through Friday. The schedule will indicate evening and weekend usage.

Perhaps this is a good time also to explain the increase in our card party tickets from $1.50 to $1.75. You probably noted that we cut our schedule of events at the Center this year in response to your suggestions and your feeling that there were too many affairs being held at the Center for which tickets had to be sold or admission charged. We retained only those that were the most popular and produced the greatest income, adding some new ideas that the Events Committee felt you might enjoy. In addition to having fewer events, we were faced with increased costs in many areas that donations do not cover. We felt that an increase of 25 cents was little enough to justify the added expense, and we made this move only after we polled on a cross-section basis to get a preliminary reaction, which happened to be affirmative.

ird annual arts and crafts ow was a huge success rd Annual Port St. Lucie Art fts Show at the Community Center, sponsored by the four Port St. Lucie financial institutions, drew large crowds over the weekend, according to Chairman Wanda Lundin and Vice Chairman Anges Forrar.

Cash prizes were awarded first and second place winners and ribbons for the first three places and honorable mention.

First place in oils went to Alice Hollander for her "Quiet Morning;" second to June Bowers for her "On the Wing;" third to Edna Black for her "Portrait of a Champion;" and honorable mention to Elmer Toman for his "Just a Pup."

First place in water colors went to Susan Proske for her "Boat-Tail Grackles;" second to Carl Apuzzo for "Indians in the Fall;" third to Herb Neuburger for his "Mountain Cabin;" and honorable mention to Ede De Capita for her "Blue Iris."

First place in acrylics went to Florian Minsky for her "Herons Over Feeding Ground;" second to Ruth Bowman for her "Tree;" third to Bess Mascielli for her "Poppies."

First place in ceramics went to Elizabeth Girard, second to Jo Ann Dolan and third to Martha Kutzscher.

First place in macrame went to Pat Capobianco, second to D. Johns and third to Cheryl Vernon and Eve Neuberger (tie).

First place in decoupage went to Mae Estes, Carol Hosfiner was second and Pat Capobianco third.

The sponsors were Port St. Lucie Bank and the PSL branches of Sun Bank of St. Lucie, Citizens Savings and Loan Association and First Federal Savings and Loan Association

Y FLEET--Artist J.H. Newberger stands beside one of her paintings w much interest in the two-day Port St. Lucie art show staged last week t. Community Center. Artists from throughout the area, from Stuart and each to Vero, entered the event, which has become an annual attraction. Lundin was show chairman.

Tentative travel plans

This month will see 33 happy people embarking on a seven-day Thanksgiving Cruise to Mexico. Grand Cayman, Ocho Rios and one of the Out Islands. Not only will they be enjoying a great trip, but they will be enriching the Community Center's Building Fund through a special arrangement with Travel House of Florida, co-sponsor with the Center of this cruise as well as two others that preceded it.

Because we were unable to accommodate everyone who wanted to make this cruise (only so many cabins were allotted and these were assigned on a first-come, first-served basis), and because we have received so many inquiries about future tours and cruises, June Johnston, Travel Chairman, has been working with Travel House to develop a fairly comprehensive offering of travel possibilities for the coming year. To date, this is a tentative schedule, but as June cautions, dates and prices have not been firmed up. As soon as these are fixed, publicity will be released on them.

March, 1979 - 3 Day Cruise to Nassau on the S-S Dolphin (A new ship) This is a good cruise for newcomers, considering a "first" cruise, and for those who have already been to Nassau, but would like a repeat.

April, 1979 - (Easter time) Spain, Portugal and Morocco - 18 days

April 28, 1979 - Fly to New Orleans, for overnight stay; then a 7 day cruise to Cozumel, Playa Del Carmen, Grand Cayman and Havana, on the M-S Kazakhstan, a beautiful Russian ship; returning to New Orleans for a day and overnight, flying back to Florida.

May, 1979- 2 weeks - England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland

September, 1979 - European Tour, 18 days

First potluck was well attended

JESSIE SHAVER 334-2714
Minister VITA AURENBIETH

The first Potluck on Monday was a well attended and everyone enjoyed being together again. Lots of talk about what each one had been doing while away from Venture Three. The food is excellent, and the conversation and comradeship is wonderful, so be sure to stop by and sign up for the rest of the year. The sign-up sheet is in the rec hall.

Meetings of the rec hall committee are being well attended and lots of plans for the season are being discussed. Every person is welcomed and urged to attend and become involved.

Venture Three

Each day brings more returnees. To mention a few that I have been informed of are Jane and Gay Richdale, Louise and John Campbell, Jean and Gil Van Wilhigen. I need help from St. Lucie and Indian River reporters to keep track of all of them.

A call goes out for good books for the planned library. Either hard or paper back books are welcomed. Magazines are plentiful, but books are scarce. Be sure to bring and donate the ones you have read. We will have shelves installed to take care of them.

A letter from Jackie Phillips; they have been visiting the Nickaus at Land Harbor and also seeing friends in Long Beach Island in N.J. They will be in St. Lucie very soon. They sent news of the Roger Millers. They heard from Shirley and Roger Miller in Pa., and they plan to be her in V.O. on Dec. 1st, with a new 36 foot Park Model trailer. They had planned to go to Mexico this winter, but changed their plans after a tour of the West and to Alaska, of about 14,000 miles. They report that the autumn colors are more beautiful than they have ever seen them before. They and the Richdales left for V.O. They had a super trip to Gila Bend, and down the Cal. coast, even though they had some 115 degree weather and some starter trouble.

Lois and Wirt Turner were here for a few days and said their seawall project is supposed to get started by Nov. 1st.

Mr. Stuart Westney of VL and a long time friend of Lee and Harriet Price, was their house guest for a few days. That's Lee riding around in that new light blue van!

Jack and Shirley Brittain are in Turkey, visiting son and family and seeing their new grand-baby.

Dale Cassens 'Running Re-elect for State Representative District 76' will make an appearance at Shevers' patio on Thurs., Nov 2nd at 10:30 a.m. Coffee, tea and cookies will be served. All are cordially invited.

Happy birthday to Larry Atkin on Nov 4th.

Excerpts from an Editorial of July 12, 1976 in the
The Port St. Lucie Mirror

Having served ten years in the legislature, Nergard has earned much respect among his fellow legislators and right here at home.

Nergard was a model of conservative government in his service to the people of Florida. He didn't panic in the face of pressure, and on most issues of a local nature added the referendum to give people a chance to vote on those issues.

....His experience and knowledge will be of great help in the future.

Sooner or Later.....

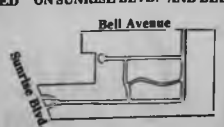
WHITE CITY CEMETERY

NOT FOR PROFIT

SOONER OR LATER, you or your family must select a cemetery estate. If you put it off until "later", which means when needed, you know it must be done hastily, unwillingly, unhappily and alone. If you do it "sooner", which means now, you know you can do it carefully, calmly, pleasantly and together.

We are in our third and final phase of development of the new section. The Association is once again offering spaces at a predevelopment price. These may be purchased with a small deposit and monthly payments. Since the Association is non-profit, there are no interest or hidden charges.

LOCATED ON SUNRISE BLVD. AND BELL AVENUE.



GUARANTEED PERPETUAL CARE

Above is a sketch of our plans. For more detailed information, stop by the office, which is presently located at 4820 South U.S. 1, or call 465-0710. Someone will be glad to answer any questions.

...s was a trivial item for a change, ...l had the Senior Citizens spotlight ... week. It all began with a radio ...ercial on greeting cards, that ...rsal off. "Now that the Christmas ...son is here you can get your cards ... gift wrap, 20 per cent off at so 'n' ... And another commercial was ...mocking them that there was only 60 ...re shopping days until Christmas.

You can well imagine how the teen retirees kick that around. So it said it wasn't too long ago, when most folks were "up in arms" about even the mention of Christmas before Thanksgiving, as such was taboo when they were kids. Others reminisced, about getting a Xmas bonus and joining an aisle-packed crowd in the 5&10 on the night before, to buy something extra for the kids. Most thought the present commercialism had just about spoiled it, for by the time Santa arrives, the tinsel and store trimmings are bedraggled, one more carol will be too much and the toys and gifts bought 2 months before have been found and broken. They're not happy about this change, but of course the storekeepers are and that's what counts these days. One Senior Citizen did mention, that we may be getting too old to enjoy it, especially in the unfamiliar tropics without the pines and snow and with grandchildren miles away. So, until Santa comes 3 months from now, let's smile and see what can be done to make it a happy time for all.

Now, that wasn't all the griping that went on last week. Many tand-off on 15 cent postage on 50 cent cards, saying that they can well remember when expenditures of that amount bought a useful gift. There were suggestions from "I'm not going to send one single card" to "I'm only going to send the open '10 cent stamp' cards" or "I'm only going to send to those who send me a card," etc. It was suggested, that the penny postal cards (now 10 cents) can be decorated with Xmas seals to make gay cards. Remember, just the though of a card is appreciated.

Of course, in between times, President Carter's Anti-Inflation program got an extensive chewing over. Most of those who thought it had a chance, felt that it was up to Unions to start it, as if they went along, business would have lost its excuse to jack up the prices and the government would be shamed into cutting back on expenditures that the President promised. But, probably most commented on the fact that the one item that concerns the retiree the most, skyrocketing food cost wasn't covered by the "guide line."

It looked to many of them, that they'd have to find their own means to cope with a steady increase in the cost of food for a long, long time. And, one of the first things suggested, was a Food Buying Co-op, that previously was talked about, but never got off the ground. Then, some mentioned, better use of "coupons": day old products; selective use of "bent can" bargains and the specials with a $7.00 order, even some mentioned that they heard "pet food" wasn't too bad and some Miami elderly had been forced to use it. So, there are ways to cope and suggestions along these lines would be appreciated.

Everybody knows, by word of mouth, that the Trivalent Flu shots are available for the elderly, at the Martin County Health Dept. on East Ocean Blvd., each afternoon from 1:30 to 4:00. And, just a reminder, there will be a free blood pressure clinic, Fri.,Nov.17, and the nutritionist will also be in attendance, at Langford Field.

We've been waiting a long time for "Dial 911," but starting Nov.1, that's all one will have to do here in Martin County to get help in any kind of emergency: Fire, Police, Ambulance, etc. But, the "Crisis-Line" is still 286-1121.

The Treasure Coast Congregate Meal's winter recreational program is in full swing. The Langford Field schedule is as follows: Mon.,Bingo for donated prizes; Tues., Prog.Dir. Elliott Arluck's Hot Seat interviews; Wed., Movies; Thurs., Musical Prog.; Fri., Artex Class. They will all start at 3 p.m. Last Thurs., Wes and Kay Franks gave a splendid, lively musical program. For information, call 334-2570.

Chapter events

The final results of the legislative questionaires have been tabulated. They include those filled out at the October picnic; October ExCom meeting and October General meeting. The results are:

1. Establish Hospital Rate Review Commission; 2. Support efforts to provide adequate housing for low income elderly; 3. property tax relief for low income owners and renters; 4. Expand community level homemaker and home health aid service; 5. Expand support for multi-purpose Senior Citizen Centers. These 5 were in the top 5 of each survey, but not in the same order, however from these tabulations, it can be seen that the "old"bug-boo" Health Care is always the number one concern of the elderly, so the proposed Health Cost Containment Committee could be a step in the right direction.

Tax Aid with Ken O'Dell coordinator has started to function when Ken attended a regional meeting last week to make plans for a local counselor instruction seminar just as soon as the new regulations are issued. Although most of last year's counselors will be available again this year, a few new ones are needed. If interested, call Ken at 546-6856.

George Krause, Defensive Driving instructor was contacted and said he would be ready anytime a class was ready to go. It'll be at the Environmental Center and on Saturday, the same as last year. All AARP members interested, get registered at once, for as soon as there are 20 signed up, a class will be scheduled, but as the class is limited to 25 this year, you better get on the list at once. Call Adult Education coordinator, Colleen Watts, 287-6400, ext. 131.

Remember the Xmas Bazaar, Mon. and Tues., Dec. 4 and 5, at the Living Center. It'll be here before you know it, and material for sale won't be ready, therefor,all willing and able should lend a helping hand at the Xmas Bazaar Workshop, every Mon.d 9:30 to 13:00 at the Living Center. There will be a raffle of 3 beautiful Mr. & Mrs. Santa Dolls, 15 inches tall, velvet and fur, complete in every detail. Talk it up, make it go big.

The General November meeting will be for the election of officers and there'll be a speaker on how to use your funds to beat inflation, when Mr. George E. McElwee, Vice President of Merril Lynch explains why common stocks didn't give inflation protection as promised, and to suggest other investment possibilities.

The November picnic back at Langford Field will give Mary Easley the new chairwoman of mailing-out-the-bulletin a chance to get acquainted with the workers and learn the ropes. Also, there'll be the usual discussions and social luncheon (brown bag), on Thurs., Nov.2, 10 a.m to 2 p.m.

Don't forget about tours and bus trips. A 7 to 14 days trip, for Santo Domingo, May 1979, call Charles Mooney 334-4547. Then, for a 2 day bus trip to Busch Gardens and Kapok Tree next Jan. or Feb., call 334-0756.

There are swimming classes 4 times a week: Mon. 2 to 3; Wed 2 to 3; and Fri. 10:30 to 11:30 at the Living Center; Sat. 10 to 12 at High School Pool. For information, call "Mac" MacIntyre at 283-7630.

Another, don't you forget (as some did last month), AARPers having questions about their Colonial Penn Insurance can get answers from the expert, Carl Wahlquist, Fri.,Nov.17, 9:00 to 12:30, Rm. 13, Port St. Lucie Medical Center.

Once over lightly

Thurs.,Nov.3: Picnic, 10 to 2 at Langford Field,and MCCA meeting 1:30 at Library.

Fri.,Nov.3: IntgrAgency meeting at 8 a.m. at Barton's Cafeteria to discuss merits of Health Cost Containment Committee. Swimming at 10:30 at, Living Center.

Sat.,Nov.4: Swimming at 10 a.m. at High School Pool.

Mon.,Nov.6: Recreation Prog. at 3:00 and Congregate Meals at 4:15 , Langford Field. (Mon.-Fri.).

Tues.,Nov.7: Voting Day. Congregate meals will be served picnic style on the Jensen Causeway.

Wed.,Nov.8: Senior Activities Club, 1 p.m., Stuart Youth Center for cards and crafts (every Wed.).

Turkey Shoot and BBQ will be open to public

The Stuart-Jensen Elks Lodge 1870 will hold its annual Turkey Shoot and Barbeque on Sunday, November 5th. Hours will be from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The location is the Bill Matheson Ranch on Mapp Road in Palm City.

Any and all funds froma this event will be donated to the Crippled Childrens Hospital and the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center.

...in 34-0 to ...inish season

BY DONNIE WILKIE

...NSEN BEACH—The Jensen Beach ...racudas found a way last Saturday ...ht to finish the season off with a ...g. The Lower Division squad, ...ed by the mature passing of ...rterback Ricky Malle, trounced ... Port Salerno Panthers, 34-0.

...t was no contest from the start, as ... potent Jensenites scored four first ...f touchdowns and coasted from ...re. In fact, the Barracudas scored ...all of their first five possessions of ... night.

... the Upper Division game, the ...sen Beach Razorbacks edged the ...thers, 7-0, on a weird but quite ...ective "flea-flicker" play.

... took the Barracudas just two ...ys to get on the board in the Lower ...pe, as they recovered a Port ...erno fumble at the Panther ...yard-line. From there, Malle ran ... six to the nine, and Larry Baker ...mpered the rest of the way on the ...t play. The point-after was good.

...inutes later, Pat Turtle scored a ...chdown for the home team as he ...overed a blocked punt. It was not ...r who blocked the Port Salerno ...t, but there were nothing but blue ... white shirts around the ball when ...tle fell on the loose pigskin.

...arly in the second quarter, the ...racudas again blocked a Panther ...t, although not in the end zone. It ... however, leave them at the ...other three, from where they ...ed on the first play, as Craig ...inson hauled in a pass from Malle ...the Barracudas' third touchdown ...e game.

...ater, after a punt (which finally ... kicked successfully) gave the ...lers the ball on the Port Salerno ...the Barracudas scored again, this ...e on a four-play drive. DeWayne ...aubugh added more points to the ...sen cause with a four-yard run ...ch capped the short spurt. This ...e the Barracudas a 28-0 lead at the ...-time intermission, and one which ...ved insurmountable.

...nly one touchdown marked an ...erwise dull second half, with the ...racuda defense continuing to stop ...Panther offense dead in its tracks. ...he Panthers, behind the running of ...us Graham, did manage two mild ...sts late in the game, at one point ...ing as close as 17 yards to the ...sen Beach goal line. But nothing ...strated the Panthers' unsuccessful ...rt that the fact that their biggest ...nsive play was 15-yard penalty.

... the second game, the Upper ...sion Panthers played an admira- ...game against the Razorbacks, but ...ite several opportunities, could ...manage to pull even.

...e final score was 7-0, as Jensen ...ch used a trick "flea-flicker" play ...y in the game to fool the ...-charging Port Salerno defen- ... It worked well, as quarterback ...d Laycock tossed a lateral outside ...a back, who threw it to Chris ...patrick for the touchdown. ...patrick was wide open and trotted ...final 10 yards effortlessly. The ... covered 29 yards in total and, as it ...ed out, was the difference in the ...est.

...rt Salerno, behind quarterback ...ard Lewis and running backs ...e Brooks and Victor Simmons, ...nted several attacks on the ...etimes-vulnerable Jensen Beach ...se. But when the ball got inside ... Jensen 20, the Razorbacks ...ened, allowing no yardage at all ... often pushing the Panthers far ...nd view of the end zone.

...oth teams failed to qualify for the ...offs, as did the two Lower teams, ...he championship games should be ...taining anyway. The games will ... at 6 p.m. this Saturday night at ...Palm City Field, located just over ...Palm City bridge.

...dpiper Bay ...n's Golf Scores

...ort St. Lucie men John Huncharek, ... Docos, Fred Schechteria and Jack ...kcliffe were the flight winners in ... weekly golf tournament of the ...dpiper Bay Men's Golf Associa- ... played Thursday on the Sinners ...rse at Sandpiper Bay.

...aders in the individual low net ...t competition were:

...uncherek won flight No.1 with 69, ...wed by Tom Bonne,70, Mel ...ridge, 71, and Dolf Ciferri, Tom ...ck, Tom Chapman and Evan ...ipe, all with 74's.

...ocos won flight No.2 with 68, ...wed by R.C.Cook with 70, John ...r,71, Jim Waldie,72, and Cal ...hman, Warren Thorpe and Bill ...agan, all with 73's.

...chteria won flight No.3 with 68, ...wed by Vince Metzger with 69, ...s Boaz with 71, Graydon Smith, ...y Kessler and Archie Gates with ... and Don DiLoreto,73.

...dcliffe won flight No.4 with 70, ...wed by Barnett Bildersee and ... Ford with 71's, Bill Jankins, 74, ...Hyde,75, and Nelson Howery and ...O'Neil with 76's.

...rsday, it will be individual low ...day and also the first round of the ...al Match Play Championship.

...this writing, the Sissons are ... back from a summer at ...'s Vineyard, so that pretty ...accounts for LaVaughn Circle. ...aiting for the Grossmans in ...ber.

Rachel and Camille La Chaye's daughter Dolores Koehler, after a hectic wait and arranging furniture has now settled into her new home at Vista Del Lago. Welcome to Florida, Dolores. Hope to see you around the Park often.

Here comes Myrt Penney's report. She says Roy and Jeanne Whitney and Morley and Jean Johnson are leaving for a trip to the Bahamas on the Emerald Isle, sailing from Miami, Bon Voyage you'all!

Jane and Pete Arzikovic just got back from Racine, Wisconsin. They knew when to leave.

The Vogts are expecting friends from Andalusia, Penna. this week. Harry Reiss and his son, Harry,Jr. Then, John and Joan Pugh have their daughter Nancy visiting from Albany, N.Y. Nancy is a nurse and plans to find a job here and make Florida her home. Florida can surely use you, Nancy.

Jeri and Howard Arkins have gone North to see the colors. Quite a trip for trees. Go Go wouldn't walk ten feet for one.

Doris and Horton Peace (Get that, Horton business) have visitors from Van Nuys, Calif. Horton's nephew

PINE LAKE VILLAGE

Pine Cones

BY BOB RAMSEY
334-5347

Harold Woodruff and his lovely wife, Joan.

We are devestated! Last week, the column announced that Audrey and Walt Skiles were expecting their first grandchild. An indignant Audrey called to inform us they were grandparents eight times over and that it should have been their first great grandchild. Sorry, Audrey, I'll do twenty push ups for that. Well, maybe ten, okay?

Neal Crossett checks in with a very thorough and comprehensive report which goes something like this: A Chris somebody lives in Phase II or was it Phase I had told her that somebody had an accident but wasn't sure who it was but if we could call somebody by the name of Mac what's his name, he could give us better information. Her report wasn't a total loss. Got out of her the fact that in square dancing, the Merry Mixers now have eight complete squares and the Beginners Class has two full squares.

Neal, on that accident report, take your pen, and a ream of paper and go back over that routine again and let us know next week, meanwhile, stand in the corner.

Vi Simpson called us with some scandal! Right out in the open Angus was getting a nail clip, Missy getting a bath and hair do, and poor Lucky was taking in the whole thing with a bad case of tonsilitis. The three of them are all pets, namely angus Rodgers, Missy Joerges and Lucky Ortmueller. Thought we had something there for a minute.

Here's a bit we'd like to get in (remember, at the beginning, we said some items would be left out?) Earl and Thelma Graham have a daughter, Marlene, living over in Tampa, and working at McDill AFB. Did you know that she made all American third base person for her league? Ever hear of City Radiator Team in Toledo, Ohio. This is by way of saying to Earl Graham that there are no golfing scores this week due to a space consideration and utter exhaustion on our part.

Doris Pateyson says they have visitors in Frohnbowie, Md Mr. and Mrs. J.E.Graves. Bowie! What fond memories that conjures up. Never won a cent.

Ed Zimmer asks us to pass along this item. The Men's Club now has a supply of Pinelake Village caps including the new terry cloth women's peak caps. Anyone interested, contact Earl Vogt on 334-5983.

Myrt Penney was asked as a special assignment to cover the Halloween Dance last Saturday and was accused of poaching on news territory. She did a good job, like the fact that it was a great success. Almost everyone came in costumes and Sharyon awarded prizes. Ed Zimmer was declared the "Prettiest." Anyone knows that, right? Rusty Ball came as a Flasher. She won for the "Funniest." Earl Vogt ties with someone for the most original, coming as a golfer from Scotland, "Jock Nick-a-laus." She says the music was good but didn't get the outfit's name. We will later. So, if other reporters chased you Myrt, don't feel bad. Just say you've been bloodied.

Sharyon says instead of a Pot Luck in November there will be a Lasagna Dinner. Tickets must be purchased on or before Nov.3rd. The dinner will be held on Tuesday Nov. 7th at 6:30 p.m. Two bucks each. A short activity meeting will be held after the dinner. To all our newcomers, this is your opportunity to express yourselves as to your upcoming social season, especially Christmas and New Years, so bring your ideas along and make yourself heard.

Then she would like to know if residents would like a Thanksgiving Dinner at the club house. See the note on the bulletin board and plan to attend the meeting on Nov. 10th at 11:15 a.m. Don't miss out, try to show.

Did you know a leathercraft class is starting on Mondays at 9:00 a.m.? Check into it if you've got a new saddle in mind. Or that a Round Dance class starts on Nov. 6th, the beginners will be at 1:00 and the more advanced at 2:00. The fee is $1.00 a person. Don't forget to bring your partner.

Still working on the CPR class, Sharyon says they hope to have enough to do it on Tuesday evenings starting Nov.14th through Dec. 5th. The time is 7:30 p.m.

Please forgive us this one time for the next crack but it is something that has to be said. This is the second reminder about the Pancake Breakfast, and the tickets are going like - you know what. Remember, try to get tickets ahead of time, not at the door or you'll be penalized.

Some more new residents set to move into Phase III. Albert and Lawanda Sawyer, Arthur and Mary Earle.

Inflation rears its ugly head again. Before you write your check for your TV cable hook up, see Francie in the office or if you've already sent it in, to adjust your account.

Had a letter from Iren O'Donnell which we will place on the bulletin board inside the club house. Obviously, she loves Colorado, as who wouldn't? Again, our apologies to Earl Graham and Bob Williams for no scores. Shoot them in again next week and we'll give it the old college try.

Before closing off, want to welcome another reporter, Mary Couillard who will be reporting for Shuffleboard and any other news in her immediate area. Right now she tells me that Charles Forbes is in the hospital for a few days. Please get back with us. We'll need everyone this winter. See you next week.

Pelosi, Cross are Artists of the Month

The two artists showing their paintings at First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County in Jensen Beach for the month of November are May Cross and Marjorie Pelosi.

May Cross has always been interested in all phases of art, and is versitile, offering works in pastel, water color, acrylic and oil.

The second artist, Marjorie Pelosi, is a long-time Jensen Beach resident.

SELLING LAND FOR ONE DOLLAR

QUESTION: I read your columns every week, but I have a problem I've never seen. About a year ago it inherited some suburban land. It's good land and was appraised at $100,000.

I'd like to keep the land, since it is increasing in value, but my problem lies in a mortgage on the land of about $50,000. I simply can't afford to carry it. It has a low interest rate (6½ percent), but the monthly payments are $175. I can't find a buyer with $50,000. What do you suggest?

ANSWER: I know of an ower who had a similar problem, and I think that you may be able to use his solution.

He also inherited a parcel of land. He went to a business friend and explained the situation. He and his friend agreed to the following:

He sold his friend an undivided one half interest in the land for $1 and the friend agreed to assume all the payments on the mortgage. This move solved everyon's problems. The friend acquired a one-half interest in a valuable parcel of land with virtually no cash down. He was able to carry the cost of the mortgage with relative ease and to take tax deductions for the interest protion of the payments.

The owner, of course, had relieved himself of the burden of making the payments and is still benefiting from the continuing debt reduction that results as his new partner makes each payment.

Naturally, the agreement incorporated clauses protecting him in case his business friend didn't make the mortgage payments and spelling out that both parties will share in the appreciation that is accruing. Perhaps you could work out a similar solution to your problem.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-6741, or stop by:

Treasure Coast Plan Council meets Nov. 9

The Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council will hold its next regular meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, at the Martin County Administrative Center in Stuart.

The agenda includes two project reviews, a report on what the size of a development should be before it is considered a development of regional impact, and a discussion of a coastal zone management contract.

At one time it was expected that the General Development Corporation Midport DRI application would be up for review at the November meeting, but that project won't be reviewed until the December meeting.

d Enns and Chuck Nergard are winners in local races

BY BOB FRYER

gh for years there have been emocrats than Republicans in ie County, it was two GOP ates, Ed Enns and Chuck d, who came out winners in lloting Tuesday.

Enns, a 45-year-old Fort Pierce ce man, his victory over nt challenger Phil Thibedeau, as he'll continue as county ssioner for a third term.

deau, a south county resident s formerly the county civil director, collected a total of es to Enns' 9729. And, though Port St. Lucie city council members have criticized Enns in the past for not supporting their request for county funding of Sportsman's Park, the incumbent Republican carried all four precincts in the Port St. Lucie area. At the North Port Marina, it was 888 for Enns and 633 for Thibedeau; at Spanish Lakes, Enns collected 523 votes to Thibedeau's 373; at city hall it was 677 for Enns and 314 for Thibedeau; and at the Community Center, the margin was 1016 for Enns and 665 for Thibedeau.

In the District 76 state House of Representatives race, Republican Chuck Nergard collected 9123 ballots from St. Lucie County voters to 8725 for incumbent Democrat Dale Cassens.

Nergard has served in the state house for five terms before deciding not to run for office in 1976, due to his wife's health problems. In the 1976 election, Cassens won the seat. But this year Nergard announced his wife's health was better and tossed his hat in the ring for a sixth term. In addition to winning in St. Lucie County, Nergard also outpolled Cassens in the north Martin County area, which is included in the boundaries of District 76. In that county it was 1054 for Cassens and 2155 for Nergard.

In Port St. Lucie, the results in the Cassens-Nergard race were: at North Port Marina, 509 fro Cassens and 1110 for Nergard; at Spanish Lakes, 388 for Cassens and 615 for Nergard; at city hall, 280 for Cassens and 685 for Nergard; and at the Community Center, 543 for Cassens and 821 for Nergard.

In the only other somewhat localized race between two candidates, Jensen Beach attorney Dean Tooker outpolled Vero Beach attorney Ken Sharp in the non-partisan race for a circuit judge post by a 7613 to 7430 margin in St. Lucie County. However voters from Martin, Indian River and Okeechobee counties also cast ballots in that contest, and a strong vote for Sharp in his home county won him the election. The results show Sharp collected 8940 votes to 3582 for Tooker in Indian River County.

Sharp also took Okeechobee county by a 1292 to 994 margin. In Martin County it was 7515 for Tooker and 5628 for Sharp.

The only other local issue was whether the county Fire Board ought to remain as is or be composed solely of county commissioners. Voters favored keeping things the way they are by a 9311 to 6014 margin. Under the present set-up, the board is composed of two county commissioners, two Fort Pierce city commissioners and an appointee of the governor.

County voters followed the state trend in favoring Democrat Bob Graham over Republican Jack Eckerd for governor. It was 9823 for Graham and 9082 for Eckerd in this county.

Democrat George Firestone has been declared the winner in statewide voting over Republican Ander Crenshal in the secretary of state contest. In St. Lucie County, voters favored Firestone by a 9147 to 7894 margin.

Incumbent Democrat Bill Gunter had no problems winning reelection as state treasurer, and here, he was favored over Republican challenger Jeffrey Latham by 11,536 votes to 5716.

Democrat incumbent Ralph Turlington will keep his state commissioner of education seat. In St. Lucie County he collected 9599 votes to 6980 for Republican Herman Williams.

Harry Johnston II, another Democrat incumbent, won his race against Republican William Riker for the 26th Deistrict state senate seat. Johnston collected 8567 votes here, compared to 7485 for Riker.

In the District 28 state senate race it was incumbent Democrat Don Childers over Billie Brooks by a 10,874 to 5780 margin in St. Lucie County. Childers also won handily in other counties in his district.

NERGARD

ENNS

Two district judges, Spencer Cross and John Moore II, were favored for retention. In St. Lucie County it was 6550 for retention of Cross to 5636 against his retention and it was 6888 for retention of Moore to 5306 against his retention.

Casino gambling went down to defeat statewide and was also opposed strongly by local voters. County results show 12,804 against gambling and 4808 for it.

All nine proposed state constitutional amendments were defeated statewide, and county voters followed the state trend for ea[illegible] proposed amendment.

County Supervisor of Elections James Brooks said in spite of heavy rains on election day that 58 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. He noted that all the above totals do not include absentee ballots. Around 750 absentee ballots were issued from Brooks' office and were to have been counted Wednesday. In only one race, the Cassens-Nergard contest, the absentee ballots might make a difference. That's because in Martin County, there were 937 absentee ballots issued. When those are combined with the St Lucie absentees the total exceeds the difference in ballots counted so far between the two men. However, absentee ballots generally follow the same trend as those cast at the polls on election day aintenanee department could be operating within month a month, if Port St. Lucie nager Leonard Silvia's ion are met, the city will ntenance department.

BY BOB FRYER

ds for such a department rlier this year, and $93,000 ded for a maintenance et when the city council s budget for this fiscal year.

But the city was searching for a city manager and a city engineer at the time, so it was decided that the council would delay action until the new men were hired.

On Monday night the new city manager, Silvia, and the new engineer, William Miley, sought and won permission from the city council to start a maintenance department.

Miley outlined the proposal. He told the council that since coming to work for the city he has received an average of six to seven complaints a day about drainage problems. "I have four projects now with work in progress, and four or five more that I could start on tomorrow if we had someone to start on them," he told the council.

Miley proposed starting the maintenance department with two men, one as a supervisor back-hoe-operator, and another as a laborer. His proposal also inlcuded purchasing a 3.7 acre site along Thornhill Drive next to the Florida Turnpike for about $30,000. The site would be graded and filled, then fenced. A concrete-block building would be constructed to house maintenance equipment. A back-hoe, a trailer to carry the back hoe, and a pickup truck were listed by Miley as equipment that would be needed to start the department. And, he said if payment for the land is spread out over two years, there would be enough money in this year's budget for buying sod and seed for repairing drainage swales.

The engineer cautioned that the equipment would not be capable of taking care of mowing jobs. He said the city might want to buy mowing equipment in the next fiscal year.

Miley said not all drainage problems could be solved by the two man crew and back hoe, but he said it would "make a significant start on it."

"Hopefully, this would enable me to take a look at some of the overall drainage problems rather than trying to apply a 'band-aid' technique to individual problems and spending most of the time trying to explain why something hasn't been done," he noted.

The council members expressed support for the creation of a maintenance department and a formal vote to start it is expected at the council's next meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Silvia said Tuesday morning that he hoped to have the department going "within a month" and said his first priorities are hiring two workers and shopping for equipment. "We may get started with two men with shovels, if we have to," he said. And he commented that the building to house the equipment won't be real large, but will be capable of housing the maintenance equipment.

Miley emphasized that many of the maintenance problems are the responsibility of developers rather than the city and he indicated some people who complain about drainage problems may never be satisfied.

"We have to educate the public that they're living on low, flat land and that they can't expect their swales to be dry all the time," council member Schuyler Sharpe said.

Civic League president Herb Tschudy said he hoped the new maintenance department could work on chuckholes in roads as well as drainage problems.

Planning and Zoning Board member Vern Forrar asked if hiring outside help had been considered.

"We're going to have to contract for major work, but a lot of the small problems we can solve in a short time with our own department," Mayor William McChesney said, adding "we have jobs now that we can't get the (outside) people for because they're too busy with other work."

st estimates have caused the part of city manager ivia. "If the city wants to ver and allow what else gets in terms of maintenance, which is me fine. But I have a people will expect the city number of dollars in their e than what others are concerned with putting a $35,000 a year price tag on Mayor William McChesney estimated that the city collects about $28,000 in taxes from the west Midport area) and he said not all of that money could go to drainage maintenance.

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb said he thought the city ought to offer the same level of drainage maintenance to the west Midport area as all other areas of the city, then creat a special tax district in the area to charge for extra maintenance of the non-drainage portions of the greenbelt lands.

Assistant city attorney Dorfman said he had doubts that the city could set up such a special tax district without a referendum of the residents in the area. Still, when discussions were concluded, the council told him to continue exploring the possibility of setting up such a special tax district.

In other action, GDC attorney Allen said he didn't feel there would be any problem in netting up a special tax district for greenbelt maintenance in the proposed east Midport development. He said the district could be set up while GDC still owns the land and that as persons bought land there, they would come under the tax district, knowing from the start that this is what they were buying into. He said since the greenbelt area in east Midport would be so large (about 490 acres), a distinction could be made between that drainage system and others in the city.

Proposals to create an architectural review board and to adopt a landscape ordinance were presented to the council, and council members agreed to study the proposals and discuss them at a meeting soon.

On advice of assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman, council members are expected to act at their next regular meeting to allow a variance to GDC that will enable the firm to build three units of a new phase of Sandpiper Villas within 35 feet of the St. Lucie River. A 75-foot setback from the river is required by city law, but Dorfman said the Villas plat and site plan were filed before that law took effect.

Norwegians to eat turkey at North Port

The Sons of Norway will enjoy a turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, when the organization holds its next monthly meeting at the Nort Port Marina at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11, in Port St. Lucie.

Members will be contacted as to what sorts of vegetables they should bring. Dancing and accordian music will be included at the meeting, and happy hour begins at 6:30 p.m.

City issues 93 permits for new homes in October

For the second month in a row, the number of permits issued in Port St. Lucie has failed to break the 100 mark.

But not by much. In September, "only" 95 permits were issued in the city for new homes, and in October, the figure is 93.

Although the magic 100 mark was not reached, there's no immediate cause for concern over a building slump. Having 93 new homes started in the city in a month is hardly a recession.

Building Department officials report that the estimated value of the new homes started in October is $2,355,012 and add that there were also 59 permits issued for additions to homes. The value of the additions is estimated at $158,338. The city received $21,436 in permit fees for the new homes last month and $2,310 for the permits for additions to homes.

In addition to that, one permit was issued for roads to be built in an area adjacent to the Windmill Point. General Development Corporation is planning to open that area up for home sales soon, and when that happens, it's expected the permit figures will rise again.

The number of building permits topped the 100 mark for the first time in the city's history in April, when 138 were issued. Then the all-time record was set in May, with 164 permits. Since then, there were 141 permits in June, 100 in July, and 138 in August.

STAR BOATS—It will soon be race time again at Sandpiper Bay Resort for star boat sailing enthusiasts. Sailors from all over the country, plus a few foreign teams, will be entering the keen competition on Nov. 18 and 19 for the Sandpiper Bay Cup, one of three legs in a "triple crown" of racing for star boaters. This year's event will be the ninth annual race at Port St. Lucie. Last year Jimmy Lippincott of Anapolis, Md. won the prized cup. Star boats have been approved for competition in the 1980 Olympics, but you won't have to wait till then to see plenty of action. The public is invited to watch the races at Sandpiper Bay. Jensen Chamber membership drive begins this Friday

One team will eat steak, the other beans, as the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce 1979 membership drive kicks off this Friday.

The two teams, led by Ron Mitchell and Dick Campbell, will be canvassing the businesses of Jensen Beach and Rio seeking a goal of 250 members. They will meet Friday afternoon to select member cards for contacts.

Dues for businesses in the Chamber are $50 a year. Individuals who want to take part in Chamber activities can become contributing members for $10 a year.

The Chamber teams will also be selling "fair share" memberships on a voluntary basis to larger businesses for $100.

At the end of the drive, on Friday, November 17, the two teams will total up points collected in the acquisition of members. They receive ten points for a $100 membership, five points for a regular membership, and one point for a sustaining membership.

The "steak and beans" celebration will be held on Friday evening at the Sheraton Resort, beginning at 7 p.m.

Nergard, Myers unseat Demos

BY SALLY LATHAM

Two Republicans have apparently ousted Democratic incumbents at the state level, in Tuesday's election.

Charles R. (Chuck) Nergard, who stepped down from the 76th District State Representative post in 1976 for personal reasons, regained the seat from Democrat Dale Cassens by a narrow margin, and Dr. William G. Myers of Stuart won a decisive victory over Democrat William J. (Bill) Taylor in the 77th District race.

The unofficial tallies for the two, both of whome serve Martin County were, as of Wednesday morning:

Dale Cassens	10,383
Chuck Nergard	11,278

In Martin County, according to Supervisor of Elections Peggy Robbins, the Myers victory was more resounding than any in county history. Dr. Myers, who resigned as Martin County chairman to run, got 7,930 votes to Taylor's 4,798. In Palm Beach County, Taylor's home territory, the incumbent received 7,057 to Myers' 5,685, narrowing the margin to less than 2,000.

Nergard led the field in both St. Lucie County and north Martin County, the area covered by the 76th District. Nergard won 2,155 in Martin compared to Cassens' 1,694, and the Republican topped the incumbent 9,123 to 8,729 in St. Lucie County.

In some of the races in Martin County, it was still nip and tuck, as of The Mirror's press time. There were 936 absentee votes to be counted and the whole ballot certified, which was to take place Wednesday afternoon.

Closest was the contest between Rex M. Andrews, Democrat, and Lavon Bagwell, Republican, for District 3 on the County Commission. With the absentees yet to be counted, Bagwell was leading with 7,632, and Andrews less than 200 votes behind with 7,487.

In Martin County, Dean Tooker of Jensen Beach led in the race for circuit judge, and he also took St. Lucie County by a slight margin. But the overwhelming combined votes in Indian River and Okeechobee County for Vero attorney Ken Sharp knocked Tooker out of the ball park by a wide margin.

There was no question about Supervisor of Elections Peggy Robbins' win over Republican Elsie Hutton. Robbins, and appointee who was facing her first election, scored 9,257 over Hutton's 6,855.

In the school board contest, Norma Miller came in handily over her opponent Mildred Perry, with a total of 8,345 over 5,854. Miller, running for elective office for the first time, was a strong proponent of the $12.5 million school bond issue, and has promised to be a watchdog on how the money is spent.

The Martin County turnout was 17,802, or 57 percent of the registration. The fact that it was far lower than the 70 percent Robbins had predicted was attributed to the steady rain which refused to let up from dawn to closing time at the polling places.

"It was that way all over the state," Robbins said Wednesday morning.

The turnout at the Jensen area precincts were: Sewall's Point, 488; Hutchinson Island, 283; Community Church, 685; Samaritans headquarters, 278; Langford Park, 655; Rio, 464.

represented were HOliday A, Windmill Village and ium, Oceana Condominium, Resort Inn, Venture II, n House, and the Beach Club

On several occasions since Nov.1, the officials were informed, people from the communities in lower St. Lucie Counties have attempted to get ambulance service through the new Martin County 911, and they have gotten the St. Lucie headquarters, instead.

Sutton, who has been instrumental in installing the Martin system, explained that there is no current interaction between the two county systems, but efforts are being made to take care of all fringe-area residents.

Auditore told the group that for the next few months, they will get the results by dialing the CD 287-1652 number. They will get the Martin 911 headquarters, he said, but calls will be immediately transferred to the Civil Defense headquarters, which will relay the word to the proper emergency service.

Although the present CD number will be phased out in a few months, Auditore said, efforts are underway to perpetuate it.

The same system will apply to all residents along Indian River Drive north to Walton Road, Mrs. Bailey added.

By calling the Martin County seven-digit number rather than St. Lucie County 911, the Samaritans President pointed out, they will not only get faster service, but they'll get it free.

"They have to pay $50 to $60 for ambulance service in St. Lucie County," Mrs. Bailey said. "The Samaritans have been serving the Island since October 1969. We are very happy to continue serving them if they want it."

Armistice services set for Saturday morning

The 60th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice at 11 a.m. Nov. 11, 1918 in Marshal Foch's railroad car, which brought an end to World War I, will be observed in Memorial services at the Jensen Beach Womens Club on Sugar Hill Road, on Saturday, Nov.11, starting at 10:15 a.m.

The services will be conducted by Martin County Barracks 854 of the Veterans of World War I and its Auxiliary.

All veterans' organizations in Martin County are expected to participate with their colors and banners. The public is invited to attend, especially all veterans.

The Memorial address will be given by Kenneth Taft, Veterans Service Officer of Martin County.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Leo Schnell of St. Martin's Roman Catholic Church and the benediction by the Rev. Norman Kehrli of the Jensen Beach Community Church. The musical program will be provided by the Community Church Choir under the direction of Esther Plyler.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the World War I group will serve refreshments at the conclusion of the services.

Evinrude to be honored at FIT donors dinner

Ralph Evinrude, chairman of the board of the Outboard Motors Corporation, will be among the founders to be honored Monday Nov. 13, at a special "Donor Recognition Banquet" being given by the Florida Institute of Technology.

The event, to take place at the Port Malabar Country Club in Melbourne, will bring together some of the country's top scientists and educators.

Guest speaker will be one of the world's most noted atomic scientists, Dr. Edward Teller, known as "the father of the hydrogen bomb."

Dr. Teller, in accepting the invitation said he is "looking forward to expressing my personal appreciation for the contributions these people have made to the world in training people in technology."

Mrs. Teller will accompany him, according to an FIT spokesman.

Evinrude, whose efforts were largely responsible for bringing FIT campus to Jensen Beach, is one of 11 top founders named to the FIT "Service Hall of Fame,"--people who have contributed $100,000 or more to the advancement of and growth of the school. The local man's contributions have been made through both the Ralph evinrude Foundation, Inc., and the Ole Evinrude Foundation, Inc.

Ole Evinrude, Ralph Evinrude's father, was inventor of the first successful outboard motor and founder of Evinrude Motors, Inc.

Other "Founders" to be honored for their part in the local school's growth are: Mr. and Mrs. A.C.Newlin, representing the Henry L. and Grace Doherty Foundation, and Dr. and Mrs. M.F.Vorterburg, for the William G. and Marie Selby Foundation.

Dr. Jerome P. Kasper, founding president and the only president the university has even had, will officiate at the ceremonies.

"The event is long overdue," Dr.Keuper said. "Our many loyal friends who played a major role in the remarkable growth and development of Florida Institute of Technology will be enthusiastically saluted for their generosity through the years."

Several staffers from the local FIT will be attending the event.

Falkenburg to play in Grand Masters

Tom Falkenburg, tennis pro at Indian River Plantation, has been invited again to play in the Grand Masters' Tournament, to take place this weekend at the Naples Bath and Tennis Club. It will be his sixth time to participate.

He will join eight other players, all of whom are former national championships. Among them is Gardner Malloy, international champion who with Falkenburg won the Florida Doubles Championship last year.

Falkenburg was one of the original developers of the multi-million dollar Naples facility's tennis complex.

BENEFIT BALL TEAM--Jane Thurlow and her husband Thomas Thurlow Sr. have accepted the reins for the job of running this year's Martin Memorial Benefit Ball, to be held in March at the Sandpiper Bay ballroom. They were named to the responsibility by E.C. Wareheim, chairman of the Hospital board. Mrs. Thurlow says she and her husband will begin selecting their committee chairmen this week. Area bridge players will compete in national benefit Stuart, Port St. Lucie and Ft. Pierce bridge players will join thousands of others throughout North America on Moday evening, Nov. 20 in a unique competition to benefit the Mental Health Association.

The Sandpiper Bay Duplicate Club, an affiliate of the American Contract Bridge League, is sponsoring a section of the Fall 1978 ACBL Continent-wide Charity game with play starting at 8 p.m. at the Stuart Youth Center, Flagler Avenue, Stuart. The competition is truly international with players from the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Far and Near East, Greece to Guantanamo Bay taking part, and unique because every player in every game in every city will play the exact hands under near identical conditions. Only one winner will emerge–the Pair with the best percentage score on computer-dealt hands.

Roger White, director of the Sandpiper Bay Club, says the public is invited to participate in the local game. Among those with whom the local players will be competing for international recognition will be all the players in the ACBL's Fall North American championships in Denver, Colo., who will be playing the same hands at the same time.

Prizes will be presented to the ACBL Continent-wide winners as well as the victors in each of the 25 districts within the ACBL.

Additionally, master points will be awarded to all who finish well in each and every game. Proceeds from this game will be distributed through the ACBL to the Mental Health Association.

For further information call Roger White at 334-2330.

Regulation costs increase

BY CONGRESSMAN
SKIP BAFALIS

deral regulations cost you money. also decrease the value of the rs you work so hard to earn. tect. Barry Bosworth, director of Council on Wage and Price bility estimates that government lation and overregulation are nsible for three-fourths of one rent of the current inflation. t's why I was pleased President 's wage and price guideline ge pledges the Administration do all it can to cut the inflationary act of federal rulemaking. ve use the impact is significant, to the least.

In 1977, the cost of regulation amounted to $100 billion--$470 for each person living in the U.S.

Of that, $3 million was for the cost of running the federal regulatory agencies - for salaries, supplies and other costs. And, state and local regulators added another $2 billion to the administrative bill.

In fact, the outlays of the 41 federal regulatory agencies have increased 100 per cent over the past five years.

The largest part of the regulatory burden, of course, was in the compliance - the price businesses and individuals paid to respond to regulations. That amounted to $85 billion in 1977.

Why does it cost so much? Because the federal government sends out some 4,400 different forms each year and it cost business - and ultimately the consumer - some $25 billion just to cover the 143 million manhours it took to fill them out.

For example, the steel industry has to comply with some 5,800 different regulations promulgated by some 26 different federal agencies. General Motors spent more than $1 billion--two per cent of its income from sales--just to comply with regulations.

And, it isn't just big business which gets hit. If big companies are rocked by the cost of regualtion, small business gets swamped.

When the Pension Reform Act was adopted by Congress four years ago, some 13,000 pending pension plans were ended, most by companies with fewer than 30 employees who couldn't afford the cost of complying with a 208 page law.

To make matters worse, all too often these regulations are enforced in an asinine manner. Take the company which was fined because its employees working on a bridge over a channel weren't wearing life jackets--even thought the water under the bridge had been diverted for construction.

Then, there was the miner who was cited for not carrying a two-way radio, even though he ran a one-man show and had no one to talk to on the radio.

While these examples may be funny, the burden of overzealous regulators isn't.

Last year business spent $85 billion on plants and equipment, but most of that was spent to comply with pollution control and other regulations. And that leaves little for modernization and the creation of new jobs.

If we could just take half of the $100 billion spent on regulation, and use it for productive projects, we would create a million new jobs.

And jobs are what we need to insure all future regulations make economic sense and that the regulatory agencies don't continue far beyond their usefulness.

But, most important, it's time we told business what we want them to accomplish, not how we want them to do it.

Alampi requests hearing on medicare claims dispute

After months of swapping correspondence with Blue Shield of Florida over medicare claims, Port St. Lucie resident Joseph Alampi says he's given up trying to get his claims straightened out by writing letters and has requested a rearing on his claims. The 67-year-old retired insurance salesman says at the firm he worked for the claims were handled much more efficiently, maintains that Blue Shield has made more than 230 errors in his case.

Since last April, Alampi has been writing letters and making phone calls to the Blue Shield office in Jacksonville, asking the company to audit his account and correct what he says are errors. In the process, he also contacted U.S. Representative L.A. "Skip" Bafalis to get the aid of the congressman in resolving the issue.

Blue Shield has responded a number of times to Alampi's complaints, and on at least two occasions in recent weeks have sent him checks to cover corrections made in his favor on his medicare account. But Alampi maintains that even some of the corrections Blue Shield have made were incorrect and he says there are many claims that are still incorrect. He says he feels Blue Shield still hasn't made a proper audit of his account.

So, last week, Alampi said he is requesting a hearing.

"I have no idea when it will be conducted," he said, but noted that he asked for the hearing to be in Fort Pierce, so it will be easy to attent it.

Alampi says he's been told that at the hearing, he'll have to go through his records one claim at a time to show what he feels are errors. "It means it will be a long process, and it will be confusing, since often they lump a lot of the claims together when they make adjustments. But I'll do it," he said.

Alampi commented, "It's unfair for a sick man to submit honest and modest bills to have to put up with this kind of aggravation. A sick man only has his doctors and religion to depend on and it's a horrible feeling to have them (Blue Shield) tell you your doctors are overcharging when your doctors are not and its Blue Shield that's ripping you off."

When Bafalis was in Fort Pierce recently, Alampi visited him to say thanks for the past help of the congressman and to ask him to continue keeping an eye on his problems. Alampi said Bafalis "was very sincere and was up to day on my case." He added that the congressman wished him well in his hearing.

A spokesman in the Jacksonville office of Blue Shield was contacted by The Mirror and said "there are two sides to these things, usually, and I think it's a logical route for him to take in asking for a hearing so this matter can be resolved." He said Blue Shield has a number of hearing officers and he said a hearing will be set up "at a time and place close to his home."

Alampi says he suffers a number of ailments, including cancer of the colon, hypertension, pedal edema, diabetes, symptomatic congestive heart failure, and arthritis.

HOW TO SELL QUICKLY AT THE BEST PRICE

QUESTION: What is the quickest way to sell an apartment house? Without taking a licking on price. I need the cash I have tied up in my 16-unit building in a hurry.

ANSWER: The most effective and quickest way to accomplish a sale at fair market value is to seek out an active income property broker, sit down with him and give him all the facts. Tell him how much time you have to effect the sale and the price you must achieve.

..Give him accurate income and expense information and all the pertinent operating information. Ask him point-blank whether he feels he can achieve the price you need. If not, ask him what he believes a reasonable investor would pay. Be sure to discuss his merchandising campaign.

..If his analysis of your situation makes sense to you, and if he will roll up his sleeves and give you action, then give him an exclusive listing and let him go to work for you immediately.

Most experts feel that the two most important factors in effecting a quick sale are:

.. (1) pricing your property realistically and

(2) retaining your investment broker on an exclusive basis.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

Health Cost Containment Committee takes a forward step

The idea of a local "HCCC" (Health Cost Containment Committee) took one small step in the right direction, last Friday (Nov.3) at the monthly Interagency Steering committee meeting held in Barton's cafeteria when members of the medical profession and social service organizations had a wide open discussion.

Lata Williams of MCCA spoke on the need of a Geriatric Clinic to take car of the "walking sick" and have para-medics or medical assistants specially trained on how diseases and drugs affect the elderly. Pearl Wyse, AARP health chairman, brought up the point that even the primary care of free blood pressure checks at the Health Dept. Langford clinics had many times sent patients back to their doctor for a change in medicine. If this service could be expanded some of the "walking sick" could be warned before expensive curative treatments were made necessary.

This meeting was constructive with the following signing up for the HCCC: Beth Simpson and Pat Crow of VNA; Pearl Wyse and Ernie Curwen of AARP; Ms. Barney Miller Johnson and Christobel M. Gunner of H.R.S.; Dr. Archie MacCallister, MCHD; Susan Rolle; Peggy Kirk, Mental Health Assoc.; William M. Ferguson, Jr., consumer; Russ Conser, MCCA and Lata Williams of the Silver Hair Legislature. Therefore, it looks as though with a little effort to find a chairman, the HCCC could soon be off and running.

ERNIE CURWEN

Nellie Bullock, Chm. of Interagency Committee introduces Ernie Curwen, president of AARP and instigator of the idea of a local "HCCC" and he explained how it was of national origin and wasn't primarily concerned with hospital and doctors charges, per se, as that was better handled at national or state level. But it could be concerned with some alternate methods of obtaining some health care services, as has been done in other parts of the country.

Dr. John Eskersley, then explained that the doctors fees had not increased any faster than general cost of living and the solution to the problem was to limit government spending by the liberal democrats. Doctor Eskersley remarked that our excellent quality health care service was costly because patients demand that they have the latest equipment handy and therefore they should be prepared to pay for it by having adequate insurance.

Dr. David McMillan was very much concerned about the polarization of elderly and doctors that Curwen mentioned and said he'd like to see the HCCC as a sounding board, so there would be better communications and the doctors could get a better understanding of the problems of the elderly and the elderly in turn could learn why busy doctors at times don't seem very sympathetic; although they are.

Dr. Archie MacCallister agreed with Dr. McMillian that there was a lack of good communication between these segements of the community and the HCCC might be a good place to get together. Doctor MacCallister also said, there should be a place where the "walking sick" could get screening checks at low cost, to make sure a slight pain, if neglected, doesn't lead to costly curative treatments. Dr. MacCallister said they were equipped to do this at the Health Dept., 5 days a week operation could not handle night time and weekend follow-ups should conditions change during that time. Also, he said the best way to reduce health service costs would be: Drive slower, eat moderately, don't drink or smoke (Most wished they'd done that year ago)

Senator Harry Johnson remarked that the seniors could probably have many more low cost health services. Some one does have to pay, and that means additional taxes. So, he asked for a show of hands, how many would approve a state income tax, if some of the funds were used to reduce health care services. What a surprise, for with Porposition 13 in mind, one would think that it would be "thumbs down", but it wasn't for over half the 35 present raised their hands. Oif course, this committee was biased, as the groups they represented, would benefit greatly and their low income status would keep the taxes they'd pry to a very low level.

The Health Planning Council representative explained why the Martin County representation on the council was limited by a Federal regulation that grouped Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties as a unit and Palm Beach County as another, making it possible for Palm Beach to dominate all decisions and fund allocations.

Florida Steel sets dividend

At its November 9 meeting the Board of Directors of Florida Steel Corporation declared a quarterly dividend in the amount of 40 cents per share payable December 13, 1978, to shareowners of record on November 30, 1978.

Chapter Events

There wer 20 or so early birds at the Nov. 9 AARP picnic at Langford Field and in short order prepared the Golden Eagle News Bulletin for mailing, with Mary Ensley assuming the responsibility of getting it ready and Mildred Capanna continued in charge of addressing. Later 27 to 30 had brown-bag lunches and joined in on discussion of chapter problems and activities. Here are some of the highlights.

The chapter activities are becoming well known through out the community and often help comes their way. There was a need for a piano at Langfords for socials and Congregate meals. MCCA heard about it and was able to loan them one with Russell Music offering a free tune-up and Charles Masony contacted East Ocean Music Co. to take care of the moving, also for free. It does pay to have good public relations (and the chapter needs a chairman).

City eyes utility job permits

Port St. Lucie city council members decided informally at a workshop meeting Monday night to see if an ordinance can be passed to require utility firms within the city to get a permit before doing any work.

Several city staff members complained that they never know where the utility firms are going to be working within the city. They said in some cases the utility companies have cut open roads to install utility lines, then have improperly repaired the road openings or have taken a long time before getting around to the needed repairs. Damage to drainage swales by utility companies was also cited, and one member of the audience complained that a company recently cut an opening in a street, then left a crude barrier in front of the hole overnight. "I almost ran into that hole, which was pretty deep," the resident said, adding that the barrier had no lights or reflective material on it.

Assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman said he would have to study franchise agreements with the various utility firms operating within the city to see if a work permit could be required.

"Even if we can't charge them a fee, we at least need to have them get a permit, just so we'll know where they're doing work. Then we'll have a better chance of getting repairs made as they're finishing work in an area," said city manager Leonard Silvia.

During the meeting, Dorfman examined the franchise agreement the city has with General Development Utilities and said that one would allow the city to require a work permit. He said he would study the other franchises and report back to the council.

City Planner Mike Szunyog got approval for an idea to hire two University of Florid students to serve as planning interns. He said there is $5,000 in the city budget for consulting fees for getting a comprehensive plan for the city drafted by next July and said he could hire the students with that money. Each student would work for one school-term quarter, with one beginning in January and the second to start the following quarter. Each student would be assigned to work on one of the elements of the comprehensive plan. State law requires all city, county and regional governmental bodies to have a comprehensive plan completed by next July. Szunyog says he has been so busy with other duties lately that he hasn't had the time he needs to work on the comprehensive plan.

At a special meeting of the city council before the Monday night workshop meeting, council members voted to approve a zoning change for realtor Paul Zinter. The change, from B-1 to B-2 zoning, allows Zinter to install self service gas pumps at a convenience store he's planning to build along Port St. Lucie Boulevard near Airoso Boulevard. Several other stores are also planned for Zinter's project.

City to ask county for fields, tennis courts

Port St. Lucie city officials are expected soon to make a pitch for getting the county to spend $20,000 to $42,000 on improvements to Sportsman's Park.

Last year and this year city council members requested the county commission to help fund capital improvements at the park. City council members claim the park is an example of double taxation, where city residents pay county taxes for recreation, yet have no county facilities nearby, and also pay city taxes for Sportsman's Park. In the last two years, county commissioners have rejected the double-tax argument and suggested that the city ought to give the park to the county. Though the county didn't budget a specific amount of cash to spend in Port St. Lucie for recreation, the commissioners did include $100,000 in the county recreation department budget this year to be spent in four areas: Lakewood Park, Lawnwood Park, White City and Port St. Lucie.

At a recent meeting of the city recreation committee, members agreed to ask the county for funds for two projects. The top priority request is for $20,000 to relocate two ball fields and to install lights, bleachers and fencing. A secondary project the committee wants is two more tennis courts for the park. The courts are expected to cost about $22,500.

At a workshop meeting Monday night, city council members reviewed a memo on the two projects from the recreation committee and agreed to have the city formally request funds from the county for those projects.

Sandpiper regatta Nov. 18-19

The ninth Sandpiper Bay Star Regatta sponsored by General Development Corporation will take place Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 18 and 19, at Sandpiper Bay Resort.

More than two dozen Star class sailboats are expected to enter the event, which is becoming known as the first of three legs in a "triple crown" of Star class sailing. The other two races are the Coral Reef Cup and Bacardi Cup in Miami.

Carlos de Cardenas of Miami, twice a world champion, will again head the race committee and serve as judge, according to race coordinator Bob Seeley.

"The Star Regatta traditionally brings entries from throughout the United States and several foreign countries. This year will be no exception," Seeley said.

Early entrants include two Nassau teams -- Martin Wittingham Jones heading one of them and Jack Sands and Hans Vandershut comprising the other.

Jimmy Lippincott of the Annapolis, Md. boatbuilding family won last year's race. His father Robert took home a first place trophy at the inauguaral Sandpiper competition in 1970.

The sandpiper championship will be decided in a series of three races over a triangular course on the St. Lucie River in front of the resort.

Races are scheduled at 1 p.m. on Saturday, with the second race at 4 p.m. and the final race on Sunday at 10 a.m. The boat with the best cumulative point score is winner.

Silver trophies will go to the top three two-man teams. A drawing will be held for a week-long vacation for two at the Hawaiian Inn in Palm Beach.

The 23-foot Star boat sloop, the oldest of all one-design classes in the U.S., will be seen in the 1980 Olympics. The lines of the Star boat are drawn not only to please the eye, but also to gain maximum speed due to skipper skill.

The International Star Class Yacht Racing Association, founded in 1922, is one of the strongest yachting organizations in the world. There are 5,900 Star boats in 27 countries.

Vicki Whipkey (a member of the 1975 lower winners): "I enjoy and feel very proud to represent Jensen Beach as a cheerleader. I love working with other girls and will always put my best effort forward as a cheerleader."

Lauryn Sweeney: "I am able to express myself and be creative while working at it and having a good time."

Sandy Reddick: "I know what happens at the end of the year. Competition! And we really need to work hard so we can do our best."

Kim Reilly: "It's a lot of responsibility and hard work. It means that we should be proud because we are the best we can be."

Tara Dieffenbach (a member of the 1977 upper winners): "Cheering for Jensen Beach is really great. It helps you get along with others and to be more tolerant. It makes me be in my best mood, because I feel responsible for how the crowd feels when they leave."

Suzanne Fitzpatrick(9-year-old Mascot): "I like cheering with the big girls. It might help me to be a good cheerleader some day."

Joyce Rathberger (Assistant Coach): "Having been a Jensen Beach cheerleader myself, I know how much the girls look forward to competition at the end. Each of the girls are dedicated as individuals and this makes them work together as a unit to achieve their goal of representing their town well."

Carole Johnson (Coach): "The girls have been a cooperative, dedicated team of girls. They have set their own goals in life, and express it well in their own comments. This has been a rewarding experience for me over the past 5 years of coaching these wonderful girls."

(Note: The Mirror will have more on the Jensen Beach cheerleaders next week, including the results of the 1978 cheerleading competition in Palm City. Upper Division Coach Carole Johnson will explain why Jensen Beach finished where they did in this year's contest.)

Tigers try to make Boca eighth victim

STUART--For the Martin County High School football Tigers, the 1978 season has been both surprising and disappointing.

Picked by many observers to finish as low as fifth or sixth in the Suncoast Eastern Division and District 11-AAAA races, the Tigers showed early that Coach Fred Chases's program was succeeding.

Disappointment came in the form of a last-second, miracle victory by the Lake Worth Trojans, as quarterback Danny Barrett lofted an 80-yard bomb to beat Martin County 28-21 and give the Trojans the championship.

Disappointment struck later in the form of a fumble deep in Vero Beach territory, a costly miscue which cost the Tigers a victory over the Indians. The result was loss number two and the end of any hopes of reaching the state's top ten in the weekly polls.

But overall, the Tigers feel that 1978 has been an overwhelming success, and a victory against the high-scoring Boca Raton Bobcats would be nothing more than icing on the cake.

The Bobcats (5-3) are led by the sensational Greg Fashaw, a candidate for area Player of the Year honors. Fashaw led the Bobcats to the semi-finals of the state playoffs a year ago, but this season has been a defensive nightmare for the Bobcats.

Each week, Boca Raton scores and scores and scores. But at the same time, their opponents have been doing the same type scoring, often doing more. So when the Bobcats, with their leaky defense, and the Tigers, with their cross your-fingers pass defense, meet at Tiger Stadium in Stuart, fans will be looking for an all-out, bombs away game.

Martin County has scored more points than any of their opponents, except Fort Pierce Central, Lake Worth, and Boca. The offense, sparked by the passing of David McCaughey and the receiving of David Deakins, has clicked throughout the year, and has saved Martin County on a few occasions.

Last week, still coming down from a 22-21 win over Fort Pierce, Martin County faced a speedy Glades Central team which ran over the Tigers on the ground, but couldn't come up with the points necessary to win the game.

The result was a 25-13 victory for the Tigers (7-2), who proved once and for all that they can win the tough ones. Deakins scored two touchdowns and the Tigers ran up an 18-0 halftime lead, but Glades fought back in the fourth quarter to narrow the gap to 18-13 before Martin County ate up the final four and one-half minutes with their final touchdown drive.

In other action, Fort Pierce Central travels to Palm Beach Gardens, for an 8 p.m. game Friday night. The Gators (1-7) have not shown any of the flashiness which earned them the conference title two years ago.

The Cobras, meanwhile, are coming off their second loss in a row, and look to finish the season with two victories and a 7-3 record.

Undefeated Suncoast lost for the first time last week, bowing to Cardinal Newman, 12-0, in other action, North Shore stopped Forest Hill 22-20; Boca Raton smacked Pompano Ely 34-22; Lake Worth remained unbesten, defeating Vero Beach 14-6; Pahokee nipped Jupiter 14-10; and Atlantic smashed Leonard 48-14.

Game time for the Tiger-Boca Raton game is 8 p.m. It will be the final 1978 game for Martin County, while Boca plays one more, against Key West November 17.

T-Birds to title

PALM CITY--The Indiantown Thunderbirds, led by running back Cleveland Gary and Quarterback Bobo McIntyre, outlasted the Stuart Hornets 18-6 to win the 1978 Lower Division championship at Palm City last Saturday.

Gary rushed for 76 yards on 20 carries as Indiantown took over control of the title tilt after the first drive and dominated the Hornets the rest of the way.

Quarterback McIntyre showed that he is probably the most likely candidate from his age group to take the crown as the quarterback of the Martin County High School Tigers, as he displayed the coolness that helped the T-Birds to a perfect (8-0) season.

Stuart had lost once before to the Thunderbirds, 13-0 in Indiantown, and until Saturday night, it had been their only loss of the season.

Perhaps it was the T-Birds' sophisticated option offense which enabled them to fight through a tough MCJFL schedule. McIntyre certainly looked like a pro running the offense, and the T-Birds have excellent backs for the system. Morris Hamilton is good ball carrier, but an even better blocker, and he led the way on almost all of Gadson's and Gary's trots.

Meanwhile, while all the experienced players played on offense (there is only one starter returning), the T-Birds defense was made up of many first-year starters.

Miami pipers will play at St. Andrew dance

Once again the Scots will be piping and dancing at Sandpiper Bay Saturday, Nov. 18, celebrating their tenth anniversary.

The St. Andrews Society of Florida is an organization made up of native and American-born Scots who are dedicated to remembering and celebrating their Scottish heritage.

Cocktails followed by a rib roast dinner will begin the evening with kilted pipers and tartan banners setting the mood.

President Col. James Walshe and Dr. David MacMillan will introduce the guests and master the ceremonies.

The St. Andrews Pipe Band of Miami led by John Sutherland will play traditional Scottish selections as the highlight of the evening. Highland dancing will follow.

After a drawing for the Ceilidh Kit and a March of the Tartans, ballroom dancing to the music of Ralph Imboden and the "Smoothies" will conclude the evening.

Proceeds from the drawing will go into the Scholarship fund which sponsors a continuing education in the Scottish Arts for young students.

Reservations may be made with Bill McKay, 287-7288; Mrs. David McMillan, 283-6742; Mrs. Jim Bracken, 878-41873, and Mrs. Pat Kenny at 461, -1444.

Barbershoppers plan night

The Martin County chapter of SPEBSQSA, the "barbershop singers", will host a special get-acquainted guest night for potential members Tuesday evening, Nov. 21, at the Stuart Women's Club. Chapter guests for the evening will be "The Coastmen", Florida district chorus champions from West Palm Beach. The 80-member Palm Beach County chorus earned the right at Lakeland early this month to represent the district in the international competition next summer at Minneapolis.

President John Hannaford of the Stuart chapter said the group is seeking a dozen new voices to swell the local chorus to 35 members.

Hannaford said there will be refreshments in addition to the entertainment by the Stuart and West Palm Beach chapters.

, you'll find a dedicated team of volunteers on duty at the school, providing those services and more.

They don't do it for pay, because they receive none. They do it because they care, and their reward is a lot more significant than money. It's the light of understanding they see in the eyes of children they work with, and the heart-felt thanks expressed by teachers, and the knowledge that they're helping improve the education of the school's youngsters.

This is the second year the entire St. Lucie County school system has had a volunteer program, and with the new school year, the program is growing, according to Judy James, chairman of a committee to coordinate the volunteer program.

"The main objective is to get more adults in the classrooms, so the students can have a one to one relationship with an adult and get more individualized help. The second objective is to get the community involved in the schools, so they'll feel a part of the school system and understand some of the problems the teachers face. We had 130 volunteers in the program last year and we've got so many applications that we're holding volunteer orientations nearly every week now," Mrs. James said.

Though the program has only been county-wide for two years, Mrs. James says the Port St. Lucie Elementary School has had a volunteer program for several years. "I believe they were the second school in the county to have a volunteer program, and since their program began, it's always been a strong program at the school," Mrs. James commented.

At the PSL school, kindergarten teacher Mrs. Nancy Dawson is the teacher coordinator for the volunteer program. Like Mrs. James, she has lots of praise for the job the volunteers are doing.

"They do a variety of things. Some do clerical work, some work with an individual child or a small group of children to help them with learning problems, and in a lot of cases, they serve a valuable function by just being there to listen and to say 'You're doing fine' to a child. They help free teachers to work with smaller groups of children too," Mrs. Dawson said.

Although they get no pay for their efforts, volunteers must apply for their positions just as if they were to be employed. And, they're expected to regard their work as a professional duty by being on time, letting the school know when they can't make it, and keeping a record of when they check in and out.

All persons who want to be volunteers must fill out application stating the grade level and school they prefer to work at and the nature of the work they want to do. The applications are reviewed and must be approved by the school board before a volunteer can work. And, all volunteers must go through an orientation program before reporting to a school, so they'll know the limits of their authority and know in what situations to leave things up to the teachers.

Mrs. Dawson says there are 16 "tutor-volunteers" working at the elementary school at present. Those volunteers have each pledged to work at least two hours a week in the school. However, Mrs. Dawson says many of the volunteers often work far more than two hours a week. "We even had one lately that came in on a teacher workday to help out," she said.

Mrs. Dawson says volunteers are only assigned to teachers who request them and says an effort is made to match the volunteers with the types of jobs they feel best at. "Some work well with younger children, and some feel more comfortable doing clerical work. But no matter what they do, they're providing a real benefit to the school," she said.

There seems to be no stereotype for the volunteers. Some are young mothers who have children in the school, and some are women whose children are past school age. "They seem to have pretty varied backgrounds and come from no specific age group," she said. And, Mrs. James added, "At Port St. Lucie, they're real good at using the resources of the retired community."

The program is going so well at PSL Elementary that some persons from the city have become volunteers in other schools. "We have about 10 volunteers at the Frances K. Sweet Elementary School from Port St. Lucie, who felt we had enough help here and that they were needed more at Sweet," Mrs. Dawson said.

Double sessions at Port St. Lucie Elementary School have apparently had no affect on the volunteer program, she commented.

In addition to the "tutor volunteers" who are committed to coming to school for at least two hours a week, the school also benefits from other volunteers who help out on special projects. For example, a total of 32 persons have volunteered to help with an environmental studies program. Because they volunteered, all students at the school will get to take a field trip this year to the Martin County Environmental Studies Center.

And, there is another volunteer program in the works. With the help of the Chamber of Commerce, a list is being compiled of businessmen and others in the area who have specialized knowledge in a particular subject. When the list is compiled, teachers will be able to call on those volunteers to come to their classes to give a speech or demonstration in their field of expertise.

Judging from the comments of volunteer workers at Port St. Lucie Elementary, the volunteers find their work very rewarding. "I'm doing it to help the children, and I find it very interesting here," says Mrs. Patricia Kadle, a volunteer in Mrs. Patty Helfelfinger's first grade class. "I have three children in this school. I wanted to volunteer last year, but my youngest son wasn't in school yet. But this year, I just jumped right into it. I love it," she added.

Mrs. Carol Johnston, a volunteer in Mrs. Annie Courtney's third grade class, took time out from helping a young girl work on shaping her letters to comment: "I volunteered because they needed help. My children come here and I enjoy working with children. I understand now the problems and frustrations the teachers have,and I feel the teachers deserve a lot more credit than they get. They're the backbone of this nation in helping children become responsible adults. More parents should come find out for themselves what's going on in the schools."

Following a wartime stint as a Marine pilot in World War II and the Korean War, Ransom R. Tilton joined his father's agency in 1954. Two years later Ransom acquired his agent's license and the Tiltons added life insurance to their other lines. The company moved to the present home of the W.R.Tilton Real Estate firm on Indian River Drive in 1966. there were three underwriters at that time and their territory included the northern part of Martin County and the southern section of St. Lucie County and Port St. Lucie.

While the Tiltons were pursuing their business interests in Jensen Beach, Ralph Hartman, Jr., son of a pioneer Stuart family, was operating his own insurance and real estate firm on Osceola Avenue. In 1972 his old highschool chum, Marine buddy and college roommate, Ransom Tilton, suggested they merge their insurance businesses into one firm. Agreeing that Hartman-Tilton was more euphonious than Tilton-Hartman, they set up the Hartman-Tilton Insurance Agency in the Bessemer Building in Sewall's Point. They still retain individual real estate operations.

Norman F. Wilson, Jr., was brought into the company as an officer and manager. He was previously vice-president of the nationwide brokerage of Fred S.James in Fort Lauderdale. In 1977 the name was changed to Hartman, Tilton & Wilson Insurance Agency. Today the titles read: Norman Wilson, president; Ralph Hartman, treasurer; and Ransom Tilton, secretary and vice-president.

That same year the company secured the services of Al Winters to form and head up a separate Life Division. He had formerly been with the Life Division for Florida of the Commercial Union Life Insurance Company.

In 1975, Hartman, Tilton & Wilson opened their first Port St. Lucie Branch in the Citizens Federal Building. They have just completed the move into their new colonial style brick building at 8800 S. U.S.1, Port St. Lucie.

C.Graham Laidlaw, a Jacksonville native, is branch manager. He joined the firm a year and a half ago as an account executive in the main office. He has been in the insurance industry for 26 years and was a commercial multi-peril underwriter with the Aetna Insurance Company in Jacksonville prior to coming here. He is president of the Martin County Insurance Agents Association and makes his home in Jensen Beach with his wife Marjorie and two sons.

Bonnie Postelwaite is office supervisor and a personal lines and commercial underwriter. She is originally from Syracuse, N.Y., and was with the Delray Beach Insurance Agency for six years. Ms. Postelwaite has been with Hartman, Tilton & Wilson for five years and in the Port St. Lucie branch from its inception. She resides in Port St. Lucie.

The third Port St. Lucie staff member is Mary Wilkinson who serves as an underwriter. She first joined the company in 1975, returned briefly to her native Illinois and rejoined the staff in July. She is also a part-time student at Indian River Community College and previously worked for the Ocala Insurance Agency. Her specialty will be personal lines.

Today Hartman, Tilton and Wilson's operations are international in scope with accounts as far away as Quito, Ecuador. They presently have 16 employees, more than 5,000 clients and have plans underway for a new main office building in... appropriately enough...Jensen Beach.

Insurance men honor new firm

Insurance executives from throughout the state came in on Tuesday, to congratulate Ralph Hartman, Ransom Tilton and Norman Wilson on the opening of the firm's new office building at Mediterranean and U.S.1, one of the most architecturally-attractive structures along the highway in the Port St. Lucie area.

The occasion was the official open house for the branch office. Although it opened its doors for business on Nov.1, the introductory celebration was stalled until inevitable opening rough spots could be ironed out.

Tilton and Wilson, along with Tilton's wife LaVaughn were in the welcoming line with the new manager Graham Laidlaw, office supervisor Bonie Postlewaite and underwriter Mary Wilkinson.

Among the first visiting brass to arrive were Arvin C. West of Jacksonville, production superintendent for Continental Insurance Companies; Marvin R. Ryals of Palm Beach, special agent for the same company; Robert J. Schultz, of Fort Lauderdale, field representative for the Central National Insurance Group of Omaha, and Paul J. Klaus, marketing representative for Reliance Insurance Companies, out of Orlando.

Port St. Lucie Mayor William McChesney was one of the area dignitaries attending the event.

Church ordinance hits snag

A new ordinance to allow a greater variety of church sites in the city of Port St. Lucie hit a snag when it came up for second and final reading before the city council Tuesday.

Currently, churches are allowed as a special exception use under zoning classifications that apply to park and public facility areas. But some city officials felt there was a need to allow for churches to be located in other areas, and on tracts smaller than those set aside for public facilities. So, a new ordinance was proposed that would allow churches in residential areas, provided they're on tracts at least two acres large.

But when a provision of the new law which would prohibit parochial schools from operating at those sites was questioned, council members decided the proposed law will have to be studied further before a final vote is taken on it.

Assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman said the city is not trying to prohibit parochial schools in the city, but is just prohibiting them in the residential areas. "There are places now where churches can locate and operate a school. But we're saying they shouldn't be allowed in the residential areas and are saying we don't want to allow them there when we would not allow an individual to come in and start a school in a residential area," he said.

In addition to questions raised over parochial schools, others were raised about whether the law would allow vacation Bible schools or day care operations at churches in residential areas. The council is to discuss the ordinance proposal at an upcoming workshop meeting.

In other action the council passed the final reading of an ordinance which spells out the types of businesses that can operate in a B-1 (neighborhood commercial center) zoning category. First reading approval was voted on an ordinance to allow General Development to build 18 new units of Sandpiper Villas within the city's 75-foot setback limit on multi family buildings next to the North Fork. The ordinance provides a special exception that will allow 15 of the units to be within 50 feet of the river and three units within 35 feet of the river. The Villas project was platted before the 75-foot setback law was enacted, and assistant city attorney said since that is the case, he felt the city would have to grant the exceptions.

Site plan approvals for a plumbing company warehouse and retail outlet in the GDC Industrial Park and for 12 lots in phase two of the Vikings Landing project were approved by the council.

The council gave the go-ahead to city manager Leonard Silvia to start a city maintenance department. The council had already budgeted $93,000 this year for the department, and Silvia says he hoped it can get going within a month.

Silvia also reported that he has checked into the possibility of a blinking warning light for the intersection of U.S.1 and Midport Road and said it could probably be installed in about three weeks. The intersection is under construction now and is to be opened to traffic soon.

The city manager further reported that the State Department of Transportation has agreed to conduct a U.S.1 corridor study from Fort Pierce to Stuart next year. He said the city's concern is to learn if there is enough right-of way for an eventual six laning of the highway through the city and, if not, to find out how feasible it would be to obtain it.

City Planner Mike Saunyog, who hopes the stretch of Pruitt Road from Port St. Lucie Boulevard to Morningside Boulevard can eventually become a divided roadway, said he has received notice from GDC that the firm will donate right-of-way along its land for the job, provided the other landowners along the road donate their land. Saunyog said he is still waiting for a reply from the other two landowners.

Chinese Auction conducted tonight

Tonight's the night for a Chinese Auction to be held at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School.

The Auction is sponsored by the school's Parent, Teacher, Students, Friends Group and is to raise cash for sending each student on a field trip.

Handicrafts and a variety of miscellaneous items will be offered at the auction. A bake booth will also be featured.

The public is, of course, invited to attend the auction.

PSL Anglers to hear Kindred on Recreation

The regular meeting of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club will be Tuesday, November 21st at 7:30 p.m. at the Marina on Prima Vista Blvd.

After the business meeting, Tom Kindred, superintendent of recreation for St. Lucie County will speak about winter recreation programs, beach access areas and capitol projects for the county.

-P bike path becomes issue; Public hearing set Dec. 6

BY SALLY LATHAM

...nsion in the ranks over the ...ed bike path along Sewall's ...t Road has invoked a special Dec. ...eeting on the subject, to get the ...payers' pro-or-con opinions on the ...ject. It will take place prior to the ...lar December workshop.

...he decision to seek input was ...arrived at during last week's Town Commission meeting, after Commissioner Clinton Towl questioned the advisability of "spending the town's money for a very few people."

Towl's objection came after Town Engineer Richard Hellstrom reported on his study of the project. The $10,000 already budgeted, Hellstrom said, will pay for approximately 3,000 feet of path, which would extend north as far as Perrwinkle Lane.

Hellstrom said he had consulted with an official of the Department of Natural Resources, who recommended that the project be a bike lane instead of a separate path, like another traffic lane, and that it not be limited to one side of the road.

Mayor Ed Gluckler interjected that such a lane would "triple the problem, not double it." Gluckler, however, maintained that the path is a necessity, for the sake of minimizing the hazard along the narrow two-lane road.

The mayor pointed out that the path was a recommendation of the Citizens' Committee, which considers it essential for purposes of safety. Commissioner Earl Crawford, one of the strong proponents of building the path, was all for anteing up the money to do the whole job, which has been estimated at approximately $26,000, instead of doing it piecemeal.

"It looks like trying to hit a spike with a tackhammer," he said. "It seems foolish to run a few hundred yards at a time."

Crawford indicated he favors taking the bike path clear to the north town line. If this plan were to follow through, it would coordinate with the county's bike path plan. County Commissioner Frank Wacha has indicated he will be at the Dec. 6 meeting to explain the county plans.

In other business, the bugbear of the zoning law definition arose when Commissioner John Guenther said he had turned down the building permit request made by Paul Larnola of Vero Beach, because of the latter's after-the-fact switch in declaring which side was to be the "front."

The proposed home, builder for which is to be Tom Sylvester, is planned as a large one, and on an odd-shaped lot. When the plans were drawn, it was discovered to be non-complying because of the set backs on sides and back. Larnola, after discovering the discrepancy, asked to have the side on River Road declared the "front." Guenther told the other commissioners he'd turned it down, because the permit application had already defined the side on Riverview as the front.

The technicality of definition was argued by attorney Terry McCarthy, who found himself on the outside of the bench, inside of which he frequently sits. In the past year, he has been acting as Town Attorney on numerous occasions, subbing for appointed Town Attorney Tom Thurlow, Jr. McCarthy wrote the comprehensive ordinance relating to setback lines.

Thurlow, in the town lawyer's seat, agreed with McCarthy's stand. The commissioners, however, sided with Guenther. The petitioner was told to come up with an alternate solution and to re apply for his building permit after some compromise could be reached.

Tenor, soprano recital is Sunday

The second concert of this year's Florida Institute of Technology Performing Arts Series will feature David Sprenkle, tenor, and Ms. Sarah Nell Summers, soprano, accompanied by pianist Stan Doyle.

The varied program, including art songs, French music, and operatic works by Puccini and Mozart, will begin at 3 Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, in the F I T chapel.

Sprenkle received his Bachelor's degree at West Chester State College, Pa., in Music Education, later completing his Master of Music degree in Voice. Since 1975 he has taught on the faculty of Palm Beach Atlantic University in voice and trombone. He also serves as director of the Chamber Singers and the Collegium.

Ms. Summers graduated from Baylor University, Texas, and from the Southwest Seminary at Fort Worth. For the past six and one-half years she has taught voice, music literature, and sacred music subjects as a faculty member of Palm Beach Atlantic University also.

Doyle received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Music degrees at the Conn Conservatory of Music, and served as the Progra. Director of WPTV, Channel 5, West Palm Beach. He joined the faculty of Palm Beach Atlantic ten years ago at the university's founding, and became well-known as the former Director of the 1000 Voices organization. He is the current chairman of the university's music department and Director of the Youth Symphony.

Jensen Travel sets open house

Jensen Travel Service, which moved into new offices during the summer, will have its official Open House on Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the former Mirror office on Commercial Street.

The occasion will actually be a double header. The growingly-popular travel concern is simultaneously holding open house in its second office, in Salerno Village Square. Hours there will be 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

On hand to welcome visitors at the Jensen facility will be co-owners Stanley Smith and Helen Engebretson and their staff. Chief welcomer at the Salerno office will be Penny Halstead, who has been in the travel industry for seven years.

Mrs. Engebretsen boasts of the fact that, among all the members of the agency, "we have a combined knowledge of 70 years in travel."

She alone has been in the business for 15 years, and Smith has had an equal number. She joined him shortly after Smith, formerly one of the country's largest chrysanthemum growers, "retired from retirement" to turn his love of travel to profit.

Others on the local staff are Diana Apostolopoulos, who came to Jensen from another travel agency and who had also been with United and Allegheny Airlines; Sis Bonglorni, a veteran of eight years in the travel business; Colleen Maynard, with two and a half years' experience; Ellen Strauss, with one and a half years, and Bettye Aderholdt, with four years' experience.

The firm also has two outside sales persons, Ginger Tatoul and Salli Campbell.

Demonstrators visit H-I plant

The promised invasion of Hutchinson Island by anti nuclear demonstrators on Monday proved to be somewhat of a dud, for the handful of spectators expecting excitement.

As a performance, it turned out to be "too little and too late." Of the anticipated 25 vehicles in caravan that set out from Miami over the weekend, only three vans carrying 10 persons showed up, nearly an hour later than the previously announced time.

Gene Van Curen, district manager of Florida Power and Light, had been out by the road in front of Nuclear Plant 1 for more than an hour and a half, when they began arriving, at 11:45 a.m.

The gaudily-painted and somewhat shabby vans with signs like Caravan for "a Non Nuclear Future" were manned with equally shabby demonstrators, most of whom gave evidence of being hippies.

"We had about a two minute discussion, and I answered all their stock questions," Van Curen said. "It was mostly for the benefit of the two newsmen present."

The news media, including two television units, had gathered in force earlier, but some of them had become impatient and trickled away during the long wait.

Also tagging along with the mini-caravan were three representatives of Westinghouse, who were there to insure that both sides of the nuclear-plant story was told, Van Curen said.

Irene Chapman heads Sandpiper Bay Ladies

Irene Chapman will takeover the gavel as president of the Sandpiper Bay Ladies Golf Association during the semi-annual meeting held recently at this south-county resort.

Mrs. Chapman succeeds Helen Purcell. Other officers elected were Kay Bonz, vice president; Bee Miller, secretary; 0 and Wilma Leary, treasurer.

During the brief ceremonies, Mrs. Chapman presented her predecessor with a gift and thanked her for a very successful year.

Riveretts will join rendezvous

The Port St. Lucie Riveretts will join with other area clubs in the Treasure Coast Council Rendezvous on Thursday, Nov. 16 at the Hilton Inn in Jupiter.

Registration for the event begins at 9:30 a.m. and from 10 a.m. to noon there will be booths, tables and a general boutique. The boutique will feature gourmet or practical foods, baskets of cheer and other items. Card games will follow a luncheon at noon.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 878-2659.

Due to Thanksgiving week, there will be no club business meeting on Monday, Nov. 20.

The Riveretts will hold a Christmas party on Friday, Dec. 8, at the Pelican Yacht Club in Fort Pierce.

Italian-Americans elect new officers

John Crisci was selected as president of the Port St. Lucie Italian-American Club during a recent meeting when club members elected officers for the new year.

Other officers elected include Helta Gilberti, vice president; Florence Dabney, secretary; and James Finguerra, treasurer.

The club's one year directors are Vincent Alpino and Jay Santoniciito. Two year directors are Carmine Gilberti, Jerry Saffioti, and Tony Pacifico.

The club's next meeting will be held Sunday, Nov. 19 at the North Port Marina. At that meeting, plans will be made for the coming holiday season.

NARFE meets Monday at PSL Community Center

The Port St. Lucie Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday, November 20, at 2:00 p.m. at the Community Center on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Election of new officers for the coming year will be held.

My Sincere Thanks to all of you for the support and hard work which made my election possible.

ARE RINGING—A handsome addition to the Beach Community Church is the original of three talented men of the congregation, Adrian Shuring, Otto Lein and artist Carl who executed the Handbell Dedication scroll which bears the names of 38 donors to the handbell collection. Shuring and Lein were responsible for the mounting holding the scroll and large bell. Thanks to the generosity of the congregation, handbell music will be a feature of all the church services from now on.

vinrude honored in absentia

Evinrude, chairman of the Outboard Marine Corpora honored in absentia Monday night, as one of the "Society of University Founders" of Florida Institute of Technology.

The occasion was a resplendent Donor Recognition Banquet, held at the Port Malabar Country Club in Melbourne. Evinrude and his wife Frances were to have been present to receive the honors, but they had to cancel at the last minute because of illness.

The local man, who was largely responsible for bringing the FIT campus to Jensen Beach, was cited for his major financial support through both the Ralph Evinrude Foundation, Inc., and the Ole Evinrude Foundation. Ole Evinrude, father of the FIT benefactor, was inventor of the first practical outboard motor, and founder of Evinrude empire.

Evinrude was among 11 high-ranking donors in the "founders" category so honored. Others were John Boone of the Decius Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hartley of the Harris Corporation, Herbert Holm of the Edyth Bush Charitable Foundation, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. R. Murtagh of the Booth Ferris Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. A.C.Newlin of the Henry L. and Grace Doherty Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. David Roberts of the Bush Charitable Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Scherrer of General Electric, Mr. and Mrs. D.M.Welsh of International Business Machines Corporation, and RCA Corporation.

The assemblage was particularly honored to have as speaker Dr. Edward Teller, atomic scientist who is known as the "father of the hydrogen bomb."

Dr. Teller, one of the giants of the atomic age, is ranked with Dr. Albert Einstein, Enrico Fermi, and J. Robert Oppenheimer in the world of scientific advancement. Vitally concerned with the peaceful uses of nuclear energy, he is now the consultant to the Lawrence Laboratory at Livermore, Calif. He holds many international honors, including the Ernest O. Lawrence Award from the President of the United States.

Another from this area to be recognized for outstanding contributions to FIT at the dinner was Miss Marilyn Link, of the Link Foundation.

Miss Link, Director of Harbor Branch Foundation north of Fort Pierce, is the sister of inventor oceanographer Edwin Link, who is a partner with Seward Johnson

ariety of tenants signed to Village Green Shopping Center

t. Lucie residents will enjoy a of goods and services at the Green shopping center when it nest fall at the corner of U.S.1 ision Road.

first tenants to sign leases with Development Corporation for e phase one of the complex are, Green Sporting Goods, Jane Shop, Village Green Travel y, Chappelle's Hallmark, Vil- Green Beauty Shop, and Eckerd

Founded in 1952 by Jack Eckerd, the company has a total of 910 stores in the southeastern U.S., with 382 throughout Florida. The 16,800 square foot Village Green Eckerd Drugs will be entirely full service and open seven days a week.

Enthusiasts of all sports will find items to indulge in at Village Green Sporting Goods. Owner-manager Hal Tolson will bring his retail expertise to Florida from Macon, Georgia, where he has had a grocery and package store business for 18 years.

Tolson and his nephew-assistant, Steve Swartzel, feel that the Port st. Lucie area is a natural for an outdoor sporting goods operation. Golfers and tennis bums will be happy to know that an extensive golf and tennis selection is planned, including footwear, clothing and accessories. Maintenance services such as tennis racquet restringing will also be available.

Port St. Lucie ladies will want to browse through the Jane Morris Shop Specializing in women's sportswear, dresses and separates, it will carry such names as Butte Knits, Kay Windsor and LeRoy.

The James Morris family first came to the Treasure Coast seven years ago and decided to gradually move their empire of shops from Minnesota to Florida. They opened Jane Morris Shops in Stuart and Jensen Beach and made Florida their winter home.

For those who aspire to exotic vacations, the Village Green Travel Agency will help you plan every detail whether you wish to fly to Europe or take a cruise to Hawaii. Experienced agents will assist you in finding Caribbean hideaways or in booking domestic air travel.

Chappell's Hallmark will be familiar to most Port St. Lucie shoppers. Owners Joseph and Emily Chappelle will bring thier complete Hallmark line and gift selection to the Village Green.

"She's the boss and I'm the warehouseman, stock boy and bookkeeper," Chappelle laughs. The Chappelles, who restred and left their New Jersey home three years ago, have kept busy with their other two area stores.

When the Chappelles decided to vacation in Florida instead of St. Croix one year, they came to Port St. Lucie and ended up buying two homesites from General Development. Now with three homes, two sites and three stores, it looks as though they're here to stay.

Another element of fashion will brought to Port St. Lucie by the Village Green Beauty Shop. Owners C & J, Inc. pledge to pamper with the latest styles and luxurious manicures and facials. Operators will be well-versed in how to make you look and feel your best with the help of the latest beauty care products and equipment.

Richard Swerling, General Development vice president of commercial properties, said working drawings for the design of the stores are nearing completion. Construction is expected to begin on the 30-acre site early next year, with completion of the 188,000 square foot first phase scheduled for fall 1979.

The Village Green is a multi-phased theme shopping complex which will contain more than 50 retail stores encompassing a total of 250,000 square feet. The one-stop mall concept will be enhanced by three separate promenades, each with a distinctive decor, and a Designers Circle, featuring exclusive boutiques.

eminar tonight on Florida water

Port St. Lucie Community will present an educational ar on "Florida Water" at 7:30 Thursday, Nov. 16.-

ey M. Jester, President of Treatment Co. of Fort Pierce will conduct the seminar. He hopes to have Thomas Vaughn, who runs the water plant for General Development Utilities, on hand to participate in the question and answer session that will be a part of the program. Both men are certified by the Florida Department of Environmental Regulations, according to Jester.

"People from northern states become confused when they move into Florida and find that they have rotten water. We'll try to help them understand why and tell how them how to change it," Jester said.

Films on "hypertension" and "Heart Attacks" will be shown at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on November 29 and December 6.

On Wednesday, November 29, Port St. Lucie pharmacist Sidney Tanner will present the first of the two showings and will discuss hypertension in cooperation with the National Institute of Health, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. This showing is part of HEW's drive to uncover this disease and treat it, in an effort to prevent heart disease and kidney failure.

The second film, on heart attacks, will be shown by Tanner on Wednesday, December 6.

Although both programs are free to the public, if you plan to attend, please call the Center at 878-1300 or pre-register there before November 29.

The commander Peter Zamaites of V.F.W.Post 10130, Port St. Lucie, and Ladies Auxiliary President Lelia Basler wish to thank mayor W.B.McChesney for the city council proclamation allowing the sale of V.F.W.Buddy Poppies on Nov.10 and 11 by the post members, and for the purchase he made to start the drive.

We wish to thank The Port St. Lucie Mirror for the beautiful write-up of the sale and the pictures with the story.

The Poppy Chairmen, Robert McGarry & William Galea, and Ladies Auxiliary Chairlady Peg Zamaites and all the members wish to thank all the wonderful people who purchased Poppies.

With their help we will be able to give needed items to the veterans in hospitals, nursing homes, and to the widows and children of the veterans, which is why we have the drive each year.

Last, but not least, we wish to thank all the members who sold poppies.

This was a very successful drive.

LIQUIDITY IN REAL ESTATE

QUESTION: I recently read an article which states that "the owner of investment property very seldome is subject to such wide paper value fluctuations (as in mutual funds)," but also points out that mutual fund salespeople will argue that real estate does not provide "liquidity." Please comment.

ANSWER: The answer to the problem of "liquidity," or freeing cash readily, lies in the area of refinancing mortgage indebtedness. The owner can refinance his mortgage if he isn't already highly mortgaged. This can usually be done without much delay. Any capital obtained through financing (hold your breath) is tax free UNLESS the building is sold! This is because no "taxable event" (sale) has taken place.

The argument that the real estate owner is not liquid doesn't hold much water. If a buyer wants to sell, he can sell quickly. Granted, he will most likely obtain a higher price if he waits and thoroughly exposes his property to the market. Some people point out that investors in common stock can pick up the phone and sell, but they can sell only at what the market will pay, which could be well below what they would obtain if they waited for a more favorable time.

We can do the same thing with real estate--sell at what the market will pay.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-4747, or stop by.

Voting complex and decisive

Voting wasn't the "conversation piece" as expected, although the seniors did chew it over a bit. Many seemed surprised that Martin County went Republican in opposition to the rest of the state, but they did give trouble voting against the casinos and county gas tax as the record showed, but, when asked about the constitution revisions, time after time they said, "I couldn't understand them so I voted "NO". Further, conversation along these lines brought out that most seniors were very much in favor of these referendums as they are losing faith in the elected officials.....but they say, "Make them simple and understandable".

Most seniors as the record shows were glad to get some old friends as their state representatives, such as Chuck Nergard for the 76 district who had been up in Tallahassee many times before and Dr. Wm. Myers for the 77 district as he was an old friend from the Martin County Commission. As the close vote shows, many were sorry to see that their equally good friends Dale Cassens and Bill Taylor didn't make it.

The democrats the majority of votes, showing that most of the elederly are independent cusses after all. Most of the seniors didn't have any

The HCCC (Health Cost Containment Committee) reared its battered head again last week when the Aging Americans of this area realized President Carter's new Anti-Inflation program didn't have guidelines for health costs. Some said such things as, "why don't the AMA and the rest of the Medical Profession get us out of this mess, they've been controlling the situation for years, so they should know how to get us out". Some predicted if the cost trend wasn't reversed soon there would be such a demand for socialized medicine that congress would have to go along just to get elected. Most of the older Americans are too darn proud and indepentent to go for anything as unamerican as that...so they are rooting for HCCC.

One senior found that there are often some free or low cost health services that are not too well known and suggested that the HCCC make these services better known. One recent one was the "Aventists" traveling clinic that visits the area 3 times a year for blood pressure checks, hemoglobin tests and diabetes & cholesteral screening.

They put out a self scoring chart so you can get an idea if you might be heading for a heart problem. You give yourself a rating from 1 to 6 in the six items of Heredity, exercize, age, weight, tobacco use and fat intake. Higher the number the worse the condition. No history of family heart trouble is 1; 2 or more family under 60 with heart problems is 6. Same idea for the other categories. No smoking is 1; 30 or more cigarettes a day is 6. Final scores of less than 10, chances probably remote of having a heart problem, but in the 30s it could be an urgent problem. For complete information on this chart call 334-0756. Also along these lines of Free Health Care Service, remember the Martin County Health Dept. has a clinic, the third Friday of each month at Langford Field 9 to 11 a.m. That's this week, Fri, Nov. 17, and there will be a Nutritionist in attendance to advise on special diets. For those who have questions regarding health insurance, there will be a consultant in room 13 at the Port St. Lucie Medical Center from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Friday, November 17.

Treasure Coast Congregate Meal recreational programs should be getting more musical, as the piano has been cleaned, repaired, and tried out and ready to go for a gala Christmas party Friday, December 22. The members have been asked to come up with ideas for the party, even to having a joke tree. But, long before that, there'll have a special treat as Leta Williams, president of MCCA and the local representative to the Silver Haired Legislation, will tell the congregated mealers just what went on at the summer session of the Silver Haired Legislature. That will be on Betty Mattix, assistant site mgr., reminds the participants that no meals will be served, Nov. 23 & 24, Thanksgiving holidays.

Chapter Events

There was a good lively meeting of the ExCom on Thursday (Nov. 9) at the Living Center of Martin County. As there was a quorum of Board members present, a number of motions were acted on. Here are some of the pertenent ones.

The board sanctioned the chapter's participation in the community hccc with the health committee keeping the chapter informed.

Approved having the Triennial Review team luncheon at the Living Center with other guests welcome.

Bill Koolage, asst state AARP director for district to the north, will be asked to officiate at the chapter installation on Dec. 14.

The Dec. general meeting will be moved up a week to Dec. 14 so as not to conflict with Christmas holiday plans of the seniors who will be having grandchildren down for the event.

Therefore the Dec. ExCom will have to be moved up a week. It will be held 10 to 12 p.m. Dec. 7 at Langford Field with the usual picnic following at 12 noon. Fortunately no bulletin mailing preparation this month at picnic time as the date is so late in the month.

Committee questions who should pay for Midport improvements

BY BOB FRYER

Just how much responsibility General Development Corporation should bear in providing governmental services for the impact its proposed Midport project will have on the area will apparently be a hotly contested issue when the Midport plans come up for final review.

The first formal review of the project by city officials took place on Monday, when members of the city's Long Range Planning Committee met with city planner Mike Sznyog.

Still based on comments from committee members and Sznyog, the issue of who is to pay for the needed improvements the project will create will be a major consideration by city officials.

The massive project, planned to begin construction next year and to house 5,503 persons by its completion in 1981, is to be developed on 1,950 acres east of U.S.1, between the GDC Industrial Park's southern boundary and a point opposite the U.S.1-Lyngate Drive intersection.

The Midport development is to include 667 single family homes, 536 medium density (eight units per acre) units, and 1,008 high density (12 units per acre) units. A huge shopping center, to begin with 198,000 square feet of shopping area and to eventually contain 500,00 square feet of shopping space, is planned for a 52-acre parcel at the southeast corner of Walton Road and U.S.1. Also included in plans are 47 acres for office parks, three small neighborhood commercial shopping centers, a motel, 490 acres of drainage-open land, and sites for one city park, a medical center, and elementary, middle and high schools.

Because of the size of the project, it is being reviewed by the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council as well as by city officials.

The Long Range Planning Committee, a sub-committee of the Planning and Zoning Board, began its review Monday. Other P & Z Board committees are scheduled to study various aspects of the project in the next few weeks, then the full board will make comments and suggestions on the project to the city council.

City council members are currently studying the book-sized application for the project and are to hold a public hearing on the Midport plans on Jan.16. And, the Treasure Coast council is to hear recommendations from its staff at a December meeting before the regional council members vote on the plans.

Long Range Planning Committee members Hughes Brininger, Ralph Waite and Clyde Blunt met with city planner Mike Sznyog on Monday, and raised several questions about what the project's impact will be on governmental services who will pay for them.

In spite of the length of the application document and its supplements, planner Sznyog criticized it for leaving a number of questions unanswered as to whether GDC would pay for improvements or expect governmental agencies to foot the bill.

"There is a question of costs on who is going to pay for what," the planner commented during a discussion of road improvements the application document said were needed to handle the population.

"It seems a very cavalier gesture on their (GDC's) part in saying, 'Well, there are federal programs for which you can apply for, and in 20 years you may get some money to put in these improvements' " Sznyog said in reference to information GDC provided on how some capital improvements should be paid for.

Roads were of prime concern during the committee meeting, as members discussed what sort of improvements to Walton Road, U.S.1 and a number of intersections in the area would be needed as a result of the Midport development. GDC engineer Ken Miller, in an earlier interview, commented that the firm felt the county would have an obligation to improve Walton Road, as it is a county road.

On Monday, Sznyog said he felt that Walton Road and "everything within the boundaries [of the Midport project] should be a GDC responsibility to improve." He later added, "Without Midport, there would be no need for any of those improvements."

The timing of improvements that will be needed by the project was also a matter of concern. The planner said he could not tell from the application when some of the improvements GDC is committed to making are to be made.

Committee member Blunt commented that in a number of areas, jurisdictions of concern overlap. Committee members noted that in the case of roads, schools, drainage and solid waste disposal, other governments had responsibility for services. But, they agreed those areas should also be a city concern because city residents would ultimately pay a share in taxes for the services.

When the needs for schools to house the student population from the Midport project came up, GDC's figures on the projected student enrollment from Midport were questioned. Sznyog said in the origianl application, GDC estimated that 16 per cent of the population would be students, but he said in a supplemental application document, the estimate was revised downward to 10 per cent. A question arose over the projected population of residents over 65 years of age also arose. 'A lot of young people are coming to Port St. Lucie because this is where the lower-priced housing is," said committee chairman Brininger.

Sznyog, who criticized other population estimates as well, said some of the information on expected school enrollment was based on information from GDC's development in the POrt Charlotte area. He said GDC should have been able to gather information from the Port St. Lucie area to base their projections on.

Brininger also expressed concern over the stormwater drainage system proposed for the project.

Discussion limited in grass hearings

BY BOB FRYER

Ahhough two "hearings" were held on Port St. Lucie's grass law during the city council's meeting Thursday, at least one man who protested the law doesn't feel the council heard enough.

Until January, with the city's first grass ordinance was declared unconstitutional, the city required homeowners to keep their grass less than six inches tall.

Robert Schweiger of Clearmont Street challenged that law and Circuit Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge said the law was unconstitutional because it applied only to homeowners and not to owners of vacant lots.

A few months later the city council passed a new grass law, upping the limit on forbidden grass to 12 inches and applying the law to all lands within 30 feet of a building.

Provisions of the law for violators to be notified their lots aren't in compliance with the law. The violators are asked to remedy the situation themselves or for the city to have the job done, then bill the landowners. If the owners refuse to pay, there are provisions for the city to attach a lien against the land for the amount of the mowing bill.

But the law also provides an appeal avenue for landowners, giving them the right to state their objections to the law at a formal hearing by the city council.

The first person to protect the new law was Dimitry Alexander, an attorney from Davie, Florida. He didn't appear at his hearing, but had a letter read into the record. The council made a finding that Alexander's lot was in violation, then the attorney filed a suit against the city, contesting the constitutionality of the law. A hearing on a motion in that case is expected to be held Monday, Nov. 20th, but assistant city attorney Charles Dorfman said he is not sure when the case will go to trial.

Since Alexander filed the suit, three other lotowners have objected to the law. Hearings before the city council were set for those three on Tuesday. One man, Olimpio Philipe of Stuart, could not be there, so his hearing will be conducted later.

However, the other two cases were heard Tuesday and council members voted in both cases to find the owners in violation of the law.

Pierre Vignau of Boca Raton was one of the persons found in violation, but says he doesn't feel he got a proper opportunity to state his case against the law and says he'll continue to monitor the city's actions in regard to his property, holding out the possibility he may file a suit against the city over the matter.

On several occasions, Vignau started arguing the merits of the law and asked what the reasoning was for th 12-inch limit. But assistant city attorney Dorfman put limitations on what Vignau could talk about and on what comments the city council members could make in regard to the law. He said the purpose for the hearing was strictly limited to a finding of fact as to whether or not the grass on Vignau's lot was higher than 12 inches.

"He (Vignau) can't contest the constitutionality of the law here. He would have to take that to a court of law," Dorfman said.

Vignau, who is head of the language department at St. Andrews Prep School in Boca Raton, said he started cutting a portion of his lot, but stopped because he felt to cut the growth would lead to erosion of his land. "Why 12 inches," he asked.

Dorfman quickly commented "The ordinance itself is not on trial."

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb aske, "Can't we explain the reasoning for why 12 inches was set?"

Dorfman replied, "I would not recommend it.

"Is this a signal to citizens that if they disagree with the substance of an ordinance that they can't come here and question it, but will have to take it to court?" asked Herb Tschudy, president of the Port St. Lucie Civic League.

The assistant city attorney said this is not the case, but said discussions of the substance of ordinances should come up as a separate matter and should not be considered during the "finding of fact" hearing.

Vignau then read the letter he received from the city, telling him when he could come to the council for the hearing. He said the letter didn't indicate the hearing would be so limited.

When advised to watch the progress of the Alexander case before making a decision to contest the law in court, Vignau asked if he would be allowed to let the vegetation on his lot go unmowed until that case is decided.

Dorfman said this would not be the case.

In the second hearing, for a vacant lot owned by Anthony and Louise Murphy of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Bertha Gerard appeared on behalf of the Murphys. She said she felt the 80-foot limit was discriminatory, but, like Vignau, was not permitted to discuss the reasoning for the ordinance.

Following the hearings, Vignau said he would probably not take steps right away to oppose the law, but said he would watch Alexander's case and said he also plans to count the number of small trees on his lot. He said if the city mowed his lot and cut down the trees, he would probably file a suit against the city. "I came 75 miles up here for this, and they wouldn't let me say what I wanted to," he commented. He also said he was unaware a home had been built within 80 feet of his lot until he was notified he was in violation of the law.

Martin County Historical Society opening cocktail party was a success

The Martin County Historical Society's membership cocktail party, always one of the brilliant events of the season, was at its most scintillating Friday evening, as some 200 of the area's most prominent leaders filled the galleries of Elliot Museum.

It was also a special milestone for both the board and for executive director Janet Hutchinson. For the first time, the membership has soared over the 1,000 mark.

"We have more than 140 new members this year," Miss Hutchinson told The Mirror. "The total membership is now 1,013."

When Miss Hutchinson took on the job of director on Dec. 13, 1965, the society had only 127 members. The combined sparks of enthusiasm engendered by her, her assistant Emaline Paige, and increasngly energetic boards, have built it into one of the most active historical societies in the state.

The Society offers a varied cultural and social season throughout the fall, winter and spring months. Each month, a new artist is featured in the museum art gallery, and its Christmas program is famous throughout the Treasure Coast area.

ity to buy five park sites and accept Thornhill freebie months of inaction on an offer General Development Corporation use city a 20-acre park and to e city five other park sites for Port St. Lucie city council decided Tuesday to accept land and buy the other five Councilman Schuyler Sharpe ght the matter of parks before the Tuesday, saying he felt it was the city either told GDC it would reject its offer of a 20-acre site off Florida Drive at Lake. And, he said he felt the ought to establish a program of buying other park sites, developing them as the need arises and as money becomes available.

BY BOB FRYER

The council members decided to buy the five park sites by spreading payments on the $77,408 price tag over a five year period. No funds were specifically earmarked for park site acquisition in the current fiscal year budget, so it is not yet known how much the city can pay toward the parks this year.

City acceptance of the 20-acre Thornhill Lake park offer could result in a suit against the city, if a homeowner on the lake, Robert Schweiger, carries through on a threat he made earlier in arguing against the city acceptance of the park. He and several other lakefront homeowners formed a homeowners association recently in efforts to negotiate with GDC for control of the lands surrounding the lake. They argued that if the city turned the land into a park, problems with erosion and trespassers would increase. But GDC president William Aveila recently said he would not negotiate with the homeowners unless the city declined the offer of the free park land.

City planner Mike Szunyog, who has for months been on record in favor of obtaining the Thornhill Lake park site, noted that the city may be able to obtain a grant for development of the site into a passive park. He said there was plenty of usable land without having to have people too close to the lakefront homes.

The five park sites to be purchases include: a 16-acre tract at the corner of Midport Road and Lyngate Drive for $56,756; a 6.3-acre site at Bayshore Drive and Swan Avenue for $3,853; and 11-acre site along Westmoreland Boulevard at Howard Creek for $7,072; a 6.4-acre site at Bayshore and Eyerly Avenue for $3,857; and a 9.5-acre tract at the corner of Bayshore and Prima Vista Boulevard for $5,852.

The reason for the higher than average price tag on the 16-acre park at Midport and Lyngate, according to GDC officials, is because five acres of tract were originally planned for a commercial site.

The total amount of land to be bought is 70.5 acres for an average of $1,098 per acre.

City attorney Spencer Gilbert was asked why GDC would not be required to give the city park sites in cases where the company had indicated on sales maps that the lands were to be parks. Gilbert said the city had no legal right to force GDC to give the land to the city for use as parks, but he said GDC would be legally required not to use those lands for any purpose other than park sites. "They would have no right to claim inverse condemnation if we didn't allow anything but a park on those lands, but we can't force them to give the land to us," he said.

The 16-acre park at Midport and Lyngate will likely be the city's top priority for development, but council members stressed that the development of the park sites would probably come slowly, only as money was available for it. The city hopes eventually to make the 16-acre tract into an active and passive recreation are, with facilities similar to Sportsman's Park as well as picnic tables and possibly walking paths. Little League officials, who say Sportsman's Park is already critically overcrowded in the ball season, have said in the past that a new active recreation park is needed immediately.

In other action, council members decided a proposed ordinance to govern requirements for churches in residential areas is not presently needed and that church proposals will be dealt with as they come up.

There was a brief discussion of the city's loose dog problem, but no decision of a solution to it was made.

SGIVING at Port St. Lucie Elementary School was celebrated a day The celebration featured a visit to the school by students from the Gardan Elementary School. Local children played the roles of Indians and Garden ds posed as pilgrims. Shown above, students in Sandra Marshall's third class display decorations and name tags they made for their guests are, from the left, front row: Kim Moore, Stephen Votino and Tommy back row, Michel Reinecke, Jose Dell'Rosario and Jody Gulbrandsen photo by Bob Fryer)

HAPPY FACES--There were plenty of happy faces last week when Port St. Lucie branch librarian Susan Eberhardt presented another of her frequent story hours for local children. The kids were not only treated to a reading of three amusing stories, but also got to watch a very humorous puppet show. Thanks to a donation from the Port St. Lucie Junior Women's Club, Mrs. Eberhardt and other library staff members recently built a puppet theatre which features rheostat lighting and is collapsable for easy storage. As the library is becoming crowded these days, easy storage is a factor that is very important to the librarians. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

oard turns down GDC at for Midport homes

Development Corporation suffered a set-back Monday ty Planning and Zoning Board voted 10 to 0 to deny plat for a proposed 114-home ment in the Midport area east area is part of the 1,250-acre t Development of Regional (DRI) which GDC hopes to east of the highway between DC Industrial Park and a point the U.S.1-Lyngate Drive use. Under state rules, all must undergo review by a planning council as well as by governing body. However, a special agreement between and GDC, the development allowed to build some of the and a shopping center before DRI application is . Still, any portions of the got city approval before be developed. Also, is approved by the city is to into consideration when the (DRI) plans are reviewed.

ttorney Wayne Allen argued point, saying GDC needs nates to sell now and that if approved the plans, it would a control over the DRI. board members voiced concern no recreation land or church included in the plans for the gle-family home area. Allen problems could be in the balance of the DRI

ity planner Mike Szunyog and board members said they felt too late to deal with some problems if they approved before the entire DRI is reason expressed for the that the plat was that no has been reached yet on who for maintenance of a and greenbelt system. That ikes up about 40 per cent of the meeting, the board Allen speak in favor of a to create a special tax the Midport DRI area to take care of the maintenance costs. Board members and city council members have heard the proposal before, but after a lengthy discussion, the board members decided Monday to delay any decision on the tax proposal until an opinion as to is rendered by the city's legal staff.

In the case of the plat and the tax, the board can make recommendations on the issues, but the city council makes the final decision.

In other action the board voted nine to one to reject a request from Eugene Petrie, 202 Farris Dr., for a variance that would allow him to build a storage shed unattached from his home.

The city has an ordinance requiring utility sheds to be attached to homes, but Petrie said since he planned to store gasoline and other volatile materials in his shed, he wanted to build it away from his home. He said if he was not allowed a variance, he would take the matter to court.

Several members of the Treasure Coast Builders Association met with the board to discuss proposed revisions to a model home ordinance. A rough draft of a revised model home law, prepared by city planner Szunyog and board member Ken Beckman, was presented. Board members and builders agreed they were pretty close to agreement on the rough draft ordinance. The builders agreed to attend a Zoning Committee meeting on Dec. 4 to see if they could come up with a proposal agreeable to all.

The board voted to recommend city council approval of a proposal to upgrade the zoning of about 65 lots along C-24 canal from an R-2 to an R-2B classification. This would mean the minimum-sized house allowable on the lots would jump from 900 square feet of living space to 1,150 square feet.

The Long Range Planning Committee got assigned to study the feasibility of creating an architectural review board and establishing a landscape ordinance for public and commercial projects.

County Civil Defense criticized

BY BOB FRYER

The option of forming a city Civil Defense unit, to take the place of the county's Civil Defense operations within Port St. Lucie city limits, was discussed Monday by city Disaster Committee members after they expressed disappointment in the job the county's organization is doing.

According to committee chairman Gerald Girard and vice mayor Mike Reeb, who also serves as a committee member, the county's Civil Defense Director, Phil Rodi, has still not delivered on several promises made a number of months ago.

The committee members noted Rodi promised the city he would obtain a generator for the city to use at a disaster shelter, to supply the city with a flood plane map of the city, and to work out a countwide disaster plan that would dovetail with one the city has already drafted and adopted.

"Why don't we have a county plan? Why don't they get with us? What is the county doing about a plan? We were told by Rodi that we'd have a generator by now, and we still don't have one," commented Reeb.

At one point in the meeting, Reeb said he had called the Civil Defense department several times and has been answered by a recorded message. "What if we have a disaster? Are we to leave a message where the disaster is and let it go at that?" he asked.

Girard said Rodi told him months ago that he would get a generator and a flood plane map for the city, but Girard said neither has been received.

"I suggest we put Rodi on the spot, and ask him where the map is and where is the generator and the county plan, and if we don't get it, we can get the press in here and raise holy hell," Reeb said.

Girard, who said he had "Grown quite impatient" with the lack of response from the county Civil Defense department, commented that as a municipal entity, the city has a right to form its own civil defense department "if we can't get help from the county." And, he said the city could probably qualify for federal funding for such a department.

City Public Safety Director Douglas Stout commented, "they say they have a county plan, but I've yet to see it."

Another committee member, Hugh Kelley, said "my blood runs cold" when he thinks of the people in River Park and Spanish Lakes who would have to rely on the county disaster organization in times of emergency, as they're not living within the city limits. He added that by not having an adequate disaster plan for residents in the unincorporated areas of the county, county disaster personnel are "violating a public trust."

The committee members said that a county plan ought to be drafted to complement the city's plan, and said the city needs the generator in order to qualify a building as a Red Cross disaster shelter. The flood map is needed, they said, to help plan actions to take in flooding conditions.

When discussion turned to hurricane shelters, Girard suggested that the city ought to take steps to require all public buildings to be constructed to meet hurricane shelter standards.

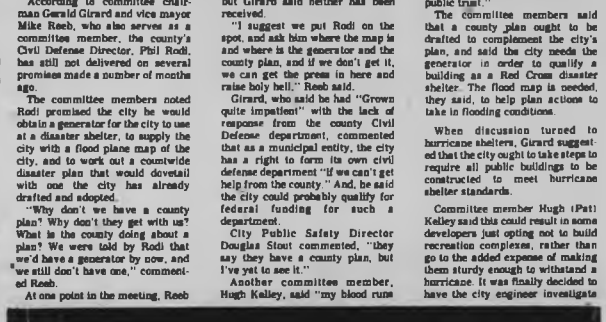
Committee member Hugh (Pat) Kelley said this could result in some developers just opting not to build recreation complexes, rather than go to the added expense of making them sturdy enough to withstand a hurricane. It was finally decided to have the city engineer investigate the feasibility of setting standards for public buildings.

Since the formation of the disaster committee last year and the adoption of a disaster plan for the city earlier this year, teams of volunteers were formed in three regions of the city. The idea behind the teams was to train the volunteers to give first aid and to help with traffic control. At Monday's meeting it was noted that one team captain has never attended any meetings since being appointed captain and that no input had been received from him. His team represents the northern area of the city.

It was decided to search for a new team of volunteers for that area of the city, and several civic groups will be contacted to see if they can supply volunteers. It was also decided to seek residents from the new Windmill Point area to form a new team. "We have nearly 100 families west of the Turnpike now and will probably have more than 200 in another year," Girard said.

Kelley's team was selected to be a roving team, going where needed in an emergency. "Your team is composed of builders who know the city pretty well and who have had more training than the other teams," Stout said to Kelley.

As a result of the rapid growth in the western section of the city, it was decided the city's disaster plan will have to be updated to cover the possible necessity of evacuating persons to or from that area. It was also decided to start having night meetings, in hopes of getting more persons to attend them.



HELPING HAND--There it was, a good-sized, but slow-moving turtle sticking its neck out as it was attempting a tedious crossing of busy Prudit Road in Port St. Lucie last week. Cars and trucks whizzed by, nearly hitting the poor turtle. Then, city councilman Schuyler Sharpe, on his way home from a council meeting, happened by. The councilman proved to be a good Samaritan to the turtle by stopping, picking up the creature, and placing him safely off the roadway (on the side of the road the turtle was heading for). Not only did the councilman possibly save the turtle a life; he also saved it several hours of crawling. "I've done this dozens of times since I moved down here," Sharpe commented. Christmas tree lighting ceremony is Monday night

The annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony will take place at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 27, at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Prima Vista Boulevard.

In past years, the city council has had its tree lighting ceremony on city hall grounds. However, since the tree may interfere with construction of a shopping center expansion next to city hall, the council decided to move the ceremony this year to the Community Center.

The Port St. Lucie Band will provide a concert of Christmas music and the Sweet Adelines will sing Christmas carols. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will be on hand to pass out candy to children.

Community Center is closed today

The Port St. Lucie Community Center will be closed on Thanksgiving Day. All activities originally planned for the center today have been canceled.

Happy Thanksgiving

Winter visitor saved from rough ocean waves

A winter visitor who was apparently unaware of the pitfalls of the ocean narrowly escaped drowning Saturday, while he and his wife were swimming in the Atlantic off the Windmill Village beach.

Thanks to the assistance of three younger people, and to the efforts of his wife, Richard Linn was pulled from the high-rolling waves and rushed for treatment to Martin Memorial Hospital.

The incident occurred in mid-afternoon, when the incoming tide and heightening waves were reaching comber proportions. According to Jeannette Haupk, wife of the owner of the Windjammer Lounge, one of the rescuers, the couple had gone too far out in the surf, and were unable to make their way back against the tide.

Two young men spotted the couple, Mrs. Haupk said, and saw that Mrs. Linn was attempting to help her husband. the two had started out after them, she said, when she noted one of the would-be rescuers was in trouble. She dove in, clothes and all, and went to assist. Between the three, they brought the victim in, and Mrs. Haupk rushed to call the emergency number.

The Windjammer is one of those locations currently in limbo with emergency services, because Martin County has just switched over to the emergency 911 number. Unfortunately, this county has not yet gained the cooperation of St. Lucie County's already-established 911 center.

"I dialed 911," Mrs. Haupk told The Mirror, "and I got St. Lucie County. The girl told me it would take quite a while for them to get there. I asked what number I should call to get emergency here. She said, 'I don't know. You'll have to call the operator.'"

Obviously, there is as yet no attempt at correlating the two services. The fact that people on the south border of St. Lucie County, on the Island and on Indian River Drive, should still call the Martin County Civil Defense, 287-5575, was fully publicized when the Martin changeover was made.

Mrs. Haupk got the proper number and dialed it. The Jensen Area Samaritans responded immediately, and reached the scene within five minutes of being contacted.

The SAmaritans president, Maxine Bailey, was one of the three volunteers responding to the call.

"He was a lucky man," Mrs. Bailey said when questioned by The Mirror. "He had taken in a lot of water, and he had had a double heart by-pass operation, and was wearing a Pacemaker. They (his rescuers) had gotten him out of danger, but he was still having difficulty breathing."

Linn was rushed to Martin Memorial Hospital, where he was given emergency treatment, and released.

The story, fortunately for the vacationers, had a happy ending. But it again pinpointed the need for a better solution to the intercounty emergency numbers.

"People north of the Martin County line (in the Samaritans' service area north to the nuclear plant and to Walton road on Indian River Drive) should have the Civil Defense number 287-5575 pasted on their telephones until the difficulties are worked out," Mrs. Bailey said.

Hold that double-nickle! Smokey no longer tolerant

If you've been in the habit of fudging on the far side of the 55 mile speed limit, you'd better change your ways right now. The Florida Highway Patrol is calling the hand of all speeders.

"We have been allowing a little tolerance," FPH Sgt. Quinton Morris said Monday. "But the tolerance is gone now."

Although the crack-down is coinciding with the beginning of the Thanksgiving weekend, it isn't limited to the four-day period. The highway traffic safety program is getting its teeth from a federal grant of $8,400, making it possible to strengthen the patrols for at least a month.

"We're not bringing in any men from outside," Sgt. Morris said, "but it is making it possible for us to pay our men overtime, so more of them can be on the road.

In the past, if your speedometer crept up to 58 or 60, both the highway patrol and the sheriff's deputies have been blinking in the other direction, if you were apparently driving safely otherwise. But now, the leeway has been wiped out. If they clock you at 56 mph or above, you're going to get a ticket.

The federal grant, Morris said, will enable them to keep the crackdown in effect until Jan. 5, through the Christmas-New Year holidays.

The Martin County Sheriff's Department is cooperating in full with the FHP, in the starner enforcement.

"We're putting extra men on, through the holiday," Sgt. Coy Isaacs told The Mirro. "We're cooperating in full with the highway patrol in the strict enforcement."

TOGETHER, THEY MADE MUSIC– Though they might have been at each others' throats during the week of the Chamber of Commerce Membership drive, Jensen Beach Bank President Ron Mitchell, left, and Mirror Editor Dick Campbell were in harmony both on the piano and for the cause of the Chamber, at the Friday evening Steak and beans dinner at the Sheraton. Between them, they staged one of the most successful membership campaigns the Chamber ever had. (Staff photo by Sally Latham) week-long Chamber member- ar was waged between armies Generals Dick Campbell, of The Mirror Newspapers, n Mitchell, president of Jensen Beach Bank. The objective of the vendetta was to bring in the greatest number of new and renewing members.

The spoils going to the victor: a steak dinner at the Sheraton Resort Inn, with beans for the losers. Sponsors of the spread were the Jensen Beach Bank, the Sheraton and the First National Bank of Stuart.

The zest for the hostilities ran high on both sides for a week. Both the recruits in Campbell's camp and in the Mitchell camp were workers with full-time jobs, yet they found time to make the rounds of the community, asking, pleading, begging and cajoling new businessmen and previous holdouts to join the Chamber as $50 a year sustaining members or $10 contributing members.

The energy expended paid off. At zero hour, Campbell crossed the finish line with 66 recewed, 24 new sustaining members, and 12 contributing members.

Mitchell, in the point system used in counting the score, lost out in almost a photo-finishing finish, with 48 renewals, 32 new members,and 14 contributing memberships. Only 15 points separated the two competitors.

Serving on Campbell's team were his advertising director and staff, Peggy Meisaner, Pat Baum and Mary Meisaner and Ross Washburn; Paris Inn shop-owner Marg Paris, Fred and Garnet Stein of Casa Rio Boats, Helen Vogel of Unique Men's Shoppe, Stanley Smith of Jensen Travel Service, and Art Hansen, member of the Chamber Board.

Working on Mitchell's behalf were radioman Don Duffy, bank employes Linda Esserwine, Shirley Wetzel, Mike Rainey, Dale Marshall and Bob Baltzer, Dave Lamb of Jensen Bait and Tackle, and Holiday Inn manager James MacMansenon.

Helen Richardson, executive director of the Chamber, was elated by the success of the drive. Although all the dust of the fight has yet to settle, she predicts that- by January, when the annual dues will come in from most of the 44 members as yet unpaid, the membership should be well over 250. With nearly 50 new members, she feels, the Chamber should be in the best health it has experienced in years.

Variety benefit talent sought

Talent is being sought for the 1979 Variety Show for the benefit of the Martin County Association for Retarded Citizens.

This year's event is being planned for the nights of Feb. 23 and 24, beginning at 8 p.m. at the Lyric Theatre. Anyone wishing to audition may attend the sessions on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 27 and 28 at 8 p.m. at the Lyric. Those wanting to be among the performers are asked to brine their own music in the proper key, or a quality record if it intended to be used for accompaniment. A music director will be available, if necessary.

Entries and further information are available by calling 287-0812.

Jaycees offer Santa photos

Children will be able to get color photos sitting on the lap of Santa Claus thrugh the holiday season, according to Dennis Doyle, chairman of the Stuart-Jensen Jaycees sponsored project in the East Ocean Mall.

The Jaycees charge $2 for the color instant photographs, with the proceeds of the service benefitting needy families at Christmas.

Santa will be at the mall Friday and Saturday, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. to open the holiday season. He will then return to the mall from December 11 to December 24, talking to the children and posing for photographs from 4 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

An informative statement on the proposals for "impact fees" was given by Don White. Such fees, designed to help pay for schools so badly needed in our fast-growing community, would be paid nominally by real estate developers. In point of fact, the fees would be passed along by the developers to the purchasers of lots, which is fair enough since it is, in most cases, the children of the purchasers who would be using the school facilities. One inequitable aspect of the impact fee is that childless retired couples who come here to live would have to bear the burden equally with younger couples who have school-age children.

Don also spoke of the second annual Rivercade planned by the North Fork Conservation Committee for Monday, Nov. 27, along the north fork of the St. Lucie River. A similar river tour was held last year to focus attention on the man-mad threats and potential threats to the river's environment. Some improvements have been noted in this situation during the past year, due in great part to the efforts of the NFCC, which was organized in 1977 to try to halt the deterioration of the river's environment.

start at last week's meeting. Chairman Paul Perington sold 56 tickets, which had come at a tab of $4.95 each. Those members not at the meeting who wish to go to luncheon should call Paul at 878-6278 and let him know. As reported previously, the event will be held in the Club Room (formerly the Great Hall) at the Sandpiper Bay at 1 p.m., Friday, Dec. 1. Paul and his colleagues need to have a definite fix on how many plates are to be served by Saturday, Nov. 25. That will give the Sandpiper adequate time to make the proper arrangements. So if you are interested in getting tickets, call Paul before this Saturday.

The Rev. Harold Giffin, who dwells six months in Florida and six months in Canada (of which he is a native), delivered an inspirational message at the November meeting. He said the formula for successful retirement living is to work hard in the knowledge you can stop any time. By the same token, he said, the sure-fire recipe for a sudden demise is to spend all your time in a rocking chair looking at the Boob Tube. Following his remarks, he answered a series of questions about living in Canada, comparing conditions there with those in Florida. One point of interest to all retirees was that Canadians who reach the ripe old age of 65 cease to pay income taxes.

Civic League forum set for meet

An open forum between citizens of Port St. Lucie and the officials who run the city is planned by the Civic League for its annual meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The meeting, open to the general public, will be held at the Sandpiper Bay resort and will be similar to the League's annual meeting of 1978 when city officials responded to questions from the audience.

President Herb Tauchy of the League personally delivered invitations to the meeting to Mayor McChesney, council members and City Manager Leonard Silvia at Tuesday's council session.

"Last year's meeting of this type was one of the liveliest and best attended we have ever had," Tachudy said. "We expect that this meeting will be of equal interest."

He pointed out that it will give many citizens their first opportunity to meet Silvia, who took over as city manager in September.

In addition to the forum, the annual meeting has on its agenda the election of League directors for the coming year.

A table will be stationed at the entrance to receive membership applications.

Everyone a winner at Las Vegas night

BY STRELSA SCHREIBER

It was a great night for the more than three hundred who attended and those who didn't make it--tsk,tsk; maybe next time.

The building Fund profited by more than $3,100.00; the winners of play money from the various games put it to good use in bidding on the prizes whgn they were auctioned; under-privileged children benefitted from the fee paid to the Stuart Optimist Club for handling the game technicalities and providing the necessary equipment; and everyone there seemed to be having a terrifically good time.

The credits comprise a long list because so many were involved in making the affair such a resounding success, but here goes:

Special volunteer corps of John Schwartz, Vince Metzger, Ed and Marion Rombach, Don and Ann Fisher, Don and Nickie Porter, Jack LaFrance, Bo Alaimo, Bob Post, Ben Crosby and Morris Rogat.

The beauteous hostesses-Debbie Carter, Pam Lyons, Linda Beaty, Marie Pinsiro, Kathy Lukas, Cheryl Welch and Lisa Albritton--seven lovelies.

Chairman Mike Reeb refused to take credit for his role, said it belonged to all those who had made it possible. He seemed to have a permanently inscribed beatific smile on his face and just one word to express his delight: "Beautiful!" We agree and the Community Center thanks Mike for a job beautifully and well done.

Although they may be tired from a day of work, they have never missed a call. That alone tells you where our young people are.

Our vice president reminded me to mention the jacket pockets that are packed, before those young volunteers go to sleep. Yes, there are two pants, for driver and EMT: their identification cards and keys, for vehicle, for building, and for their homes so they may get back in when duty is over. For the EMT, there is also a notebook, the pen, and a pen light for reading in the dark. A pair of surgical scissors also comes in handy at times.

The biggest problem confronting the night crew, as well as those serving during the day, is th street sign and house number. At night especially they are a challenge to anyone in a moving vehicle.

You may help us with street numbers, night or day. One, the grass and weeds should be cleared away from posts and street names. And if the latter needs it, how about a reistering job? Perhaps one person could take care of this duty on each street. It might save a life.

Another help to the ambulance teams would be to have a house number in fluorescent figures placed at the entry to cement drives or walkways. It could save time and heartaches.

Yet another help would be housenumbers on all front doors, or on the walls as near the doors as possible. And because of the confusion caused recently by the change of house-numbers, it would be helpful to have a neighbor or member of the family outside to guide the emergency vehicle in, preferably with a flashlight.

If you have reason to call, the Samaritans ask, be as lucid in your directions as possible. Many streets, avenues and terraces have the same name, and can cause confusion. Many streets, avenues and terraces have the same name and can cause confusion. An example is Palmetto in Jensen Beach. Look at your map, and you will see it parallels the Florida East Coast Railroad, but it is cut off a number of times by cross streets. Two strips lie north of Commercial Street. South of Commercial it becomes West End Boulevard in Ocean Breeze Park. Then it becomes Palmetto again back of Park Road and Sunny Acres Road. Minutes can be lost trying to find the right area or address.

This is especially critical if the victim is in cardiac arrest. A life can be lost, without specific instructions.

Back to the night crew. One night recently that had four runs, two hours apart, and each run took about an hour from call to return to base. That leaves no time for sleep—and a new day of work and study to face.

Only our young people could handle that schedule. THAT'S where our young people are.

Aging Council meets, exceeds all goals

The Martin County Council on Aging met or exceeded all its goals in the fiscal year just completed, according to Russell S. Conser, executive director, in his year-end report.

The Council's buses furnished 17,339 rides for senior citizens, and the escort service for the handicapped provided an additional 1,156 rides, to doctors, dentists, shopping, convalescent home and other destinations, the director said.

In addition, the buses provided recreational trips to West Palm, Disney World, the Lake Wales Passion Play, to Palm Beach for such events as the Ice Capades and the Lipizzaner horse show.

The volunteers have delivered 37,708 meals on wheels to homebound seniors, including 7,250 to Indiantown. And the Homemaker department has devoted nearly 4,000 hours of service for sick and bag-bound people.

In the office, a total of 54,351 phone calls were received, involving every service offered in the program.

The Council is working with the Visiting Nurses Association of Martin County, to care for the homebound, Conser reports, with many referrals both to and from them. In many cases, where a visiting nurse is no longer required, a council volunteer takes over.

JB Garden Club heard Robert Whitty

The Jensen Beach Garden Club met on Wednesday the 15th at Community Church with 51 members present, one new member, Mrs. George Wagner, and guest, Mary Kitchen. They were told about the work that Jean Henry, is doing with the injured wild life, animals and birds, in this area.

Jane Murray gave the horticulture report on how to care for Christmas poinsettia and discussed the different varieties. Flower arrangements, titled "Welcome to out House", were judged by Mrs. Laura Hanson and her committee. The winning members were, Irene Stephenson, first place, on miniatyes, Carene Stephenson and Bea Johnson wer second, with Lois Arton and Cora Ellis winning third place. The table arrangement was won by Ethel Podesta.

Merle Mills gave a report on the Cruise Symposium, that she and Fred Peterkin recently attended. The report was given on the District X meeting at Vero Beach by Doris Taylor, president of the club.

Robert D. Whitty, County Extension Director, gave an informative talk to the club on care of soil, and plants best suited for the area.

Mrs. Signe Morris mad a fall arrangement in horizontal design for the Thanksgiving table. The hostesses were Mrs. August Friedrichs, Mrs. Sterling Chambers, Mrs. Carl Wheelock, Mrs. Robert Reeser, Mrs. Wm. C. Ellis, and Mrs. Wm. P. Artons.

Mr., Mrs. Dale Oakowsky

Haritakis-Oakowsky

...s Florence Haritakis, daughter ... and Mrs. Ernest Haritakis of ...E. Roberts St., Jensen Beach, ...me the bride of Dale Paul ...owsky on Oct. 14 at the St. ...sios Greed Orthodox Church in ... Pierce.

...e bridegroom is the son of Mr. ...Mrs Stanley E. Oakowsky of East ...ce Boulevard, Stuart.

...g Rev. Emmanuel Vasilakis, ...r of St. Nicobolas Church, ...sisted at the ceremony. Miss ...ssos Haritakis was her sister's ...d of honor. Peter Haritakis, ...ther of the bride, was best man and ringbearer at the double crown and double ring ceremony. Edward and James Oakowsky, brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The bride wore a white organza gown and carried a minuette rose bouquet. The bridegroom wore an all-white tuxedo, with a nosegay carnation as a boutonniere. The mother of the bride chose a pale green chiffon gown handpainted with yellow flowers, and a wristlet of yellow miniature roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a rainbow hued gown, and a wrist bouquet of white miniature roses. The maid of honor was a shocking pink and carried a white minuetta bouquet. The fathers were dressed in yellow tuxedos, and the best man in ice blue.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Hilltop House in Fort Pierce. Out of town guests included the bride's aunts, Mrs. Paulina Lagakis of Syosset, L.I., N.Y., and Mrs. Sophia James of Holden, Mass. Traditional Greek melodies were played by singer-guitarist Jim McNichols.

The couple honeymooned in the Southern Georgia Mountains. They are at home at 1443 Buckingham Tera., Midport, Port St. Lucie.

The bride, a licensed registered nurse, is employed by Dr. Lazaro R. Completo Jr. of Port St. Lucie. Her father is employed by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude at the Outrigger. The bridegroom works with his father, a licensed building contractor, in the family-owned Oakowsky Construction Company of Stuart.

Back in the hospital are: Richard Baily, Almond Street; Mike Dryer N.E. Sixth Street; and Florence Hughson.

Virginia Dryer of Pepper Street was in and out last week for tests.

Last week Zora Thomas, ExOPREP OF Westend Blvd died while walking for a paper from their new home in Natalie Estates.

Rumbling Around

Luther Weeks of N.E. Sixth St. celebrated his 87th anniversary on Oct 28. He received many cards and gifts and visit from his daughter Jackie O'Brien who came over from Texas. Luther always has some project going. From installing Solar heater to fixing neighbors leaky faucet. Best of all he likes to go fishing with his young friend Irvin Keith (actually only 3 months younger). They have been fishing buddies for 12 years and have worked out quite a system of getting Luther's boat backed into narrow yard with Irvin the pilot and Luther at the helm.

Gertrude Wickes 1 N.E. Sixth Street has just returned recently from 3 months visiting with her family. Two months with a daughter in Lincoln Park, N.J. where they took many trips along the Cape May shores and into the mountains. Then, Gertrude came back to stay a month with another daughter in Clearwater. The weather was beautiful and she had a wonderful time, but she is glad to be back to her card games and many hobbies.

Maude Van Marter, 19 Oak Street is back from a six month stay in Detroit with a niece. From there, Maude made many trips to visit her brother in a nursing home in Trenton, also visits relatives in London and Windsor, Ont. When not visiting, she had her twice a week dances and congregate meals. Maude says it was time to come back since one day it was 70 and the next down below freezing.

Betty MacNab of 1 N.E. Fifth Street was busy last summer. First to Long Beach, Calif. to see her granddaughter graduate to become the seventh nurse in the immediate family, then over to Calexico to see friends and then back to beautiful Carmel for awhile before going on to Moculnne Hill in the Mother Lode Country. Next was a stay in Merced to visit with a grandson in the Airforce who flys those huge C5' Then it was back to Westchester, Pa. and over to Claymont, Del to visit with more family before driving back to OBP with a daughter.

Walt & Myrtle Dalley of 30 Key Lime have been OBPers for 22 years. Walt has been in construction for years and that could account for their very pretty front yard which is admired by all who pass by. They are just back from a visit to Bedford County, Pa where they stay in a cousin's mobile home while Walt gets in some trout fishing (brings 'em back frozen to make mouth watering meals during the winter). They have one son Ricky nearby in Port St. Lucie so they aren't lonely. They plan to skip back to Pa over Thanksgiving to get in some small game and deer hunbting as well as a little more trout fishing. Good luck!

Myrt Huntington, 10 SE Cocos has a birthday Nov. 23, her 92nd, and 150 folks gave her a party last week at Pine Lake Village, where she handles the accounts for the square dances and kicks up her heels with the rest of them, every chance she gets. Congratulations, Myrt.

THANK YOU

I want to thank all my friends in O.B.P. for the kindness and generosity I received as a result of my recent loss.

I also wish to thank the ambulance service for their prompt response to my call.

Sincerely,
Velma Westcott

PINE LAKE VILLAGE

...Golf, Golf, Golf! Looks like this was the week that was for golfing enthusiasts of Pineland Village. First are the scores of Nov. 9th.

Flight A, Al Sawyer, 57; Harold Dwyer, 58; Flight B, Thor Bertelsen, 58; Bob Williams, 57; flight D was Dick Pinder, Einard Aho and Bruce Merris with a three way tie of 53; Ladies first Jane Mack, 60; and Marion Austin second, with a 66

Had the largest turnout so far. Forty two players.

As if that were not enough golfing news, get this: There he stood somewhere on the back nine, chipping away to get out of the rough but was interrupted every second or so by having to scratch his legs. Finally, in disgust, and after taking eight, off came the pants. A whole raft of red ants had gone up his pants leg and that was the only way to get them out. A cover up escort was furnished back to the Club House and a can of Raid. Howard, next time swing fast.

On we go to our bowling scores by the Wednesday Goodtimers Bowling Club for Nov. 8.

Ladies, Cleo Knotts, 228, Betty Smith, 208, men, Bob Williams, 233, and Ralph Neblett, 228.

Here is what Mary Couillard has to say about Shuffleboard, and we shall quote her verbatim: Grant Money, President of the PSV Shuffleboard Club is very pleased with the enthusiastic turn out for the Mon., Wed., and Fri., practice sessions and expecially happy to see many beginners eager to learn the game. Full courts are a joy to behold and you meet the nicest people (occasionally, even Leroy shows up) so if you are hesitant, talk to one of the players and before long, you'll be swinging a stick.

It should be emphasized that this is a club which is not only for couples but singles as well. A partner will be found for you. Also with the rotation of things, chances are you will be playing with someone different every session. Remember, practice time is 1:30 p.m. on the days mentioned. Mary also says she is glad to see Howard and Edith Flower back on the courts.

The Couillards had house guests from Chelsea, Mich, Fred and Pat Patterson, who incidentally are waiting completion of their unit in Phase III on Lot 304.

Also happy to report that Charlie Forbes is back from the Hospital. No Complications. The Forbes come from Trenton, MI. and are happy to be here in PLV as are the Patterson and Mulawsa, and their daughter Chris, all of whom Mary was instrumental in one way or another for their coming here. "What are you doing, Mary, running a recruiting office? PLV can use a few good prospects!"

Well, did you stuff your face at Oscar Mathisen's Annual Pancake Breakfast? He had a real working crew and from a report by Matt Berbing, in excess of three hundred Hungry Jacks were fed. We were served by Bob Williams and Bill Hoefling who look ver nice in their get ups, with nothing missing but a bungalow apron.

Checked the galley and saw such faces as Roy Whitney, and Ray Garlicki. Forgive us if we have no further recall than that but they were all hard workers. See you next year. Oscar.

Notes from Around the Park

Mert Penney reports that N. Warner Drive is filling up again with residents coming back from up North. Vince and Ruth Carham from Mass., John Goff (our friendly bachelor) from New York State and Bill and Wanda Anderson from somewhere, but they all arrived last week.

Edith and Jim Larsen went to Naples to see the dune buggy races and visited with friends over there. The McIntyres are about to head North to New Jersey for Thanksgiving and will be gone two weeks. So are the Horton Peaces taking off to visit their daughter and family in Maryland. People are going to write a rut in I-95 going back and forth. Oh yes, Lucille Tynan is home from the hospital and recovering nicely, husband Ed says.

Hearing a rumble with all these organizations gearing up, of the possibility of establishing a recvee club. Do you have a recvee? Interested? Will be more on that later, with the variations we have in types such as Motor, Mini, Pulls, Vans and Even pop ups, can imagine someone seeing a caravan from PLV going up the road and saying "What was that?"

My good neighbor, Bob Williams says the Bowling Club is really picking up members. There were 27 present at this competition and he wants everyone to know that everyone is still welcome, expecially newcomers. They meet at the Jensen Lanes every Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. If you are bashful, call Bob at his home around three in the morning and let him know you will be there. Better make that nine in the morning.

Until next week, keep those cards coming in.....

Riverside Village

BY M. JOHNSON

Your reporter was surprised to see the park just about filled when she arrived....in a rainstorm.

Other early arrivals, but not in order of arrival, are: George and Betty Frantz; Carl and Betty Fritz; Agnes Fritz; Vi and Gordon Gale; Mary and Orval Gerdes; Evelyn and Gene Schoenberg; Dorothy and Louis Shapton; Henry and Fray Johnson; Florence and Al Brynelson; Ronnie and Theresa Rathy; Marion and Les Johnson; Carl and Lena McClintock, Ray and Muriel Frechbury; Mae and Carl Engerud; Jeanette Lucia; Fay and Harold Eggleston.

Dolly and Bud Read from New Jersey are new residents on Third Street.

Joe and Grace White from Pine Lake Village, Ken and Irene Bigham and Gertrude Hume from Riverside all went to West Palm for dinner at the Lobster.

The Henry Johnson and Georgi Frantz's spent Sunday afternoon visiting friends in Palm Beach Gardens.

Mildred Fritz is visiting her daughter-in-law Agnes Fritz. She also visited the ladies at hobby on Monday.

Gene Lewis, Betty Frantz and Theresa Rathy shared the jack pot at bingo Tuesday evening.

Birthday can't be forgotten much as we would like to at times: Gus Schoenenberg celebrated his 77th last Saturday. Louis Shapton and Les Johnson also had birthdays and they are not telling their ages!

PUPPET SHOW--Children at the Port St. Lucie Branch Library enjoyed a puppet show recently. According to librarian Susan Eberhardt, who conducted the show, this was the first a collapsable puppet theatre was used at the library. In the past, she had to have the kids used a lot of imagination, as she just worked the puppets in front of the children without benefit of the threatre. However, thanks to the Junior Women's Club, funds were donated for construction of the theatre. "I told them we needed the theatre and they gave us the money. She and staff members Donnita Grabhorn and Marie Beetle built the theatre themselves and made it collapsable for easy storage. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer) awrence Kimmel, former mayor of t St. Lucie, has filed a suit against city seeking to recover what he ims is money still owed him under city's old pension plan.

Kimmel sues city over pension fund payment

ough the suit does not specify the unt Kimmel is seeking, it does rtain he has a 100 percent vested st to funds that were deposited to the old pension plan on his behalf.

Last year, after months of controversy over the payment formula for dispersing the funds remaining in the pension plan account, the city council voted to pay the former councilman (and mayor) a total of $5,420.

During discussions over the dispersal of funds from the old pension plan last year, Elmer Cox, then city manager, told city council members that $9,390 had been deposited in the pension account on behalf of Kimmel.

However, due to a court challenge of the old pension plan by a citizen's group in 1975, a circuit judge ruled portions of the plan were improper. As a result of the suit, the city council at that time amended provisions of the plan to exclude elected officials and the city's legal staff from participating in it.

In the court decision, the judge, James Alderman, ruled that Kimmel had a vested right to 40 per cent of the funds the city had deposited to the pension plan on his behalf.

Last year, the amended old plan expired and the city council approved a new pension plan for city employees (again excluding council members and city attorneys). At that time, when funds still in the old plan account were dispersed, the council agreed that Kimmel's share was $5,420.

Kimmel, who had not been on the city council for several years, attended a council meeting last year and indicated that he did not feel the council was awarding him his proper share of funds. He asked for private meetings with the council members to discuss the matter, but they all declined the offer. Kimmel hinted at that time that he may file a suit against the city to recover more funds, but nothing happened in regard to that matter until last week, when Kimmel finally did file the suit.

In addition to seeking 100 per cent of the funds deposited by the city on his behalf, Kimmel is also seeking interest on those funds, the cost of preparing the suit, and attorney's fees.

Others under the old pension plan got substantially more than the council awarded Kimmel. Because they had served nearly eight years on the council, compared to a little more than four years for Kimmel, Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Beardsley each received nearly $22,000. And, then city attorney Rupert Smith, who had worked for the city for 10 years, collected more than $23,000.

City treasurer Gerald Van Patten was asked Monday if Kimmel had cashed his check for the $5,420 awarded him by the council last year, he said, "Not as of about three months ago, the last time I checked."

On Tuesday, city attorney Spencer Gilbert said that he intends to recommend an outside attorney next week to handle the Kimmel suit. Gilbert said since he may well be a witness in the case, he could not also defend the suit.

NO DECISION ON 334 EXCHANGE TO COUNTY OFFICES

A proposal to install a 334 telephone exchange number at St. Lucie County offices was discussed by county commissioners Monday, but no decision was reached on the matter.

A county commission secretary commented Tuesday that the proposal "would cost quite a bit." She said the commissioners "didn't say 'yea' or 'nay', but decided to see how many persons (in the south county area) are on the 334 exchange before deciding if it is needed."

At present, those on the 334 exchange have to pay long distance rates to call the county offices.

Cheerleading competition-now a tradition

(The following article was written for The Mirror by Mrs. Carole Johnson, the Upper Division cheerleading coach for Jensen Beach football, as part of our series on the JB cheerleaders. Mrs. Johnson traces the history of the competition held annually, and explains why Jensen Beach's two teams failed to win one of the two titles for the first time since its inception.

BY CAROLE JOHNSON

It was four years ago when the Martin County Junior Football League came up with a new wrinkle. It is that wrinkle which has turned into a bright and exciting tradition.

Anne Pearl of Jensen Beach, who was the coach of the Upper Division cheerleading squad in 1975, began thinking around about the possibility of putting up a cheerleading competition. She was told by those she talked to that such an idea had never been attempted.

I later spoke to Bill Creech, at that time the Chairman of the Special Events Committee for the Martin County League. I questioned him about the idea suggested by Mrs. Pearl, also adding that the competition could be held as part of the second annual Sailfish Bowl football classic at Sailfish Field. Mr. Creech approved of the idea and asked me if I could follow up with it, and he added that the league would back it one hundred per cent.

So after contacting representatives from the seven towns participating in the league that season (Port Salerno, Port St. Lucie, Hobe Sound, Palm City, Indiantown, Stuart and Jensen Beach), I came up with a total of 80 girls entered in the contest. Needless to say, they were excited about having their own championship, just like the boys.

It was the first actual competition for many of the girls, but after many long hard practices, they gathered at Sailfish Field, preparing themselves for the league's first cheerleading competition.

What has happened since then follows:

1975-The first contest was one filled with many cases of runaway nerves. The judges were four local girls, and they decided that Port Salerno's Upper Division Panthers and the Jensen Beach's Lower Division Barracudas were the class of the field. They got the first cheerleaders' little trophies.

This was the first of three titles for Jensen Beach and Stephanie Price and Marie Cromwell, the Captain and Co-Captain of my 1978 team, were members of the original winning Barracudas. Both went on to win the Upper Division two years later.

1976-The competition expanded, sporting 90 girls, ten more than the first time. Jensen Beach's Upper Division, under Mrs. Pearl, won their first championship, while my Lower Division was beaten by Port Salerno in a close race.

1977-This was the year my 1975 cheerleaders made their big move to the top of the Upper Division. I coached Upper Division for the first time, and we won the championship. In the Lower Division, Palm City won their first title, with Jensen Beach finishing second.

There were 110 girls entered in the contest, a new record. But more would come this year. And that fact proves that the cheerleading programs have caught on in Martin County football. This year the competition was held nearly an hour before the first game on championship Saturday, but a big crowd came anyway.

Port Salerno became the first team(s) to win two titles in the same year, as they made a clean sweep. But by no means was it a runaway. Jensen Beach's Lower Division finished second, and the Upper Division once again put on an impressive performance.

Port Salerno executed better than most of the other teams, and I felt that was the difference. The girls from around the area have gotten so much better in the last two years! Whoever wins the competition now wins it on sheer talent--not unfortunate mistakes by others.

This year the money collected at the gate and in the concessions the day of the competition were donated to the effort for Palm City's young Jeffery Uhl, so that he could receive more medical help for his handicaps. The 5-year-old Jeffery walked onto the field and accepted gifts from all four team captains of the championship contenders, and watched as he received a standing ovation on what was declared "Jeffery Uhl Day" in Palm City.

The girls participating were pleased to be helping someone else for such a worthy cause. These girls participating (120 of them, a new record) are dedicated as individuals to a purpose of always striving for improvement.

In Jensen Beach, the cheerleading program has become a permanent fixture, and the rate of girls who go on to bigger and better things is phenomenal. On this year's basketball cheerleading squad at Martin County High School, four girls are from Rio or Jensen Beach, compared to two from the rest of the county!

But there are losers as well as winners. We (Jensen Beach) had to cope with that this year. Learning to be a winner is an easy lesson. Learning to lose takes a special gracefulness. As long as you've done your best, you should be able to accept the results with good sportsmanship.

So the cheerleaders and the competition are now huge successes. Where do they go now?

Well, perhaps if luck strikes a lucky streak over the girls, they'll be cheering in four years as members of the Martin County Tigers.

Bowl game tickets are now on sale

If you're planning to attend the bowl game this Saturday night between the Martin County High Tigers and Fort Lauderdale Nova, you can save some cash by buying your game tickets early.

There are a limited number of seats in the reserved section. Advanced price for those seats is $3.50. At the gate, reserved seats will cost $4.

General admission tickets bought in advance will cost $3 for adults, and $1.50 for students. Adults will pay $3.50 for general admission at the gate and students will pay $2. Children under 12 years old will be charged $1.50 at any time.

To purchase advanced tickets, call the Martin County High School Athletic Department at 287-0710. The game begins at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, at Tiger Stadium.

SLEEK STAR BOATS--like these show above, zipped along a triangular course on the North Fork last weekend during the ninth annual Sandpiper Bay Cup regatta. Frank Zagarino of Coral Gables finished first in all three races to capture the cup. Last year he finished second and in 1975 he was a front-runner until a fouled mainsheet forced him off course in the final race. There were 16 boats in this year's competition, and the weather proved perfect for sailing.

Zagarino wins second

Frank Zagarino of Coral Gables swept all three star boat races on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River last weekend to capture his second Sandpiper Bay Cup.

Zagarino, who won his first Sandpiper Bay Cup in 1971 and who was on the verge of winning in 1975 when a fouled mainsheet forced him off course, had a fairly easy time of it this year. He won the first two races of the three-race event on Saturday, taking both events by a wide margin of several minutes. In the final race Sunday, he stayed off a challenge from Martin Wittingham Jones of Nassau, Bahamas, to win by a 15-second margin.

The victory for Zagarino was by no means a surprise, as he is always a consistent contender in star boat racing. Last year, he placed second at the Sandpiper Bay Cup race behind Jimmy Lippincott of Anapolis, Md. This year Lippincott was in Italy, making sails, so last year's runner-up was considered by many to be a pre-race favorite.

By winning all three races, Zagarino scored a perfect zero. Under Olympic scoring rules, the lowest points total wins. Jones was the only real competition, finishing the series of races with nine points.

In third was Robert Van Wagner of Lorraine, Ohio, with 31.7 points. He finished third and fifth on Saturday and 10 on Sunday.

Harry Walker of Vero Beach tallied finishes of thier, seventh and eighth to finish fourth, one point behind Wagner.

In fifth was Frank Egger of Coral Gables with 34 points for finishes of seventh, fifth and sixth.

Robert Seltzer of Bellevue, Ohio, came back from a 12th place finish in the first race to score a fourth and fifth. That earned him a sixth place spot in overall competition.

The Sandpiper Bay Cup is one "jewel" in the triple-crown of star boat racing. The other two events that make up the series are the Bacardi and Coral Reef cup races in Miami.

Star boats are 23 foot sloops which lay claim to being the oldest one-design class of sailboats in the United States. The sleek boats have been approved for competition in the 1980 Olympics.

A total of 16 entrants participated in the competition last weekend, and contestants were treated to windy days with lots of sunshine.

Central starts fast

BY DONNIE WILKIE

VERO BEACH--The Fort Pierce Central Cobras continued to show well in the first half, then hold on in the second, as they held off the improved Vero Beach Indians, 36-22 last Friday night in the Citrus Bowl.

Vero Beach (6-4) had defeated Martin County earlier in the season, but they couldn't handle the explosive Cobra offense early in the game. Quarterback Peter Barriner threw three touchdown passes as the Cobras, who piled up a 28-0 lead in the second quarter, won their seventh game in ten outings.

Seniors James Jones, Vernon Phillips, Harold Brannon and Damon Richardson all scored in their last high school game. Junior running back Winston Franklin tore holes in the middle of the Vero Beach defense.

The public address announcer, known for his extended cry of "Heeeeeeeerrre come the Fighting Indians," should have left out the word "Fighting" until late in the second quarter, when Venice Smith roared into the Central backfield and blocked a Mark Mendour punt. Donnie Kouns fell on the loose ball in the Cobra end zone for the first Vero score with 36 seconds remaining in the first half.

Bill Olvey caught a 40-yard pass from the Greg Lindsey to cut the gap to 28-15 in the fourth quarter, but Central fought back to put the game out of reach.

Barriner hit Richardson on fourth down from the Vero Beach 18, and the tall, lanky senior scampered into the end zone for the fifth Central touchdown and a 34-15 lead.

A faked extra point turned into a pass from Barriner to James Jones, and the score was 36-15.

Vero Beach scored once more, as Gary Sears rumbled in from one yard out to make the final score 36-22. Bill Marson, the long-time Indian kicker, booted the extra point for the final point in the night.

Fort Pierce Central will not be in the AAAA playoffs as they finished third in the Suncoast East and third in the District 11-AAAA standings.

But the future is a bright one for the Cobras, as next year's team will be packed with 21 seniors, although they are graduating 28 this season. They will certainly be looking forward to a Suncoast East showdown with Martin County and a district shootout with new rival Merritt Island.

Obedience Course is set

Jupiter-Tequesta Dog Club will start a new class in Beginner's Obedience on Monday, December 4th, commencing at 7:00 p.m., in the parking lot of Pantry Pride, Tequesta. The course runs for 8 weeks and is for dogs which are 6 months of age or older.

Students can enroll on the first night or can pre-register by calling 622-7283 or 746-4481. Show Ring Classes are also on Monday nights commencing at 7:30 p.m. for puppies and small dogs, and 8:00 p.m. for large puppies and adult dogs. Further information can be obtained by calling the above telephone numbers.

First woman Auxiliary commander is elected the first time in its 36-year the 59th Flotilla of the U.S. Guard Auxiliary has elected a as commander.

Ruth Button, member of the ation for the past two years courtesy examiner in the unction's boat safety program.

husband Don is an active ber of both the U.S. Coast Guard iary and the St. Lucie Squadron.

ted to serve with her as vice mander, at the Monday night ing, was Frank Walsh, also of flotilla's most recent effort in public interest, according to Ed Benedict of Sewall's is in the advancing of the 1979 inspection seal to include the three months of 1978.

the past," Benedict said, ers coming down for the winter nded to delay their inspection the first of the year, because if have gotten it in November or ber of the previous year, they to go through the inspection all again, beginning in January. they may get next year's by passing the inspection this or next."

inspection, a courtesy service of Button and her fellow inspectors, informs boat owners on their compliance with Coast Guard requirements, or the lack of it.

"If they don't pass," Benedict emphasized, "no record is kept of their failure to do so. We simply tell them what must be done to meet the requirements, and when they've done it, they can come back and we'll give them the sticker."

Major requirements are:

Personal flotation devices – all boats 16 feet or longer must have one wearable PFD) for each person aboard, and one throwable in each boat.

Efficient means of backfire flame control are required for each carburetor on every inboard engine.

Fire extinguishers must bear Coast Guard "Marine Type" approved labels, required on all motorboats.

Bell, whistle or horn required, depending on length of the boat. All horns or whistles must be capable of producing a blast of two seconds or more duration.

Power boats under 65 feet and all sailing vessels at anchor must display anchor lights, except in special anchorage areas. All motor boats are required to display navigation lights. $A hull identification number must be displayed on all recreation boats constructed after Oct. 31, 1972.

Number must be properly displayed and registration must be available for examination.

All monohull recreation boats less than 20 feet except sailboats, canoes, kayaks, and inflatable boats must have legible capacity marking permanently displayed where clearly visible.

A certification of compliance label must be properly displayed for all monohull recreational boats less than 20 feet.

All motorboats using gasoline or other fuel with a flash point less than 110 must have at least two ventilator ducts fitted with cowls.

There are the basic requirements of the coast Guard, Benedict said. In addition, the Auxiliary has several other recommendations for increasing boating safety.

The auxiliary inspectors are willing to go out to make inspections anywhere, "even if it's in your back yard," Benedict says. The service may be arranged for by calling either 334-6240 or 283-3854.

King Mackerel 'fall-out' to be monitored by state

The Coastal Zone Resources Division of Ocean Data Systems, Inc., has been selected to study the hotly disputed "fall-out" of king mackerel from Florida's winter gill net fishery, Harmon Shields, executive director of the Florida Department of Natural Resources (DNR), recently announced.

Shields said the Wilmington, N.C., consulting firm was selected by a review committee composed of sportsfishermen and commercial fishermen representatives and also government scientists from eight bidders who responded to requests for proposals solicited in September by the DNR.

Using a versatile combination of underwater TV cameras and diver-manipulated movie cameras, the consultants will monitor closely at least 10 "sets" made by gill net boats during the upcoming king mackerel run in south Florida, Shields reported. "Work will be conducted at those locations where the net fleet congregates to fish for king mackerel from December through March," he said.

"The exact location varies from Key West to Fort Pierce, according to the king mackerel fish school's response to weather conditions," the director explained. "About 84 per cent of the king mackerel occurs in the federal conservation zone; consequently, the study will be concentrated in those waters," he added.

DNR marine biologists will act as liaison agents to arrange for cooperation between the fishermen and the contractor, but they will not conduct any of the underwater observations. Results of this study will be used as a guide for development of appropriate fishery management plans.

The state and two federal fishery management councils are reviewing all available information to ensure proper management regulations will be used in the harvest of the state's king mackerel resource, Shields said. The study is being jointly funded with $50,000 from DNR and $25,000 each from two federal fishery management councils.

Arlene Signore installed president of builder group

Arlene Signore was installed as president of the Treasure Coast Builders' Association at a dinner meeting held last week at the Musicana Dinner Theatre in Vero Beach.

Other new officers are Paul Jacobi of George Fredricks Construction Company of Vero, first vice president; Phillip Nisa of Personalized Air Conditioning of Palm City, second vice president; wilford B. Brown of Hobe Sound secretary; Thomas Holmes of Chase Federal Savings and Loan of Stuart, treasurer.

Federal Plans New Branch at Sebastian

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has approved a Sebastian branch office for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Ft. Pierce, it was announced.

The new branch will be located at Roseland Plaza at the corner of Roseland Road and U.S.1. First Federal's Sebastian office will contain 1,300 sq. feet at the western end of the plaza, adjacent to u.s.1. A drive-in lane is also planned.

Ray Nasrallah, past president of the Florida Home Builders' Association was installing officer. Outgoing members of the executive committee received plaques for their services. They were Ron Alberts, Rudy Adamec, Will Brown and George Enot.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Builder of the year award to Anthony Signore, and Associate Member of the Year honor to Joseph Mueller. Signore is past president of the association. Mueller is president of Hobe Sound National Bank.

Backus cards

A new issue of Beanie Backus Christmas greeting cards and social notes is on tap at the Fort Pierce Art Gallery on North Indian River Drive, Fort Pierce, according to Blanche Fagen, spokesman for the non-profit organization. And for those who haven't begun collecting the famous Florida artist's Christmas scenes, a few boxes from past years are available.

Proceeds from the cards are used to maintain and improve the gallery.

Nick Masi, who for several years has been giving massage therapy to people in need of it, has opened a full scale massage clinic in the Blue Heron Shopping Square on 707 in Rio.

His reputation as owner of magic healing hands has spread throughout the area, especially with victims of crippling ailments. Among his patients have been a 10 year old boy suffering from cerebral palsy, who was able to walk alone without a brace after Masi's treatments, and an 80-year-old man crippled by a stroke, who now is back on his feet after several weeks of treatments.

Masi in the past has been going to homes of clients, to give his massages. With his new clinic, he is hoping his former patrons will now be able to come to him, in order to take full advantage of the steam room, the exercise equipment and the professional massage tables.

But if people, especially children, need his services, he will still take time during the morning hours to go to them. Nick loves children, and hopes to continue giving his services free to those who couldn't otherwise afford them.

He plans to be in his clinic daily from 1 p.m. through the afternoon and early evening. People may call for appointment.

Health Council to conduct hearing

The Health Planning Council, which has jurisdiction over all health facilities in a five county area that includes Martin and St. Lucie counties, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30, at the council's office, 4423 Westroads Drive, West Palm Beach.

At that meeting the council will conduct a public hearing on a Health Systems Plan and on an Annual Implementation Plan. The systems plan contains information about the health status and health facility status in this region and identifies major problems in health planning. It also sets goals the council hopes to achieve.

The annual implementation plan outlines what goals the council hopes to accomplish

Art Associates

The Art Associates of Martin County will hold a dinner meeting Dec. 1, at the Holiday Inn-Stuart. A social hour will begin at 6 p.m. Artist Edward Stevenson will present a chalk talk after the dinner.

Woodcarvings and Stained Glass exhibit at Library

Ken Merrill of North River Shores is exhibiting some of his unusual wood carvings at the Martin County Public Library during the month of November.

Mr. Merrill, an engineer, retired sixteen years ago and since then has developed his hobby of wood carving. His subjects of birds, fish, butterflies and animals come mostly from the Audubon, Florida Naturalist, and the National Geographic magazines.

Another excellent exhibit is the stained glass work of Howard E. McCormick. Beginning in November, there will be a series of his works shown at the library.

These stained glass pieces vary from the abstract to the conventional. Mr. McCormick designs windows and various other objects on special order. He teaches a few private students.

This exhibit will changed from time to time.

High-Twelve to have Christmas dinner and dance on December 12

The High-Twelve International Club of Martin County will introduce new officers for the ensuing year at their annual Christmas dinner-dance at the Stuart Elk's ballroom on Tuesday evening, Dec 12.

Social hour will begin at 6 p.m. and a roast beef dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Music by Kay Stone is featured entertainment, and members are invited to bring their wives and friends.

Diabetes Chapter to meet on Monday

The Indian River Chapter of The Diabetes Foundation will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ft. Pierce Community Center, N. Indian River Dr., Ft. Pierce.

Guest Speaker will be Charles Myer, teacher at Martin County Hight School. His topic will be "Experiences of being a Diabetic for 40 years" Diabetagers are invited to attend as well as adults.

Refreshments will be served.

Adults may get HS Diplomas

Adults in the area who haven't completed their high school diplomas may do so through the continuous day programs being offered at the Martin County Adult Learning Center, they are reminded by Adult learning director Donna Preece.

Classes to meet the General Equivalence Diploma (GED)requirements or refresher courses to upgrade basic are on the curriculum, as well as courses preparing for future enrollment in college. All are completed on an individualized basis, at the learning pace and speed of the adult students.

The classes are now forming, in time to review students for the GED testing, which will be given in January. Cost for the review is $6. Textbooks and materials are supplied by the Learning Center.

The center is located at 443 SE Monterey Road. Office hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Those interested in enrolling may call 283-8744.

NOTICE is hereby given of a public hearing to be conducted before the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie at 9 a.m. on the 12th day of December, 1978 at City Hall, Morningside Boulevard, Port St. Lucie, Florida on the following proposed ordinance:

ORDINANCE 78-52
AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A VARIANCE TO GENERAL DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION FOR THE VILLAS OF SANDPIPER BAY, UNIT II, AS CONTAINED IN PLAT BOOK 17, PAGE 14 OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS OF ST. LUCIE COUNTY, FLORIDA. FROM THE REQUIREMENT OF A 75-FOOT RIVERFRONT SETBACK TO ALLOW A 25-FOOT RIVERFRONT SETBACK, PURSUANT TO SECTION 104 OF THE PORT ST. LUCIE CODE, APPENDIX A (ZONING ORDINANCE); PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE HEREBY ORDAINS:
WHEREAS, the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida, was requested by General Development Corporation, the sole owner of the land described below, to grant a variance from the current zoning classification of PUD (Planned Unit Development), to allow a 25 foot river front setback; and
WHEREAS, the City Council having determined that the granting of this variance will be in harmony with the general purpose and intent of said Appendix A (Zoning Ordinance); and
WHEREAS, the City Council having made a finding that the granting of this variance is for the minimum variance that will make possible the reasonable use of this land; and
WHEREAS, the variance will not be detrimental to the public welfare or injurious to the neighborhood, and notice in advising property owners for a radius of 300 feet being given and advertising of public hearing being made, and the City Council having held a public hearing on the ____ day of _____, 1978, and having considered the same, it is,
THEREFORE, ORDAINED THAT:
1. The General Development Corporation is hereby granted a variance from the requirements of Section 7-11, Appendix A (Zoning Ordinance), Port St. Lucie City Code, on the following property: Villas of Sandpiper Bay, Unit II, as contained in Plat Book 17, page 14 of the Public Records of St. Lucie County, Florida, from the 75-foot riverfront setback requirement.
2. Section 19-4, Appendix A (Zoning Ordinance), Port St. Lucie City Code, has been complied with in all respects in the granting of this variance.

This Ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days after its final adoption PASSED AND APPROVED by the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida, This ____ day of _____, 1978.

City accepts Thornhill park, balks at paying for 5 others

BY BOB FRYER

Port St. Lucie city council members said Tuesday to put off a vote on buying five park sites from General Development Corporation for $77,488 until city officials can approach GDC once more to see if the company will give the park lands to the city.

Mayor William McChesney and city manager Leonard Silvia were authorized Tuesday to meet with GDC officials in Miami to discuss the parks. That meeting is expected to take place on Tuesday, Dec. 5.

Earlier this year a group of citizens attended several city meeting and voiced complaints that the city did not have enough park and recreation facilities. The group especially cited the need for another Sportsman's Park type facility to relieve overcrowding of that park during the baseball season.

During the park discussions at that time, GDC officials said the company would sell park sites to the city for the amount it cost the firm to own the parks, without making a profit on the deal.

City Planner Mike Szunyog compiled a list of five park sites that he felt the city would need between now and 1985 and presented that list to GDC to get the firm's price list on those lands. The five parks on the list cover just under 50 acres and the total price for the five sites was set at $77,488 by GDC. The company officials said payments for those park sites could be spread out for over five years.

Szunyog presented the list of parks, with prices, to the city's recreation committee and Planning and Zoning Board and recommended that the city take steps to buy all five park sites. Both groups concurred with Szunyog and passed their recommendations along to the city council.

When council members were considering adoption of this fiscal year's budget last summer, a proposal to buy the five park sites and to begin development of a ballfield at one of the tracts in the Midport area was made, with a price tag of about $85,000. However, the council decided to drop that proposal before adopting this year's budget.

At the time GDC was working on the price list for the park sites, city attorney Spencer Gilbert met with company officials to try talking them into giving the city the park lands. Because a verbal pledge to do so had been made earlier, GDC president William Avella reawed an offer to give the city a 20 acre park site in the Thornhill Lake area to the city. But GDC stood firm on its position that the city would have to buy the five park sites on Szunyog's list.

One of the issues discussed by Gilbert and GDC at the time was whether the firm was obligated to give the city the park lands because the park sites had been designated on GDC maps as future parks and had apparently used those maps to promote sales of homes and homesites in the city.

Though there were some discussions on parks from time to time after the council eliminated funds from this year's budget for buying them, it wasn't until last week that it appeared the council was ready to proceed with a plan to buy the park lands and to accept the free offer of the Thornhill Lake site. As a result of last week's workshop meeting, it was expected that the council would vote at its regular meeting Tuesday to accept the Thornhill Lake site and to buy the other five parks by spreading the payments for the sites out over a five year period.

The council did vote Tuesday to accept the Thornhill Lake site. However, when the matter of the other five sites came up, Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan voiced reservations about buying the lands.

Mrs. Kernohan pointed out that last week attorney Gilbert had said that although he felt the city could not legally require GDC to give the parks to the city, it was his opinion that GDC could not legally use lands it had designated on its maps at park sites for anything but parks. He had said that the only options GDC had were to give the city the park land, develop the park sites itself, or let the sites remain unused.

Mrs. Kernohan said for GDC to sell park lands to the city which GDC could not use for anything but parks would be "like selling the proverbial dead horse." She said "This land was represented by GDC as park land" and said the firm ought to be happy to get rid of the land to eliminate the cost of taxes and maintenance of the land.

"From its inception, the land has had no other purpose than as a sales promotion and for eventual park use," she said.

Council members then decided to send McChesney and Silvia to GDC's Miami headquarters to again request that GDC give the park sites to the city.

Mrs. Kernohan, as well as council members Mike Reeb and Schuyler Sharpe, all said they felt the city ought to have a plan for obtaining more park lands, but all agreed that the city should first try getting the land at no cost.

The five park sites under consideration are: a 16 acre tract at Midport Road and Lyngate Drive for $56,755, a 6.2 acre site at Bayshore Boulevard and Swan Avenue for $3,852, an 11.5 acre tract along Howard Creek at Westmoreland Boulevard for $7,072, a 6.4 acre site at Bayshore and Eyerly Avenue for $3,957, and a 9.5 acre site at Bayshore and Prima Vista Boulevard for $3,952.

In addition to the five sites in question, GDC also has many other park sites listed on its maps.

County okays $25,000 for Sportsman's Park in PSL

St. Lucie County commissioners voted Tuesday to authorize spending $100,000 on recreational facilities throughout the county, including $25,000 for improvements at Port St. Lucie's Sportsman's Park.

The improvements to Sportsman's Park are to include lights, fencing, dugouts and bleachers for the Little League field at the park.

Earlier this year, as well as last year, county commissioners were criticized by Port St. Lucie city council members for turning down requests from the council for county funds to be spent at the county park. When those complaints were made, council members defended their argument for county funds on the premise that nearly half of the players in organized softball games at the city park were from unincorporated areas of the county.

Prior to the adoption of city and county budgets last summer, a group of parents of Little League players in Port St. Lucie met with both governing bodies and presented statistics showing overcrowding conditions at Sportsman's Park. The parents said they expected conditions would be even worse when the new ball season opens next March.

In spite of the pleas from the parents, neither the county nor the city approved the parent's funding requests when budgets for this fiscal year were adopted. County commissioners took the position that the city ought to give the park to the city if the city wanted county funds spent in the city for recreation and city council members balked at that suggestion.

As a result of the rejection by the city and county of funding requests at budget time, parents were making bleak projections about playing conditions at Sportsman's Park for the coming ball season. The county decision on Tuesday is expected to relieve that situation somewhat, but is not regarded as a cure to the problem. Little League player parents say there is still a critical need for a new Sportsman's Park type facility elsewhere in the city.

And, though it appears the city council is now seeking more park lands from General Development Corporation (see related story), it is not expected that a new park can be readied for the ball season.

In addition to voting to spend $25,000 on Sportsman's Park, the county commission also voted to spend $25,000 at White City School, $25,000 at Lakewood Park in the north county area, and $25,000 at Lawnwood Recreational Complex in Fort Pierce. The White City School is to get an upgrading of a play area, lighting, fencing and two tennis courts.

But it's the growing of spots along the river where man's handiwork is visible that is causing concern among local conservationists. On Monday, the North Fork Conservation Committee sponsored a boat tour to draw attention to the need to protect the river's beauty. The group plans to approach county commissioners to seek a law prohibiting the destruction of vegetation along the riverbanks. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

During that trip, a was spotted operating next riverbank at the River Edge short distance south of White s. Also, on the first fence of the cutting of s along the shore at the Landing project was sighted. the first tour ended, NFCC called for city and county officials to approve laws establishing a 75-foot buffer zone along the riverbanks, where no destruction of the natural vegetation would be allowed. In the months that followed, the city council adopted a buffer-zone law, but only made the buffer zone 15 feet wide, instead of the 75 feet that the NFCC requested.

Though some NFCC members say they wish the city's law provided for a wider buffer zone, city officials were praised Monday for passage of their law. And, county commissioners were Chastized for having passed no river protection law during the past year.

No county commissioners or county staff members attended the latest tour, but NFCC member Don White said they sent regrets that they could not make the trip. White said they asked that the NFCC prepare a report on the river tour and make a report to the commission at a workshop meeting. Also not along for the second trip were state and federal environmental agency officials.

During last year's tour, members of the NFCC cited the Spanish Lakes Riverfront development as an example of good planning along the river, and pointed out that the development was approved on a condition that a 50-foot wide strip along the river be left in its natural state. But on the trip Monday, NFCC members criticized Harvey Newman, president of the firm building Spanish Lakes Riverfront, for apparently allowing the clearing of vegetation along the riverbank.

A discussion after the river tour resulted in a decision by NFCC members to first approach Newman to seek a restoration of natural conditions along the river in the park project. And, if no action results from that, the group plans to take a statement of protest of the riverbank clearning to the county commission.

Regardless of what happens concerning the Spanish Lakes Riverfront area, the NFCC members said they will approach the county commission again to seek passage of a law to protect the riverbanks in the unincorporated portion of the county. NFCC president Roy Black commented, "We're not trying to take away the rights of the developer or individual land owner, but we feel there is a need for them to leave the vegetation as is for a 25 to 50 foot strip along the riverbanks to avoid pollution and erosion. The beauty of the river is a benefit to the general public and is worth preserving."

NFCC member White said one reason the county commission has not acted on a river protection law is that the county's attorney does not feel a buffer zone law would withstand a court test.

Another NFCC member, Jack Lindsley, said that he felt the county might be on firmer legal ground if they passed a law providing for an easement instead of a buffer zone. Though there is a difference in terminology, the intent of the suggested easement law would be the same as the buffer zone proposal: to prevent the destruction of vegetation along the riverbanks.

Port St. Lucie Mayor William McChesney suggested that the NFCC send several of its members to the county to seek a river protection law, and said the city council would pass a resolution supporting the NFCC's position when the group meets with county commissioners.

TAKING BIDS–Jim Graham, auctioneer, takes bids during an auction of the assets of Oligistics, Inc. in Port St. Lucie Monday. The company was recently declared bankrupt and the auction was ordered as a measure to pay off creditors. Trustee Irving Gennet said he expected more than $22,500 would be raised by the auction and said that should be enough to pay off secured creditors and to have some money to distribute among unsecured creditors. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Oligistics bankruptcy auction brings local bidders

Approximately 200 persons, including many local businessmen, turned out for bidding during a bankruptcy auction of the assets of Oligistics Inc., at the firms's warehouse in the General Development Corporation Industrial Park in Port St. Lucie on Monday.

According to Irving Gennet, a court appointed trustee who was overseeing the auction Monday, more than $22,500 was expected to be raised at the auction for distribution among the creditors of Oligistics and its subsidiary firms.

Gennet, who is a Boca Raton management consultant, explained that Oligistics, Inc., was the parent corporation of Woodrift, Inc., R-Cam Homes, and Oligistics Fabricators, Inc.

Oligistics and the other companies were in the home building business in Port St. Lucie. After experiencing financial problems earlier this year, the parent firm filed a petition in Federal Bankruptcy Court for reorganization. However, he said the firm was unable to come up with a reorganization plan that would meet court approval, so it was adjudicated bankrupt by Judge Thomas Britton of West Palm Beach. As a result, the auction of the assets of Oligistics and the other companies was ordered So, on Monday, local businessmen turned out in strong numbers to bid on a wide variety of building materials, several trucks and cars, fork-lifts, and office supplies.

"We had a bulk bid, for all the assets, of $22,500, but it was turned down because it was felt more money would be made by auctioning off the items in individual lots," Gennet said, explaining that he expected the auction to end on Monday.

Gennet, who is on a list of persons qualified to serve as trustees for bankruptcies and who was selected as a trustee for the Oligistics bankruptcy case, said he expected enough cash would be raised by the auction to pay off all debts to secured creditors. He cited the Port St. Lucie Bank as an example of a creditor which made a secured loan to Oligistics, and said that bank, and all other secured creditors, would be paid 100 cents on the dollar for the amount Oligistics owes them. He said whatever cash is remaining after all secured creditors are paid will be distributed on a pro-rata basis to unsecured creditors, provided no more secured creditors came forth to claim an interest in the assets. He further explained that a meeting of creditors was held several months ago and that a six-month time limit for making a claim to the assets was set at that meeting.

Robert Amann was president of Oligistics.

Zoners to review Midport plans

The Port St. Lucie zoning committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Dec. 4, to review the projected impact the General Development Corporation Midport project is expected to have on educational, recreational and health care facilities.

The session is part of an on-going review the city's Planning and Zoning Board is making of the Midport project plans.

GDC plans to develop the 1,250 acre Midport tract east of U.S. 1 along Walton Road to house 5,503 persons by 1987. The public is invited to attend the meeting Monday morning.

h said he feels the request is ecause approximately 25 per Martin County's older people the north county area, most of within a five mile radius of Beach.

he grant isn't forthcoming, Wacha said, the project will be carried through anyway, with the $60,000 coming out of special taxing district monies.

The announcement of the plan has raised considerable objections from several of the downtown merchants, who contend that there isn't enough parking space in the Commercial Street area as it is. There simply wouldn't be any way to accommodate the extra parking and traffic such a center would engender, they claim.

Said barber Virgil Wilson: "They complained because I only had three parking places for my shop alone."

Wacha, however, said existing parking spaces would absorb the extra cars, with the normal availability of space in the Jensen Beach Bank and post office lots.

"The business being built behind the center will also build a parking lot," Wacha said.

Most, he said, would be coming in by senior citizens' bus.

The business he was referring to is being built by his son Frank Jr. and two partners.

The question also arose about the terms of the lease contract under which the county acquired the center from Jensen Civic League, Inc., founded by a group of early civic leaders including W.B. "Pop" Tilton, the only remaining member. The lease, in Section 11, reads:

"In the event the town of Jensen Beach is ever incorporated this lease shall automatically terminate and the Lessee shall immediately vacate the premises.

"In the event the premises are not made available by the Lessee to the Jensen Beach Boy Scout Troop each and every Wednesday night, this lease shall automatically terminate and lessee shall vacate the premises."

Wacha contended that the act of incorporation would not affect the status of a senior citizens' center, despite the terms of the lease.

And he claimed there would be "no conflict with the Boy Scouts."

"They're specifically included in the proposal," the commissioner said.

However, he suggested that the Scouts might want to move out voluntarily, when the new multi-use fire house and recreation center on Savanna Road is completed.

"Hopefully, the new building on Savanna will provide the Scouts with better meeting facilities," Wacha told The Mirror.

Santa is coming to town!

This is the big weekend, kids. Santa Claus is coming to town.

The jolly old fellah will be making the rounds of the area's shopping centers from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., giving out candy and coloring books and ho-ho-hoing up the spirit of Christmas throughout the community.

The conveyance for St. Nick and his helpers will be a fire truck from the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, always an attraction in itself for the youngsters.

The bright red "sleigh" will wend its way from the Winn Dixie, Commercial and other adjacent shopping centers on down to Rio's shopping areas, and back to the Chamber of Commerce where Santa will stop and sit still long enough for parents to get photographs of their children with him. He'll remain at the Chamber building on Commercial until 3 p.m.

There'll be plenty of coloring books to go around, according to Fred Meeker, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has 1,000 of them all ready to go into Santa's knapsack. And Jon Chicky, of Savannas Water Development, Inc., has donated several hundred lollipops to be distributed to good little girls and boys.

The visit from Santa is the Chamber's official kick-off of the Christmas shopping season.

"We hope it will call the attention of everyone in the area to the splendid variety of shops and stores right here at home," Meeker said this week. "It should make Jensen area people aware of the fact that they don't have to go to Stuart or Fort Pierce to do their Christmas shopping."

Pancake Day will help sight-projects

The Jensen Beach Lions are putting their last-minute efforts toward the big Pancake Day to be held Sunday at Langford Park.

The members of the Lions and their auxiliary will be preparing, dishing up and serving pancake breakfasts from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m.

In conjunction with the pancake breakfast, the Jensen Lionesses will be conducting a cake sale, with the proceeds to go to the Lions Exchange Student Program for next summer.

Tickets may be obtained in advance from any Jensen Lion, or they may be purchased at the door.

DONATIONS--Carol Bowman of Rio adds her donation to the Salvation Army kettle, as the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club again mans the Christmas kettle every Saturday at Winn Dixie in the Jensen Beach Plaza shopping center. Bill Herzog, along with Adon Jeffery, Ralph Norkin and Dr. Stan Wampler, took a two hour shift on Saturday. The Kiwanians will be on duty for the next three Saturdays collecting for the Salvation Army.

last stumbling block, the n of a perpetual easement on the final piece of land adjacent to the crossroads was overcome at the Tuesday commission meeting. The third tract, the only one the county had to pay for, was acquired last week for $1,500.

"We'll be letting bids for the job during December," Wacha told The Mirror on Tuesday. "We'll do what we can to relieve the situation during the tourist season, and complete the job in April or May."

Florida Power and Light crews should be moving the telephone poles this week, the commissioner said.

The intersection, both streets of which are narrow two-laners, is particularly irritating to motorists because there is no way to by-pass cars in either northbound or westbound lanes which are waiting to make a left turn. Even in the off-season, it is a bottleneck for people wanting to get to the community's largest shopping center.

The planned project, Wacha said, will include left turn and storage lanes. It will probably be three laned on both east-west and north-south streets.

Wacha said he began pushing for the improvement "in '71 or '72."

10-cent bridge should be clear today

If you've been one of the hapless victims of the Evans Crary Bridge repair during the past several days, be consoled that the endless waits in endless traffic from one side to the other should be over by today.

The bridge has been closing down for 30 minute intervals during the painting and repair operation, and people either unaware of the hang up of feeling it necessary to make the crossing anyway have been sweating it out in growingly longer lines every day, especially since the beginning of the Thanksgiving weekend. At times, the car-jam heading toward the island has backed up as far west as the Ocean East Shopping Center.

But a spokesman for the Department of Transportation said the work was due to be completed Wednesday, when a final inspection was to be made.

"There should be no more hold-up on the bridge through the tourist season," the DOT official said.

Concert Sunday at FIT

The third concert in a series presented by the Committee for the Performing Arts at Florida Institute of Technology will feature "The Classics" (The Classic Strings). This outstanding chamber quartet will perform Sunday, December 3 at 3:00 in the F.I.T. chapel. There will be no admission charge.

The Classics performed at F.I.T. last year and received a standing ovation for their brilliantly executed performance.

The group consists of Tom Tsaggaris, who was principal violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony, Marlene Woodward (piano), faculty member at Palm Beach Atlantic College, Noel Snyder, who studied cello at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, and Russell Snyder (viola), who studied under Lorius Cole and Max Arnoff.

Plan now to attend with family and friends for a rewarding afternoon of fine music.

First Wednesday begins

An evening series of free illustrated programs on the environment will be presented at 8 p.m. on the first Wednesday of the month at the Environmental Studies Center. The planned schedule includes:

December 6--"Earth Views from Afar"--NASA slides of Apollo moon missions and meteorology above the clouds, will be presented by Ernest Varvil.

January 3--"My Life in a Wild Bird Sanctuary"--What it's like to share your home with a few dozen sick and injured birds, will be presented by Jean Henry, of the Martin County Audobon Society.

February 7--"Power in our Future"--Gene VanCuren, of the Florida Power and Light Company will speak about meeting our energy needs...from the public utility's standpoint.

March 7--"Touring and Conserving Our Redwood Parks"--The beauty and the plight of the most magnificent of all forests.

Program list for concert

Mendelssohn, Haydn and Mozart will be featured at the Dec. 7 taped concert at the Martin County Public Library.

The concerts, free to the public, are played every Thursday from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the library reading room. Each week, works of classic composers are featured.

The program for next week will include Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in E Minor, played by the New York Philharmonic, with Pinchas Zuckerman as soloist and Leonard Bernstein conducting; Haydn's Trumpet Concerto in E Flat, by the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Kurt Riedel with Bernart Jeannoutot as soloist. Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 2 in E Flat and Horn Concerto No.3 in E Flat, played by the Philharmonia Orchestra

ARTIST'S CONCEPT–This is the way the new Hartman-Leighton Furniture Store will look when completed.

Hartman-Leighton building new store

Hartman-Leighton, furniture store which was founded 23 years ago by Jack and Ralph Hartman Jr., and John Leighton Sr., is building a new showroom which can be reached from Jensen Beach without crossing bridges.

The new store will be located at 2080 U.S. 1, in the vicinity of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. Designed by the late Paul B. Henderson, architect, the more than 30,000 square feet of floor space will contain furniture of such distinguished brand names as Henredon, Thomasville, Jaffco and Casa Bique, carpeting by Karastan and Lees, wallcovering by Louis W. Bowen, Fine Arts and Van Luit, and fabrics by Kent Brageline, Greeff and others.

Now owned by Janice Leighton Bruner and James K. Bruner, the business has membership in the National Home Furnishings Association. Robert D. Lucy is general manager, Kay Julien, associate manager, and Hal Henson, director of interior design. They have an example of their excellent decor at the Fairway Villas at Indian River Plantation, which the public is welcome to inspect.

The store is due for completion in the spring of 1979.

TAX DEFERRED EXCHANGING

QUESTION: About a month ago I sold a tract of land that I had held for years as an investment. I invested the money I received in a 4-plex apartment house. Now I am smarting over my tax bill. Is there any way I could have disposed of my lot, acquired the building, and saved the tax I paid on the sale?

ANSWER: You and others should be glad to plan ahead, considering the tax consequences of your contemplated real estate transfers. For a real estate person like myself, it's shocking to think of the thousands of people who sell investment property, pay the capital gains tax, and then turn right around and reinvest what's left over. They do this without ever knowing that, by the proper execution of a tax deferred exchange, their entire equity could have been transferred into the new property without currently paying a penny in capital gains tax. In this picture, you and other investors in your situation should consult a real estate expert before making a move. This specialist work hand in hand with your tax adviser and your attorney. Together they will draw a road map to substantial tax savings for you.

Unfortunately, the average investor shudders when he hears the word "exchange." He figures that he must look like "needle in the haystack" guy who will take his property in exchange. This is not true, and your real estate broker can show you why. He should take half an hour someday and sit down with a real estate specialist and find out how to save several thousand tax dollars. If you'd like, I'd be happy to review your situation with you.

Let's discuss your investment problems. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by

A wealth of music for UW Benefit

BY SALLY LATHAM

On Saturday, a fortune in the finest music this side of New Orleans will be waiting from the midst of downtown Fort Pierce, while the United Way of St. Lucie County is stagin an unusual benefit party.

The affair, being held to raise funds to buy a transportation vehicle for the Red Cross, will be a "Street Party," and will take place in the parking lot of the Sun Bank of St. Lucie County on Indian River Drive in Fort Pierce. And there'll be dancing in the streets, because two of the best musical aggregates in the entire Indian Riverland area have donated their tuneful services to the cause.

They are Joe Moniz and his Big Band Sounds, a 16-piece orchestra dedicated to the great music of the Thirties and Forties, and Charlie Bloehm and his Sound Investments, who promise "the best of music from the '20s to the '70s."

The marvelous thing about both groups is that they are playing together primarily for the love of music- the money they make in the course of the season is purely incidental.

Particularly so with Joe Moniz and his musicians. Joe, himself a retiree from a successful career in the nursing home business, took back up the baton he had abandoned many years ago because he felt the need for a good source of that beautiful velvety melody which issued from the horns of Benny Goodman, the Dorseys, Glen Miller and the others of their ilk.

Two years ago, Joe recruited all the retired pro musicians he could round up in the area for a trial run, and he hit the jackpot. He found it amazing how many retirees had trumpets, trombones and saxes tucked away in long-unopened cases. And even more amazing how eager they were to get their beloved instruments out again.

He was even more delighted to discover a dedication for the music out of the Golden Era in several young people in high school and college. That first performance, two years ago, was such a hit and the enthusiasm among his players so unflagging that the Moniz Big Band Sound is in demand all over the east coast, even by cruise directors on some of the lines out of Lauderdale and Miami.

The Moniz bandsmen range in age from the 70s down to the teens. The youngest, trumpeter Scott Smith, is 16, and already a polished musician.

Many of them are engaged in full time professions outside the world of music. Gene Greenwood, for example, is assistant dean at Florida Institute of Technology. Lee Hennings, who plays baritone sax, s director of the Martin County Public Library.

Then there are trombonists Wayne Wells, musical director for the Barn Theatre, Lou Wade, an instructor at FIT, David Shadd, who works at the Martin County Airport, Chuck Fulton, IRCC student and son of Martin County High principal Clara Fulton.

As no one can overlook Molly Morris, effervescent and petite bundle of talent who may be found playing almost any instrument at any given time.

Playing with the band has been therapy as well as an experience in living for some of the members. Roy and Alice Whitely, for example, have found it an entry into a community they weren't prepared to like, at first.

Alice, who now would rather play piano for the band than eat, hated Port St. Lucie at first, and was all ready to leave when the group invited her in. Now she loves everything and everybody about the area.

Charlie Bloehm, founder and leader of his "Sound Investments," has more than one reason to donate his band's time to the United Way. Charlie is a vice president of the Sun Bank of St. Lucie County, one of the UW's strongest supporters and one of the many reasons the St. Lucie County drive has gone over the top for the past few years. Sun Bank and First Federal are co-sponsoring the Saturday fete.

Charlie Bloehm has yet another reason to give his all to the UW, which helps support so many worthwhile agencies in the community. He is a native of Fort Pierce.

He and the boys got together out of pure love of good jazz. Charlie is an ace sax-man-he has a collection of saxes ranging from an awesome huge bass instrument to a tiny, almost toy-like one, and he can make them all sing.

Tom Burrell, the pianist of the group, is a draftsman with the City of Fort Pierce. He came to Fort Pierce from New York 30 years ago, and there is hardlly a tune you can stump him on.

Harry Ryan, who plays electric bass, owns and operates the Prima Vista Mobil Service in Port St. Lucie. Harry also sings, and can make like Elvis on demand.

Ron Koppenhoeffer, a commercial sign artist with Adams Outdoor Signs, is the drummer. His Krupa-like drum solos are spine-tingling.

The four of them, in accepting engagements, make sure they keep it fun.

"We all played at various times in the past in regular clubs," Charlie said. "But we choose to free lance and play in a variety of places. It's a lot more interesting, and we get a chance to run the gamut of all kinds of music."

Charlie's group has been so popular everywhere because whatever his audience, he welcomes audience suggestion and participation. They've jam sessioned at private parties, played the more dignified music of weddings, and have hit the clubs from Vero Beach to Palm Beach to Okeechobee. For the Sound Investments, there's never a dull moment.

Tickets to the Saturday party may be purchased in advance from either Mary Ann (Mrs. Mike) Brown, 461-3250, the United Way office, 464-5300, or the Red Cross, 461-3950.

Republican Club Christmas Party

Nick Sabetto, president and Ann Decker, program chairwoman, announce the Port St. Lucie Republican Club Christmas and Holiday Party will be held at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on West Prima Vista Boulavard on Thursday December 7, at 8 p.m.

Festivities will include the traditional complimentary punch bowls, a delicious turkey dinner with the holiday trimmings, and pumpkin pie.

Entertainment will be provided by an outstanding choral group, 16 members of The Fort Pierce Centralaires under the direction of Earl Little. In addition to a selection of music presented there will be one or two Christmas carol sing-a-longs

State Representative Chuck Nergard and his wife Kay will be serving the punch bowls, for a chance to say hello.

re are four angling categories make this tournament different. categories grade anglers according to their experience.

The individual standings include a professional and an amateur division. The pros are those guys who cruise from tournament to tournament and win them. Amateurs are fishermen who have not fished many tournaments before and who just want to get out and get their feet wet, says contest chairman, Mike Matlack, who also is hoping to get his feet wet by fishing it.

The other two angling divisions are for team competitors, a pro team and an amateur team category.

What is nice about the team competition aside from the fact that participants can share expenses, is that feeling anglers get of working together for a common goal.

The tournament will be fished Dec. 6,7,8, and 10. Dec. 9 is being reserved as either a weather day, in the event a regular tournament day is unfishable, or a captains fishing day.

This is a tournament within a tournament with the anglers and mates sharing the crewing chores and the captain taking a rare turn in the fighting chair. Capt. Kidd Crawford is planning the mini contest. Mike Matlack is overall tournament chairman.

At the end of the days fishing there will be a barbecue at 5 p.m. at the Bay Harbor Club.

There will be fun things such as a cocktail party and briefing meeting planned for Tuesday, Dec. 5, at the Bay Harbor Club, headquarters for the tournament, and the captain's barbecue awards dinner Saturday and the final awards dinner on Sunday night at 7:30 p.m., again at the Bay Harbor Club.

Entry fees for the five day event are $175 for the individuals and $175 for the first team member with additional team members to as many as three, paying $90.

Prizes galore, including first, second and third place for each division, as well as a high point Martin County angler prize and overall trophy and tagging awards for the most fish tagged and released will be given.

Time is short if you think this tournament might be the challenge for you. Entries must be in by Dec. 1 to be eligible to fish.

Brochures with complete tournament rules are available by writing The Stuart Sailfish Club at P.O. Box 2005, Stuart, Fl. 33494.

Sandpiper Bay Resort has been selected as the site for the 1979 Florida PGA General Development Open golf tournament for the third consecutive year.

The announcement was made jointly by Florida PGA officials Mike O'Sullivan, president, and Roger Ganem, executive director, and William Pullen, general manager of the resort.

The 72-hole championship, with a purse expected to be near $40,000, will be played from June 28 to July 1. This is two weeks earlier than usual.

Tournament play will be preceded on June 27 by a pro-am contest. Practice rounds are scheduled for June 25 and 26.

The Florida Open will again be sponsored by General Development Corporation, owner of Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Last July more than 360 pro and amateur golfers from all over the state vied for $36,000 in prize money. Tony Valentine, pro at Ft. Lauderdale's Arrowhead Country Club, shot a 13 under par 275 to top the field and earn $4,000.

The Sandpiper's Saints and Sinners courses, at 6,473 and 6,986 yards, respectively, have been the site of many national events. They include the LPGA Sears Open from 1971 to 1974 and the National PGA Seniors championship in 1973.

"We are happy to be returning to Sandpiper Bay," President Mike O'Sullivan said. "It is a fair test, a good challenge, ideally located and most attractive for golfers and their families. I expect another turn-away field this coming year."

Entry forms will be available from Florida PGA professionals about two months before the event.

State Pro tennis tourney set Dec. 8-10

Professional tennis players from throughout the state will be competing for at least $4,000 in prize money here Dec. 8,9, and 10 at Indian River Plantation, which is rapidly becoming one of the most popular tennis meccas in the south.

Tom Faulkenburg, pro at the Plantation, will be host of the event. He emphasizes that to qualify, one must have an FPTA Player's Card from a previous tournament this year, or must purchase the $8 card which is valid for any FPTA tourney open to non-USPTA players.

The weekend will include a Friday night cocktail party, Saturday morning breakfast and other social events. The FPTA annual meetings will be Friday night's general session, and the award banquet Saturday night. Teaching seminars will also be conducted during the weekend.

All divisions, Falkenburg says, are limited to 32 singles and 16 doubles. Deadline for entering is Dec. 4 at 5 p.m. The entry fee of $25 will include one or two events. The check must accompany the entry application.

For Pro-Am, Falkenburg says, the entry fee is $250, and will include two divisions: Ranked players or previously ranked, and unranked and club players. Prize money in each division is $500, $375, and $25, respectively for first, second and third places.

George Lott, the last man to win five U.S. National Doubles tennis titles, and his former partner, a three time U.S. Davis Cup team member, John Hennessey, will be honored Dec. 9.

Tom Falkenburg, Indian River Plantation tennis director, said Lott and Hennessey will be guests of honor at a poolside dinner to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their 1928 victory over Australians Gerald Patterson and John Hawkes at the Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Lott, now 72 and still teaching at the Nielson Tennis Center in Winetka, Ill., and Hennessey, 77, a resident of Stuart, defeated Patterson and Hawkes, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 after advancing by the same scores over the famed French team of Henri Cochet and Toto Brugnon in the semifinals.

For Lott, the victory was the first of five U.S. doubles titles while for Hennessey, who retired from tournament play in 1930, it was the first and only.

Introducing Ultrasound...

In October of 1978 Martin Memorial Hospital began offering a new diagnostic service to our community. The procedure, called Ultrasound, cost $80,000, and is being operated by a specially trained new technician in our Imaging Services Department, under the direction of staff radiologic physicians.

Ultrasonography is an exciting new imaging concept which records vital body processes without the use of any radiation. Thus, the procedure is totally safe and non-invasive, involving no needles, drugs, medications, or special preparations.

This advanced technological procedure uses sound waves to "take pictures" of body functions and processes. It operates just like sonar fish finders, by sending pulses of sound at ultra-high frequencies down through the body. Return signals are "seen" by a computer, which then records a "picture" that is actually a series of dots showing patterns of internal organs.

In addition to recording static, or frozen images of body processes, the ultrasound equipment includes a "real time" unit capable of recording dynamic, moving processes, such as the fetal heartbeat, and pulsating structures.

Ultrasound does not replace other radiologic procedures, such as nuclear medicine, x-rays, or the C.A.T. scanner, but for certain diagnostic procedures nothing else can do the job. This is particularly true in the case of pregnant women. Ultrasound makes it possible for the first time to safely determine fetal age, weight, and size, to confirm twins, to locate and evaluate the placenta, plus other diagnostic possibilities. For the first time a doctor can see the fetus inside the uterus from about the eighth week of pregnancy until delivery. Ultrasound is also excellent for examining gynecological problems such as ovanan cysts and ectopic pregnancies, and for evaluating the gall bladder, liver pancreas, aorta, thyroid, and kidneys.

Message from the Administrator

Guy N. Cromwell
Administrator

Fiscal years at Martin Memorial Hospital start on October 1st and end September 30th. This past twelve month period was especially eventful, as it included successful completion of a major bond refunding program, improvement in cash position, and maintenance of quality care! This latter was evidenced by a full two-year approval bestowed upon MMH by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

As eventful as the past has been, the future year holds much in store, such as opening a new eight-bed intensive care unit, opening of a new fifty-bed patient unit (fifth floor), renovation of obstetrics and pediatrics, and expansion of many of the service facilities required for good patient care.

Guy N. Cromwell

An Opportunity for Giving

The approach of a year-end is always an appropriate time to take stock of your personal affairs, and to plan your giving. We hope that, if you have not already done so, you will include Martin Memorial in your planning.

The expanding size, new services, and new equipment which enable Martin Memorial to offer more sophisticated and efficient health care are very costly. Ours is a voluntary, non-profit community hospital that receives no tax support, so we must look to our friends in the community we serve for continuing help.

There are many different ways in which you can give to help support Martin Memorial besides outright gifts of cash. You might consider securities, real estate, or personal property such as books, paintings, and antiques of value. Deferred gifts are often the ideal solution for donors who wish to contribute to the hospital while living, but do not wish to relinquish income. Such deferred gifts could include charitable trusts, pooled income funds, charitable gift annuities, or deferred payment gift annuities. Other gifts can be made under a will, such as a bequest, an insurance policy, or a testamentary trust.

All gifts to Martin Memorial Hospital are income and estate tax deductible, giving you the advantage of benefits the Federal Government has provided to encourage charitable giving.

If we can be of help to you in planning your charitable gift, or if you would like more specific information about any of the above methods of giving, please call Administrator Guy N. Cromwell, 283-5200.

Community Chorus will sing Messiah

The Adult Education Dept. of rtin County Schools will present Annual Christmas Concert by the mmunity Chorus on Sunday, Dec. at 3 p.m.

The ever popular oratorio master piece of George Frederic Handel "The Messiah" will be sung in the sanctuary of the First United Presbyterian Church in North River Shores.

The soloists who will be taking part will be Roger White, prominent bass-baritone and well-known in this area, Mildred Markow, contralto soloist in the Fort Pierce area who has also previously sung with the Chorus.

Tenor soloist, Don Scruggs, from Salisburn, N.C., and a senior at the Hobe Sound Bible College with a major in music, will make his initial appearance with the Chorus.

Helen Guteras, a newcomer to this area, who recently made her debut here, and Carolyn Fulton, who has done solo work with the Chorus in the past, will sing the soprano areas.

Willa Jo Mauger, well-known organist in the Stuart area, will be the accompanist and Esther Flyler, director of the Community Chorus for the past two years, will be doing the conducting. No admission will be charged for the concert.

On March 4, 1979, as part of the series of concerts sponsored by the Committee for the Performing Arts at Florida Institute of Technology, the Community Chorus will be performing Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah". Anyone interested in singing this grand opus with the Chorus should contact Colleen Watts, at the Adult Education Department 287 6400 Ext.131, or call the director, Esther Flyler 286 2706. Singers with choral experience are especially welcome.

The East Coast Central League arted the new season Nov. 15 with e opening game at Stuart where our am came away with a split. Players ho participated were Jim and Martha Lewis, Ike Gingrich & Rita Dobson, Charley Ullmann & Ed Frost, nd Roy Lemon and Lisbee Smith. In he second match of the season, the core team scored a victory of four traight games over Port St. Lucie on the Nov. 23 match. The winners were Irv Ringer & Clancy Guthell, Robert & Gertrude Stevenson, Jim & Martha Lewis, Ike Gingrich & Rita Dobson. As for the refreshments.....Carrie Ullman and Lisbee Smith came to the rescue with delicious cup cakes.

The bowling Eight H. Outers competed recently at the Jensen Lanes warming up for the season opener. High scorer was Tom O'Mara who bowled a 194 game.

Millie Puz was the Winner Take All during the Friday night binge session.

Four couples neighboring the Ouellette's chipped in to do the extra cooking for Bertha.... who just recently had a leg cast removed. The ten neighbors and friends enjoyed thanksgiving "Potluck Style" with Bertha taking care of the turkey and stuffing.

Another get-together-holiday-dinner was held with the Bennets, their daughter and her family, the Smiths, Haughtens, Gingrichs, Nelsons, Neugebauers, Aslines, Briteks, Lewis, Armstrongs, Blair, Leonards, Footes, and Guthells. It was Ann Haughton, however, who did the turkey and stuffing up to perfection. The balance of the meal consisted of traditional dishes from various areas in the country and included home-made pumpkin, dutch apple and mince pies.

Not much question the old adage, "Make new friends, keep the old: one is silver, the other is gold" really applies to this Holiday Out group.

Ed and Lorraine Stork spent the Holiday at their neices in Clearwater.

The Elks saw a dozen Holiday Outers for dinner Saturday Night, McConnells, Ullmanns, Pizzes, Evans, Arbos, Lucille Borecki, and Alice Perrault.....then it was back to Arbos for Po-Ke-No where Lucky Lil needed help to carry her winnings home.

How nice to have our "Song Bird" back in the park. The neighbors all enjoy Tuck Schere's singing. He and Dottie are going back to Chattanoga, Tenn for Christmas holidays.

Bob and Erma Barton enjoyed their son Bruce and family from Jacksonville for Thanksgiving. Their grandson Andy is staying for awhile and has already learned to ride a two wheel bike while here.

Added to the list of returnees are Abbott, McLiveen, Hunt, Johnson, Gramstorff, Berger, D. Wolf, H. Wolf, R. Norris, Bate, Stall, N. Frank and Abraham.

Happy Birthday Wishes are extended to Robert Barnard 12-2, Frank Fanucci, 12-3; Clarence Ouellette, Peg Fleming, John Hook, 12-4; and Edie Gramatorff on 12-5.

With that special sparkle of all newly-weds, Hester and Robert Hunt arrived in the park late Monday afternoon. Hester, was the widow of Ray Dahlstrom and is the sister of Harold and Don Landis. We all wish them years of happiness together.

Mary and Mark Sumner spent Thanksgiving and a few extra days with friends in Palm Harbor, Fl. Ten people had dinner in Clearwater and then visited friends in Lakeland on their way back home.

A nice holiday dinner for a group of 29 was planned by Lena Black at a local restaurant.

Representing over 200 Publix Meat Department Managers in Florida. Frank Kapocsi, III — Tampa

"My customers make up their own minds."

"We've got regular U.S.D.A. Choice beef and we've got ProTen pretendered beef. It's up to you. Either way you go, it's heavy western, grain-fed beef. My job is to make sure you're happy with the way it's cut and the way it's trimmed.

And if you want a steak or a roast cut a special way, I'll see that you get it."

We know you mean business.

reasure Coast staff report is critical of Midport plans al Development Corporation ced to meet stiff opposition veral quarters when the first earing will be conducted next n GDC's proposed Midport ment.

BY BOB FRYER

ssue of who is to pay for the he massive project is going to the area's roads, schools, and n facilities is expected to be er point of contention when asure Coast Regional Planning conducts its hearing at 10 rsday, Dec.14. The hearing e in the county commission rs at the St. Lucie County struction Building in Fort At the hearing, the Treasure Council's staff will make s of recommendations concern Midport project, and many of mmendations are critical of ans.

Midport project is planned for gea east of U.S.1 between the ustrial Park and a point the U.S.1 Lyngate Drive sion. It is to contain 657 family homes, 536 medium height units per acre) housing nd 1,008 high density (12 units t housing units. Additionally, e shopping center, several commercial centers, 47 acres park land, a motel, sites for hools, a 20 acre hospital site, re park, and 490 acres of t drainage lands are included lans.

of the medium and high apartments are to be built alton Road, with the single ng in the interior of the south of Walton. The project e completed by 1987 and is d to house 5,503 persons.

Midport project is within Port ie city limits and is being d by the city council and city and zoning board. However, its size, the project is also view by the Treasure Coast al Planning Council.

ps the major recommendation Treasure Coast staff is that a ide impact fee be charged for development, with funds raised to go toward school facilities. The recommendation further proposes that until such a time as a countywide impact fee ordinance is adopted, an interim impact fee of $418 per housing unit be charged for the Midport project. And, should the county fail to enact a countywide impact fee by the time the Midport Project is complete in 1987, the Midport impact fee money would be returned to the occupants of the homes.(See related story)

The staff also made a number of recommendations concerning roads. They include: requiring GDC to four lane Walton Road from U.S.1 to Leonard Road; four lasing Tiffany Road (a major road that is to be built within the project) between U.S.1 and Commercial Boulevard in the GDC industrial park; improvement and paving of Leonard Road from Walton to U.S.1; improving several major intersections; construction of a parallel access road next to U.S.1 in front of the Midport project; and making all the above improvements on a time schedule that will allow U.S.1 to maintain a specified level of service. If the highway fails to meet that level of service due to overloading, no building permits are to be issued until adequate improvements are made or committed to be made.

Additionally, since much of the Midport traffic will use the Jensen Beach Causeway and Indian River Drive, it is recommended that GDC pay 25 per cent of the cost of improvements needed for the causeway and for its intersections with Indian River Drive and A1A.

GDC's Midport plans call for the firm to give the city one 16-acre tract for a park and to allow temporary use of a 12 acre site for a park on land to be given to the school board for a future school. City Planner Mike Szunyog has stated the 16-acre park site is mostly a lake and he says it is inadequate to meet the recreational needs that will be created by the project. The staff recommendations call for an additional 6 acre park to be given to the city, and for GDC to provide park facilities, rather than having the city pay for them.

Another recommendation is for GDC to compensate Martin County in some way for the use of Martin County beaches by Midport residents. The staff notes that seven Martin County beach access strips, bought through local taxes and contributions, are closer to Midport than the nearest St. Lucie County beach access strip. One suggestion is for Martin County and GDC to negotiate a fee for GDC to pay to the county, or for a recreation taxing district to be created.

The staff recommendations note that Midport will create a demand for more police protection, but says that is offset by GDC's promise to provide a site for a police station at Walton Road and Commercial Blvd. A site for a fire station at the same intersection is also to be provided by GDC, and a 20-acre site for a hospital is to be set aside by GDC.

Bicycle paths to connect residential areas with commercial and school areas are also included in staff recommendations.

The staff disputed the need for GDC's planned 47 acres of office space, saying there is probably not enough market for it. However, the staff concluded that Midport will have a positive impact on the region by diversifying and increasing job opportunities. A labor force of 1,430 persons is expected to live in Midport and a total of 3,263 jobs are expected to be created by the project.

Recommendations concerning drainage are that GDC monitor the nearby Savannas ecosystem and install water control structures if the Savannas are being damaged. Also, a special taxing district is proposed as a means of paying for the maintenance of the massive, 490 acre greenbelt drainage system planned for the project.

As for potable water, phase two and three of the project, planned to begin in 1982 and 1984 respectively, are recommended not to start unless proof can be shown that there is enough of a water supply to meet not only Midport's needs, but also all prior commitments for water service.

MIDPORT--General Development Corporation's proposed Midport project, shown as the shaded area of the map above, is expected to contain 2,201 housing units and 5,503 persons when completed in 1987. The impact of those new residents on the area's roads, recreation facilities, schools and other governmental services is expected to be great. Just who is to pay for that impact is a topic of debate that is sure to come up when a public hearing on the Midport plans is conducted Thursday, Dec. 14, at the St. Lucie County Administration Building

Housing permit totals decline, but LaChance predicts new surge

For the third month in a row, the number of building permits issued by the City of Port St. Lucie has declined.

Figures released by the city's building department show that 82 permits were issued for new homes in November. That is the lowest number of new housing starts in a month since last March, when 78 permits were issued.

In spite of the decline in new housing starts for November, city building department head Ralph LaChance says he does not feew this marks the beginning of a building slump. And, he is predicting the city will again be issuing well over 100 permits a month early next year.

"For our independent builders, November was one of our healthiest months. There was a higher percentage of independent builders taking out permits in November than we normally get," LaChance said.

"I imagine in the next month or two we'll be back up to 125 to 140 permits a month," he commented, explaining that the reason for the relatively low permit figure in November is because General Development Corporation didn't take out as many permits as the firm usually does. He said GDC has just about finished building homes in Windmill Point and is not quite ready to start homes in Windmill Point II yet. "They're putting in the roads and water and sewer lines and it won't be too long before they'll be ready to start building homes out there," LaChance noted. He said that whereas GDC has been taking out 70 to 80 permits a month, in November the firm only took out about 25 permits.

The value of the 82 homes for which permits were issued in November is set at $1,994,687. There were also 36 permits issued for additions to existing homes. Those additions are valued at $108,189. And, three permits were issued for commercial buildings, valued at $858,900. The latter three permits include the new city hall, a convenience store, and a plumbing supply warehouse. The total value of all construction for November is set at $2,959,366, and the city collected a total of $20,515 in permit fees.

The city's building department recorded its first month of triple-digit home permits in April of this year, when 136 new homes were started. Then an all time record was set the next months, when 184 permits were issued. In June the total was 141, in July it was 100, in August there were 138 new homes started, and in September there were 95 permits issued for new homes. In October the figure dropped to 93.

Newman to restore riverbank

The developer of the Spanish Lakes Riverfront mobile home park has been ordered to restore vegetation which was improperly cleared from the bank of North Fork of the St. Lucie River in the trailer park.

St. Lucie County area development coordinator Gary Ament said Tuesday that he had informed the developer, Harvey Newman, that he must restore the vegetation. Ament added that Newman has agreed verbally to make the restoration and that Newman also pledged to make that commitment in writing, spelling out how and when he plans to take the corrective measures.

When Newman sought approval to build the massive mobile home park, one condition was that the county would require Newman to keep a 50-foot wide buffer strip of natural vegetation along the riverbank, except for a boat ramp.

However, when the North Fork Conservation Committee sponsored its second annual boat tour of the river recently, to point out the need for protecting the river, it was evident that the vegetation along the riverbank in the mobile home park had been cleared. Following the tour, NFCC members contacted county officials to complain about the apparent violation of the developer's agreement with the county.

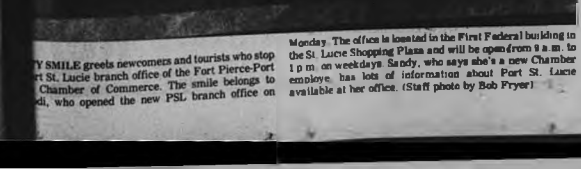
The complaint resulted in an inspection of the riverbank area by Ament, county commissioner Ed Eans, and county building department director Al Thomas.

Ament said following the inspection he contacted Newman and Newman said he would replant the area. "He's to send me a letter stating that he will restore the 50-foot strip of vegetation along the river and telling me how and when he plans to do so. I expect the letter soon," Ament said.

Ament further noted that palmetto bushes represented the bulk of the vegetation cleared and that he expected that this is what Newman will replant in the area.

DRAINAGE WOES in the city of Port St. Lucie have been a frequent topic of discussion lately. Not long ago a problem along Sunnydale Lane was cited as one of the city's worst, so a crew was hired to dig a swale along the road. On Monday night, city council members heard several complaints that the job is being done wrong. City engineer Bill Miley said he's been checking on the work and he anticipates it should be completed in a couple of days. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

SH--The annual Christmas mail rush is on, and it's the Port St. Lucie Post Office at City Hall just as it al Service offices throughout the country. ress Diana .Macpherson, right, says she has had a sharp increase in the volume of letters and packages deposited at City Hall and she expects to remain busy right up to Christmas. Citizens are urged to mail Christmas presents early, as Mayor William McChesney, left, is doing. Residents should also note that on Dec. 15, the city hall post office hours will change to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)



Y SMILE greets newcomers and tourists who stop rt St. Lucie branch office of the Fort Pierce-Port Chamber of Commerce. The smile belongs to di, who opened the new PSL branch office on Monday. The office is located in the First Federal building in the St. Lucie Shopping Plaza and will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on weekdays. Jensen Causeway is chosen as Corps 'lab'

BY SALLY LATHAM

In March, the Jensen Beach Causeway will become a combination laboratory and workshop for the U.S.Army Corps of Engineers, in an effort to determine the best approaches to protect the shoreline from erosion.

Our particular river area was chosen because of its availability and adaptability to the types of anti-erosion methods under study, Andy Hobbs, chief of the Coastal Protection division told the Mirror Tuesday.

"We will be doing it in cooperation with the County Engineer and the county commission," Hobbs said. "We've been meeting with the county commission for some time to implement it."

The Jensen Causeway was chosen from a field of 16 national shore locations which have been under consideraton by the Shoreline Erosion Advisory Panel. The sites were recommended by conservation groups and organizations throughout the country, and in Florida by state and county agencies, including the University of Florida Coastal and Oceanographic Engineering Laboratory.

The reason Jensen is so singularly ideal for the multi faceted project, Hobbs said, is because the shoreline along the river is especially adapted to demonstrate the effectivity of vegetation as an erosion inhibitor. The types of devices the Corps has been studying are geared to aesthetic as well as practical purposes.

Many different types of erosion devices will be installed along the county-owned portion of the causeway, Hobbs said. One is a sloping structure with containers for planting vegetation. Another is brushfill with groins to impound the littoral drift for sand recycling. A third is vegetation without additional installations, and the fourth utilizes vegetation with temporary protection to give shrubs and trees a chance to implant themselves firmly.

All the necessary vegetation will be supplied by the Soil Conservation Service, Hobbs indicated.

The Corps will also be using the services of Florida Institute of Technology laboratories and personnel, who will be monitoring the project and testing the water samples as they are taken.

The total cost of the project is $204,000. A quarter of that sum will be provided by the county, in the form of machinery and work forces, Hobbs said. The cost of the FIT participation, which will come from a separate government source, will be 100 percent funded.

The work, when it gets underway, will in no way cause additional traffic problems, Hobbs assured The Mirror.

In fact, it will probably be a source of education for people who have erosion problems on their waterfront property.

"They'll be working along the shore of the causeway," the Chief Engineer said. "We'll have signs to indicate this is a government project, and I'm sure people will want to drive in and see what we're doing."

Organizations may also call on the Corps specialists as speakers, to explain the program, Hobbs said. Juan A. Colon, District Public Affairs Officer, may be contacted to arrange speakers for workshops, seminars and civic organizations.

Ricou building: a reflection of history

...k Wacha,Jr., one of the ...ers who recently purchased the ...ing from Norris Tilton, plans to ...tore the exterior and renovate ... interior to recreate the ...nality the structure had when it ... built.

...d who could better serve as ...ultant to authenticizing the old ...ure structure than Frank's ...ghter, daughter of Ransom ... and her pioneer husband ...Tilton,Sr.?

...n education on the history of ...rnest bastion, which has walls ...ch as a fortress, young Wacha ...e Mirror invited into the Tilton ...a charming and wonderfully ...ue residence overlooking the ...

...Tilton, one of the area's ...st real estate pioneers, can tell you everything there is to know about Jensen history, mainly because he and his wife Anita have helped create it during the past sixty years.

A native of Tilton, N.H., Warner B.Tilton came to this area first "just to look around."

"Then I came back to look at a pretty girl, Nita Ricou," he said.

Nita Ricou, she told us, was born in Jensen in 1899. Her father Ransom was owner of a fishing business, and owned half of the land in the area.

The Ricou building came into existence through an agreement with Ricou and railroad tycoon Henry Flagler, who had already run his railroad down the line to Palm Beach.

"There was a big fire, and half the town including the old railroad station burned down," Mrs. Tilton recalled. "Flagler told Daddy he'd put a good looking depot if Daddy would build a good looking building."

Ricou, taking Flagler at his word, built the impressive, and sturdy structure. When complete, it housed, successively, a dry goods store, the Woodmen of the World, the post office, law offices, and a series of other businesses which made Commercial Street an attractive center for Flagler's trains to stop at.

Making it even more attractive, both W.B. and Anita recall, was the three story Jensen Beach Hotel, and elegant hostel which stood on the property now occupied by Tilton Real Estate and Norris Tilton's law offices.

"His guests were mostly drummers," Nita remembers. "we used to eat all our Sunday dinners there the food was excellent."

The hotel, like so much of downtown Jensen, fell victim to a fire which destroyed most of the businesses in the area.

Over the years, the landmark has housed a drug store, grocery stores, a dress shop, and apartments upstairs.

"Dr. Pennick had his first office in the building," the elder Tilton said.

"Pop" Tilton can remember times when they didn't think the building would continue to stand, strong as it is. Like the year a hurricane hit, and separated all the seams on the corners.

"We pulled 'em back together and reinforced them, she recalls. Now the grand old gal still stands, stronger than before.

The current tenants of the building are, appropriately, Susie's Ice Cream Parlor, fitting the fin de siecle antiquity of Ricou building, and a gift shop, the Tiger Touch, owned by Princetonian alumnus Bob Mayer, whose fascination with his alma mater's masonry has increased with the years.

Young Wacha has the goal of bringing back the historic flavor of downtown Jensen with his restoration, in hopes that other businesses will follow suit in preserving and recreating the unique charm it deserves.

GUESS WHO?—The photographer got a strange feeling that these young Tiltons knew the hidden identity of Santa Claus, as he posed for pictures with kids of all ages Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce The giggly Santa-philes are Terri Tilton, four, and sister Micki, six, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tilton, who happily received gifts of coloring books and candy from the jolly old elf. It was the kick-off for the Chamber's Christmas shopping promotion. (Staff photo by Sally Latham

...eaction to Center is varied

...e reaction to the proposal to ... the historic old Community ... on Commercial Street into a ... Citizens' Center, among the ...wn merchants in the area, is ...e as varied as the nature of their ...nes. The Mirror discovered ...week.

...announcement of the plan was ... a week ago by County ...issioner Chairman Frank Wacha, ...o said he had applied for a Title V ...ding made available under the ... Americans Act. The money ... be used to renovate the ... of the building, constructed in ... and fireproofing.

...visions of the center would be as ...ity place, a geriatric clinic, an ...ployment center for the aging, and ... care center for the elderly.

...e business establishment owners ... area in the past week have ... with everything from ...ified approval to near-panic at ...spect.

...ose who have strong objections ... most part are worried about ...affic and parking problems such ...ity would engender. Wacha, ...untarted last week by The ..., said he felt that the parking ...ound the banks would absorb whatever extra traffic that might result. He also said a small shopping center to the south of Commercial would provide additional space.

Three people, who all preferred not to be quoted, called attention to the increase in parking headaches during the season in the past three years, and the projected additional pinch anticipated this year, which is supposed to be even greater than last.

One businesswoman said she had reservations about turning the building over for the exclusive use of the elderly to the detriment of the younger people who might need it. Yet another suggested that "we already do enough for the old people," who she said have existing meeting places and recreational facilities.

Here are some of the statements:

Glenn Bryan, proprietor of Bryan's Pharmacy: "If it were done at night, it would be no big thing, but of course in the daytime, parking is pretty precious. The ones who live in Ocean Breeze can walk to it in the daytime, so that wouldn't be a problem. If it were handled properly, it would be a good thing. The old folks need some help."

Sarah Ludwig, clerk at Joyce's Women's Apparel: "I don't see why any of the merchants are opposed. It would bring more business into the area."

Jenny Scranton, owner of Joan's Beauty Parlor: "I don't think they should specify a building for that use unless they have enough parking to take care of it. I think they do enough for the senior..they have their own places to play cards and shuffleboard and pools in their own parks."

Gene Killer, owner of the Shell Shop: "I think it would be great. As to parking, I'm sure something could be worked out."

Mary Killer, co-owner of Shell Shop and active member of the Chamber of Commerce: "I agree that it would be great, except that it should be open to all members of the community, not just the senior citizens."

AL Auxiliary has thanks fete

The 14th annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, set for March 10, 1979, will be dedicated to the men and women of the Hospital Auxiliary, it was announced at Monday's auxiliary meeting.

The auxiliary's present membership stands at 698 (511 active, 142 associate, 16 honorary and 29 life members). Included among the active members, those who donate at least 50 hours yearly to hospital volunteer work, are 88 male volunteers known as The Anchormen.

Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary is the largest group within the hospital, even outnumbering the employees. The auxiliary belongs to the Florida Association of Hospital Auxiliaries. The hospital and its directors take great pride in the work of the local auxiliary, according to Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, auxiliary president.

As plans for the annual Hospital Ball go forward, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Thurlow, Sr. chairmen of the ball, have announced the following appointments as committee chairmen:

Treasurer, Dale M. Hudson; secretary, Mrs. Dale Hudson; publicity, Mrs. Jack M. Hartman; reservations, Dagne Jochem; decorations, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Salisbury; entertainment, Mrs. Vaughn Monroe; special gifts, Rolan Merell; business contributions, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Jordan; program, Mrs. William Matheson; hostesses, Miss Jane Irons.

GOP Women are honored

Several women, including some from the Jensen Beach area, were honored by the Martin County Republican Women's Club at a recent luncheon meeting. Award certificates were presented by Martin County State Committeewoman Barbara Lindsay to Rosa Barrie, Dorothy Broderick, Nancy Donaldson, Betty Drinkard, Ruth Fenske, Laura Neal, Grace Ryder and Dorothy Seak.

Weather may sour, but not fishing

BY SALLY LATHAM

According to the Miami weather person, our glorious run of unbelievably perfect weather may be over for a week or two, but most people are too busy waking up to the realization tht Christmas is nearly upon us to worry about it. Santa Claus came Saturday, and that always means he'll be back within just a few blinks of an eye.

The fishermen, however, aren't letting a little thing like Christmas shopping get in their way. In the river, the surf, and out in the blue water, they're finding a surprisingly fine variety of finny fellahs to keep themselves occupied with.

Tommy Stewart, over at the Snack Nook, says the whiting are practically boiling out of the surf, and the trout continue to rise willingly to the bait in the river. Some of the catches he's got on his registry include:

Mary and Henry Boyer, 25 whitefish in the surf on cut shrimp; Art Fowatt, 30 whiting and two blues in the surf on cut shrimp; Joe Fowatt, 20 whiting and three blues on cut shrimp, out of the surf; Earl Wilson, 101 whiting in the surf on cut shrimp; M.Cain, five blues, a flounder, a mackerel and 20 ribbonfish inthe surf on cut bait; Tony Battaglia, five blues and five whitings in the surf on cut mackerel.

Catches in the river have been: Floyd Gillem, Jack Prell and Roy Greenward, 16 trout to four pounds on Trout Tout; Ed Ahrens, six trout on MirOLure; Jo Stephens, an eight pound 14 ounce fluke on live shrimp; Bob Emens, four trout to six pounds 13 ounces, on MirOLure; Tony Fallazn, a seven pound three quarter ounce trout on shrimp; Earl Russell, two blues to six pounds on a red and white broomstick plug.

Nice off-shore catches have been made by Howard Byers and Aaron Johnson, six dolphin to 15 pounds and a small shark, on ballyhoo; Mr. and Mrs. C.E.Duncan, eight kings and a dolphin off the Fort Pierce inlet, on ballyhoo.

Andy, at Jensen Bait and Tackle, reports that his son-in-law Dan Lamb went out and got a three pound pompano, on shrimp. Other reported catches there included Bob Bos, a 57 inch sailfish, on mullet, while outside on his boat; Chicky Jones, an 11 pound snook, on mullet; Joe Barberra, 11 trout up near the Power Plant, on live shrimp.

Jim Steinfeld, at the Bait Box, says he hasn't anything to talk about, except to say good luck to the fishermen in the Stuart Sailfish Tournament which began this week.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

I wish to make comments and observations on your two editorials in the Thursday, November 30 issue of The Mirror.

First, let me say that your editorials "It blows your mind" and "Out of state tags" are in no way compatible to each other.

You take the St. Lucie County Commission to task for not accepting government handouts (thousands of dollars) to enforce a lame-duck governor's dying gasp of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit.

Then you say in your "Out of state tag" editorial, "Welcome to the out-of-staters, our winter visitors and tourists."

What would your reaction be to a family with children coming to Martin County being ticked for going above the 55 mile limit, say, 56, 57, 58 or even 60 being fined?

Since coming to this area for the past 15 years, we have seen some of Florida's northern border state police hiding behind overpasses, on side roads, behind trees, etc., for possible violations and fines of $25.

Some of these areas have discontinued these practices. Why? Because their town or city was bypassed and none of the traveler's dollars were left for their commercial businesses, such as motels, hotels, restaurants and attraction places. Don't overlook the fact that winter visitors have been and still are the life blood of Florida's revenues.

Also, you have condemned the motorists for exceeding the speed limit of 55 miles per hour. How about the tremendous increase in plane schedules? Do they have to slow down their miles per hour to save energy? I dare say no, in fact they have stepped up their speeds per hour and increased a great number of flights per day.

The 55 mile limit was put in to save energy, but was it meant for only automobiles, etc. traveling the highway?

How about Air Force One, and other political air travel? Have they been subjected to any curtailment of speed per hour to save energy? I don't think so.

Getting back to the St. Lucie County Commission; I applaud them for their action. It could be Martin County might be by-passed by future visitors in favor of counties like St. Lucie, where tolerence prevails.

Furthermore, "It blows your mind" editorial appears in very bad taste when you elaborate on one-hole outhouses, racing down Main Street at sixty miles-per-hour, spitting tobacco juice out of the window.

Caution we have a lame duck governor, we trust that we will not have a lame duck newspaper because of bad editorials.

Thank you,
John W. Dodge
Jensen Beach

Editor's note: In "It blows your mind," The Mirror criticized the St. Lucie County Commission for not only not obeying the state and Federal law, but also for encouraging defiance of the law through its policies. In "Out of state tags," The Mirror reminded those with jobs in Florida that they cannot legally work in the state without having a state license tag on their cars. The law is the law. If we do not like the law we can change the law, but not disobey it.

To the editor:

Foul, Sir. I say Foul on behalf of the hard-working bean growers of America.

We object to your offering of steak to the winners and beans to the losers in the recent Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce membership drive.

Beans are one of the most delicious and nutritious offerings in the American diet and a much better VALUE, pound for pound, that steak. And, besides, beans are never tough like many steaks today.

How about it, Mr. Campbell, don't associate us bean growers with LOSERS. We are WINNERS, Sir, and so are the succulent beans that we grow.

Sincerely,
Harvey T. Greenbean

To the editor:

On behalf of the Board of Directors, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and the membership chairman of the 1978 Membership Drive we wish to thank you and your organization for your participation. Every one was just great.

Words are inadequate to express our thanks to all of you.

"BUYING AND SELLING" LAND VS. "USING" LAND

QUESTION: I own a parcel of land that I've been told is worth about $35,000. There is no mortgage on it, and I can't seem to sell it. It's probably five years away from being really useful to anyone. I will retire next year and will need additional income. Do you have any suggestions?

ANSWER: Here are a couple.

1. Find an investor holding an apartment house or other income-producing real estate. Exchange your $35,000 equity for the income-producing property. You should be able to acquire a property in the $150,000 to $200,000 range without paying any capital gains tax. Many young investors will hold land for five years for appreciation if they don't need current income. This is often called "cold-storage land"—land held for appreciation rather than use. A friend of mine calls your type of land "buying-and-selling land" as opposed to "using land."

2. You might consider "creating paper" (a first mortgage) against your land and using this as a down payment on an income-producing property.

These are just two of the possible courses of action you might consider. After a more detailed study of your situation, I'm sure that we can come up with a solution to your problem.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

15 years ago in The Mirror

The Stuart city commission took the first step that would lead to extension of a water main to serve Sewall's Point.

The nominating committee to select a slate of officers for the seventh annual Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund drive was composed of Martin Wahl, Marion Tschiscbeck, Mrs. Charles Hall and Mrs. Frank Forsberg.

Mr. and Mrs. J.R.Roberts, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Radabach were pictured on a cruise to Nassau.

Ralph Evinrude, a member of the Martin Memorial Hospital board of directors, donated $50,000 in preferred stock to the hospital.

The Sorpotomist fashion show featured models Shirley Hovland, Betty MacAllister, Barbara Torow and Elaine Rhodes.

Jensen Beach Lions held a house-to-house sale of light bulbs

Jensen Beach Volunteer Firemen were collecting toys and games for needy children at Christmas.

Ten years ago

Charles Harvey was presented with a high post office honor for having saved his mail delivery truck from destruction by fire.

United Fund officers began planning the 1968 drive. They included Chris Kalb, president, J.D. Lookadoo, first vice president, Jackie Hall, corresponding secretary, Kathleen Spencer, treasurer, Jane Henderson, second vice president, and Mrs. James Navitsky, recording secretary. The goal was set at $8,700.

Rev. Donald E. Johnson accepted the pastorate at Jensen Beach Community Church.

Women's Association

The Jensen Beach Women's Association will hold its annual Christmas party on Monday, Dec. 18 at noon in the clubhouse. Members are asked to bring covered dishes. Cards will follow the luncheon. For further information, people may call Irene Hunter, 334-0858.

Five years ago

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce moved into its new building as workers continued the final stages of construction. Building chairman Dick Campbell reported that the year-long project should be completed by the end of January.

The "Waterbird" fleet of houseboats operated by "Captain Bob" Meyer fell victim to the fuel crisis and closed shop. The small houseboats were offered for sale.

The county commission banned tandem and triple-axle trucks from the Jensen Beach Causeway due to heavy damage of the road.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Redeemer Lutheran Church were held at the church site on East Ocean Blvd.

A fund drive for a new arts and crafts building was started by the Cultural, Educational and Social Association of Port St. Lucie.

Flanagan is new AL commander

Tom Flanagan, the new commander of American Legion Post 126, lives in Stuart, and has since his arrival in this area in 1968. But he is wrapped up heart and soul with the Jensen post and all its great community-building programs.

"I intend to follow through on all the programs Dick Neeson had in progress," Flanagan told The Mirror this week. "We're really working on Boy's State, and on the oratory contest. I want to see somebody go to the national finals in that one."

Flanagan, a veteran of World War II with action in Europe and Africa, was a member of the Georgetown, Mass. Legion post until he moved to the Treasure Coast area in 1968. And that move was almost lightning fast.

"The navy sent my son down in 1968 to do electrical work on the Flagstaff at Grumman. I came to visit him and fell in love with the area," he said. "I went back home, packed up my machine shop on a 16-ton truck and came right back down. It was that quick."

Tom and his wife Regina make their home in Stuart Manor, a retirement community. Their three sons are Thomas D. Flanagan, who is with Prudential in Massachusetts; Michael, who will retire next month from the U.S.Navy, and Lauchlin, who lives in Laurence, Mass. and who is assistant controller for International Telephone and Telegraph in the United States.

The new commander, who had been vice-commander, was installed at the first meeting following Rick Neeson's untimely death. Installed with Flanagan were Peter Chiellot, vice commander; Willard McCabe, adjutant and William Herzog, finance officer.

He is very proud of the fact that his post contributes so much to the life of the community. One of the most important events coming up in the near future is God and Country Day, which the late commander played a major role in establishing last year.

"We've got big plans for God and Country Day this year," the new commander said:

Taped concert program told

The Thursday, Dec. 14 taped concert at the Martin County Public Library will include more Bach, Beethoven and Mozart, for lovers of fine classical music.

The concerts are held each Thursday from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the library reading room. The public is welcome.

The Bach selection will be the Concerto Grosso 12 in B Minor, by the Bath Festival Orchestra with Yehudi Menuhin as conductor.

The Beethoven selection will be Symphony No. 5 in C Minor, played by the Berlin Philharmonic, under the baton of Herbert Von Karajan. The third presentation will be Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 1 in D, Horn Concerto No. 4 in E Flat, by the Philharmonia Orchestra. Herbert Von Karajan will conduct, and Dennis Brain will be soloist.

EXPRESS A SUCCESS--Les Mayland, general manager of the 1978 stewardship campaign, is presented a gold certificate of appreciation for a job well done by Rev. E. Keith Ewing, pastor, Port St. Lucie United Methodist Church

Pony Express a success

The "route riders" and "trail bosses" of Port St Lucie United Methodist Church have successfully completed their Pony Express "run" and the church's stewardship campaign has gone over the top.

The Rev. E. Keith Ewing, pastor, said today that more than 90 per cent of the church members had returned "estimate of giving" cards for the coming year.

He said the Pony Express theme for the stewardship campaign sparked enthusiasm among members and resulted in the congregation working together for a common purpose.

"We all had a lot of fun--children and adult," he said.

The Rev. Ewing said he was especially pleased that the Pony Express campaign involved the young people of the church.

School age children received Pony Express coloring books and balloons and made miniature saddlebags, similar to the larger bags used by their parents in the campaign Each youngster was encouraged to fill in an "estimate of giving" card, just as their parents did.

The Rev. Ewing and Les Mayland, general manager of the campaign, praised the many route riders and trail bosses and station agents who saw that the Pony Express saddlebags carrying the "church mail" were relayed from family to family. "Everybody worked together," Rev. Ewing said. "It was the same kind of teamwork the original Pony Express riders displayed."

Mayland said he particularly like the fact that in the campaign each family was permitted to decide on an estimate of giving in the privacy of their home, without any "over-the-shoulder supervision" of someone from the church. "I believe our members appreciated the lack of 'hard sell' tactics in the campaign" he said

rst National names judges for songwriting competition

deadline has passed for the nance of entries in First National and Trust Company of Stuart's Cash for a Song from Your Old " songwriting contest, and ts of the bank have announced ppointment of three local Judges e contest.

judges are Mrs. Vaughn Bobby Lord and Ed aker. Their task will not be an easy one, as over a hundered entries have been received. All three judges have excellent qualifications for judging song lyrics.

Mrs. Monroe is the widow of the late orchestra leader and vocalist, Vaughn Monroe. She was executive manager for her husband's 28-member band for many years and when that group was disbanded in 1953, she continued to manage Vaughn Monroe's one-man show. As a single, Monroe appeared in hotels and nightclubs all over the country.

She holds a Masters Degree in Business from the University of Pittsburg, is president of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and is a tireless worker for civic causes.

Bobby Lord is a well known country and western performer with ties to the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville. While he no longer travels the entertainment circuit, his recordings are still played on radio stations across the country. His activities now center around real estate. He resides in North River Shores.

Ed Shoemaker has played drums, guitar and piano professionally since his high school days. He appeared in college and USO shows and continues to play with local groups "for fun." Shoemaker is co-owner of Sound Image Advertising in Stuart, originator of the idea for the songwriting competition.

Since First National Bank uses the slogan "Your Old Friend With New Ideas," the concept of song lyrics based on the "friends" theme was established. Advertisements outlining the contest rules have been appearing in the local press for the past several weeks.

Cash prizes of $200, $100 and $50 are being offered for the top three entries. In addition, the first prize winner will have his or her lyrics set to music by singer-composer Patty Wicks who will also perform the new song at the grand opening of First National Bank's new East Ocean Boulevard Branch on December 16.

Miss Wicks started out to be a classical pianist and then switched to jazz. She appeared professionally in New York City for five years before moving to Port St. Lucie. She currently performs at Hilltop House in Fort Pierce.

JUDGES-Ed Shoemaker, Mrs. Vaughn Monroe and Bobby Lord have been named judges in the First National Bank song-writing contest, it was announced this week.

The Christmas Spirit fills Citizens Federal...where the main office lobby features an enchanting tree...surrounded by animated characters to delight children of all ages.....a horse-drawn sleigh...a tree trimmer a bell ringer, and other amusing, holiday figures. M.B.A. grows at FIT

The fall quarter closed this week with final exams for some sixty students pursuing their Master of Business Administration degree in the evening graduate program at the Jensen Beach campus of Florida Institute of Technology. This is the largest number of students to be enrolled since the program began in 1973.

The program, headed by Woodbury Johnson, was developed to provide graduate training in the business field to those who hold the bachelor's degrees in various disciplines.

During the winter quarter, which begins on January 3, courses will be offered in Managerial Statistics on Monday evenings, Management and Administration of Contracts on Wednesday evenings and Behavioral Science in Management on Thursday evenings. All classes meet from 6:30 to 9:30 during the eleven week quarter.

Applications for acceptance to Graduate School and registrations for the winter quarter are now being accepted at the Graduate Office on the F.I.T., Jensen Beach campus and interested persons should call 334-4200, ext. 36, for additional information.

Five bands to play Sunday

People who like to put modern rock into their Christmas mood will have the opportunity to hear several area recording artists in a concert on the Causeway on Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m.

Those performing in the free Christmas concert are five bands – the Monarch of Fort Pierce, Billy Elkins Band of Stuart, the blue grass Back Porch Band, "Gold", and Kevin Layne, all of Stuart.

The groups are currently working on an album for Sam Stadia, according to Bob Wasmus, spokesman for the concert.

Christmas outdoor decoration contest

The Port St. Lucie Woman's Club will again, this holiday season, sponsor an outdoor decorating contest. Judging dates are from December 16th to the 21st and cash awards presented on December 26th at the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Several categories are offered: Best Lighted displays-total exterior, religious, roof, or outdoor greeting card

Unlighted displays-door, mailbox or lampost, and outdoor greeting card.

Lighted homes must be illuminated between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. from December 15th to the 21st.

Entries may be phoned in to the following Woman's Club members: Lillian Thiel, 334-5218; Helen Finch, 334-5147; Gretch Ebeling, 878-1835; Mary Perdomo, 878-1567; Ann Bozarth, 334-3353.

Last year's first place winners are eligible this year only if their display is new.

Dutton Memorial Presbyterian to install Rev. Robert Garment

The congregation at Dutton are especially happy this Christmas season that this Sunday afternoon at 3:00, several ministers and Ruling Elders will be present to help install Reverend Robert Garment, to fill the pulpit of Dutton Memorial.

Those to be present at the installation will be Dr. Carl Polhiem from Stuart, who will give the charge to the congregation; Reverend Ray Gamble, who will have the sermon; Reverend Earl Downie, who will give the charge to the pastor; Elder Stanley Garment, father of Rev. Robert Garment; and Elder Harold Meyer of Dutton.

Christmas being a time of love, joy, special celebration and an extra special time for children, the children of Dutton will start the Christmas season with a program Sunday evening at 7:00 Following the program there will be a party in Campbell Hall. Young and old alike are in hopes that a very special visitor will be able to attend the party.

Next Sunday evening under the direction of Marion Soop and Zana Barrett at the organ, the Chancel Choir will present some familiar and new Christmas melodies as they celebrate in a special Candle Light Service.

Treasure Coast staff report is critical of Midport plans

BY BOB FRYER

General Development Corporation is expected to meet stiff opposition from several quarters when the first public hearing will be conducted next week on GDC's proposed Midport development.

The issue of who is to pay for the impact the massive project is going to have on the area's roads, schools, and recreation facilities is expected to be the major point of contention when the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council conducts its hearing at 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec.14. The hearing is to be in the county commission chambers at the St. Lucie County Administration Building in Fort Pierce. At the hearing, the Treasure Coast council's staff will make a number of recommendations concerning the Midport project, and many of the recommendations are critical of GDC's plans.

The Midport project is planned for 1,250 acres east of U.S.1 between the GDC Industrial Park and a point opposite the U.S.1-Lyngate Drive intersection. It is to contain 657 single family homes, 536 medium density (eight units per acre) housing units, and 1,008 high density (12 units per acre) housing units. Additionally, a 52-acre shopping center, several smaller commercial centers, 47 acres of office park land, a motel, sites for three schools, a 20 acre hospital site, a 16 acre park, and 490 acres of greenbelt drainage lands are included in the plans.

Most of the medium and high density apartments are to be built along Walton Road, with the single family homes in the interior of the project, south of Walton. The project is to be completed by 1987 and is projected to house 5,503 persons.

The Midport project is within Port St. Lucie city limits and is being reviewed by the city council and city planning and zoning board. However, due to its size, the project is also under review by the Treasure Coast REgional Planning Council.

Perhaps the major recommendation of the Treasure Coast staff is that a countywide impact fee be charged for all new development, with funds raised to go toward school facilities. The recommendation further proposes that until such a time as a countywide impact fee ordinance is adopted, an interim impact fee of $416 per housing unit be charged for the Midport project. And, should the county fail to enact a countywide impact fee by the time the Midport project is complete in 1987, the Midport impact fee money would be returned to the occupants of the homes.(See related story)

The staff also made a number of recommendations concerning roads. They include: requiring GDC to four lane Walton Road from U.S.1 to Leonard Road; four laning Tiffany Road (a major road that is to be built within the project) between U.S.1 and Commercial Boulevard in the GDC industrial park; improvement and paving of Leonard Road from Walton to U.S.1; improving several major intersections; construction of a parallel access road next to U.S.1 in front of the Midport project; and making all the above improvements on a time schedule that will allow U.S.1 to maintain a specified level of service. If the highway fails to meet that level of service due to overloading, no building permits are to be issued until adequate improvements are made or committed to be made.

Additionally, since much of the Midport traffic will use the Jensen Beach Causeway and Indian River Drive, it is recommended that GDC pay 25 per cent of the cost of improvements needed for the causeway and for its intersections with Indian River Drive and A1A.

GDC's Midport plans call for the firm to give the city one 16-acre tract for a park and to allow temporary use of a 12-acre site for a park on land to be given to the school board for a future school. City Planner Mike Szunyog has stated the 16-acre park site is mostly1 a lake and he says it is inadequate to meet the recreational needs that will be created by the project. The staff recommendations call for an additional 6 acre park to be given to the city, and for GDC to provide park facilities, rather than having the city pay for them. Another recommendation is for GDC to compensate Martin County in some way for the use of Martin County beaches by Midport residents. The staff notes that seven Martin County beach access strips, bought through local taxes and contributions, are closer to Midport than the nearest St. Lucie County beach access strip. One suggestion is for Martin County and GDC to negotiate a fee for GDC to pay to the county, or for a recreation taxing district to be created.

The staff recommendations note that Midport will create a demand for more police protection, but says that is offset by GDC's promise to provide a site for a police station at Walton Road and Commercial Blvd. A site for a fire station at the same intersection is also to be provided by GDC, and a 20-acre site for a hospital is to be set aside by GDC.

Bicycle paths to connect residential areas with commercial and school areas are also included in staff recommendations.

The staff disputed the need for GDC's planned 47 acres of office space, saying there is probably not enough market for it. However, the staff concluded that Midport will have a positive impact on the region by diversifying and increasng job opportunities. A labor force of 1,430 persons is expected to live in Midport and a total of 3,263 jobs are expected to be created by the project.

Recommendations concerning drainage are that GDC monitor the nearby Savannas ecosystem and install water control structures if the Savannas are being damaged. Also, a special taxing district is proposed as a means of paying for the maintenance of the massive, 490 acre greenbelt drainage system planned for the project.

As for potable water, phase two and three of the project, planned to begin in 1982 and 1984 respectively, are recommended not to start unless proof can be shown that there is enough of a water supply to meet not only Midport's needs, but also all prior commitments for water service.

Nergard gets 3 appointments

State Representative Chuck Nergard was recently appointed to serve on the Education, Government Operations and Veterans Affairs committees for the state House of Representatives.

The Education committee appointment is one that Nergard had said before his recent election that he would especially like to have.

Nergard is a Republican from Port St. Lucie who had served five two-year terms in the state house before deciding not to run in 1976. He ran for a sixth term this year and won a narrow victory over incumbent Democrat Dale Cassens of Fort Pierce.

Districting map published in today's Mirror

Published in today's issue of Port St. Lucie Mirror is the official districting map for the City of Port St. Lucie.

The publication of the map represents a fulfillment of a requirement of the city charter. It also represents the end product of a city appointed committee which worked for six months to develop the map. It is the first districting map for the city.

According to provisions of the city charter, the city is to be divided into four political districts, and each city council member must reside in separate districts.

When the city charter was approved in November 1976, the mechanics for establishing the four districts were spelled out. The charter provides that all districts must be compact, of contiguous territory, and with boundary lines following the center lines of roads. The districts are to be based on equal representation, meaning the populations in each district must be similar.

In order to have the boundaries of the four districts determined, the charter provided for a Districting Committee to be established to accomplish that task. Last year and earlier this year that Districting Committee worked on the matter. Last summer, the committee came up with a districting map that met the approval of city councilmen and the county supervisor of elections. One of the duties of the Districting Committee is to publish the map. That is being done today in The Mirror, and city residents are urged to study the map to determine what political district they're living in.

Until the four districts were established, it was conceivable for all five city council members to come from the same block, or even from the same household. But now, council members must come from each of the four districts.

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb, who worked on the committee that drafted the city charter, explains that although council members run for election from separate districts, all council candidates are voted on at large. In other words, all city residents can vote for the council candidates from each district.

There is a fifth council member--the mayor. In the case of the mayor's post, candidates for that job can live in any of the city's four districts, and the mayor is elected at large. In some cities, the mayor is selected by a vote of councilmen. But in Port St. Lucie, the public elects the mayor, and all mayor candidates run specifically for that post, not just for a council seat.

Though the next election of a mayor and city council members won't take place until next March, there is already talk of the coming election. On Monday night council members set as the deadline for filing to run for a city seat. And, the election in March should be very interesting, as for the first time in many a year, the mayor's post and all four council seats are up for grabs at one time.

The unusual situation of having all five seats open at one time was created when the charter was adopted, but will only happen for the March election.

Until the charter was adopted, city councilmen and the mayor served four year terms. The charter provides for only two year terms. So, in the first election after the adoption of the charter, held in March, 1977, William McChesney was elected mayor and Mike Reeb and Merle Anderson were elected to the council for two year terms. Those terms are expiring next March.

Also expiring next March are the four-year terms of Schuyler Sharpe and Lolita Kernohan. Hence, the unusual situation is created of all five seats open in one election. In order for that not to happen at every election, two of the persons elected next March will only serve one year terms. A lottery will be conducted after the March election to determine which two persons will be serving for only one year. At the end of those one-year terms, those seats will become two-year posts for the winning candidates in the March, 1980 election.

There have been rumors that a number of persons intend to run for mayor or a council seat, but the list of actual candidates won't be known until the filing deadline passes. On Monday night the city council agreed that candidates can file to run between 9 a.m. Friday, Jan. 12, and 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 9. Mayor William McChesney has already said he plans to seek reelection. Reeb and Anderson also say they will seek reelection, while Sharpe and Kernohan have indicated they'll make their minds up at a later date.

If there is enough interest an Esl class will be offered.

Nergard gets 3 appointments

State Representative Chuck Nergard was recently appointed to serve on the Education, Government Operations and Veterans Affairs committees for the state House of Representatives.

The Education committee appointment is one that Nergard had said before his recent election that he would especially like to have.

Nergard is a Republican from Port St. Lucie who had served five two-year terms in the state house before deciding not to run in 1976. He ran for a sixth term this year and won a narrow victory over incumbent Democrat Dale Cassens of Fort Pierce.

Nergard reported to Tallahassee this week to take part in committee hearings and in the special legislative session called by Governor Reubin Askew. Nergard's district includes most of St. Lucie County and the northern portion of Martin County. He maintains a local office in Room 209 at the St. Lucie County Administration Building and, when he's not in Tallahassee, he is at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce office from 9 a.m. to noon on Fridays. The Fort Pierce office number is 461-2309, and the Jensen Beach number is 334-0111.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1978

Everyone a winner at Las Vegas night

It was a great night at the Community Center for the more than three hundred who attended Nov.11 and for those who didn't make it - tsk,tsk; maybe next time.

The Building Fund profited by more than $2100.00; the Las Vegas Nite winners of play money from the various games put it to good use in bidding on the prizes when they were auctioned; under-privileged children benefitted from the fee paid to the Stuart Optimist Club for handling the game technicalities and providing the necessary equipment; and everyone there seemed to be having a terrifically good time.

The credits comprise a long list because so many were involved in making the affair such a resounding success, but here goes:

Special volunteer corps of JOHN SCHWARTZ, VINCE METZGER, ED AND MARION ROMBACH, DON AND ANN FISHER, DON AND NICKIE PORTER, JACK LAFRANCE, BO ALAIMO, BOB POST, BEN CROSBY AND MORRIS ROGAT.

The beauteous hostesses - DEBBIE CARTER, PAM LYONS, LINDA BEATY, MARIE PINEIRO, KATHY LUKAS, CHERYL WELCH AND LISA ALBRITTON—Seven lovelies.

The donors of all those prizes: WILL RADCLIFF, MIKE SKEFFINGTON, CARVEL ICE CREAM, BEAUTY HUT, SANDPIPER BAY, JOHNSON CHRSLER-PLYMOUTH, BOWMAN'S BEAUTIQUE, PEPPI'S HAIR STYLING, CAROL'S BEAUTY SA+ LON, OCEAN VILLAGE INN, THE CROW'S NEST, ALAIMO INTERI+ ORS, CONTINENTAL RESTAU+ RANT, SHELTON SEAFOOD, SON+ NY AND VITO SPORTING GOODS, PAPPAGALLO, THE GOLD AND TENNIS SHOP, CHEF'S SHOWER, BATH aND LINEN SHOP, DON'S BARBER SHOP, TANNER PHAR+ MACY, SUN AND SHADE, PORT ST. LUCIE BANK, B & F LIGHT SHOP, STUART GOLF GALLERY, WES- TERN AUTO, FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, PATIO I AND, PORT ST. LUCIE FLORIST, PORT ST. LUCIE BOWL- ING ALLEY, JOE ZIEMAN, CLOTHES QUARTERS, BILL SCHULTZ CHEVROLET, AND STEPHENSON'S GIFT SHOP. A huge thank-you to all these wonderful supporters.

CHAIRMAN MIKE REEB refused to take credit for his role, said it belonged to all those who had made it possible. He seemed to have a permanently inscribed beatific smile on his face and just one word to express his delight: "Beautiful!" We agree and the Community Center thanks Mike for a job beautifully and well done.

Help needed for bingo

During the coming holiday season when everyone is feeling and experiencing the wonder of sharing, why not volunteer to give Florence Dabney and her loyal crew of workers some assistance at the bingo games on Tuesday and Friday afternoons? This is one of those activities where too few have been carrying too big a load for too long a period of time and it's a real fund way to spend an afternoon, bringing pleasure to the players, helping the Center, relieving the loyalists and having a good time yourself all at once.

OR, since a New Year is in the offing, why not make a Resolution to volunteer an occasional afternoon to help in whatever way that is needed. Think about it and then surprise Flo with a call at 878-0049, or the Center office 878-1388 or 878-1390.

New years eve gala celebration

Plan to spend your New Year's Eve at the Center dancing the old year out and the new one in.

Butch Post and Betsy Horner, Cochairmen, promise live music and a night that will surpass even that of last year. The hours are from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. It's to be a B.Y.O.B. and mix arrangement, with ice and snacks to be provided along with hats and noise makers. Champagne will be served at midnight and then breakfast will follow. Admission will be $25 a couple and tickets can be obtained from the Center Office, or from Butch at 878-4734 or 878-3279; or Betsy at 878-0410.

Those who were with us last year know what a great night it was, so get your table reservations and tickets right away.

A welcome to new trustees, farewell to the old

At the November quarterly meeting, the Center Board of Trustees accepted resignations from Martha Sneed and Hal Roberts. They have been promoted and transferred to other posts by their respective employers, The Sun Bank and First Federal Savings and Loan. They have been replaced by their position successors John Gates and Bob Evans. Our best wishes go with Martha and Hal; we shall miss them, for they contributed generously in their service to the Center. We welcome, and look forward to serving with John and Bob.

Mrs. Arthur (Sally) Coulon, who is moving to the west coast of the state, submitted her resignation also, which the Board accepted with deep regret. To fill that vacancy and three others that existed on the Board, the Trustees elected former Center Secretary Annette Saffioti, Mrs. Loren (Florian) Minsky, Morris Rogat, and Frank Bonfield, four fine candidates to serve the Center.

The Board also adopted three resolutions: one In Memoriam to John Pugh, former Trustee; one to Debi Witaschek, former news reporter for The Stuart News, who is marrying and moving from the area; and one to Center Trustee and newly elected House Representative to the State Legislature for this, the 76th, District, Charles N. Nergard, extending congratulations and best wishes.

Flea market Sunday at Community Center

There will be a flea market at the Port St. Lucie Community Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9.

Furniture, electrical appliances, clothes, plants and fertilizer will be sold.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

The Trustees, Directors, Officers and Staff of the Port St. Lucie Community Center extend to all the Comet readers warm and cheery greetings and best wishes for a most happy holiday season. Try to drop by to see us, too. We're all decorated up for Christmas.

Santa welcomes all for breakfast

Saturday, December 16, is the date set for all the youngsters to come to the Community Center to have Breakfast with Santa. Breakfast this year will consist of doughnuts, juice and coffee, priced at 50 cents. The hours are from 9 to 12, with Santa scheduled to arrive by helicopter around 9:30 a.m.

An added attraction will be the opportunity to have a 5" x 7" color picture taken with Santa Claus, with the finished product to be mailed to the customer's home address for a cost of $3.50.

This is the third year that the Port St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club has sponsored this activity at the Center, and it has always been a joy to observe. So, even if you don't have children to bring, come along anyway and get the Christmas spirit just by watching "the younger set", sharing in their joy and perhaps by being a substitute grandparent for a brief moment.

Organ concert to be held January 14

The Events Committee for the Center is proud to announce that arrangements have been completed to present Clifton Goodale and Richard Swentzell of East Ocean Music in Stuart, in an Organ Concert on Sunday, January 14.

These two young men are so genuinely accomplished and singular- ly talented that two performances will be held: one at 2:30 p.m. and the second at 7:30 p.m. During intermis- sion, wine and cheese will be served. The concert will be held in the new Lundin Hall at the Center.

Those who have heard these two young organists are most enthusiastic, and the Committee feels most fortunate to have engaged their services. Sunday, the 14th, is NOT the day of the Super Bowl Game, so we urge you to obtain your tickets as soon as possible. We are already receiving requests, even though the event is more than six weeks in the future.

Tickets are priced at $5 and are available at the Center office or at the East Ocean Mall store.

Town election is Tuesday

There was a bit of dismal that northern climate one day last week to make the return to normal balmy Florida weather all the more enjoyable for the 35 snowbirds that flew down, making the season total close to 650. They were:

Gertrude Cochrane; Gorda & Breenie Gill; Al & Mary West; Dave & Ruth Moore; Larry & David Moore; Raleigh & Minnie Throgmartin; Clarence & Mabie Bell; Clarence & Ada Miller; Leslie Zimmerman; Byron & Clyde Stultiff.

Remember the Town election, Tuesday Dec. 12. Betty MacNabb; Bath Bowden and Henry Donaldson have entered the race for the 3 Aldermen seats that are to be filled this year.

The Nat Chase auxilary Senior Citizen bus takes off regularly, or so it seems, every Saturday for all the Damage Sales around with every seat filled. Generally on board there'll be: Doris Lehring; Dorothy Huggins, Ida Winser, Betty Brunt, Beiva Dean. While they bargain hunt, husbands have peace 'n quiet to catch up on some odd jobs.

Eat, drink, smoke and be merry as you play cards at Clement Hall but if there's one more mess like last Saturday morning, of smoking debris on the floor and slops in the rubbish barrel, it'll have to be "No Smoking or Eating". Why not be like the ol' time campers, always leaving the place just a little cleaner than you found it.

PARK EVENTS

SATURDAY NIGHT DANCE was back to winter time crowds and gayety and there was 4 squares and more of dancers on Tuesday night, also the dance classes have started. Monday and Friday at 10:30 a.m. for the intermediates and at 1:30 for the beginners.

HOBBY CLASS is going strong, but there has to be a correction. Mary Ann Holsinger isn't the instructor, she is the "show-er" and a might fine one at that.

CAMERA CLUB also hit its winter stride with 117 members turning out for the Otto & Dorothy Schorer slide show of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Hungary & Rumania. It was great, even though the "CC" speaker system misbehaved horribly at times. President Nina Zigelhofer wants the members to know, she is very sorry for the exasperating performance, and will have it in apple pie order for next show.

SHUFFLERS had a very successful week according to reporter Fran Runyan, with both league teams winning.

Indian River went to Whispering Creek and took 9 out of 10 games to lead in the standings: OBP 15; St. Lucie, Vero Beach and Ft. Pierce 14.

Central League entertained Whispering Creek by winning 3 out of 4 games to give them second place in the standings: Causeway 10; OBP 9.

Buckaroos posted the November winners as 8 for Ralph Ballets and Clyde Redinger; 7 for Bill Jones; Pete Muller; Hugh Garside; Bun Miller and J.E. Gum.

Sixteen teams have already signed up for the "Any Doubles" Tournament at OBP Dec. 7,8 & 9.

RAMBLING AROUND

Edee Yeago, 13 Melaleuca is back for a short while but plans to return to her apartment in Stanton, Va., where she has been getting excellent medical treatment. Edee came down here 14 years ago by travel trailer and was a member of the Oak St. gang at one time and well remembers ExOBPer Charlie Hall who was Postmaster in Stanton for years. Edee says her friends here have been just great with all their telephone calls and cards, and hopes they'll keep it up when she has to go back north.

The Lil'Bit Lo. bunch are all back, including: Bob Hines, No. 1; Nes & Edith Ebright, No. 3; Wilson & Kathleen Norris, 5; Ted & Elsie Landgraf, 7; Dick & Doris Reed, 9; Roy & Gladys Donaldson, 4; Walter Hartmon, 6; Ernie & Merle Hough, 8; Bert & Evelyn Dandy, 10; Merle & Lillian Bender, 12. They have a great time together and participate in park activities as a group, so we all hope they have another good season out there on the point.

Dorothy Pitman, 28 Keylime came back this year with Margery Andrews, an OBP ol' timer who lived on 4th St. for 14 years. They both live in Laconia, N.H. where Dorothy spends 6 months of the year with her gardens; Margery had to go back after Thanksgiving, but she did have a marvelous time visiting with all her old friends.

Clarence & Eva Pappe are staying a 6 N.E. 6th St. this year and like it best of all. They spend 6 months in Plymouth, N.H. where they have a family of 3 daughters, 6 grandchildren and 2 greats to keep them busy. They are walkers, especially Clarence, who is often encountered up by the Arch or down by Poor Bobs when not on a stroll up to Winn Dixie. Clarence continues his walking while up Plymouth way, but Eva is too busy helping out on her daughter's paper, the Plymouth Record, Citizen.

LETTERS FROM OBPERS

Harold Reid writes from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, saying please get our place at 6 Areca ready for our three month stay and mother Lillian, 95 years old and day Raymond, 96 years old will be with us for Jan and Feb. this year. All ol' timers will be delighted to see them again.

Olive Fifield, Ex OBPer of Banyan Dr. writes from Reading, Mass., to see if there is a place to rent for 2 of her very dear friends for months of Jan-Mar. Olive says she is very busy at her Senior Citizen Center and Golden Age Club, also there hourly train service to Boston. She has plenty to do every minute. She remarks that the fall weather has been beautiful but it is often 20 degrees in the morning. It is no wonder she is planning to come this way after New Years and spend some time with Charles & Bonnie Morgan at Spanish Lakes.

Officers to be elected at Dec. Narfe meeting

The December meeting of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees will be held Wednesday, December 13 at 1:30 p.m. at the Martin County Public Library.

Mr. Guy Cromwell, Administrator of Martin Memorial Hospital will be the guest speaker.

New officers for 1979 will be elected and installed. Mr. Nat Dwarkin, district leader of Hollywood, will be the installing officer.

All retired federal employees are invited to attend.

Coordinator VITA AUTENRIETH

To celebrate Lester Shaver's 80th birthday on Dec. 5th, they had a family reunion at their residence on Wahoo St. A wonderful time was had by all the relatives who included: Sons Charles of Dallas; Robert & wife Nancy of Atlanta; daughter Mary Branch of Morrison, Colo.; Granddaughter Sharon Branch and fiance Mike Reed of Miami; neice Hazel (Pete) and husband Scott Lee of Tampa, and daughters Betty Lee and Linda and husband Jeff Leven of Tampa; sister Mary McGehee of Pittsburg, Kan.

The annual Flea Market was a huge success. When the doors opened to the public, several hundred people were waiting to get in to buy all the goodies. There was a steady attendance until the 3 p.m. deadline.

It was necessary to make use of the entire patio to accommodate all those who had merchandise to offer for sale. All the residents of Venture Harbour, Indian River and St. Lucie contributed their time and energy to make this annual affair a much looked-for event. A special not of thanks to those in charge of keeping things running so smoothly.

Birthday greetings to Lester Shaver Dec. 5; Joe Capra, Dec. 7, Stanley Clark, Dec. 11.

INDIAN RIVER: By Rose Certh

Some people come, and some are leaving to go home for the holidays. We hope they all have pleasant traveling and come back safe. One of our neighbors, Paul & Florence Guillett from Vermont just arrived and told of very bad weather, with snow and icy conditions.....very bad for driving.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauzon drove off to Otaw, Canada but will be back after the holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. Asline are here and enjoying the sunshine. Finally. George and Evelyn Sterling came along with their beautiful motor home, dragging a little pinto behind them.

Glen and Evelyn Terry are ready to leave for their home in Michigan to spend the holidays with their families.

Sorry to say, Mabel Cook is still not able to get around yet. Her back seems to give her more trouble than expected.

One question: Isn't anybody interested in playing "Crazy Eights"? Win or lose, I always enjoyed playing.

Community Church Pageant

The Church School of Jensen Beach Community Church on N.E. Skyline Drive will present a Christmas pageant "The Christmas Story", Sunday, Dec. 10.

Dave Fisher, chairman of the Board of Christian Education, is in charge of the program. Soloist is Lori Higbee singing "O Holy Night".

The Pageant will include the singing of Christmas carols. Scripture readings, and the lighting of the Chrismon tree. "Chrismon" combines parts of two words - Christ and Monograms. A Chrismon is a monogram of Christ...a Christmas symbol. Members of the Church School will add Achrismons to the lighted tree during the program. The Friendship Circle of the church coordinated the making of the Chrismons.

Members and all winter visitors in the Jensen Beach area are invited to attend the service which starts at 5:30 p.m. and to stay for the Candlelight Reception in Fellowship Hall with refreshments served. Making decorations for the Fellowship hall are Mrs. Hazel Koehn, Mrs. Sandra Emery, Mrs. Jane Murray, Mrs. Jane Hughes and Mrs. Gladys Turbyne.

Minister of Jensen Beach Community Church is Dr. Joh DiGangi and the Associate Minister is Norman G. Kehrli.

WHAT A WAY TO SPEND A DAY! Some of those paintings depict northern scenes, but the setting for their display couldn't have been more idyllic. The area artists brought out easy chairs, propped up their paintings in the parking lot at the end of Commercial Street, and drank in the artistry of the surrounding land-and-river-scape while the traveling public stopped to view their wares. "It would have been nice if we'd sold some," said artist Erna Black. But with a view like that to look at, who really cares? (staff photo by Sally Latham)

Numerous parties mark holiday

A Christmas party is scheduled for December 14 at 10:a.m. in the Rec Hall by the So n So Club. The group meets every Thursday morning in the hall to work on their various projects. Last Thursday the hostesses were Mary Sumner and Marion Maduas. Everyone is invited to attend the weekly sessions.

It was Martha Lewis who won the "The Winner Take All" game.

While the screen room of the Dehaon's has been completed, Rita says, "Never again to all the hard work, but did agree they will be able to enjoy it and their new trailer home for the Christmas Holidays.

Holiday Outlines

There is still time left for all the park cooks to prepare baked goods for the Christmas Bazaar to be held on Sat. Dec 9th Also bring along those unwanted items for the White Elephant table. Hot dogs and drinks will be available during the session. Everyone is invited.

Got things to be discarded? Save 'em and bring them over to the Auction which will be held sometime in February.

More than 153 persons attended the Pavilion Church last Sunday to hear the 8-10 year-old Choraleers from the Hobe Sound Bilbe School sing a selection of Christmas songs. They were accompanied by Mrs. French on the organ.

High scorers in the Monday night bridge game was George Snell, first, and Millie Foss came in second.

More players are needed for the weekly session.

First place Causeway were the shuffleboard guests on Nov. 29. Following the afternoon of play, a split resulted with our local team still in second place. Those participating were Roy Laman, Martha Lewis, Ed Frost & C. Ullmann, Bob and Gert Stevenson, Clancy Gutheil & Irv Ringer. It was Martha Lewis and Rita Dobson who furnished the delicious cup cakes for the event.

The "Bowling for Fun" group met again at the Jensen Lanes last Wed at 1 p.m with Tom O'Mara coming across as the top scorer of the afternoon when he bowled a high game of 190. Please note that everyone is invited to attend these get-to-gethers and join in for the fun and friendship. They bowl at the Jensen lanes each Wed at 1 p.m.

It has been learned that one of the pioneer owners of the park, Charlie Walters of lot 224 died at his home in Dayton, Tenn. last week. Our condolences are extended to his dear wife Mary and their family. His presence will be sincerely missed by all who knew him here at Holiday Out.

Bob Long was confined to General Hospital in Fort Lauderdale last week in the intensive care unit for two days. According to his wife Geri, he is responding nicely to treatment. We all wish him well.

Mr. Hyde of lot 302 has recently sold to Thersa and Paul Wolf. While it is sad to say goodbye and best wishes to him, all residents join in a happy welcome to the new owners. Stop in and say hello to them!

Marie Gramstorff broke her right wrist at play. Will have it in a cast for the holidays. They will leave Dec. 19 for home in Boston, Mass.

Wesley Arbo an Lester Ullmann were initiated in the Elks Club Monday night. Others attending the services with them were Jack McConnell, Al Jones, Tom Stieler, Gordon Emaus and Arthur Smith.

Former parks residents, The Landis's entertained at their new condominium Sunday evening and the H. Outers were quite well represented.

Alice Perrault left to visit here grandchildren in California for about one month.

Those having dinner at the Elks last Saturday evening included the McConnells, Arbos, L. Ullmanns, Bartons, Sumners, Lamons, Lucille Borecki, Johnsons, Emaus and Stars.

Beryle & Cecil Roy are now enjoying their newly decorated porch....well done and excellent color coordination!

Ralph and Jean Taylor had a nice five day trip to Tampa and nearby places. Then met friends from home in Brooksville before returning to the park.

Gordie and Erma St. Louis enjoyed a few days in Key West.

G. Bares, Wolfords, Prices and Al Rays drove down to Tegest aor an organ recital.

The Ray Nealis's write the cold weather has settled in at Levittown, Pa. They hope to see us all very soon.

Bill and Tess Miller are at home on lot 151. They are from Long Island N.Y. and will be here four months.

John and Marcie Evans left Sat. morn to spend the holidays in Ohio.....will return in January.

Lena Black keeps things rolling. A group

Lena Black keeps things rolling. While dining with a group, she persuaded them to get their flue shots.... but, when it came her turn she found out she was to young to receive one.

Gordie and Erma St. Louis enjoyed a few days in Key West.

The Russels also gave a party at their new condominium last Sat night and all the "Kissin Cousin Korners" from the park were there.

It was C. Ullmann who saw too it that very few ate breakfast here in the park last Sunday morning. Most ate at the Lions Pancake Breakfast.

Latest of the returnees include: Borecki, Plate, Traynor, Goold, Spencer, Magaum, Lou, Star, Bond, Parker, Green, Lally, Dryadale, Petersen.

Anniversaries Congratulations: Edwart and Ev elyn Frost, Margaret & James, Dec. 12; Priscilla & Bob Smith, Mildred and Frank Pisz, Dec. 13.

Birthday wishes are extended to: Marji McIntyre, Huey Gorman, Dec. 7; Wm. Chaisson, Dec. 8; Lisette Labbe, Benny O'Mare, Cec. 9; Peggy Guthell, Dec. 10; Richard Harper, Dec. 11; Helen Olson, Terri Greenberg, Dec. 12; and Charley Abel on Dec. 13.

Riverside Village

The Githens entertained their daughter and family over the Thanksgiving weekend. They were Berniew and John DiStefano and children Eileen and Regina.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mickey extend their thanks to everyone in the park for the lovely cards sent them on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Ken and Irene Bigham spent the past week end with her sister and brother at Lake Worth.

Understand someone in the park is very careful where his keys are when he leaves his trailer.

The Reeds have left the park to see more of the state.

Word has it the Hoffmans (former reporter residents of the park) are back in Jensen but Sally is getting about with a cast on her foot.

Dorothy Shapton and Florence Brynilsen were hostesses at Hobby Monday when twenty-two attended.

Alfred Baungartner won Bingo Jack Pot Friday night.

Sharon and Ralph Burget of South Bend, Ind., visited their Aunt, Did Harden.

John & Helen Githens are traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Kershaw in their motor home to the oyster festival in Marathon this weekend. Sounds like fun.

Cub Scout Pack Meeting features mountain skits

Cub Scout Pack 499 had its monthly Pack Meeting recently, and each of the nine dens making up the pack presented a short skit in keeping with this month's national theme of "Mountains."

Elaine Goodrich and Patty Charest, leaders of Den1, presented with their Cub Scouts a papier mache' scene of a mountain range. Each of the scouts in Den 1 was responsible for a different part of the scene.

Elsa Interian and Karen Specker, leaders of Den 2, presented with their Cub Scouts a papier mache' volcano. After several false starts, they finally succeeded in getting the volcano to erupt and pout black soot down its sides.

Caro Roth and Donna Roberts, leaders of Den 3, presented with their scouts an "avalanche" of pillows. Den 2 and Den 3 both decided on natural disasters as a method of dealing with the difficult "mountain" theme.

Diedra Rapps and Edwina Regos, leaders of Den 4, and also Sharon Roettger and Sandy Poulos, leaders of Den 6, opted to present skits on "conservation". The Cub Scouts of Den 4 made bird houses out of milk cartons and displayed them on stage while the Cub Scouts discussed ways to conserve our natural resources.

Dee Ellsworth and Kay Robinson, leaders of Den 5, with their Cub Scouts performed a skit on Rip Van Winkle.

Chris Larsen and Joann Rathgerber, leaders of Den 7, and Susan Moss and Barbara Kauffman, leaders of Den 8, presented with their Cub Scouts two different skits on mountain animals--the bobcat, wolf, and bear, which are also the first three ranks in scouting.

Marie Votino and Diane Gerber, leaders of Den 9, had their scouts sing"She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain", as they accompanied themselves on home made instruments.

Several of the dens went on field trips this month. Den 7 went to the Fort St. Lucie Library for a lecture on mountains given especially for the boys by Mrs. Susan Erhardt, the librarian. Den 9 went for a tour of the St. Lucie County Museum. Den 1 visited the Division of Forestry in Ft. Pierce where each of the boys climbed a 106' tower and learned about tractors that help to fight forest fires.

Each of the 9 dens are now preparing for their Christmas Pack Meeting. Coming up in January is the Pine Wood Derby Race, whic is one of the biggest events of the year.

Advancement Awards handed out at this month's Pack Meeting by Cub Master Malcom Von Taborsky were as follows:

Bobcat-Jospeh Forbes, Steven Madden, Scott Fugett, and James Turcott.

Wolf-Brian Roberts, Michael Sward, James Robinson, Charles Roetiger, Eric Poulos, Eddie Malmquist, Keith Holliday, Kevin Helms and Gary Gerber.

Bear-Robert Altino, Kevin Roth, and Marc Rogolino.

Gold Arrows Brian Roberts, Kevin Roth, James Robinson, Charles Roetiger, Eric Poulos, Eddie Malmquist, Keith Holliday, and David Re David.

Silver Arrows-Kevin Roth, James Robinson, Eddie Malmquist.

Transferred to Webelos Den Marc Rogolino and Cecil Johnston.

Webelos Awards-Kenneth Goff, Harold Hagen, Kurt Risear, Jeff Helms, Richard Sward, Pierre Vignier, Chris Kirk, Patrick Guggey.

Volunteer honor roll

KAY PRINKEY for opening her home to the Community Center Board of Trustees for their quarterly meeting in November.

JUNE JOHNSTON, Travel and Cruise Chairman, for arranging the lovely get-together party for the 32 lucky people who participated in the Thanksgiving cruise Mexico, to Cozumel Cancun, Grand Cayman, Ocho Rios, and the Out Islands - a real Caribbean holiday. Her thoughtfulness enabled the vacationers to meet ahead of time and clarify questions they had.

JUNE ANDREWS, AGNES LAFRANCE and JUNE JOHNSTON for co-chairing the highly successful Fashion Show Card Party that netted the Center Operating Fund a solid $400 contribution. Their assistants were OLGA ATKINS, NICKIE PORTER, DORA EDWARDS, MARY CONLEY, BETTY MILLER, MADELINE TRUMBOWER, WANDA LUNDIN, BETTY JONES, ANITA WHITE, MARION WEHNER, EHTEL KRALL, RUTH ANDREWS and SALLY COULON.

RUSTY REINHARDT, HELEN GRALER, ROYCE SISSON, MARY CONSER, GAIL MCCULLOUGH, MAE ROCHE, BESS TOMMI and GUDRUN SCHLANGE for contributing their time and talents in serving as models.

EARLINE RADCLIFF for providing a lovely program of organ music for background to the show.

MARIE HAUGHTON, PAT SEELEY and BETTY NEUBAUER for the very attractive new cookbooks, Port St. Lucie's Best Kept Secrets, and LEE REEB for answering an SOS on short notice to help promote the books.

"My customers make up their own minds."

"We've got regular U.S.D.A. Choice beef and we've got ProTen pretendered beef. It's up to you. Either way you go, it's heavy western, grain-fed beef. My job is to make sure you're happy with the way it's cut and the way it's trimmed.

And if you want a steak or a roast cut a special way, I'll see that you get it."

First Federal gets PSL okay

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Fort Pierce has received its approval from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of Atlanta to open a branch in the Village Green Shopping Plaza of Port St. Lucie, in approximately a year.

Although ground has not yet been broken for the large and innovative center, which will be built by General Development at the corner of Walton Road and U.S.1, it is expected to get underway early in 1979. According to First Federal president J. Michael Brown, the bank facility is due for opening within a year.

The Village Green office, which will occupy 2,000 square feet of floor space, will become the ninth full service facility for First Federal along the Treasure Coast. It will serve existing savings and mortgage customers throughout the Port St. Lucie area, as well as handling applications and processing for real estate loans.

"A large percentage of both our savings and mortgage business has come from that area," Brown said last week, "and now we'll be able to serve it better."

First Federal has branches from Vero Beach to Stuart. The most recent one to open in this area is in Monterey Plaza, Stuart. A Sebastian branch is scheduled to open within the next year.

Holiday House at Adams Ranch

People who want to combine Christmas shopping with visiting one of the loveliest back-country homes in the area may do so today (Thursday) from 1 to 4 p.m. at the ranch estate of Judge and Mrs. Alto Adams.

Judge Alto and Cara Adams will be opening their doors to the visiting public for the annual Holiday House of Poinciana Garden Circle, of the St. Lucie County Garden Federation. It may be reached by going 16 miles out Orange Avenue Extension, west of Fort Pierce. The archway entering the ranch is on the south side of the highway.

The items for sale include all sorts of gift items, homemade cakes, candies and other things appropriate to the season. Tickets will be sold at the door. Proceeds will go toward the circle's community beautification projects.

Mrs. Edward Enos is this year's Holiday House chairwoman, and Mrs. Thomas Mundy is her co-chairwoman.

Avella slashes Midport park price, council okays purchase

BY BOB FRYER

After learning that General Development Corporation had cut its asking price for a 16-acre park site at Midport Road and Lyngate Drive by $47,000, city council members voted four to nothing Tuesday to buy the land.

GDC had been asking $56,855 for the land, but in a recent letter from GDC president William Avella to Mayor William McChesney, Avella dropped the asking price to $9,846 and said the city would only have to pay one dollar as a downpayment the first year, then could pay off the balance in four equal payments spread over the following four years.

After council members voted to buy the park site, city manager Leonard Silvia and City Planner Mike Szmyog were instructed to continue efforts to seek a park development grant.

Szmyog has said in the past that the city needs to develop an active, Sportsmans Park-type facility at the park site in question, as well as to provide passive recreational activities there. Little League ball player parents and coaches have been saying for months that the city needs such a park, with new ballfields, before the new ball season starts in March. They say Sportsman's Park is too crowded and new ballfields are desperately needed. However, it is doubtful the city could obtain grants and build the fields in time for the coming season.

The council has been discussing GDC's price list for five park sites the council is interested in for about a month. At the council's last meeting in November, Mayor McChesney said he and city manager Leonard Silvia would go to GDC's headquarters in Miami to discuss the park prices and see if the firm would not reconsider a council request that GDC give the park sites to the city. The meeting was thought to have been scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 5. In fact, on Monday, Dec. 4, at a night city council workshop, Mayor McChesney said he had an appointment to meet with GDC officials in Miami the next day to talk about parks.

However, on Tuesday, Dec. 12, when McChesney reported on Avella's letter, the mayor said he had met with Avella in Port St. Lucie on Thursday, Nov. 30, and discussed the park situation. He added that he had a phone conversation with Avella on Tuesday, Dec. 5, and that as a result, Avella mailed him the letter stating the offer on the 16-acre park. The mayor did not explain why he said on Dec. 4 that he was to have a meeting on the parks the next day, when he had already met with Abella the week before.

When the city had originally asked for a price list for five sites the city was interested in obtaining for parks, the 16-acre tract at Midport Road and Lyngate Drive was by far the most expensive. GDC officials explained that the reason for the $56,855 asking price on that tract was because GDC had been planning to use a portion of the land for commercial purposes, and had thus placed a high value on part of the land. In Avella's letter, he said he would be willing to sell the entire tract at the average cost per acre that GDC was asking for the other four park sites, which computed to $615 an acre. That resulted in the $9,846 price tag for the 16-acre site.

As for the other four park sites the city has expressed interest in, Avella said he would be willing to hold the asking price for them as is until the end of 1983, and said the city could decide at any time between now and then to buy the park sites.

Council members had seemed on the verge of agreeing to buy all five park sites several weeks ago, but decided Tuesday to wait until the next fiscal year's budget is being prepared to consider purchase of the four remaining sites.

It should be noted that there was a four to zero vote on the 16-acre park because Vice Mayor Mike Reeb was absent from the council meeting.

A MAIN THOROUGHFARE–Someday, if General Development Corporation gets approval of its Midport Development of Regional Impact plans, the intersection of Grand Drive and Flintlock Drive may be a busy place. Maps show that Grand will be a major road through the Midport project. But if you drive through the area these days, you'll find the roads are poorly surfaced and the road signs aren't even up yet in many places. On Thursday morning the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council met to consider the GDC Midport project. GDC hopes to build homes and apartments for 5,503 persons in the 1,250-acre tract east of U.S.1 by 1987. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

PSC grants rate hike

The state Public Service Commission voted three to nothing Monday to allow General Development Utilities Corporation to raise its water and sewer rates for Port St. Lucie customers, but not by as much as GDU was asking for.

At least that's what it seems to be.

According to a spokesman in the PSC legal department, the PSC formally voted on a rate request that GDU has been seeking for more than a year. However the PSC attorney who handled the GDU case was out of town and the spokesman said he could not explain the details of the PSC action.

The spokesman said the decision of the PSC had not yet been reduced to a written order. However, based on documents presented to the PSC by the staff and on the PSC vote on staff recommendations, it appears the sewer rates for the 2,700 GDU customers in the Port St. Lucie area will jump from a current monthly charge of $8.57 to a charge of $9.90.

As for the 3,800 GDU water customers in this area, it appears the average monthly bill for homeowners will be $12.01.

In the case of the water and sewer rates, GDU had requested a two-phase rate hike when it filed its rate increase application with the PSC last December. At that time the sewer rate for homeowners was $5.65 a month. GDU asked for a phase one rate hike, to take place in August, 1978, to $9.90, and asked for the rate to go up to $13 a month in August, 1979. In March, the PSC granted an interim rate hike to $8.57.

Though it appears that the PSC has granted GDU only what it has sought under its phase one request, it could not be determined for sure that the PSC decision didn't also include allowance for future rate increases.

As for the water rate hike the PSC granted, it's not readily comparable to what GDU requested.

Based on the PSC decision that the average monthly bill for residential water users would be $12.01 a month, it appears the PSC calculated that the average monthly use of water by homeowners would be a little more than 7,400 gallons.

GDU's rate requests were based on an average consumption of 6000 gallons a month by homeowners. The current water rate for that amount of water is $6.15. GDU has asked for a phase one (Aug. 78) increase to $10.60 a month an for the rate to go to $12.70 a month beginning next August.

The PSC spokesman said the PSC decision was apparently to allow a base cahrge of $2.53, with no minimum gallonage. Then, for each 1,000 gallons of water used, there would be a charge of $1.20.

Figuring the cost of 6,000 gallons under the rates apparently decided on by the PSC would indicate a charge of $9.21. This is 39 cents less than GDU has asked for under phase one and $1.49 less than what GDU wanted under Phase two.

Jack Lindsley, president of the Coalition of Florida Consumers, said Wednesday morning that he would need to study the PSCorder before he could make an assessment of what the order means, and said he is most anxious to learn whether the PSC decision would or would not allow for any phased increases over figures given out by the PSC spokesman. He noted that a condition of the PSC order is require the new rates to be under and indicated that the PSC may have some doubts about the validity of the rates decided on.

Dr. Skinner is disappointed despite test improvements

BY BOB FRYER

Although St. Lucie County students showed improvement this year over last, year when state Student Assessment Test scores were received last week, school officials are still disappointed with some of the results.

Dr. Nolan Skinner, school superintendant, said "I'm very disappointed with the results on the math portion of the test, where only 61 per cent of those taking it for the first time passed it. We will have to reanalyze where we are and what we've been doing and see what we can do to do better," he said.

The state Student Assessment Test, (which last year was initiated on a statewide basis under the title Functional Literacy Test) was given to a total of 711 high school juniors in St. Lucie County in October. The results, issued last week, show that a total of 94 per cent of the juniors passed the communications portion of the exam and 61 per cent passed the math portion of the test. Last year, 87 per cent of the county's 11th graders taking the test passed the communications part and 55 per cent passed the math portion.

State law requires that no student shall be granted a high school diploma unless they pass the State Assessment Test. Those failing it only receive a certificate of completion, indicating they attended classes but did not pass the test.

For the juniors who failed either the math or communications portion of the test, there will be three more chances for them to take the test between now and graduation.

In addition to the 711 juniors who took the test in October, there were 110 seniors who had previously failed the communications part of the test who retook that exam in October. Dr. Skinner said 81 per cent of those 110 seniors passed that test. And, he said of 278 seniors repeating the math portion of the test, 62 per cent passed it. Those seniors not passing either portion of the test will have one more chance, next spring, to take it.

The above results all pertain to what is known as Part II of the state Student Assessment Test, and it is the Part II (which includes math and communications) that must be passed for a diploma to be granted.

But there is a Part I of the test also, and Part I is given to all students in grades 3, 5, 8, and 11.

Part I is not scored on a pass-fail basis, but those students not satisfactorily performing the basic skills required in the Part I test are placed in a remedial program and must be certified remediated.

For Part I of the test, Dr. Skinner said students consistently showed improvements in nearly all basic skills. For example, he said third graders showed improvement in 9 of 10 math skills that were included in last year's and this year's tests. He said there were four new math skills added to the third grade test this year. He noted another example where fifth graders improved scored in 15 of 19 skills they were tested on.

Dr. Skinner said test results have been forwarded to the various schools in the county and that he expected by Tuesday (Dec. 12), all students should have received their scores. He said teachers will identify those not passing a portion of the test and a work will begin to help them pass it the next time it is administered.

Jury to consider Turnpike shooting

The St. Lucie County Grand Jury will be called into session soon to determine whether or not a charge will be brought against a Florida Highway Patrol trooper who fatally shot a 15 year-old boy last week.

The shooting occurred around 9 a.m. last Thursday, Dec. 7, at the Florida Turnpike service plaza near the Port St. Lucie interchange. FHP Trooper Eugene Chapman of Palm City shot the boy, identified as Vincent Morviani of Miami, as the youth was fleeing from the officer.

The boy was shot once in the back. Although the trooper had reportedly found a .22-caliber pistol in the boy's jacket a short time before he fled, and had charged the youth with carrying a concealed weapon, it is not known whether investigators have determined if the boy was armed or unarmed when shot.

The state attorney's office, the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the FHP joined forces to investigate the shooting. A press release from the state attorney's office on Tuesday noted that the investigation had been concluded and that the state attorney would call in the grand jury to consider the case as soon as possible.

The trooper reportedly went into shock after the shooting and was treated at Martin Memorial Hospital, then sent home. He was relieved of duty, with pay, pending the outcome of the investigation.

The incident began when the trooper picked up Morviani, a 17-year-old boy, a 12-year-old girl and a 15-year-old girl as they were hitchhiking along the Turnpike near the Port St. Lucie interchange.

Hitchhiking on the Turnpike is illegal. The trooper took the four youths, all from Dade County, to the plaza for questioning.

When he searched the youths, the trooper found the pistol in Morviani's possession, charged the youth, and handcuffed him. A call was placed to determine if any of the four youths were wanted elsewhere by law enforcement agencies. Investigators have said there were pick up orders on one or two of the youths, but it is not known if the trooper was informed of this before the shooting took place.

Somehow, Morviani managed to slip one hand out of the handcuffs before fleeing, but it's not known if he grabbed the pistol Chapman had taken from him, if he had another weapon, or if he was unarmed.

Savannas to be posted soon

In case you didn't know it's against the law to take an airboat or a high-powered outboard into the Savannas, it is.

And soon, those who have been breaking the law won't be able to claim ignorance of it.

As a result of complaints from residents living around the fringes of the ecologically sensitive wetlands, the St Lucie County commission recently authorized the posting of signs in the area.

Santa to arrive by copter Sat.

The Port St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club will hold its annual Donuts with Santa on Saturday, December 16, at the Community Center, Prima Vista Blvd., from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Santa Claus will be arriving by helicopter at 9:30 a.m. to visit and talk with the children.

A photographer will be available to take a 5 by 7 picture of your child or children with Santa. It will be matted and mailed out for $3.00.

Donuts and juice or donuts and coffee will be on sale.

Everyone is welcome to visit with Santa or just come down and enjoy the fun.

Library plans kids holiday program

The Port St. Lucie Branch Library has planned several programs for area children over the holidays.

On Thursday 21, there will be two Christmas story programs: one at 10 a.m. for children ages 3 through 5, and one at 3:30 p.m. for children ages 6 through 11. These programs will include Christmas stories, games, and refreshments.

Due to limited space in the library, the programs will be held at the Port St. Lucie Community Center in room 3. No tickets are necessary, and all programs are free.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT–Members of the Port St. Lucie Elementary School fifth grade chorus have been making a joyful noise this week. The fifth graders have sung Christmas carols to their fellow students during special assemblies and are scheduled to give another performance tonight, Thursday, Dec. 14, at the Parent-Teacher Students Friends Association meeting at the school. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. Chorus instructor Patty Surface is directing the concert. She is shown in the back, at left. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Senior Center is a 'viable alternative'

County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha, explaining the status of the plan to restore the 70-year-old downtown Community Center and to make a Senior Citizens' Center out of it, said the proposed use of federal funds in that location was not a hard and fast fact but a viable alternative.

"We've got a building in dire need of repair, not being used at all," he told the Chamber of Commerce board Monday night. "The community does not have any facilities or plans for facilities. We invite people down and don't have anything for them to do."

He was referring to his recent announcement that he had applied for $60,000 in grant money from Title V of the Older Americans Act, which was hanging loose and not spoken for by anyone else.

In a column in last week's Mirror, Wacha was criticized for not letting the senior citizens in on the proposed project.

"I only learned about it in November, and it had to be in by Dec. 1," he said. "It had to be done yesterday."

However, he added, if the eligible seniors weren't aware of it, it was their own fault, Wacha said. He had learned about it through the Council on Aging, and through his connection with Congregate Meals which the commission has sponsored throughout Martin County.

The major protest from both seniors and from downtown merchants has been about the traffic and parking problems which would result from the use of the Center for any major influx of oldsters. The old building sits almost flush with the street, and there is little or no parking during the season, as it is.

Wacha said he'd discussed the situation both with the commission and with officials in the Council on Aging, and that arrangements could be made to have private cars that are driving into the area park behind the Martin County Environmental Studies Center, a short distance down Indian River Drive.

The Council on Aging, Wacha said, has agreed to shuttle the seniors from the Environmental Center to the Community Center in town, thereby eliminating parking congestion.

"The reason we felt this was so good," Wacha said," is that the large percentage of senior citizens in this area are from Ocean Breeze Park. Walking would be healthy and happy for them."

However, he added, if the people object to using the fund-if and when it becomes available-for the downtown building, it isn't mandatory that the location be there. The only stipulation is that the money be used to rehabilitate an old building, not for new construction."

"This is a viable alternative," he said. "If there is another building that can be improved and is more suitable, we'll welcome suggestions."

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN SPEAKS—Commissioner Frank Wacha explains the motivation and plans for the old Community Center building on Commercial Street, to the board of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. Chorus to perform 'Messiah'

The Martin County Community Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Esther Plylor, will perform Handel's oratorio "The Messiah" at the Florida Institute of Technology Chapel Monday evening, December 18, at 8 p.m. The public is invited, free of charge.

The 50-voice chorus, formed this year, is sponsored by the Martin County Schools' Adult Education program, and has performed widely since its inception.

Soloists for the event include Rogar White, Baritone; Mildred Marlow, Contralto; Helen Gutteras and Carolyn Fulton, Sopranos; and Ron Scruggs, Tenor. The chorus will be accompanied by Willa Jo Mauser, organist, and Lindsay McGrath, flautist.

Sewall's Point to proceed with paths

Sewall's Point town commissioners this week decided to proceed with construction of a bike path from A-1A to the north town limit near the Outrigger, despite protests from a small but vocal group against the "waste of money."

The decision was reached after a special meeting last week at which residents were invited to air their views. While some said they felt the money would be better spent on a playground, the younger contingent, most of whom have small children, took the stand that there is an increasing need for a separate path because of the heightened traffic flow in the northerly direction.

Commissioner Clinton Towl has been the most outspoken antagonist to the project, which he claims is a waste of the taxpayers' dollars, contending that Sewall's Point Road will have been tossed down the drain.

Towl also took the stand that such a path would be "too much money for too few people's benefit."

At last week's session, Commissioner John Guenther indicated he sided with Towl. The other three on the bench, Commissioners Earl Crawford and Robert Russell, and Mayor Ed Gluckler, all unqualifiedly endorse the path.

Present at last week's meeting to explain the overall county bike-path plan was County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha, who said that the county plan ties in with the Sewall's Point mapping, to make it possible for people in Sewall's Point to use it to cycle or jog to the Langford Park recreation center with far greater safety.

Wacha also observed that the bike path is written into the comprehensive plan approved by the state. A review of the comprehensive plan will be forthcoming soon, he said.

The three commissioners in favor of the path agreed that the project should be tackled all at once, rather than piece meal as originally considered. The $10,000 in the budget would cover only a small portion of the job. The $20,000 estimated by town engineer Dick Hellstrom as the minimum necessary pricetag could come out of the town's "back pocket" reserve funds, the mayor suggested.

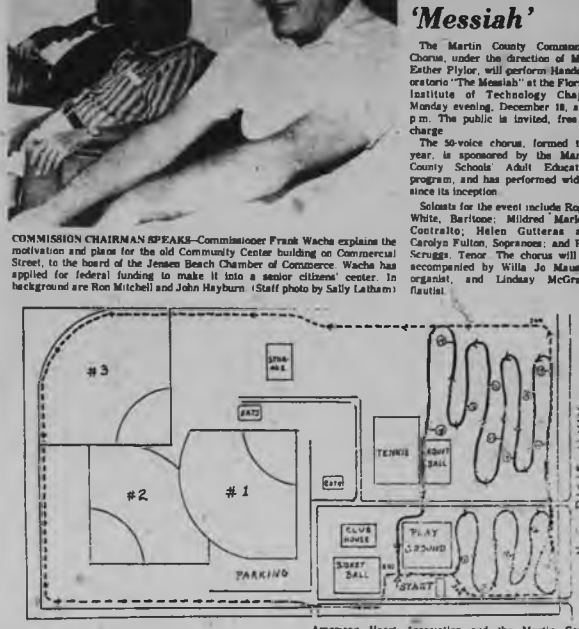
By doing it in phases, Gluckler predicted, it would wind up costing a great deal more than doing it as a single project.

This month finds a new town attorney on the bench. He is Jim Knight, who succeeds former town counsel Tom Thurlow, Jr. Thurlow resigned allegedly for reasons of "business pressure."

Knight and his family live in High Point.

SANDY THURLOW—Young mother contends a bike path for Sewall's Point is a must. "I wouldn't dare let my children ride up there without one," she commented. Mrs. Thurlow was on the study committee which recommended the path construction.

JOHN LUKE—One of the residents speaking up at the Sewall's Point hearing on bike paths, tells commission there would be more bikes in use in the community if there were bike paths. Sandy Thurlow, wife of former town attorney Tom Thurlow, listens with interest to his comments. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)



ROUND AND ROUND—The New Heart Parcours which will be dedicated Sunday beginning at 2 p.m. at Langford Park, is a place to meet yourself coming back, and perhaps even back to your old healthy self. The course, financed by the American Heart Association and the Martin County Commission is a workout for people of all ages. The exercise trail is 3,720 feet or 1,902 meters long and a jogging track of 3,780 feet or 1,310 meters, or a total distance of 7,480 feet, 1.4 miles or 2,618 meters.

LIFETIVE MEMBER—Ernie Baker, right, whose long years of outstanding service to the community have helped to make the annual arts festival a national attraction, came into his glory Friday evening at the annual installation banquet at the Outrigger. He receives his honorary lifetime membership plaque from incoming president Jon Chicky. For story and more pictures see pages 14 and 15.

Parcours will be dedicated Sunday

The Langford Park Parcours, the physical fitness trail recently completed thanks to the combined resources of the American Heart Association and the Martin County Commission, will have its official dedication Sunday at 2 p.m., with all the proper fanfare.

The Parcours, a health concept born in Switzerland and now spreading throughout the United States, is a mile-long winding trail dotted with exercise stations of every degree of energetic proclivity. It is designed for people of all ages, as a flexible means of keeping in trim.

The instigator of the local facility is Dr. Richard Penick, whose efforts spurred the Palm Beach chapter of the American Heart Association into donating $4,000 for equipment. The labor and manpower was provided by the Martin County Commission.

Dr. Penick, a strong proponent of exercise for health, has said he considers the Parcours a big asset to the community, and a potential boost to the health of the whole populace. The commission is considering making it mandatory for policemen and firemen to work out on the track at least three times a week as part of their training.

Guest speaker will be Retired Air Force Col. Francis W. Williams of Port St. Lucie, who at the age of 72 jogs five miles regularly, three times a week. He will speak on the importance of physical fitness.

Richard E. Campbell, Editor of The Mirror Newspapers, will be emcee.

Special invitations to the Sunday ceremony have been extended to all members of the County Commission, and to Dr. William Myers, former commission now serving in the state legislature who did much of the spadework to make the Parcours possible. Another honored guest will be Vince Volino, park superintendent who has worked with the present Commission Chairman Frank Wacha in bringing the facility into being.

Also to be present are members of the American Heart Association steering committee, Bill Owens, Don Duffy, Ann Melton, secretary for the Heart Association, Tops Bryan, Ron Mitchell, and Dr. Penick.

Coming up from Palm Beach will be Miss Virginia McVey, executive secretary for the PB Heart Association.

Christmas open house at Museum

The tradition of Christmas Eve at the Museum will again be carried on this year, with the musical and enchanting open house which has been so growingly popular at Martin County's Elliott Museum.

The three hour evening, from 7 to 10 p.m., is free, friendly and fun for everyone. The custom, which began with eight people in 1965, has grown to exciting proportions, last year attracting 973 eager participants.

This year, Christmas and Hanukkah occur on the same date, so there will be double significance to the occasion with Shalems mixed with Merry Christmases, according to museum director Janet Hutchinson.

Carols will be sung three times during the evening, at 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30. Dr. William W. Adams will be leader this year, with the incomparable Ruby Wren, talented octogenarian, at the piano.

Dr. Adams will also talk in three sessions about America's most famous Christmas story, a visit from St. Nicholas, written in 1822 by the noted scholar and theologian Dr. Clement Clark Moore.

Dr. Adams' reading will be from a cherished but tattered book donated the museum in 1970 by Mrs. Pat Dale, now of Lake Worth. Printed in 1902, it was given to Mrs. Dale's children many years ago by a neighbor, Mrs. Roy Geis, whose husband was Lake Worth's city manager for a number of years. Mrs. Dale, with agreement by her children, decided to "put the book in a safe place" and presented it to Elliott Museum.

Dr. Adams, whose first love is theatre, earned his doctorate from the University of Illinois after years of directing musical comedies and staging college homecoming shows. Prior to his retirement he had a career of college and university teaching. Now living "one the edge of the 7th fairway of a golf club," he has taken an active interest in the work of the museum.

Another treat during the Christmas eve celebration will be the bag-piping of member Pat Kenny, attired in his Prince Edward tartan kilt. Punch and cookies will be served throughout the evening.

Jensen Garden party is Thursday

The Jensen Beach Garden Club will meet December 14 at the Community Church for their annual Christmas Buffet Luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Joe DeBrita, Mrs. Draper Babcock, Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Ellis, Mrs. William Hammond and Mrs. John Klosowski.

The arrangement class is open to all members.

The board will meet at 11:30 a.m. and guests will be welcome to attend the luncheon.

Cathy Nergard still in serious condition

The condition of Cathy Nergard of Port St. Lucie was still listed as serious on Tuesday afternoon, but a press secretary to the girl's father, state representative Charles Nergard, said there had been a slight improvement since she was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach on Sunday.

"She is still in the intensive care unit and is expected to continue to be there indefinitely," Nergard's secretary said.

According to reports, Miss Nergard was on an Indian River Community College scuba diving trip at Blue Springs State Park, north of Ocala, when she surfaced too quickly and is believed to have suffered an air embolism.

The accident occurred around noon Sunday, and the girl was reportedly rushed first to a hospital in Daytona Beach, then to a recompression chamber in West Palm Beach. She was in the chamber for several hours before being moved into the intensive care unit.

Reports note that the girl was a member of an IRCC diving class and was taking her final dive to obtain an advanced certification when the accident occurred. She and a diving partner, Maurice Dixon, were said to be in about 130 feet of water when her partner reportedly ran out of air and the two began heading for the surface, sharing the air from Miss Nergard's tank.

On the way to the surface, something happened which apparently caused Miss Nergard and Dixon to rise to the surface too quickly, without following decompression procedures. It has been speculated that they may have panicked and that Miss Nergard lost her diving mask on the way up but Rep. Nergard's press secretary said she did not know the details of the accident. Rep. Nergard could not be reached for comment.

Dixon was also said to have suffered from air embolism, commonly known as the bends, and was taken to Shands Hospital at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Trouble on Jensen Causeway?

BY SALLY LATHAM

The hospitable Jensen Causeway, the recreation mecca used by so many people for so many things, is brewing a lukewater of trouble, and the Jensen Chamber of Commerce is calling on the law to see what can be done about it.

At Monday night's board meeting, two of Sheriff Jim Holt's men responded to new Chamber president Jon Chicky's appeal for cooperation to stem the problems being caused both by over exuberant young people and overweight commercial trucks.

The sheriff's representatives, Lt. Jim Mills and Sgt. Mike Chambers told Chamber members that in past week, the weekend nighttime crowds have been on the increase.

"In the last two nights," Chambers said, "they've had rock concerts, with alcohol and fights. We've chased some of 'em up into St. Lucie County."

The problems with mushrooming crowds of young people, the two agreed, began when the county commission legislated alcoholic beverages off the ocean beach some months ago, after a certain destructive element attacked visitors, buried broken glass in the sand and committed other acts injurious to the public.

"So this (the causeway) is where they've picked to roost," Chambers said.

The crowds have been increasing rapidly every weekend, former Chamber president Fred Meeker said. "I went by there Sunday night and it was wall-to-wall bodies," he commented. "It's going to increase in size, and its going to cause a lot of problems."

The crux of the trouble, both the lawmen and the chamber concurred, is that there is nowhere else for the young people to go.

"They need an auditorium or some type of entertainment place that can house the group," Lt. Mills commented.

One suggestion, from boardmember John Herbuen, was to curtail all use of alcoholic beverages on the causeway from sundown on. But Commissioner Frank Wachs said that would impose a limit on too many other people who weren't breaking the law, especially the fishermen who like to take their beer out with them while they fish.

The officers agreed to mark time and keep an eagle eye on the situation, meanwhile bearing down on visible lawbreakers appearing on the scene. The sheriff's department normally has two mobile units in the Jensen area at all times, but Chambers and Mills said they had to respond with 12 units at the Sunday night melee.

The problem of overweight trucks on the causeway, which was pinpointed some weeks back when the contractors for the "sandpile" at Commercial Street and the railroad tracks were hauling uncovered sand loads to the beach, was the other target of the Monday meeting.

The law forbids trucks with over eight ton loads to use the causeway for ingress or egress. Yet, Chicky told the deputies, the practice has been continuing.

Part of that problem, Mills said, was an incident in which one of the truckers came in to the courthouse and paid $90 to a clerk. She accepted it, he said, on the mistaken thesis that she was accepting bond money in exchange for the use of the causeway.

"Which was wrong," he said, "because you can't accept money for a violation."

Lt. Mills was skeptical about the practicality of enforcing the load-limit regulation.

"If we arrest every truck over eight tons, we're gonna arrest a lot of trucks," he said.

The officers agreed, however, to keep a close check on the waterway crossing, and to warn trucks attempting to use it.

The causeway traffic problems were taken up by the commission Tuesday, and a 35 mile per hour speed limit imposed," because of the increasing traffic use and for safety's sake," Wachs said Tuesday evening.

Former Jensen youth dies in hit-run

Thomas Emerick, a 16 year old youth who lived in Jensen Beach in 1976 and 1977, was killed in a hit-and-run accident near his home in Rochester, N.Y., earlier this month.

The boy's father, Robert, says that his son attended Stuart Middle School and Martin County High School during the time he lived in this community. The youth was an avid fisherman and bowler while in Jensen Beach.

Emerick's father notes that his son was riding his bicycle home from work, and was four homes away from his own home in Rochester when he was hit. A police search for the hit and run driver resulted in the arrest of a Rochester man the day after the youth's death.

Robert Emerick said that the case may go to a grand jury this week to determine what charges, in addition to leaving the scene of an accident, may be filed against the man arrested.

The youth is survived by his father, who operates RME Lawn Service in Jensen Beach, and his brother, Stephen, of Jensen Beach. He is also survived by his mother, June, his brother, Greg, and two sister, Linda and Jeanne, all of Rochester; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Emerick of Lake Worth, Florida, as well as aunts, uncles and cousins.

A mass of Christian burial was conducted last week at St. Christopher's Church, near Rochester, with burial in Elba, N.Y.

PURCHASE MONEY MORTGAGE CONSIDERATIONS

QUESTION: I am considering selling a block of stores. A broker friend tells me that I may have to 'take back' a second mortgage to make the sale. What are the advantages and disadvantages of this?

ANSWER: Let me discuss the disadvantages first.

1. Obviously, you will receive less cash than you would on an all-cash sale.

2. You must carefully screen the prospective buyer to be sure of his ability to run the property well and to make the mortgage payments as they come due.

The potential advantages are numerous.

1. You can usually obtain a higher price for your property if you provide part of the financing.

2. You can sometimes defer paying part of your capital gains tax until you actually receive your cash.

3. You can usually sell your property in a shorter time because more potential buyers are available with the lower cash down payment required.

4. You will normally receive a higher rate of interest than you would if you deposited the funds in a savings account.

As long as the buyer has good credit, ability, and a sufficient down payment and you do not need an all-cash sale, you might consider this an effective way to facilitate your sale.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-8747, or stop by:

The stories about the early days of ...e railroad, before coastal roads ...ere built, delighted the large ...udience the most:

"The big thing, in those days, was to ...me down to see the train come in, ...nd go to the icecream parlor," Miss ...utchinson said.

"There were no doctors in town, so ...ou'd write up your symptoms and ...nd them with the conductor up to ...an Town, as Fort Pierce was then ...own. The doctor would send a note ...ck telling you what to do about it – ...e the one one woman got – "You ...m fool, Mable, you're pregnant ...ain'."

The recorded history of Martin ...ounty, the museum director said, ...ctually goes back to 1842, to the ...dian River Colony founded by grants ...om the Spanish Crown. The grants ...ere made on condition that the ...ecipient must keep it and attempt to ...velop the land for at least seven ...ears.

The colony fizzled out under the ...aughter of Indians and mosquitoes, ...t eight families later returned ...utchinson Island, she said was ...amed for one of them – John ...utchinson, who complained his way ...to first, a second grant, and finally a ...ird, which gave him all the island ...om Gilbert's Bar to Fort Pierce. A three million dollar boulevard, it's just the beginning.*

(Opening January 13, 1979)

It is our vote of confidence in Martin County.

We spent a million dollars a mile making Martin Downs Boulevard a beautifully landscaped link between Stuart and Florida's Turnpike.

Now we are going to give it to the county as a statement of our faith in its future and our commitment to creating an outstanding residential community on the acres and acres of natural land surrounding the Boulevard.

Martin Downs Boulevard is the first step in making Martin Downs an enviable place to live, with golf, tennis and other diversions at your doorstep. You're invited to see Martin Downs Boulevard. It's the beginning of great things to come!

*Martin Downs Boulevard is 3 miles of illuminated, winding, four-laned boulevard landscaped with tall pines, palms, newly planted live oaks and is fringed with lakes and canals.

Expanded Finance Committee meets

The leadership of the Port St. Lucie Finance Committee remained the same, but three new members were welcomed during the committee meeting last week.

Don Estes retained his position as chairman of the committee and Frank Alexander was kept as vice chairman when the newly-expanded group met briefly at City Hall last Wednesday.

Originally, there were three members on the committee. Then one member quit and only Alexander and Estes were left when it came time last summer to review the city's budget proposals.

Then it was decided the committee should be expanded to five members. A search began for three new members and several civic groups were asked to suggest names of persons who might want to serve. It took several months, and some of those suggested for membership declined the offer. But, last month city manager Leonard Silvia recommended three persons to the city council, and the council approved them for membership on the committee. The new members are Dick Beagle, William Muller and C. Gordon Ferguson. Last week's meeting was the first one for the three new members.

According to city treasurer Gerald Van Patten, the main purpose of the meeting was to introduce the members to each other and to select a chairman and vice chairman for the coming year. Van Patten noted that outside of that, the committee conducted no business Wednesday.

Space shortage makes for crowded library

The Port St. Lucie Library may look a bit more crowded the next time you visit, for very good reasons.

As you have read, the planned addition to the facility was not approved for this fiscal year. The library is trying to keep up with the demand for more new books, but has a real shortage of space.

Recently a sign was posted on the door announcing a maximum limit of 12 persons inside the building at one time, by order of the Fire Inspector. Patrons are served as quickly as possible, but may find a longer wait in line than in the past.

Patrons can help by adjusting the time for library visits whenever possible. The best hours for adults to browse is in the morning when most students are in school. There have been long lines in the late afternoons when children are visiting for homework assignments.

Any inconvenience created by the situation is regretted, but as always, books may be returned to the drop at the side door during operating hours: Mon., Tues., Thurs., Fri., from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

7:30 p.m. Sunday, December 17, is the Rec Hall is the place to be for the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony. Refreshments will be served after the tree lighting and carol singing.

Everyone is asked to bring a toy or canned goods for the Salvation Army donation to the needy families in the area and also cookies for our refreshment table.

This event has been one of the traditions of the Holiday Out Christmas festivities, be sure not to miss it!!

Pauline and Herb Rough, along with Jane and Alton Sheeham of Pinelake, took their motor homes to the Keys for and enjoyable five days of fun and leasure at Sunshine Key.

More than 300 attended the Bazaar where Petrea Chalmson won a lovely painting by park artist Lillian Ringer and Boodie White won a pajama bag and puppet. Chairwoman Martha Lewis credits here hardworking committee members for a successful event.

It was Tom O'Mara who bowled the high game and series along with Lois Hopkins during the bowling for fun at the Jensen Lanes Wednesday. Tom bowled a 198 and 560 series, while Lois bowled a 140 and 366 series.

Eva Barton was high scorer and Mary Sumner was second high during the Monday night card session. More players are needed to join in the fun

Holiday Out Shufflers won three games over Pinelake, a newcomer this year. Players were Jim & Martha Lewis, Ike Gingrich & Rita Dobson, Ed Frost and Charlie Ullmann, Roy Lannon & Irv Ringer. The hostesses were Peggy Gutheil and Thelma Gingrich.

Sever H.Outers attended the Elks Club chicken and beef barbecue Sunday evening.

Thirty two members of the So n So club gathered to work on their Christmas baby dolls for their grandchildren. The Christmas party for the group will be held Dec. 14 and everyon in the park is invited to attend.

Bill and Tess Miller will be soon be the proud owners of lot 113. We are sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Chase, one of our pioneer owners of 1967. We welcome Bill and Tess who have been long time seasonal guests at H.Out.

Ruth and Earl Bowes had a good friend, Pauline Jenks, from Detroit, Mich. as a guest for a couple days.

Peg and Al Ray were treated to a delicious stew made with meat from Canada that Norma & Buster Wineberg brought with them.

Amber Black is getting a new chair from Santa....ask Lena about it.

There are quite a few of our H.Outers returning to their love ones for the holidays.....we wish them all a pleasant holiday and a safe return trip back to us.

Alice Perreault was treated to a little snow while in Los Angeles. Better hurry back and swim in our warm ocean!

Helen Allison reports that Bob Long is recuperating nicely in the hospital.

The Earl Palmers slid out of Maine and finally arrived last Friday...sure did welcome the warm sunshine.

A big thanks to Walter Bourne for the nice cleanup he did on our beach. Not only did he work on the beach for several days, he brought his own tools to work with.....And can you imagine....he was a GUEST TOO!

Jim and Corrine Norris shared their delicious chicken pie dinner with Al and Peg.

Beryle & Cecil Roy are enjoying their lovely porch. The Armocks and Roys had a welcome back dinner for the Earl Palmers when they arrived Friday. A red hot game of cards were played on the new porch. The G. Bares and A. Rays were also there.

The Ralph Taylors enjoyed a ride in Marvin Terry's new boat Saturday and what a perfect day for being on the water.

Chuck and Millie Armock left Sunday for the west coast of the state, they will be gone a few days.

The most recent returnees are E. Butler, A. Pohl, O.C.Hay, R.Gardner, R. McLean, K. Baxter, W. Higgin, M. Rimmel, O.Blinn.

What fun it is to welcome new lot owner, especially when they are "wunnerful, wunnerful" people, as Lawrence Welk would say. Sandune Lane is very happy to say "we're glad you're here" to Denise and Tom Lanese on Lot 753. Their home is in Annville, Pa., and they also have a midsummer Shangrala in Surrey, Maine. Lenise was born in Paris, France - ooh-la-la- need we say more! Tom recently retired as Professor of Music at Lebanon Valley College. They have a son, Job, who is a teacher in Annville. They are looking forward to a Christmas visit of their 14 year old granddaughter.

Our welcome is also extended to Eleanor and Bill Kissel, on Lot 705. Their permanent home is Indianapolis, Indianna. They are the parents of 3 girls and one boy. The son is in the Army in Germany. Both the Lanese's and Kissell's have been busy as bees furnishing their respective screen rooms. Their efforts were not in vain for they are both a joy to behold.

A warm welcome to another great couple - Margaret and Edgar Zepp, who have purchased Lot 733. Their home base is West Virginia, and they were originally from Maryland.

Nearby neighbors, Shirley and Roger Miller, Marme and Kurt Painter, have come back to the land of sunshine and flowers. We're glad you're back!

Alica and Red Fitzgerald were proud to hear of their son-in-law's latest accomplishment. John Farragher is a Dectective Sergeant on the Mayfield Heights, Ohio police force. Due to the resourcefulness of John and another dectective they solved a murder, earning $10,000 reward money for their police department. Most important, they relieved an innocent man previously charged with the murder. Congratulations to all of you.

Chamber celebrates in installation

BY SALLY LATHAM

A record 137 members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and their guests turned out for the annual installation, held at the Outrigger Restaurant Friday evening.

The event also kicked off a new year of record membership for the Chamber. According to Executive Director Helen Richardson, the membership now stands at 216, with 56 of them newcomers this year.

Mirror Editor Richard E. Campbell was emcee for the evening. He gave special salutes to Mrs. Richardson for her over-and-above service to the chamber, to Joan Betsch for planning the banquet, and to outgoing president Fred Meeker.

He also introduced County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha, a past president of the Chamber, who was present to install the new officers.

Jon Chicky, of Savannas Water Development Co., was installed as the new president, succeeding Meeker. Others taking office were: Dr. Stanley Wampler, veterinarian, vice president; Mary Killer of the Shell Shop, secretary; Ralph Norkin, treasurer; and Fred Meeker, past president.

Directors are Steven Allison, Joan Betsch, Larry Durrance, Gene Greenwood, David Lamb, William Keele III, Ron Mitchell, Fred Nettere, Ronald Teale and Richard Welker.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Jonathan Coffey of All Saints Episcopal Church. Father Coffey with his wife Mary were also special guests at the dinner.

In welcoming Chicky as the new president, Campbell also paid homage to the Chamber's past presidents, who included Chicky, Bill Weiss, Art Hansen, Wacha, John Heyburn, Jack Klett and the emcee himself.

A high point of the evening was the presentation of an honorary lifetime membership to Ernie Baker, who for the past 13 years has been responsible for the annual art festival sponsored by the Chamber. In those years, Campbell pointed out, Ernie Baker's efforts turned the festival into an art happening of national import, putting Jensen-Rio on the map from Maine to California and Hawaii.

Baker is the seventh citizen to be so honored by the Chamber. Other honorary lifetime members are Sadina Brice, 1969; Joe Stefan, 1974; Al Walker, 1966; Dr. and Mrs. Carlton Whitney, 1968; and Al Tomaszewski, 1977.

Campbell also paid high compliment to Jensen Beach Bank President Ron Mitchell and his membership drive team for the energetic job they did in the recent weeklong "feud" waged between Mitchell's team and Campbell's. Although on points Campbell's "army" emerged victor, together the two groups gained more momentum for the Chamber as a whole than any other similar effort in the past.

Another special honoree was Faye Gaye, former Chamber director who planned the C of C social events.

Former FBA president

David B. Irons, 63, president of First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, died December 7, 1978, in the Martin Memorial Hospital, Stuart, Florida. Irons attended Vanderbilt University in Nashville and was a graduate of the American Institute of Banking.

He began his banking career in 1935 as a runner at the Third National Bank of Nashville, Tennessee, the city in which he was born.

Irons was appointed a Federal Reserve System bank examiner in 1945 and joined First National in Stuart (at that time the Citizens Bank of Stuart) as Vice President in 1947. He was elected executive vice president of First National in 1959, and president in 1966.

Irons served as president of the Florida Bankers Association for the 1984-85 term, and was elected to the Governing Council of the American Bankers Association for a two year term in 1979. He is survived by his wife, Marjorie; four daughters, Shirley Faist of Sarasota, and Patricia, Jane and Deborah, all of Stuart.

Obituaries

WARREN J. WEISS

Warren J. Weiss, 31, of Cottage 1, Ocean Breeze Park, died Monday, December 4.

A native of the Bahamas, he had just recently moved to Ocean Breeze Park from Tampa, Florida.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Mary Weiss of Ocean Breeze Park; and a brother, Wendell Weiss of Gainesville, Fl.

Funeral services and burial were held in Tampa under the direction of the Roel & Curry Funeral Home.

Aycock Funeral Home was in charge of local arrangements.

RALPH A. SNOW

Ralph A. "Bill" Snow, 73, of Palm Circle Mobile Home Park, Rio, died Wednesday December 6 at Martin Memorial Hospital.

A native of Westfield, Maine, he had been a resident of Rio for 12 years, coming from Waterville, Maine.

Prior to retirement, he was with the Border Patrol, U.S. Customs. Mr. Snow was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Odd Fellows in Fairfield, Maine, and served in both the United States and Canadian Armies during World War II.

Survivors include his wife, Elaine of Rio; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Wallin of Farmingdale, New York; 4 grandchildren, Robert, Michael, & Gary Wallin all of Farmingdale, New York, and Gail Wallin of Buffalo, New York; and a brother, Paul Snow of Jensen Beach.

Memorial services were held Friday at the Aycock Funeral Home Chapel in Jensen Beach with John Borgen officiating.

Contributions may be made to the Fellowship Hall, 304 St. Lucie Ave., Stuart, or the American Heart Association.

Arrangements were under the direction of Aycock Funeral Home.

MARY B. SMITH

Mary B. Smith, 89, of 1510 N.E. 12th Terrace, Beacon 21 Condominiums, Jensen Beach, died Monday, December 11, 1978, at Stuart Convalescent Center.

Prior to retirement in 1958, she was with the Electronics Department, U.S. Navy, in Great Lakes, Illinois, for 8 years.

Mrs. Smith was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Ft. Pierce and attended Jensen Beach Community Church. She served as a volunteer for the Auxiliary of Ft. Pierce Memorial Hospital; American Red Cross; and the Girl Scouts.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Estell Leary of Stuart; Mrs. Phyllis J. Ower of Ft. Pierce; Mrs. Mary Louise Kelley of Hingham, Massachusetts; 5 grandchildren; and 5 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, 11:00 a.m., at the Aycock Funeral Home Chapel, Jensen Beach, with the Reverend Norman Kehrli of the Jensen Beach Community Church, officiating.

Visitation was Wednesday, 10:00-11:00 a.m., at the Aycock Funeral Home, Jensen Beach.

CARL W. SEDERBERG

Carl W. Sederberg, 76, of 1262 N.E. Frances Street, Jensen Beach died Wednesday, December 6, at Martin Memorial Hospital.

Born in Racine, Wisconsin, he was a resident in Jensen Beach for over twelve years coming from Hartford, Wisconsin.

Prior to retirement in 1968 Mr. Sederberg was Traffic Manager for the Brown Manufacturing Company in Hartford, Wisconsin for twenty one years. He was a member of the Angler's Club of Jensen Beach and the West Allis Masonic Lodge 298 in Hartford, Wis.

Survivors include his wife Bertha of Jensen Beach; two sons Reed (Marjorie) Sederberg of Hartford, and Neil (Rhonda) Sederberg of Fairfax, Virginia; one sister Mrs. Florence Paulson of Bloomington, Minnesota; 8 grandchildren and 4 great-grand children, several nieces and nephews.

Masonic Services were conducted by the Acacia Masonic Lodge 163, F&A.M. of Stuart on Saturday with burial following in the Fernhill Cemetery.

Aycock Funeral Home was in charge.

FRANCIS P. RICHARDSON

Francis P. Richardson, a winter resident of Outdoor Resorts of America, Jensen Beach, died Saturday, Dec. 9, 1978, at Martin Memorial Hospital.

A native of Ontario, Canada, he had wintered in Jensen Beach for the last five years, coming from Ontario.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Richardson was a driver examiner for the Ministry of Transportation & Communication, Ontario Government, in Ontario, Canada for 10 years.

Survivors include his wife, Alma of Jensen Beach and Ontario, Canada; a son, F. Patrick of Toronto, Ontario, Canada; a daughter, Geraldine Chester of Espanola, Ontario, Canada; 2 brothers, Vincent and Joseph Richardson, both of Orillia, Ontario, Canada; and a sister, Helen Backogeorge of Orillia, Ontario, Canada.

Funeral services and burial will be in Ontario, Canada, under the direction of the Doolittle Funeral Home.

Local arrangements are under the direction of Aycock Funeral Home, Jensen Beach.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Florida laws protect your right to know and provide that certain legal proceedings be published for your information and protection.

NOTICE

A public hearing will be conducted before the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie on Monday, January 8, 1979 at 7:30 p.m., City Hall, Morningside Boulevard, Port St. Lucie, Florida on the following proposed ordinance:

ORDINANCE 78-91

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE CITY BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 1977-78 BY ADOPTING THEREIN A SCHEDULE CONSISTING OF ONE PAGE ATTACHED HERETO AND MADE A PART HEREOF, AND DESIGNATED AS 1977-78 BUDGET AMENDMENT NO. 7, THE SAID SCHEDULE INDICATING AN INCREASE AND DECREASE IN APPROPRIATIONS AND EXPENDITURES IN THE VARIOUS FUNDS; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

BE IT THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE HEREBY ORDAINS:

Section 1. Decision could nix plans

State allows only 60 beds for nursing home in PSL

BY BOB FRYER

A firm hoping to build a 120-bed nursing home in north Port St. Lucie got word Tuesday that state officials have approved only 60 beds.

As a result, a spokesman for the firm said he is not sure whether the nursing home will be built.

Several months ago applications were filed by two firms for nursing homes in St. Lucie County. Eden Park Management, Inc., sought to build a 120-bed nursing home off Commander Avenue just outside the southern Port St. Lucie city limits, while Cather Industries requested permission to build a 102-bed nursing home in Fort Pierce.

A local committee of the five-county regional Health Planning Council rejected the Health Council staff's population figures, which showed very little need for nursing homes in St. Lucie County, and voted to recommend to the full Health Planning Council that both nursing homes be approved.

At the meeting of the full council, there was a unanimous vote to recommend to state officials that the Port St. Lucie nursing home be approved and a split vote in favor of recommending approval of the Fort Pierce facility.

Those recommendations were passed on to the state Bureau of Community Medical Facilities. On Tuesday, a spokesman for that bureau announced that agency's decisions. He said the 102-bed nursing home in Fort Pierce won full approval, but only 60 of the 120 beds requested were approved for the Port St. Lucie nursing home.

Jack Cain of the firm seeking approval of the Port St. Lucie nursing home said Tuesday evening, "We're disappointed that we're not being granted 120 beds. It's more economically feasible to build for that number of patients."

Cain said he hasn't received the written decision yet and will have to study the decision to see if there is a way to appeal it. He said the approval of only half the beds requested will "require a revision in our thinking. The size of the land and the financing were all pointed toward a 120 bed facility." He added that the cut in the number of beds approved may result in a decision to drop plans for the nursing home in Port St.Lucie.

When an official at the state agency was asked for the reasoning behind the decisions on the nursing homes, he replied that the primary factors were the population difference for the two cities and the "fact that the documented waiting lists (for persons wanting to get into a nursing home) indicated a majority of the people on the lists were in the Fort Pierce area as opposed to the Port St. Lucie area.

Grand Jury to get turnpike case

The St. Lucie County Grand Jury is scheduled to meet today (Thursday, Dec.21) to consider evidence involving the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old boy by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper on Dec. 7th.

The youth, Vincent Morviani of Miami, was shot once in the back as he was fleeing from FHP Trooper Euguen Chapman at the Florida Turnpike service plaza near the Port St. Lucie interchange.

Chapman had picked up Morviani, two teenage girls and another teenage boy as the four were hitchhiking on the Turnpike. He took them to the nearby service plaza and found a 22-caliber pistol on Morviani when he searched him. The trooper charged the boy with carrying a concealed weapon, a felony, was reportedly checking to see if the youths were wanted elsewhere for crimes when Morviani fled. The boy had been handcuffed, but somehow managed to get one hand out of the handcuffs before fleeing.

The State Attorney's office and four law enforcement agencies participated in the investigation of the shooting, but officials will not say whether they have determined if the boy was armed when shot.

The presentation of the findings of the investigation to the grand jury is expected to take one day.

Rec Committee rapped

Port St. Lucie Recreation Committee members came in for criticism Monday night by Little League spokesmen who complained the committee had not done enough to provide ball fields for local children.

The criticism was voiced as the committee members discussed the city council's decision last week to buy a 16-acre park site from General Development Corporation at the corner of Lyngate Drive and Midport Road.

Little League spokesmen in the audience asked how long it would take to develop the new Midport park and were apparently not pleased with answers that it may take three to four years to fully develop it and that unless a state or federal grant could be obtained, there would probably be little or no funds spent on the new park during the current fiscal year.

Earlier in the summer Little League officials complained of dangerously overcrowded conditions at Sportsman's Park and called for a new park with more ball fields to meet present and future needs. On Monday night the Little League organizers again spoke of the crowded conditions at Sportsman's Park and said when the new ball season starts in March, even more youths are expected to be seeking fields to play on.

Bob Bartz, vice president of the local Little League organization, urged committee members of "sitting on their duff" by not pressing for a new park or coming up with specific plans for development of a new park.

Committee members responded that they had repeatedly recommended to the city council that more park sites be purchased, that more funds be spent on Sportsman's Park, and that they presented specific plans for development of a new park. They said the city council had cut most of their requests when the city budget was adopted.

City Planner Mike Szunyog said now that the city is acquiring the Midport park site, the first step will be to ask for a state official to inspect the park site and come up with a design for it. He said the state offers free design service and said he hoped the state official could come here soon.

Committee members also discussed the possibility of getting a portion of the heavily wooded tract cleared before the new ball season, so temporary practice fields could be created.

Szunyog said he plans to seek state and federal grants to develop the new park, as well as grants for development of a passive park at Thornhill Lake. The city recently accepted the offer of that free, 20-acre tract from General Development Corporation.

In other action, Committee Chairman Doug Bernhardt said that a recent decision by the county commission to spend $25,000 for recreational facilities in Port St. Lucie will result in a new field that will be used for Little League games and softball games at Sportsman's Park and for lights for that field. He also said he has received verbal assurances from school officials that one or two practice fields can be created for the coming ball season at Port St. Lucie Elementary School.

Nergards already have best present

You don't have to ask state representative Chuck Nergard and his wife what they want for Christmas. They've already got it.

In less than a week from the time doctors feared Cathey Nergard would not live through the night, the 19-year-old state representative's daughter made an amazing recovery.

According to Rep. Nergard's legislative aide, Cathy greeted her parents with the words, "Hi, Mom. Hi, Dad," when they entered her hospital room in West Palm Beach last Friday.

"Those are the sweetest words Mr. and Mrs. Nergard have ever heard," said aide Carole Price.

On Sunday, Dec.10, only five days before Cathy spoke those words, doctors feared she would not live through the night.

Earlier that Sunday, Cathy was the victim of a scuba diving accident at Blue Springs State Park near Ocala, Fla.

After a diving partner ran out of air in the depths of the spring, Cathy and her partner began ascending toward the surface, sharing her air tank. But on the way up, something happened, and the pair ascended too quickly. Both suffered an air embolism and were rushed to recompression chambers. Of the two, Cathy's condition was the most serious. As aide Price said, doctors at St., Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach did not hold out much hope that Cathy would live through that Sunday night.

But she did. "The doctors are absolutely bowled over by her progress," Ms. Price said last Friday after getting word that Cathy was alert and talking.

Ms. Price said the doctors issued a good prognosis for Cathy and decided that she would not have to go back into the recompression chamber, as they had originally thought she would have to do if she lived. Instead, a therapy program has been set up for her.

On Tuesday, Dec.19,Ms. Price said "Cathy is still progressing. Recovery will be a slow process, but she is making progress. There is a possibility she may be able to come home for Christmas."

Even if she doesn't make it home by then, one gets the impression that Mr. and Mrs. Nergard got their best Christmas present last Friday, when Cathy spoke to them.

Never too late, jogging Colonel says

Parcours gets send-off

It's never too late to begin healthful exercise, a 72-year old Air Force Colonel told the wind-blown audience at the dedication of the Langford Park Heart Parcours on Sunday.

The occasion, marking the official opening of the exercise trail co-sponsored by the Martin County Commission and the American Heart Association, was attended by several officials of the county and of the heart association. Mirror Editor Richard E. Campbell served as master of ceremonies.

The featured speaker, Col. Francis W. Williams of Port St. Lucie, is an excellent example of what jogging can do in maintaining physical fitness. The officer, whose career included piloting Air Force I for President Harry Truman, said he began jogging at the age of 61, while he was in Spain.

"I walked a half mile up the beach, and jogged back," he said. "That's the first time I'd ever tried jogging."

And he's been at it ever since, he said. He said he feels the parcours concept is an excellent one, because jogging alone isn't nearly as pleasant and stimulating as jogging with other people.

Dr. Richard Penick, who spearheaded the effort to get a parcours for Martin County at Langford Park, told of the wonderful cooperation he had received both from the county and from the Heart Association in making it possible. He had special praise for the Heart Association board and for County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha for completing the park in record time. A similar facility begun in Palm Beach before the Langford Park trail got off the drawing board still isn't finished, he noted.

Wacha, in a surprise move, read and presented Dr. Penick with a citation which last week was made a permanent part of the county commission annals, praising him for bringing a parcours to Martin County. The trail was named "Penick Park" in the doctor's honor.

Others cited for their roles in amking the new facility possible were Gene van Curen, district manager for Florida Power and Light which donated the wood chips for the trail; Virginia McVey, executive secretary of the Palm Beach Chapter, American Heart Association; Vince Bocchino, Langford Park superintendent who has worked closely with the commission on getting the work done, Horace Donley and Bill Ewald of the county road crews, Tops Bryan, Don Duffy, Ann Melton and Bill Owens.

The special education class at Jensen Beach Elementary was credited for helping lay the wood chips.

The Rev. J. Clark Thompson of Trinity Methodist Church gave the invocation and benediction.

Wacha and county commission vice-chairman Bud Bagwell officiated at the ribbon cutting, after which several people accompanied the official delegation on a tour of the mile-long course.

The Parcours, which begins and ends on the west side of the playground, is dotted with stations, each of which has exercise instruction boards where joggers may stop and go through the prescribed paces described at each station. The total distand is 7,480 feet, with 3,720 feet of exercise trail and 3,760 of jogging track.

It is open to everyone. The county commission plans to make it a regular requisite for policemen and firemen.

School Board meets Thursday evening

The St. Lucie County School Board will meet at 5:30 p.m. (Thursday, Dec. 21) at the school system headquarters on Delaware Ave., in Fort Pierce.

The school board normally meets on Tuesdays, but, due to the holiday season, changed its meeting time.

to Dave Lamb of Jensen Bait and Tackle, is Bob Johnson, who with an unnamed friend came home with 99 fish in one day. The haul, bagged drift-fishing in the river, included a little bit of everything--sheepshead, croaker, whiting, grunt and snapper, all taken on live shrimp.

Other good catches on Dave's book are Rob and Brad Burgess, seven sheepshead, one grouper and 15 snapper, on shrimp in the river; Pete Puri, a seven pound sheepshead in the inlet on a spoon, and a mess of flounder, bluefish and channel bass on live shrimp; Dave Smid, a 17 pound snook off the causeway, on live shrimp.

Dave also reports that while he was out with Puri in the inlet, he saw several boats coming triumphantly back from outside flying those sailfish flags. He says he hears the rough water fishing out there is great.

Tommy Stewart, over at the Snook Nook, says the surf fishing is terrible, right now, but the river is more than making up for it.

His log attests to it. Recorded catches are: Ed Hiegel, a nine pound 13 ounce trout up near the power plant, on live shrimp; Bob Emens, two trout and one snook, in the river on Trout Touts; Charles Kessler, seven snook and eight mangrove snapper on live shrimp;

Ed Ahrens, eight trout in the river on MirOLure; Ed Wagner and Pat Patterson, who have been averaging ten trout a day on T-Zo Rig using yellowhead and glow tail touts; Norm Soyka, 27 trout, four snook, 47 snappers and four sheepshead, in the river off the Tradewinds motel;

High and low temperatures for the past week have been:

Henry and Mary Boyer, 20 sugar trout, two croakers and three weakfish, off the causeway on cut shrimp; Junior Dishman, one snook and one channel bass off the Evans Crary (Ten Cent) Bridge, on live shrimp; George Martin, seven trout out of the river on Trout Touts; Sam Moore, ten trout on MirOLure; Ray and Bill Ditzel, five trout on live shrimp; Wanda and Angela Haire, seven trout and four mangrove snapper off their dock at Walton, on shrimp;

Outside, Tommy says, Joe Northrup came in with a 55 pound kingfish on live mullet, and Lou Smitten brought in two kings weighing up to 20 pounds, on mullet. Both, Tommy reports, were out in the deep water, about five miles offshore.

New Road Opening is January 13

Motorists heading for the turnpike through Palm City will travel the new, four-lane Martin Downs Blvd. as of January 13, it has been announced.

The 2.9 mile road was built at a cost of $3 million, according to officials of First Southern Holdings, developers of Martin Downs, a 2,250 acre community that the road travels through.

Never too late, jogging Colonel says

Parcours gets send-off

It's never too late to begin healthful exercise, a 72-year old Air Force Colonel told the wind-blown audience at the dedication of the Langford Park Heart Parcours on Sunday.

The occasion, marking the official opening of the exercise trail co-sponsored by the Martin County Commission and the American Heart Association, was attended by several officials of the county and of the heart association. Mirror Editor Richard E. Campbell served as master of ceremonies.

The featured speaker, Col. Francis V. Williams of Port St. Lucie, is an excellent example of what jogging can do in maintaining physical fitness. The officer, whose career included piloting Air Force I for President Harry Truman, said he began jogging at the age of 61, while he was in Spain.

"I walked a half mile up the beach, and jogged back," he said. "That's the first time I'd ever tried jogging."

And he's been at it ever since, he said. He said he feels the parcours concept is an excellent one, because jogging alone isn't nearly as pleasant and stimulating as jogging with other people.

Dr. Richard Penick, who spearheaded the effort to get a parcours for Martin County at Langford Park, told of the wonderful cooperation he had received both from the county and from the Heart Association in making it possible. He had special praise for the Heart Association board and for County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha for completing the park in record time. A similar facility begun in Palm Beach before the Langford Park trail got off the drawing board still isn't finished, he noted.

Wacha, in a surprise move, read and presented Dr. Penick with a citation which last week was made a permanent part of the county commission annals, praising him for bringing a parcours to Martin County. The trail was named "Penick Park" in the doctor's honor.

Others cited for their roles in making the new facility possible were Gene van Curen, district manager for Florida Power and Light which donated the wood chips for the trail; Virginia McVey, executive secretary of the Palm Beach Chapter, American Heart Association; Vince Bocchino, Langford Park superintendent who has worked closely with the commission on getting the work done, Horace Donley and Bill Ewald of the county road crews, Tops Bryan, Don Duffy, Ann Melton and Bill Owens.

The special education class at Jensen Beach Elementary was credited for helping lay the wood chips.

The Rev. J. Clark Thompson of Trinity Methodist Church gave the invocation and benediction.

Wacha and county commission vice-chairman Bud Bagwell officiated at the ribbon cutting, after which several people accompanied the official delegation on a tour of the mile-long course.

The total distand is 7,480 feet, with 3,720 feet of exereise trail and 3,760 of jogging track.

It is open to everyone. The county commission plans to make it a regular requisite for policemen and firemen.

Christmas rush winding down

The mad last-minute rush that inevitably precedes Christmas will begin winding down on Friday afternoon for some, and not until the final gong on Saturday for others, this weekend.

Many of the larger stores will keep their doors open for the full normal hours on Saturday and a few of the smaller shops which usually close Saturday afternoon will be keeping open for the whole day to accommodate last minute shoppers.

For the staff of the Martin County Public Library, the Christmas weekend begins at noon Friday and will continue until Tuesday morning. The county administration offices will be closed Saturday through Monday, but the banks will keep their Saturday morning hours on the normal schedule, at the drive-in windows.

The churches, of course, will be the focal point of activity during this Christian religious holiday. At All Saints Episcopal, the young people will be carol-singing Saturday evening, and special Christmas eve services will be held at 5 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Sunday. Another service of celebration will be held monday at 10 a.m.

The Community Church will have two Christmas Eve services on Sunday, one at 7 p.m. and the other at 11 p.m. At the early service, the Handbell Choir will ring out the traditional hymns of good news.

The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, on U.S.1 will have two special Christmas Eve services, on Sunday at 8 and 11 p.m., according to the pastor, The Rev. A.V. Socker.

People who are planning on traveling the highways over the holiday should keep their eye on the speedometer, according to Lt. Jim Mills. They'll have radar stationed at extra points throughout the county, and units are being assigned overtime duty to take care of the traffic.

Mills indicated that the Sheriff's Department wants everyone to have a Merry Christmas--and an accidentfree one.

For area school children, Friday is the final day of school for the year 1978. The last day will be filled with Christmas parties and fun, sending the youngsters home for the holiday in a Yuletide mood. They will return to classes on Jan. 4. The teachers, unfortunately must return on Jan. 3 to attend workshop sessions.

IR Drive Yule lighting winners announced

The winners of the first annual Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Indian River Drive Freeholders Association were announced on Tuesday by Bob Meyer, chairman.

In the contest, which was open to all residents of the Indian River Drive between the Martin County Line and the Ft. Pierce city limits, the grand prize was won by Walter Pride at 6005 Indian River Drive.

Three prizes were awarded for the prettiest lighting in the traditional Christmas sense. First prize went to Mrs. Clifford Coldren (10209), second to Eugene Swistake (7909) and third to Mrs. Eleanor Elliott (4005).

Three more prizes were awarded to the most unusual, whimsical, different, clever lighting. First prize went to Tip Freed (12111), second to J. William Adair (11105) and third to Douglas Kerr(8705).

The prizes, which totaled over $110 in value were donated by local merchants. The judging was performed by members of the local media.

4th graders learn environment

Some 130 fourth graders at Jensen Beach Elementary School spent two days last week learning first-hand about the environmental and cultural wealth of the area that surrounds them, on field trips to the beaches, to Elliott Museum and the House of Refuge.

They also did their share for the ecology of the beach by gleaning the sands for discarded cans and trash, for a dual purpose.

"We're collecting aluminum cans for recycling," teacher Georgia Justice said. "We're learning about the value of recycling materials and about the ecology. We try to teach them to start thinking ahead about their environment, because if they don't, nobody will."

The classes were divided, on the two days of field-tripping, with half of them going to the beach on Thursday and the other half on Friday. Meanwhile, 30 others were touring the museum and another 30 visiting the House of Refuge, which is rich in history, and allowed the youngsters to see the Treasure Coast natives, the loggerhead and green sea turtles which environmentalist Ross Witham and his crew nurture and care for until they are large enough to go to sea by themselves without being gobbled up by predators.

At the public beach, the kids were coached on the hazards of the ocean, including such creatures as sharks, Portuguese Men-o-War and stingrays by Martin County Beach Director Jack Tammack. A demonstration on lifesaving was staged by county lifeguards.

Teachers partieipating in the venture included Irene Johnson, Regina Holmes, Ann Muszkowski, Jim Nehls and Mrs. Justice.

THEY LEARN ABOUT THE SHORE--The fourth graders of Jensen Beach Elementary got a first-hand education on beach safety last week, during a field trip to Jensen Bathing Beach and to the Elliott Museum. S-P bike path sparking controversy

Sewall's Point engineer Dick Helstrom and town attorney Jim Knight are spending part of their Christmas holiday researching rights of way for the planned bike path,which became a point of controversy earlier this month because of dissension within the town commission.

The commission, at the behest of commissioner Clinton Towl, held a special meeting at the December workshop to determine whether or not the citizens of the little incorporated community actually wanted to build a path. Towl had requested that issue be put to referendum, because, he claimed, it would be "spending too much money for the benefit of too few."

The consensus of those attending the special meeting, however, showed at least a two-to-one reaction in favor of the path for which the commission had already budgeted $10,000. Mayor Ed Gluckler, who is strongly in favor of the recreational and safety project, is backed up in his opinion by Commissioners Robert Russell and Adm. Earl Crawford. John Guenther, who was seated on the commission for the first time last summer along with Towl, cast his vote with the latter.

The big question now, according to Hallstrom, is which type of path will be built and for how much money. Originally, it had been estimated that the total cost would be in the neighborhood of $26,000. However, since that time the guesstimates have escalated upward to a minimum of $33,000 and probably more, depending on the type of path that can be constructed.

The three-two decision in favor of the project didn't stop the sparks from flying between dissident commissioner Towl and the red-headed mayor.

In the midst of the discussion about what steps must be taken next to determine the feasibility of the path, Towl again pressed his point.

"It's all so vague that I think it ought to go to a referendum," Towl commented.

Mayor Gluckler bridled.

"They can recall us at any time if they don't like what we're doing," he retorted. "I don't get paid so much that I need to sit up here and argue about it."

Postage, return address will help mail

Postal customers were urged this week to affix proper postage to letters, use zip codes and place return addresses in the upper left hand corner of the envelope to expedite handling of mail during the holiday season.

Don Sivyer, officer in charge of the Jensen Beach Post Office, urged customers of the post office to double check envelopes so that the above is complete. Envelopes without proper postage will be returned to sender, delaying the arrival of many important messages.

Return addresses insure the return of mail, and also inform friends of current addresses.

If a family to whom the message is being sent has moved more than a year ago, mail cannot be forwarded, and the return address insures the return of the mail to the sender.

BEACH HAZARDS--Jensen Beach Elementary fourth-graders are given pointers about what to watch for, when they are swimming or fishing in the ocean, by Jack Tammack, director of Martin County Beaches. The kids learned about the dangers of stingrays, Portuguese Man-o-war, and treacherous tides from the beach expert.

Why the confusion on 911?

BY SALLY LATHAM

Why, with all the combined efforts of Southern Bell, Martin County Civil Defense, and the volunteer ambulance services, can't the people north of Martin County line get 911 service from the Jensen Beach Samaritans to take them to Martin Memorial Hospital?

This question was cried aloud by some residents in the Holiday Out and Hettles Island in the past week, after they got the run-around from the St. Lucie County 911 emergency number and wound up in Lawnwood via SLC ambulance, paying "Huge bills" for transportation.

The answer lies apparently in the laps of two agencies, a survey by The Mirror shows. First, there is no joint effort on the parts of the St. Lucie County and Martin County districts of Southern Bell to coordinate the two emergency services. Too, the St Lucie County Sheriff's Department and the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Fire Board have failed to let go of the authority to run to the far south SLC line, despite the fact that it often takes nearly 30 minutes to get a patient and take him or her to the hospital.

St. Lucie County has had the 911 emergency number for nearly three years. The separate system, using the same number but unrelated for purposes of contact on the part of its users, was instituted in Martin County in November.

At first, everyone was under the impression that the two services would be coordinated for the benefit of everyone, and that everyone in both Martin and South St. Lucie County would be served equally by the same number.

But now, it appears, the citizens' hopes aren't going to materialize. Martin County Civil Defense Director Ed Auditore says that St. Lucie-ites on Hutchinson Island will continue to use the CD number 287-5575 if they need help, and after May, the islanders will be footing the telephone bill for it.

Meanwhile, the SLC ambulances will be answering all 911 calls north of the county line, and the victims, no matter how acute the emergency, will be taken to Lawnwood Medical Center.

And they will be paying up to $50 for the ambulance run.

The Jensen Area Samaritans do not charge for their services. They function on the generous donations of the private sector with a large share of it coming from the somewhat embittered Hutchinson Island residents.

A short time ago, Samaritans president Maxine Bailey and her co-workers attempted to gain the cooperation of the St. Lucie County authorities in getting the two 911 numbers to function as one for the south SLC residents. They were discouraged by a negative attitude from the sheriff's department, with slurs on the volunteers' "professionalism."

They also got the brushoff from the SLC fire board, which has made no attempt to relay Hutchinson Island 911 calls to the Jensen ambulance unit.

In the meantime, Mrs. Bailey and her team are trying to inform people fully on what they must do until the matter can be worked out equitably.

Two important points must be remembered, Mrs. Bailey says:

1) If you live within the bounds of Martin County, call 911. All of the areas within the county are now on the emergency number, and all the bugs that plagued the new system when it was first initiated in November have been ironed out.

2) If you live in the sections abutting Martin County (all of which consider themselves part of the Jensen-Stuart community) but are in St. Lucie County, you still call the Civil Defense number, 287-5575, if you want the Samaritans' ambulance service and want to go to Martin Memorial Hospital.

"People who live in St. Lucie County and who call 911 will get the St. Lucie County emergency service, and will be taken to Lawnwood Medical Center in Fort Pierce," Mrs. Bailey said. "If they want our services, they must call 287-5575."

The Martin County commission, anticipating problems in the transition, agreed to bear the cost of the phone bill for the Civil Defense number until May, the Samaritans president said.

However, recognizing that the problem will continue, she went to the residents in Holiday Out, Venture Three, Windmill Village, and Outdoor Resorts of America to gain their cooperation. They have agreed to pick up the phone bill after May, so the 287-5575 number will remain in service for emergency purposes indefinitely, she said.

The Samaritans have been giving the St. Lucie County residents on Hutchinson Island and up to Walton Road on Indian River Drive free ambulance service for the past nine years.

Another area newspaper stated incorrectly that the free service had been in effect for only a year, and that the Samaritans were asking St. Lucie County to begin paying for services after that time.

"That is seriously in error," Mrs. Bailey said. "We have never asked payment for our services and we don't intend to. We are merely trying to help out until they (St. Lucie County) can work out a more satisfactory solution to the problem."

Pioneers finish third in tourney

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE—The Indian River Community College Pioneers, plagued with first half blues this season, lost one, then came back to win in the consolation game of the Indian River Christmas Tournament at the IRCC gym last weekend.

Coach Mike Leatherwood's perplexing squad has, time and again this year, fallen way behind in the first twenty minutes only to make a furious charge at the end. Sometimes it has worked-sometimes it hasn't, but so far in the 1978-79 season, it's worked less than it hasn't, and the result is a 5-6 record for the Pioneers.

Forwards Mike Mills and Dennis Ross, expected to be the leaders on an otherwise inexperienced team, have done just that, but it hasn't always helped much. Saturday night it did, and the result was an 85-74 win over North Florida Junior College.

In the championship bracket, Florida Junior College downed Seminole, 82-71.

Dennis Ross' layup with six minutes left in the game gave IRCC a 62-61 lead, a lead that they kept the rest of the way. The consolation game was unusual for IRCC in two ways—it was the first time in the five years of their invitational that they didn't win the tournament, and it was one of the few times this year that they actually led at halftime, holding a 39-37 edge.

The Sentinels did close to within one point (66-65) with four minutes left, but the Pioneers ripped through the NFJC defense for seven straight points to put the game away. Mills and Ross each hit for 23 points to lead the Pioneers to their third-place finish.

Friday night, Florida Junior College topped NFJC 82-74 and Seminole squeaked by IRCC 87-84.

After Ross missed a one-and-one free throw opportunity with forty seconds left against Seminole, Jake Campbell of Seminole was fouled and made both charity shots to give his team an 86-84 lead. With five seconds left, Mills' desparation shot was missed, and he fouled in the process, giving Seminole their last point.

Coach Leatherwood can't seem to figure out the problem. Against Seminole, his team got blown away in the first half, only to make up a 15-point deficit in the second half and briefly take the lead.

"It's been this way all year," said Leatherwood. "We play awful in the first half, and then brilliant in the second. I don't know what it is. Maybe we're in better shape than many of our opponents. All I know is we've got the potential to be real good, but we have not put it all together yet."

IN LOCAL MIDDLE SCHOOL action, Mike Bethel scored 37 points to lead Stuart Middle School past Indiantown Middle, 70-55.

The dominant force in the game, Bethel also pulled away 25 rebounds, all in all a phenominal performance.

Indiantown had chances to expand on what turned out to be a 19-6 lead after one period, but three times the IMS squad missed makeable shots, and watched as Stuart climbed into the contest in the second stanza, trailing only 33-30 at the half.

The Jaguars assumed the lead in the third quarter, and led 46-43 after that period. SMS then put away the contest with 24 fourth quarter points.

Jeff Foreman led IMS' scorers with 29 markers.

A.L., auxiliary share Yule

Some 200 members and wives auxiliary of Jensen Beach Post 126 of the American Legion combined Christmas fun with Yuletide giving last week, at the annual Christmas party.

Members contributed a large variety of Christmas gifts which went to the Martin County Division of Youth Services, located in Stuart. Helga Spetz was in charge of the service project.

The Past President's parley of the AL Auxiliary Post 126 also held the winter luncheon at the Admiral's Table.

Christmas at All-Saints

Several special activities are planned by the parish of All Saints Episcopal Church, according to the pastor, The Rev. Jonathan Coffey.

This week, Fr. Coffey, The Rev. Dan LaPore and vested acolytes will be visiting the homes of shut-ins with gifts and Christmas carols, and on Saturday evening, Dec. 23, the young people of the church will hold a songfest at the church.

On Sunday, Dec. 24, the morning services will be limited to two, the first at 7:30 a.m. and the second at 10 a.m. Both will be simple low-mass Advent celebrations, with no sermon. The major services of celebration will be at 5 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Sunday, and again on Monday, Christmas Day, at 10 a.m.

The organist will be John Fulton. The Rev. Dan DePere and a guest priest, the Rev. William Collins will co-officiate.

New coach optimistic at Central

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE—Usually when a coach enters a new program, he promises a few years of "Rebuilding" before the team can compete among the giants of the area. This is especially true in this area, where Martin County and John I. Leonard are enough to frighten off most new coaches in the first place.

But at Fort Pierce Central, there is a new coach who promises no rebuilding, no years of cellar-dwelling and now years of running second-best to Leonard and Martin County. His name is Bill Wright, and what he promises is a team that very likely could win either the Suncoast Conference Eastern Division championship or the District championship later.

Wright is not one to sit and watch a team sink into the depths of the standings. In his years at DeLand High School, he has watched some of the finest talent in the South, and he hopes to carry that tradition with him into the Central program.

Despite a loss in the pre-season jamboree to Martin County, Wright is breathing a new life into his Cobras, and his players, who are some of the finest in the area anyway, are responding well.

"I could have come in here and said it would take two or three years to build a winner," said Wright. "But I think what this program needs is someone who comes in and says that all that is going to change right now."

"Actually, I waited for a coaching situation where there was already a lot of talent there. I felt that Fort Pierce was that kind of place, and I think it's jus a matter of putting it all together."

Wright is not worried about inter-city rival Martin County, or about the loss in the jamboree at Stuart November 22. "I was surprised at how intense the rivalry is between these two schools," added Wright. "I didn't realize the players would be as charged up as they were."

"The biggest thing I think has to be done here is for us to change the losing attitude. I'm not criticizing Roger Wrench, the previous coach who compiled a good record at Central), but I think that's the problem. We also need to stress team play and not individual."

Wright refrained from any criticism of the former coach. "He's been real good to me throughout my career. I think a lot of the problems he had up here were within the framework of the school, and those factors seem to have been eliminated."

Wright was right about one thing in particular. He does have the talent at FPC. Among returnees from last year's squad are guards Wayne Titus and Luther Sandifer, who had to rank as the most improved pair of players in the conference last season. Both entered the Fort Pierce starting lineup after disciplinary problems sliced the varsity team in half, and each did a fine job down the stretch as the Cobras almost did away with some fine teams.

Another of Wright's better players is tall Andy Chapman, who is beginning to be recognized as one of the better ones in the area. The Cobra center has been inconsistant in the past, and this is one problem he will have to correct this season if his team is to go very far in the district and state competition.

Anthony Lewis is a player that Wright especially likes. "Anthony is a real good player. I don't expect him to be starting right away, but he could get into the lineup later in the season. But I think he has the potential to be one of the top players."

Add guard Charlie Humphreys and forward Wilbur Washington to the group, and you have the makings of a very good team. And another player who could do well coming off the bench, according to Wright, is Arthur Robinson.

Finally, the Cobras have 6'6" Mike Toomer, who with his height can become a feared defensive weapon inside. So with three players over 6'4" playing regularly, the Cobras could give smaller teams fits, notably Martin County.

One thing that worries Wright is the realignment of districts, which moves Martin County and Fort Pierce Central into a district farther north, with many of the Cape Coast Conference teams.

"I was hoping to play a more regional schedule," added Wright. "But with this the way it is—with us playing in one district and also in a different conference—it could lock us in on our schedule." Wright was hoping to play a schedule similar to Martin County's in past seasons, as the Tigers have played state contenders like Fort Lauderdale Dillard, Bartow, DeLand and Key West.

Asked who would win the Suncoast East this year, Wright said he thought Leonard looked especially rough, with Martin County and his own team fighting it out with the Lancers for the top spot. "But I don't think anyone will go undefeated in the conference," he concluded.

What emerges out of all this is a "wait and see" attitude. Suncoast East fans will just have to wait and see whether Wright can pull off the impossible in his first year at the Cobras' helm.

Tigers 'Run N' Gun'

STUART—The Martin County Tigers, ranked third in the latest AAAA basketball poll, preserved their undefeated record last Saturday night with an impressive 98-87 victory over Fort Lauderdale-Dillard.

The Panthers, ranked ninth in their first year as an AAAA team, reminded the near-capacity crowd at the Tiger Den of the North Shore teams of the past few years. Dillard was never afraid to take thirty or thirty-five foot jumpers, and they hit enough of them to stay close and even lead throughout the game.

In fact, both teams exhibited tremendous outside shooting. The Tigers, while playing their finest game of the year, went almost four minutes in the first quarter before missing their first shot from the field. They went on to shoot 54 per cent, while converting on 30 of 36 free throws.

Dillard (7-2) was unable to shut off the inside game of the Tigers, who moved to 7-0 on the year. Whenever, center Charlie Jones got the ball inside, the Panthers either surrendered a bucket or fouled the big man, resulting in 16 opportunities for Jones at the charity stripe. He made 13 of them.

The Panther shot a respectable 49 per cent from the floor, but it was strictly "hot and cold." They totally dominated the second quarter, cutting what was at one time a 15-point lead to nothing and even taking the lead themselves. They first assumed command at 39-38, then watched as the game see-sawed until the half, when Dillard led 50-48.

Randy Shiflet's 18 first half points and Woodrow Tate's 17 forced the Tigers to play their best brand of basketball, but fouls hurt Dillard in the second half, as Shiflet's point production ceased and big man Paul Sirmon spent a lot of time on the bench. Both eventually fouled out,as did MCHS' Jones (with 50 seconds remaining).

Martin County smoked the net for nine of seventeen in the third period, and opened up a 69-60 lead after 24 minutes. But baskets by Sirmon and former Martin County student Alex "Chico" Wright trimmed that advantage to just 69-64.

But from there on, it was all Tigers, as the hometowners began taking advantage of Dillard's foul situation with drives to the hoop and passes inside. The lead gradually built to nine, then fourteen, as MCHS showed off its quick-striking offense.

The victory, the third of the week for the Tigers, gave them momentum heading into their toughest part of the schedule, the Christmas tournament season. They faced tough Winter Park in the first round of the Orlando-Sentinel Star Classic Tuesday night, and if successful, were to play the winner of the Jacksonville-White-Orlando-Edgewater game Wednesday.

The final game is tonight (Thursday) at the Winter Park gym.

IN OTHER GAMES last week, Larry Kosakowski scored 27 points to lead Fort Pierce-John Carroll to a 60-52 upset win over ninth-ranked AA Clewiston.

Twelve of Kosakowski's points came in the crucial minutes of the fourth quarter, as John Carroll expanded a three-point third period edge for the final margin.

The Rams trailed at the half, 31-28.

STAFFORD EVERETT sparked Pahokee's second consecutive win in Fort Pierce, netting 22 points to lead the highly-regarded Blue Devils to a 76-61 win over winless Fort Westwood.

The third-ranked AA Blue Devils (3-1) struggled through three quarters of nip-and-tuck basketball before scoring twelve points in a row to take a 55-40 fourth quarter lead. Eric Carrithers paced Westwood's attack with 21 points.

MARTIN COUNTY started the week off with an 81-69 win over inter-county rival Fort Pierce Central.

Tiger gals blast Lake Worth

STUART—The Martin County Tiger girls basketball team, as dominant in their sport as the guys are, raced to a 31-5 halftime lead and toyed the rest of the way with previously undefeated Lake Worth, 54-29.

JJ Baker, the much-heralded All-District forward for the Trojans, could not penetrate the Tigers' zone defense—almost the same defense used by the Tiger boys—and managed only eight points.

Ida Mae McIntyre led all scores in the game with 13 points, as coach Dan Alley used the second-stringers for much of the second half.

Martin County is now undefeated, as they lead the Suncoast Conference Eastern Division standings with a 3-0 record. Lake Worth, with the defeat, fell to 2-1 in the East Division.

BOCA RATON 39 CENTRAL 25

JENNY MANGUS converted on 11 of 18 free throws to lead the Boca Raton Bobcats past Fort Pierce Central 39-25 in a Suncoast East Division girls game.

Mangus scored 22 points to lead all scorers, as Boca improved to 2-1 on the season. Central had trailed in the game by as 14 points, losing 28-15 heading into the final eight minutes.

NEWMAN 68 WESTWOOD 52

FORT PIERCE-WESTWOOD rallied by only two points at the start of the fourth quarter, but could not close the gap, losing to Cardinal Newman 60-52 in a Suncoast West Division girls basketball game.

Newman was paced by Mary Chase and Lynn Canape, who each scored 12 points. The Crusaders are now 3-0 in the West and 4-3 overall. The game was tied 11-11 after one period and Newman led 24-22 at the half.

GLADES DAY 25

IN SATURDAY NIGHT action, Lisa Tetsworth pumped in 17 points as John Carroll smacked Glades Day 39-25 in a girls basketball game.

F.I.T. announces lecture by underwater photographer

Florida Institute of Technology announced today that Douglas Faulkner of New York and the caroline Islands in the Pacific will present two lectures and slide presentation on Underwater Photography at the Jensen Beach Campus. The two lectures and slide presentations titled "corals of the World" and "Cold Water Organisms" will be presented January 10 and 11 at 8:30 p.m. in the Jensen Beach Campus auditorium. Admission is free and open to the public.

Mr. Faulkner, a native of Delray Beach, has published two books of Underwater Photography--"This Living Reef" and "Dwellers in the Sea." His work has also been published in National Geographic, Smithsonian, Scientific American, Natural History, Nature, Skin Diver magazine and numerous other scientific, technical and general publications.

He has received the Underwater Photographer of the Year Award from the Chicago Film Festival, the Award of Merit from the International Underwater Film Festival and has lectured before such diver groups as the National Wildlife Federation, the American Litoral Society, New England Aquarium and numerous other groups and organizations.

IRCC creates with Indian River Cuisine

Create a stir with your favorite recipe! So goes the slogan for Indian River Community College friends, staff, students, and alumni who are finding a bond with each other in submitting recipes to be published in the forthcoming "Indian River Cuisine." This collection, only $6.95 plus tax, having 600 or more palate pleasers, will be adorned with a jacket design by our own internationally famous landscape artist A.E. (Beanie) Backus.

Recipes are being requested from any and all residents of the four-county area (Okeechobee, Martin, Indian River, and St. Lucie). Meat dishes, salads, vegetables, desserts, baked items--all will be included. And, because of the increasingly cosmopolitan nature of Indian River residents, more than a few of the entries will seem exotic to the native-born. However, good old Florida cracker favorites such as swamp cabbage, key lime pie, avocado delights, and catfish and bush puppies will be featured.

Committee members for "Indian River Cuisine" include Dr. John Kozma, Ms. Kim Nelson, Mr. Ed Rogers, Mr. Tim Selg, and Mr. Dale Trefelner on the sales committee. Chairman for this committee is Mr. Robert Bielski.

Members of the recipe committee, chaired by Ms. Nancy Bredemeyer, are Mrs. Audrey Cahill, Mrs. Louisa Christen, Mrs. Ethel Rosier, Mrs. Sara Whitacre, and Mr. Walter Wisnicky.

Opera Society to hold benefit New Year fete

The Treasure Coast Opera Society, a newcomer to the area scene this year, will have a benefit champagne supper on New Years Eve, Dec. 31, at the Riverhouse (formerly Fort Pierce Hotel) on Indian River Drive in Fort Pierce.

The benefit affair will help pay for a production of Madame Butterfly on March 4, at the St. Lucie County Municipal Auditorium.

The evening will include cocktails, a show-tune performance by the 30 member cast of the Indian River Community College songsters who have so endered themselves to the hearts of audiences during the past two years, and dancing to the music of the Fred Bogert's Trio.

A buffet supper will have an international flavor, with shish kebab, lasagna, and other foreign delicacies.

The invitation list includes people who have donated to the new Opera Society in the past, but others are welcome. The price tag is $20 for individuals and $35 per couple. Reservations may be made by calling 461-0520.

Library Concert Beethoven and Chopin will be featured at the taped concert at the Martin County Public Library today (Thursday) from noon to 1:30 p.m. The selections by Ludwig von Beethoven will be Symphony No 6, Pastoral, Allegro Ma Non Troppo, Andante Molto Mosso, Allegro, and Alegretto, played by the Philharmonia Orchestra under the baton of Otto Klemperer. The Chopin selections will be Nocturnes: Opus 9, Opus 15 and Opus 27, with Guimar Novais as soloist

Treasure Coast staff attaches 25 conditions to Midport

BY BOB FRYER

Treasure Coast Regional Planning staff report, which tied 25 conditions to its recommendation for approval of General Development Corporation's Midport plans, was adopted by the planning council last

The adoption of the report signaled fulfillment of a statutory requirement that the council's staff report be forwarded to the Port St. Lucie city council by last Friday. However, Treasure Coast council will again review the project, after a committee meets to solve some of the differences between the Treasure Coast staff and G.D.C.

Council members were told last Thursday by staff planner David Maltby that "There are many negative impacts to this project, and if they can't be resolved, it should be denied. But the staff feels that can be resolved with conditions, and would recommend approval with these conditions."

Then Maltby went on to list 25 conditions that the staff tied to its recommendation for project approval.

The bulk of the conditions would require GDC to upgrade its plans in the areas of schools, transportation and recreation.

After deciding the conditions tied to the recommendation of project approval were too numerous to resolve at the council meeting, it was agreed that an eight-member comittee would be established to iron out the differences between GDC plans and Treasure Coast staff conditions.

Port St. Lucie Mayor William McChesney was named to head the committee. Others named to it include Martin County Commission Chairman Hank Wacha, St. Lucie County Commissioner Willie McCain, St. Lucie County school board member Jeffrey Furst, a Treasure Coast staff member, a GDC representative, a State Department of Transportation planning staff member, and a member of the South Florida Water Management District.

The committee is to meet on Jan. 5 and Jan. 12 to resolve as many differences as possible between the staff and GDC. Then the committee will report back to the treasure Coast Council. Any problems not resolved by the committee would then be considered by the full council.

One of the major conditions tied to the recommendation for project approval was the implementation of a school impact fee.

The staff report called for a $416 fee to be levied against GDC for each of the 2,201 housing units planned for Midport, with the money collected to be spent on school facilities for the project.

A county-wide school impact fee was included in the staff proposal, with the GDC Midport impact fee recommended as an interim measure until such a fee was enacted throughout the county.

The staff report noted that should the county fail to impose an impact fee before the Midport project is completed in 1987, the $915,616 collected by the Midport impact fee would be returned to the occupants of Midport.

In response to the 25 conditions set by the Treasure Coast staff, GDC had no comment against the idea of a county-wide school impact fee, but did object to an interim fee applying only to Midport.

Mayor McChesney, who is also a Treasure Coast council member, voiced objection to the impact fee idea and noted the city's Planning and Zoning Board is opposed to it also.

Other conditions set forth by the Treasure Coast staff called for GDC to provide more park acreage in the Midport plan. GDC has proposed giving a 10-acre tract to the city for use as a park. Maltby noted that about half of that area is a borrow pit. He said GDC should not only supply more useable acreage, but should also install the capital improvements needed to turn the lands into parks.

The staff calculations of traffic volumes to be generated by Midport differed vastly from GDC calculations. Maltby said he felt GDC projections were low, consequently showing the need for fewer road improvements than the staff feels will be needed. Four-laning part of Walton Road, Tiffany Road (a road to be built in the interior of the project) and paving of Leonard Road were part of the staff recommendations.

Another major recommendation by the staff is for GDC to pay Martin County 30 percent of the cost for improving the Jensen Beach Causeway, improving Indian River Drive from the county line to the causeway, and improving the intersections at each end of the causeway. The recommendations are based on a staff calculation that Midport will contribute to more than 40 per cent of the growth in traffic along Indian River Drive and more than 30 per cent of the expected increase in traffic on the causeway.

The staff also recommended that GDC work out some method of compensating Martin County for the expected use of that county's beaches by Midport residents. Seven Martin County beach facilities are closer to Midport than the nearest St. Lucie County Beach strip, and the latter strip only has 10 parking spaces.

The staff report projected that the impact of Midport on the City of Port St. Lucie would result in a $114,865 per year deficit, while it would have a $27,751 annual surplus impact for the county government.

GDC attorney Wayne Allen noted that his firm objects to the bulk of the conditions the staff placed on its recommendation for project approval. Since those objections are to be aried at the committee meeting, Allen did not discuss them at length during the council meeting last week. He did, however, cite a federal Housing and Urban Development task force study which concluded that government regulations are a major cause of higher housing costs. Allen said that if all Treasure Coast staff recommendations were followed, the average cost of homes in the Midport project would increase by $1,007.

In addition to the Treasure Coast council's review of the Midport project, the City of Port St. Lucie is also reviewing it. Originally, it was thought that the city council would make its final decision on the project at a public hearing set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 16. However, the committee set up by the Treasure Coast Council to examine the 25 conditions in depth is not expected to report back to the Treasure Coast Council until the council meets on Jan. 30. So, it is expected the city council will conduct its hearing but will not make final decision on Midport at that hearing. This would be done to give the Treasure Coast council time to hear from its committee and send revised recommendations to the city council. Once the revised recommendations are sent to the city, the city council would then make its final Midport decision.

The Midport project is proposed for a 1,250-acre tract east of U.S. 1 between the GDC Industrial Park and a point south of the U.S. I-Lyngate Drive intersection. When completed in 1987 it is projected to house 5,503 persons. Additionally, it is to contain a massive office park area, a 53-acre shopping center, three school sites, a hospital site, a motel and several smaller commercial tracts.

MIDPORT PLANS were reviewed by the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council last Thursday and the Treasure Coast staff issued a report highly critical of the proposed project. General Development Corporation hopes to build 2,201 dwelling units for 5,503 persons in the Midport area.

A three million dollar boulevard, it's just the beginning.*

(Opening January 13, 1979)

It is our vote of confidence in Martin County.

We spent a million dollars a mile making Martin Downs Boulevard a beautifully landscaped link between Stuart and Florida's Turnpike.

Now we are going to give it to the county as a statement of our faith in its future and our commitment to creating an outstanding residential community on the acres and acres of natural land surrounding the Boulevard.

Martin Downs Boulevard is the first step in making Martin Downs an enviable place to live, with golf, tennis and other diversions at your doorstep. You're invited to see Martin Downs Boulevard, it's the beginning of great things to come!

*Martin Downs Boulevard is 3 miles of illuminated, winding, four-laned boulevard landscaped with tall pines, palms, newly planted live oaks and is fringed with lakes and canals.

PSL approves mini-warehouses

BY BOB FRYER

In the not too distant future, the city of Port St. Lucie will have an abundance of mini-warehouses.

Two separate firms sought and won approval this week for construction of mini warehouses in the General Development Corporation Industrial area east of U.S.1.

Florida One Construction, Inc., won approval for a total of 60 small warehouses. A spokesman for the firm said the mini-warehouse complex will consist of 22,800 square feet of space, including 48 small warehouses and 12 larger ones. And, he said this is just for phase one of his project. Eventually, the firm hopes to have four phases of warehouses, with the same amount of floor space for each phase.

Right after approval was granted for Florida One's warehouses, Bluewater Construction Company won approval for its mini-warehouse plans. Those are to be located adjacent to the Florida One project.

A Bluewater spokesman said his warehouses will feature an all-night security guard. He said in the first of two phases for development of his warehouse projec, he expects to build 25,000 square feet of warehouse space. He said this will be broken down into about 250 five by 10 storage areas, 100 10 by 10 spaces, 25 spaces of 200 square feet each, and 18 20 by 30 units that will include rest rooms. His second phase is to duplicate his first phase.

The warehouses were recommended Monday by the Planning and Zoning Board and given formal city council approval on Tuesday morning.

The Planning and Zoning Board and city council also, in their respective meetings, approved a site plan for a Southern Bell switching station off Port St. Lucie Boulevard near U.S.1 and granted a variance for a less than standard side lot setback for Abner Lotsof.

Southern Bell plans to use two mobile home trailers for its switching stations to begin with, but expects to build a permanent station on the site in a few years.

Lotsof got his variance after explaining that when he bought his lot next to the Viking's Landing project entrance, Sun Realty representative Mrs.E.E.Rogers assured him twice that the lot he was buying was 80 feet by 125 feet. However, Lotsof said the lot turned out to be 75 feet wide by 100 feet deep.

Lotsof noted that he had already picked out a house plan before he learned his lot was narrower than expected, and asked for a variance of about three feet on one side of his lot.

It was decided to grant him the variance, provided that the standard 16 foot side setback is maintained on the side of his lot next to an adjacent buildable lot. The variance will apply on the side of his home that will be next to a vacant lot that serves as part of the entrance to Viking's Landing, where no construction is anticipated.

In other action at Monday's Planning and Zoning Board meeting, the board reviewed a proposed new model home ordinance, but decided they will need the city attorney's opinion on its legality before passing it along to the city council for consideration.

The board also set Jan. 3 as the date they will discuss the Midport Development of Regional Impact application. On that date the board will hear Treasure Coast Council staff and General Development Corporation staff presentations on the project, as well as recommendations from city planner Mike Szunyog. The board meets at 7 p.m. that evening at city hall, and the public is invited to comment on the Midport project.

At the city council meeting on Tuesday, it was decided to hold discussions next April on the possibility of establishing garbage franchises in the city. The council also discussed the problem of construction debris, but reached no conclusions.

Murdered girl's body found Sunday

St. Lucie and Martin County sheriff's officials are investigating the murder of a 16-year-old Stuart girl whose body was found by a hunter in a wooded area of south St. Lucie County Sunday morning.

Dead is Heidi Czerwinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Czerwinski of Harrison Street in Stuart.

The girl's partially clad body was found in woods off Becker Road, west of the Florida Turnpike and north of Canal C-23. She was reportedly stabbed in the chest several times and had received a blow to her head. Lawmen also feel she may have been raped.

According to Martin County detective Charles Walker, the girl was last heard from on the morning of Monday, Dec. 11, when she called her mother from the National Quick Shop on SR 76 in Stuart, a short distance from Martin County High School.

Detective Walker said the girl was seen at the school that morning, but did not attend any classes. She had reportedly gotten wet in the rain and had gone to the store to call her mother for a dry change of clothes.

When the girl could not be found later that day, she was reported missing.

Lawmen said it has been estimated that the girl had been dead three to five days before she was found, around 9 a.m. Sunday.

Detective Walker said the next step in the investigation will be to question the girl's friends to determine who she associated with and to establish any patterns to her behavior in hopes of turning up a clue as to what happened after made the phone call. The girl was in a work-study program at the high school, attending school part of the day and also working as a check-out cashier at a Stuart supermarket.

LISA HEFFELFINGER was shy and had to be coaxed by Santa to tell the jolly old fat man what she wanted for Christmas. Lisa was one of hundreds of kids who shared their Christmas dreams with Santa when he came to the Port St. Lucie Community Center last Saturday. The PSL Junior Woman's Club sponsored the event. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

THE ART of making gingerbread houses is not a common one down here in Florida, but Joyce Keoleian, above, says it's a better-known practice in New York. Joyce moved here from New York and works in a local deli bakery. She made these gingerbread houses for the Christmas holidays. Though she says they take quite a bit of time to make (you have to wait for things to dry between each decoration application), she enjoys putting them together.(Staff photo)

FIRST NATIONAL OPENING--The First National Bank of Stuart celebrated the opening of its new facility on East Ocean Boulevard Friday afternoon, drawing a crowd of eager patrons to its doors. Among the bank officials attending, from left, are Larry Thibault, public relations director; Dennis Hudson Jr., chairman of the board; Dale Hudson, executive vice president, Tenny McGraw, branch manager, and Alvin A. Hendry, director. (Staff photo)

F.I.T. confers degrees

Florida Institute of Technology's fall quarter class of 1978 graduated Friday afternoon in ceremonies including the conferring of Associate and Bachelor degrees.

Dean E.E. Tealey assisted by Assistant Dean Peter Navaretta and Dr. William Gehring awarded the 21 diplomas in comencement exercises which were held in the campus Lecture Hall.

In presenting the diplomas Dean Tealey recognized the efforts of parents, grandparents, spouses and children of the graduates.

Receiving Bachelor of Science degrees in Environmental Technology were Duncan Miedouye Eneni Eradiri, Eugene Jerald Pfeiffer, John Gwyn Chapin and James W. Summer. Bachelor of Science degrees in Oceanographic Technology, Dennis James DeMizio, Keith William Plafenyk and Raymond Michael Walker. Associate of Science degrees in Oceanographic Technology were awarded to, Thomas Richard Agans, R. Lee Baldeen, Jr., James Vincent Barnes, Jr., John Gwyn Chapin, Dounana Eradiri, Thomas Robert Little, Drew William Rachsteiner, Frank E. Seymour III and Ronald Monte Watson. Associate of Science degrees in Offshore Marine Technology were Marcelo Eldridge Nicks, Jr. and Susan C. Thompson. Associate of Science degree in Medical Technology was awarded to Cynthia Karen Lagerstrom. Associate of Science in Underwater Technology was awarded to William G. Rath.

AARP OFFICERS--The officers of the American Association of Retired Persons, Martin County Chapter, were honored last week at the annual Christmas meeting held at the First Presbyterian Church in North River Shores. They are Charles McIntyre, president; Mildred Capanna, second vice president; Al Tucker, director; Lucy Prohaska, director; Pearl Wyse, first vice president; Dorothy Snyder, secretary; and Doris Cass, treasurer. "Ho, Ho" says Santa, here's a Christmas greeting from Uncle Sam to All Senior Citizens, as he stuffs the mail boxes with "A message from Medicare."

That was one greeting they could do without and they weren't a bit bashful about expressing their irritation. One of the comments was: "That first deductible increase of $144 to $180 is over 11 per cent, and the overall cost of living index was only 7 per cent during the same period, and even though the medical profession insists they are doing everything possible to contain costs, it does look as though they could use the help of the Cost Containment Committee that is scheduled to get organized early in 1979."

The Treasure Coast Congregate Meal Christmas party is shaping up to be quite an affair. It'll be at Langford Field House, 2 p.m. Fri. Dec. 22. Site manager Dorris Walker has ordered extra meals, so maybe those not scheduled for Friday can be served (anyway, all participants are invited to the premeal entainment). The walls will be decked with lights and the tables decorated by the assistant site manager Betty Mattix with helpers. Program director Elliot Arluck will have a band and part of the floor will be cleared for dancing. There'll be punch, favors and door prizes. Song sheets have also been made up for a Christmas carol sing-a-long. All who plan to attend, please sign up with Dorris, so there'll be room for all.

Many seniors wonder just how they are making out in relation to the national coverage of seniors in coping with the rampant inflation. Well, here's some U.S. Dept. of Labor figures, that might give them a clue.

The average retired couple over 65 on the low income budget, should be spending a yearly income of $5479 as follows: Food, $1672; Housing, $1900; Transportation, $387; Clothing, $233; Personal care, $159; Medical care $684; Other, $464. On a monthly basis, which is perhaps easier to understand, it'll work out to: Food: $139; Housing $158; Transportation, $31; Clothing $19; Personal care, $13; Medical care, $57; Other, $39. There was a higher income budget also listed, it was 113 per cent higher with a total income of $11,6864. But, folks with that income aren't interested in budgeting, so the breakdown won't be listed.

It would be interesting to learn how the above compares with what seniors in this area are actually spending. Health Care, for one thing, looks out of line, as Medicare at $16.40, Blue Cross at $32.44 and auxiliary insurance at $21.90, gives a total of $70.74 without paying any deductibles or prescription drugs. Seniors with interesting figures, please get in touch.

CHAPTER EVENTS

The Christmas party, Thurs Dec. 14, with every seat filled by 1 p.m. started with Ernie Curwen, LPD (Lame Duck President) quickly getting the routine business out of the way with the members approving the 9 items taken up at the recent ExCom-Board meeting.

Then, Pearl Wyse and Edith Hill report on the Chirstmas Bazaar, as follows: Sale of Bert Reynold's painting, $50; Santa Doll Raffle $188; Bazaar $553.48; making the event total $791.48, which in turn swells the building fund to $4767.70, which isn't too bad for the first 11 months.

It was then stretch and "hello" neighbor time, while County Commissioner Maggie Hurchalla was getting her material ready for the installation of 1979 officials. Their names have been listed here often, so will not be repeated. After an impressive ceremony, new President Charles (CMac) MacIntyre made a short address, outlining his policy of the the coming year, and presented Ernie Curwen with a "Gold Past President lapel pin" and Mrs. Ernie with a holiday fruitcake and crisp $10 bill for her patience curing Ernie's two terms as president. Then, came the entertainment.

First, Dick Aumiller, Steve Weidinger, Julia Aumiller, Jim Simon and Betty Taylor, as a country music combo, played many of the ol' favorites making the feet beat time to the music. It was very enjoyable.

Second, Betty Taylor with Leta Keith accompanist, had the members singing Christmas carols until the rafters rung. To make it more interesting, Betty had the men's bass voices compete with the ladies' high pitched ones and one side of the hall with the other side. This was great fun for all, but there was more to come.

The drawings for the prizes was next. First the beautiful Santa Dolls, that were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunt, were won by Mrs. Ruggerio (tel. 546-4023). The Buy-a-Block raffle was won by block 121, which was held by AARP Director Frank Edwardson. It was a $10 gift certificate at Country Flavors. Finally, the 2 door prizes, donated by Lucy Prohasks, were won by: Edith Hill and Verlie Anderson.

Then, as there were a few minutes before refreshments were ready, some committee chairmen reported. Ken O'Dell, tax aid coordinator, made a plea for one more counsellor and got 2. He asked for someone to make posters and got a volunteer. But, he could not get a speaker team organized, so there's a need for a few members to go to the different senior group meetings and explain the tax aid program.

However, soon it was time for the home made cookies and coffee, and they were just great. The members talked and they talked, until they had to be shooed out in order to get the hall closed up and straightened. All said this was another dandy meeting and let's do it again, soon.

ERIC BUCHHEIT finds cookie making a sticky-finger business

Joy of cooking: kindergarten style

The joy of cooking is not something you have to wait until you're an adult to learn.

At Port St. Lucie Elementary School, kindergarten students recently got a "taste" of that joy.

Students in each of the school's kindergarten classes got first-hand cooking experience when they make peanut butter cookies.

Not only did they have a good time baking and eating the cookies, but they also got a test of their ability to measure quantities, to check on the passage of time, and to learn a bit about kitchen teamwork.

True, a few students came up with sticky fingers and flour in their hair. After all, they're just kids. But that just afforded them the opportunity to learn the importance of keeping a clean, sanitary kitchen.

Cookies aren't the only things the kindergarten students have made this year. They've also had experience with pizza.

Judging from the smiles on the faces of the young bakers as they sampled the finished product, Port St. Lucie could well be in the process of turning out a generation of master chefs.

State's decision on PSL Nursing Home appealed

An appeal of a decision by state officials to allow only 60 beds, instead of 120, in a nursing home planned for Port St. Lucie will be appealed this week.

Once that appeal is received by Bureau of Community Medical Facilities officials in Tallahassee, the state has 30 days in which to conduct a hearing in the case.

The request for permission to build a 120 bed nursing home in the Port St. Lucie area was filed several months ago by the Eden Park Management Corporation, which currently operates the Stuart Convalescent Home.

When a local committee of this area's five-county Regional Health Planning Council considered the Eden Park request, it also considered an application by Cather Industries for a 120 bed nursing home to be built in Fort Pierce, next to the county's Ahejean Russel Nursing Home.

The local committee rejected Health Planning Council staff population figures, which showed little need for more nursing home beds, and voted 16 to nothing, with one abstention, in favor of recommending approval of the Eden Park request. The committee also voted 10 to six, with one abstention, to recommend approval of the Cather Industries application.

Those recommendations were forwarded to the Health Planning Council in West Palm Beach, and at a meeting a couple of months ago, the full council voted eight to eight on the Cather Industries application. Council rules state that a tie vote represents a defeat of whatever is being voted on.

Following the tie vote on the Fort Pierce nursing home application, the council voted 12 to four in favor of the Eden Park application for the Port St. Lucie nursing home. Then, another vote was held on the Fort Pierce home and it narrowly won a recommendation for approval by a one to seven margin.

Gerald Girard, a member of the Health Planning Council's local committee, said at least two of the four votes against the Port St. Lucie home came due to a misunderstanding that persons would have to vote down that nursing home in order to reconsider the Fort Pierre home the next vote.

Regardless of the reasoning behind the voting, Girard says it is clear that "Cather's application got its council recommendation by the skin of its teeth, whereas the Port St. Lucie home had strong support."

Girard is one of several Port St. Lucie citizens who expressed bitter disappointment last week when it was learned that the State Bureau of Community Medical Facilities had considered the Health Planning Council's recommendations and had granted full approval for the 102 bed Fort Pierce nursing home, but approved only 60 of the 120 beds requested for the Port St. Lucie home, planned for Oleander Ave., just north of PSL city limits.

Last Thursday Girard and fellow council committee member Fred Wiggin, as well as former committee member Don White and city councilman Marie Anderson, who is also a member of the regional Health Planning Council, addressed the Health Planning Council in West Palm Beach. The men expressed disappointment in the Tallahassee decision and asked for the full council to express its displeasure. The men won assurances from the council's incoming and outgoing presidents that the council would do so. "They felt it was a rejection of their decision, so they'll support the appeal all the way, even through the use of its staff if necessary," Girard said.

The group of Port St. Lucie men who addressed the Health Planning Council said it was time to draw the line on Port St. Lucie being slighted in the area of health care. They noted that several years ago an application for a hospital in the city was turned down.

The men said widespread support of local citizens of the PSL nursing home application is needed when the hearing is conducted.

Jack Kane, head of the Eden Park Management Corp., said the appeal will be filed this week.

Herb Straughn of the Bureau of Community Medical Facilities in Tallahassee said once his office receives the appeal notice, the state has 30 days to conduct a hearing or the state's decision will automatically be reversed. Only by agreement between those appealing the decision state officials could the hearing deadline be extended.

Straughn said when his office receives the appeal notice, he will contact the state Division of Administrative Hearing. A hearing officer from that division will conduct the hearing and will be the person to decide when and where the hearing will take place. Straughn said some hearings are held in the area from which the appeal originates while others are heard in Tallahassee.

Kane said he will seek to have the hearing in Port St. Lucie. He, as well as the group of men who appeared before the Health Plan Council last week, feels the state officials did not take the rapid growth of the Port St. Lucie area into account in reaching a decision on the nursing home application.

"They based their decision in terms of numbers, not humans," said Don White.

Girard agreed with that, but added that he felt even an assessment of the numbers ought to warrant a 120-bed nursing home for the area.

Kane said last week that all planning and financial arrangements had been geared for a 120 bed home and he said a 60-bed home may prove to be economically unfeasible.

Anderson said he'd seek a city council resolution in favor of the 120-bed nursing home application. Girard is to seek PSL Civic League support for the home. White will seek the same from the PSL-River Park Homeowners Association, and Wiggin will seek support from the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

THREE WISE MEN--Though they haven't even got any peach-fuzz yet, these three boys were men last week when they played the roles of the three wise men at a Christmas Pageant at the Holy Faith Episcopal Church. About 30 children participated in the pageant about the birth of Jesus Christ.(Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Survey shows city growing young

Port St. Lucie is becoming younger as the days go by.

That's one of the first conclusions reached by a team of persons who recently completed a door-to-door survey of about 2,000 homes in the city.

The survey was sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Community Center and funded by the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program.

The survey began in August and ended Dec.15. During the next few weeks, results of the survey will be tabulated and a report will be made. However, without counting the exact numbers, one conclusion can be easily reached: the average age of city residents is declining.

Angela DeVasher, head of the four-woman team of surveyors, noted that this is one of the most flpparent trends the survey will document "The number of persons moving into the city who are not retired is increasing daily," she said.

Mrs DeVasher explained that in the early years of the city, it was populated primarily by retirees. But she says the ratio of retirees to non-retirees is shrinking and that the city can no longer be thought of as just a retirement community. Many of the newcomers are young families, with school-age children.

Another conclusion the surveyors have already been able to draw, in spite of the fact the final tabulations won't be complete for another two weeks or so is that many persons feel there is a need for public transportation in the city. And, a lot of folks feel the city needs public swimming pools.

The survey was originally to have lasted until Feb. 8, 1979. However, when it got to the point where surveyors were having trouble finding homes that they hadn't already visited, it was decided to cut the survey off as of Dec. 15. "We didn't feel there were enough homes left to justify spending the money to reach them. We feel we hit most of them and that the survey results will accurately reflect the characteristics of the city," noted Center president Dick Lundin.

Though CETA funds ended on Dec. 15, two members of the survey team, Mrs. DeVasher and Mrs. Lilian Barker, agreed to work without pay to tabulate the results of the survey. They're doing it without benefit of computers and it's a slow process, but Mrs. DeVasher says the job should be finished in a couple of weeks. The results will then be offered to the public.

What's in the survey?

A lot of information that will be valuable to the city planner, to a number of area businesses and to the Community Center, says Lundin.

The survey polled Port St. Lucie and River Park area residents on the number and ages of persons in each household, whether they were employed or retired, and whether they rented their homes or owned them.

The survey sought to determine the needs of the community for baby sitters, maids, gardeners, and emergency transportation. It asked what newspapers the residents read, what doctors and dentists the residents used and where those doctors and dentists were located. It also polled residents on where they shop and what their recreational interests are. It asked if residents owned pets and, if so, whether the pets had been given shots.

A special section was devoted to finding out what persons know about the Community Center and finding out what services the Center may need to offer. Another section, for those 60 years old and older, asked if nursing home care, Meals of Wheels, household assistance and emergency transportation were needed.

The survey team went door to door. In most cases, Mrs. Barker says, the residents gave them a warm reception.

When residents were not home, the survey was left with a note asking the residents to answer the questionnaire and mail it to the Center. The response was good, but Mrs. DeVasher says this does not mean there won't be a follow-up to the survey. "When we went to Windmill Point, there were only 18 mailboxes there. But people are moving in there constantly, so we'll have to go back out there to question the new residents," she said.

SANTA was a welcome visitor to the Port St. Lucie Child Care Center last week, as is evidenced by the smiles on the faces of these PSL youngsters. St. Nick dropped by the center to get a list of last-minute Christmas wishes and to leave the kids a few pre-Christmas presents. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Midport plans to get P&Z scrutiny on Wednesday

The Port St. Lucy Planning and Zoning Board will meet at City Hall at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan.3, to review General Development Corporation's plans for its Midport development.

The board is expected to hear presentations from GDC and from the staff of the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council on the Midport project.

The Treasure Coast staff issued a critical report on the Midport plans earlier this month, and attached 25 conditions to a recommendation for approval of the project. Included among those recommendations were a $416 a unit impact fee for the school system, a proposal for GDC to pay Martin County for the expected used of its beaches by Midport residents, and proposals for GDC to pay for, and do, much more road improvement than the firm had planned to do.

The Treasure Coast project review has been forwarded to the city council and city Planning and Zoning Board, and will be the basis for discussions at the meeting Wednesday evening. However, a committee of the Treasure Coast staff is to meet on Jan.5 and 12 to see if the staff and GDC can iron out some of the GDC objections to the 25 conditions. That committee will report back to the Treasure Coast council on Jan. 26. Then, a new report will be forwarded to city officials for their consideration before they take a final vote on the project.

The city council's public hearing on the Midport project is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Han.16. City Mayor William McChesney says the council will not make a final decision on the project at that time, as the Treasure Coast committee will not have reported to the Treasure Coast council by then.

Another meeting concerning the Midport project will be held some time after the Jan.18 Treasure Coast council meeting. That one will be a joint meeting between the St. Lucie County School Board and the St. Lucie County Commission. The two groups will meet to discuss the feasibility of imposing a countywide school impact fee. At the last meeting of the school board, board members decided to set the meeting for some time after Jan.18, but did not set a specific date.

The Midport project covers 1,250 acres on the east side of U.S.1 from just south of the GDC Industrial Park to a point south of the U.S.1-Lyngate Drive intersection. A total of 2,001 housing units, containing a population of 5,503 persons, is planned for the area. Also planned are a 52 acre shopping center, a large office park, three school sites, a hospital site, several smaller shopping areas and a motel.

The public is invited to attend the Planning and Zoning Board meeting.

Kilgore home wins decoration contest

If you want to see a nice Christmas decoration, drive by the home o. H R.Kilgore at 1780 Elrose St. in Fort St. Lucie.

The Kilgore home is the top winner in the annual Port St. Lucie Women's Club Outdoor Christmas decoration contest.

The winners were announced Tuesday, Dec.26.

Finishing second to the Kilgore's was the home of T.Madden at 289 S.E Verada. Jack Conner of 734 S.W Streamlet placed third, and Mrs. Eugene Kavanaugh, widow of former Port St. Lucie Mayor Kavanaugh, finished fourth. She made all the decorations at her home at 3073 Treasure Island Road.

Robert Shaydik of 282 S.W.Lakehurst won the prize for the best religious display as well as for the best rooftop decoration. Second in the religious decoration category was William Maitre, Jr., of 373 N.E.Camelot.

Shirley Pansy won the prize for the most original decoration. Her home is located at 1249 Sandia Dr.

CHARISMAS PAGEANT--The Holy Faith Episcopal Church in Port St. Lucie conducted a Christmas Pageant last week. The church's children presented the pageant, and in spite of an angel wandering away from her station and a few missed cues, the performance was considered a smashing success by the adults who viewed it. Some of the pageant participants are shown above. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Golden South hopes to fly on January 15

If the state Public Service Commission grants its approval, Golden South Air Lines hopes to begin commuter flights out of the St. Lucie County Airport on Jan. 15th.

The air line, a firm formed by a number of businessmen in the Fort Pierce area, is to feature passenger service on a regular schedule to Orlando, Melbourne and West Palm Beach from Fort Pierce.

At a recent hearing in Fort Pierce on the proposed air line service, no opposition to the commuter air line was voiced.

Golden South Air Lines will feature nine-passenger Piper Navajo Chieftan airplanes.

The state Public Service Commission must grant approval for the air line to begin operations, but air line officials are hopeful that the approval will come soon and that service can begin on Jan. 15th.

First Baptist Plans New Year's Eve Service

Port St. Lucie First Baptist Church, 115 N.E. Solida Drive, will be having a Watchnight Service on New Year's Eve, Sunday, December 31.

Anyone wanting to bring the New Year in, in Christian fellowship, is invited to attend. Please come share with us in a free evening of family fellowship, a film "Pete Sake" and the Lord's Supper beginning with the evening service at 7:00 p.m.

NRC rule to have little impact on nuke plant...except costing more, Van Curen says

BY SALLY LATHAM

The recent Nuclear Regulatory Commission changes in semantics and tightening of safety restrictions may be "more meaningful" to the general public, but they'll have little impact on the Florida Power and Light nuclear power plants No. 1 and 2, according to FPL district manager Gene van Curen.

"The newer the plant, the less effect its going to have," van Curen said. "The biggest effect will be on the Turkey Point plant (in Miami). The bearings have been sort of a joint effort, although in some respects it will add dollars to the cost."

The major changes growing out of the NRC hearings in Washington will simplify the language of the atomic power industry, requiring reports to speak in terms of "millirads" instead of "curies" when referring to the radioactivity output within the nuclear power plants.

They also will require tighter restrictions on the method of shipping radioactive wastes, materials used and discarded within power plants, such as tools, clothing and other materials such as the resinous sludge impregnated with low-level radiation.

The report from Washington said that some power plants have not been meeting the new requirement to solidify any irradiated materials being shipped out for disposal.

"If we haven't been complying, we're in the process of doing so," van Curen told The Mirror.

Both the safety status at the Hutchinson Island Plant No.1 and the smoothness of the operation are points of pride for FPL, the manager said.

"We're real proud of No.1," he commented. "We've had power available over 80 percent of the time since it started operation in December of 1976, and generated over 10 billion kilowatts of power."

The plant has also lessened the cost of power to the consumer, by reducing fuel consumption to "16 million barrels of oil we didn't have to buy." This has meant a savings of approximately 76 cents per 1,000 kilowatt hours.

"We can document a savings of $6 to $8 on the normal residential bill," he said. "The bill would be that much higher if we did not have a nuclear plant."

The change in the definitive wording which will be required of all nuclear power plants within the next year will mainly involve the switch from Curies, named after Madame Marie Curie who discovered the nature of radium, to millirads. It is mainly to let people know the relative absorption of radiation in the body.

"When the body absorbs a certain number of Curies," van Curen said, "it is measured in Millirads, or 'Roentgen equivalent man.'"

The human body, in the course of daily living without exposure to any artificial source, absorbs approximately 120 millireds a year, from the sun, the atmosphere, radio, television, trips to the doctor or dentist who administers x-rays.

The NRC, in setting its standards, contends with the new measurement, the bodily absorption from any source can be more easily determined.

People who are not aware of the precautions being taken at the Hutchinson Island plant have expressed concern about the dangers potentially involved in disposing of waste and used fuels.

The resinous waste resulting from the production of nuclear power, van Curen said, has been placed in barrels and trucked off in sludge form to the disposal pits at the Savanna River atomic project in South Carolina. This will be converted to solids for shipping in the future, he said.

The "spent fuel" which was removed when the plant was shut down last summer for its annual renourishment and maintenance repair is being kept in secure leaded containers at the north end of the Hutchinson Island site.

The half-life fuel, he s[illegible]'s being held on the site "until the government decides what to do with it." The entire area is constantly monitored both on the ground and in the air for any changes in radioactivity level.

In his year-end overview of the progress on Nuclear Plant No.2, van Curen was optimistic about the overall progress.

The second plant, due for completion in 1983 at a cost of 3935 million, is six weeks ahead of schedule, the manager said.

"There is some possibility of delays in the offing because of shortage of materials," he said. "But our objective is reducing the cost by ten percent, if we can keep time with production."

CD dispatch misfires on US 1 accident

A young Pennsylvania girl is in Martin Memorial Hospital with second and third degree burns on "26 to 32 percent" of her body and very lucky to be alive at all, according to the Rio and Jensen rescue workers who are still upset about a communications snare between investigating officers and the Civil Defense dispatch center.

According to John Kovarick of the Rio Fire Department, his department was called at 10:29 p.m. north of Stuart on U.S.1. But he was informed only that there was a fire, with no notification that anyone was hurt.

"I took the rescue unit, which carries water," Kovarick said Tuesday evening. "Gary Scoenzzi (an Emergency Medical Technician) was with me the tanker was right on our tail. We were the first rescue unit on the scene."

They arrived to find a van on fire, out in the field.

The Rio firemen first spotted the van, ablaze, and headed out to extinguish it.

"Then I noticed bodies lying there-at first I thought they were dead-nobody doing anything to give them treatment, although there three or four sheriff's department vehicles and Highway patrol vehicles on the scene."

Nobody, it turned out, had sent for any ambulance units. Only after the Rio volunteer doublechecked and discovered there had never been a call for an ambulance did the CD dispatcher give the call to the Samaritan ambulance.

Kovarick and Scoenzo were tending to two of the victims when a private Fort Pierce ambulance which had been making a cross-county line transport happened by. Kovarick asked for and got help, and they were tending the patients when the Samaritan ambulance, called so belatedly, finally arrived.

According to Maxine Bailey, president of the Samaritans, the call for help did not come in from CD headquarters until 10:31, and the Samaritan vehicle got there at 10:40, nearly a half-hour after the accident happened.

Mrs. Bailey deplored the mixup, saying the average Samaritan run of that distance would take only five or six minutes.

"Things like this have got to be straightened out," Mrs. Bailey said. "911 is improving, but this was inexcusable. This is not a vendetta, but the fact remains that three patients lay there on the road, and no ambulance had been called."

The accident occurred when the 1969 bus in which Miss Myers, an 18 year old tourist from Tifton, Pa., was riding, was struck by another car driven by a juvenile and in weaving through traffic."

The impact set the bus afire, causing it to explode. The bus went out of control into the woods and burned up. The burning liquid fell on and set Miss Myers aflame. Other passengers in the vehicle pulled her out and to safety.

The driver of the car was taken to Fort Pierce Juvenile Detention CEnter, where he was charged with driving while intoxicated and willful wanton reckless driving.

TOWN'S YULE GIFT–After a wait of two years, Jensen Beach at last evened up with a second dome on the ill-fated welcome arch on the Rio Road, just before Christmas. Although the scaffolding is still up and the second dome still unpainted, it is almost back to the old self it was before it was demolished by a car in a fatal accident. Legislative delegation will visit

The Martin County delegation to the Florida Legislature will visit Stuart on Jan. 16, according to newly-elected Representative William G. Myers.

The legislators, in addition to Dr. Myers, will include Sen. Phil Lewis, Sen. Don Childers, Sen. Harry Johnston, and Rep. Chuck Neggard.

They will be in the Martin County Commission Room of the county administrative Center, 50 Kindred Street, from 7:30 p.m. Everyone with questions or comments appropriate to the work of the legislature is welcome.

The delegation meeting is being held earlier than in the past this year because of a new rule in the House that no bills except those of a strictly local nature will be allowed to be introduced after the first day of the session. Dr. Myers explains. He says he is personally trying to assure that enough time will be available to write any legislative suggestions arising from the local delegation meeting.

People wishing information in advance of the visit may write Betsy Walson, District 77 Legislative Aide at the Martin County Administrative Center.

Concert at Library

The final taped concert at Martin County Public Library will take place today (Thursday) from noon to 1:30 p.m. It will feature the music of Ludwig von Beethoven and Johann Sebastian Bach. The Beethoven selections will be "A Unique Masterpiece," the Ninth Symphony, played by the Berlin Philharmonic, conducted by Herbert Von Karajan. The Bach will be the Brandenburg Concerto, also plaiyed by the Berlin Philharmonic, under Karajan's baton. The concert is free to the public.

GED prep is on tap at MCHS

People planning to take the test for the General Equivalency Diploma in March are advised by officials at the Martin County Schools Adult Education Department that a preparatory program is now underway.

The Florida High School Equivalency Testing Program is designed for adults who haven't had the chance to complete the formal requirements for a regular high school diploma, according to coordinator Richard C. Stevinen.

The GED Test, he explains, is a series of five standardized tests, on writing skills including spelling, punctuation, capitalization and grammar; social studies, measuring the ability to read with understanding and to evaluate chosen selections on social, cultural and economic problems; a science test on scientific vocabulary and ability to evaluate and reason; and fourth, a reading skills test checking ability to interpret figures of speech, sentence structure, word meanings and intent of works of literature.

The fifth, a mathematics test, requires the student to solve ordinary and practical arithmetical problems, supplemented by some algebra and geometry.

Those who pass the multiple test are given a diploma which is the egal equivalent of a high school diploma and can be accepted by employers for purposes of employment, Stevelin says.

The refresher course is open to all adults 18 or older living in Florida at the time of application. A $o fee is the time of applications. A $o fee is required. Further information may be obtained by calling 287-6400, extension 130 Or 133.

WIN DISTRICT HONORS–Two very proud Jensen Beach Scouters are Art P tman, assistant Scoutmaster, left, and Harold Kemnitzer, Scoutmaster holding high district honors they received recently. P tman was presented the District Award of Merit, the highest honor a District can give. Kemnitzer's honors are the Scoutmaster s Key, the Wood Badge and the Sparkplug Award. day week one long yule present

lls and ho-ho-hos are ew Year's bells and but for tourists and th the weather and the recreation along the Treasure Coast seem more like one great big Christmas present

The beach temperatures, though somewhat cooler than last week, have been holding in those lovely ranges that make running and fishing the favorite holiday vacation sports. And the fish are continuing to give themselves up willingly to the lure of the hook.

According to the spies along the bait-and-tackle beat, the trout which have been amazingly plentiful in the rivers and from the bridges are still unbelievably populous, and even the surf, which has been on the poor side in recent weeks, is a bonanza for the fishermen along the shoreline.

Outside, for those lucky enough to get on a boat and fish the deep waters, the kings are also doing their best to make the anglers happy.

At the Snook Nook, Tommy Stewart reports that Greg Hardwick came in with a 32 pound kingfish, caught six miles out of the inlet on ballyhoo. And Howard Byers, Aaron Johnson and Marvin Mainer brought in six dolphin and four Spanish mackerel on ballyhoo and jigs. Another great offshore catch was made by Mike Brady, Phil Brady and Dick Wisner, who were out with Capt. Monty Gorsdorf. They brought in four kingfish within total weight of 150 pounds, on mullet.

In the surf, Joe Monty caught 21 whiting on cut mackerel; Tom Walton and Bill Bradshaw caught 25 blues and 16 whiting in the surf on shrimp and mackerel; Mark Laurence and Andy Gorsdorf bagged nine sheepshead out of the river on crabs, and Ed Wagner and Charlie Areni got 13 trout out of the river on Trout Touts.

Two of the biggest whiting catches out of the surf over the weekend were made by Bill Bradshaw, who caught 48, and Peg and Steve Wallers, who got 52, both on cut shrimp.

Andy, over at Jensen Bait and Tackle, tells us that Ted Goersbner landed a four pound trout on a lure, south of Jensen Beach; Steve Lydon got seven trout off the Ten Cent (Evans Crary) Bridge on Trout Tout, and Rob and Brad Burgess bagged seven sheepshead, 15 small sand perch and a grouper out of the river, on cut bait.

Dickerson Wins Job for Turnpike Work

A 22 mile section of the Florida Turnpike, from SR 76 (Okeechobee Road) in Fort Pierce to the Indian River County line, is scheduled soon for repair and some resurfacing.

Dickerson, Inc. of Monroe, N.C., which has branch facilities in Stuart, was the low bidder for the job. The bid submitted by Dickerson was $1,978,000, and the State Department of Transportation recently awarded the contract for that work to Dickerson.

The work will include removing some of the existing asphalt, adding some new asphalt and installing reflective pavement markers.

MC writers elect officers

The appointment of the annual officers was the highlight of a recent meeting of the Martin County Writers Association.

The group meets regularly on the first and third Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. until noon in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings & Loan Assoc. of Martin County, Jensen Beach.

Those appointed include Donald Mills, president; Barbara Mauszewski, vice president; Trudi Ward, recording secretary; Faye McKenzie, corresponding secretary; Ella Donaldson, treasurer and Janis Forni, publicity secretary.

All writers are welcome at the meetings.

Lotsof knew true lot size before purchase

BY BOB FRYER

Before he ever purchased it, Abner Lotsof knew the lot he was buying was 75 feet wide instead of 80 feet wide.

About that, both Lotsof and Sun Realty representative Edis Rogers, who sold him the lot, agree.

But during a lengthy Planning and Zoning Board meeting discussion concerning the lot on Dec. 18th, Lotsof never clearly stated that he knew before he bought the lot that it was 75 feet wide instead of 80 feet wide. In fact, at one point in the discussion, Lotsof told the board, "It seems when I bought the lot, I was told the lot was 80 (feet) by 125 (feet). This is the average. And when we came to look at the platting I discovered it was 74 feet. We had already made plans for the lot."

Lotsof appeared at the Planning and Zoning Board to seek a variance to a city law that requires the sides of all homes to be at least 10 feet from the side lot lines. Lotsof sought the variance so he could place a 57-foot, four-inch wide home on his lot. In a seven to two vote, the Planning and Zoning Board recommended that the city council approve the variance. The next morning, the council granted the variance.

A story in the Dec. 21 issue of The Port St. Lucie Mirror noted that at the board meeting, Lotsof said that when he bought the lot he had twice been assured by Mrs. Rogers that the lot was 80 by 125 feet.

After reading the story, Mrs. Rogers called The Mirror on Dec 21 to say the story was inaccurate. She said that she did sell Lotsof the lot (located adjacent to the Viking's Landing entrance) and that when she originally showed the Lotsofs the lot, she told them it was 80 by 125.

She said a contract for the lot sale was prepared, then Lotsof asked if she would check the size of the lot to be sure of its dimensions.

Mrs. Rogers said Lotsof called the office while she was out, but that Sun Realty employee Duane Helderman informed the Lotsofs that the check revealed the lot was 75 by 125.

They (the Lotsofs) called me at home and I told them the contract had not been sent in yet. I told them I was sorry for the error and that I would not send in the contract if they didn't want me to. I asked them several times if they wanted to get out of the lot deal. They did not want to get out of it though because I got them an excellent price. They were tickled to death with the lot," Mrs. Rogers said.

A short time later, on Dec. 21, Lotsof called The Mirror. He commented "You people left out a couple of paragraphs," and went on to say that he did get two assurances from Mrs. Rogers that the lot was 80 feet wide before he learned it was 75 feet wide. But he characterized the discrepancy between the 80 foot width and 75 foot width as "an honest mistake".

At the planning and zoning board meeting, Lotsof had said, "I was misled."

Lotsof said during his Dec. 21 phone conversation with this reporter that he understood why Mrs. Rogers would have first thought the lot was 80 feet wide because nearly all General Development Corporation lots in the city are 80 by 125. He indicated that he did not mean to imply blame against Mrs. Rogers and he confirmed that he was given the opportunity to back out of the lot purchase before he went ahead and bought it.

The problem of having house plans too big for the lot, then, was not created because Lotsof thought his lot was wider than it actually was when he bought it. When he bought the lot, he knew its true size. But before he bought the lot, he said, he had already made a deposit to a contractor for building a home on the lot. And he had already picked out the home plan he wanted. He noted that since he has been originally led to believe the lot was 80 feet wide, Sun Realty agreed to pay for the fee for him to seek the variance.

Elizabeth Arnold and Peter Paul Rice, Jr. wed at St. Albans

Miss Elizabeth Camou Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Reilly Jr. of Kirtland, Ohio, became the bride of Peter Paul Rice, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Paul Rice, Sr. of Bethesda, Maryland and Port St. Lucie on November 25, 1978 in a candlelight ceremony in St. Albans Episcopal Church in Washington, D.C.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Thomas Blackmon, formerly of Stuart. A wedding reception was held at the Columbia Country Club, Chevy Chase, Maryland following the ceremony.

Carrying a cascade of white roses and baby's breath, the bride wore her mother's traditional wedding gown of candlelight satin with seed pearls. A tortoise camb held the Spanish Lace mantilla, a heirloom of her grandmothers. Miss Marcia Arnold, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the groom's brother, Terry Van Norman Rice, was best man. Miss Arnold and the four bridesmaids, Mrs. Terry Van Norman Rice, Mrs. Peter J. Wright, Mrs. Chester Blackey and Miss Nancy Hostetler were beautifully gowned in Claret Red velvet and each carried a single red rose. Ushers were Michael Hertz, Richard Creamer, Patrick Gardner and Nicholas Kirsch. The bride's niece and nephew, Jennifer Reilly and Hazen arnold III. were flower girl and ring bearer.

Mrs. Rice graduated from Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. She recently completed a program in para-legal studies at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

The couple plan an extensive honeymoon in the Yucatan, Mexico City, the Bahamas, and in Port St. Lucie, before their return to their home on the Chesapeake Bay in Maryland.

PSL Republican Club Plans Surprise Dinner

Nick Sabatto, president, and Ann Decker, vice president, of the Port St. Lucie Republican Club announce the general meeting and January Surprise Dinner will be held at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on West Prima Vista Boulevard on Thursday, January 4, at 6 p.m.

You'll want to be present for a super delicious January Surprise Dinner and a super good January Surprise Program.

Dinner committee chairman Don Porter promises you'll be delighted and Calling Committee Chairman Liz Perez and her committee will be calling to advise club members of all details.

We urge all club members to plan attending and remind them reservations must be made and tickets purchased in advance no later than Tuesday, January 2.

Tickets are available from Ann Decker 465-2710, Don Porter 878-2228, Dr. Claude Grizzell 878-1366, and Nick Sabetto 878-0194.

Members may bring guests.

Sign up now for sewing class

Now is the time to register for an evening Sewing Class at the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

The class, for a maximum of 30 students, will be for 15 weeks at 7:00 p.m., beginning Wednesday, January 3, according to Center Office Manager Helen Ingram (878-1388 or 1389).

Sessions are two and one-half hours each, with registration fee due by January 3. "Sign up soon to be sure of a spot in this first evening sewing class at the Center. It's only $5.00 for the entire 15 week class and you'll learn a lot of new things about sewing from instructor Fran Gudmundsen," Mrs. Ingram urged.

Tigers lose-others prepare for tourneys

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Santa is hard at work cleaning his sleigh and resting his reindeer after a long journey last Sunday night; his elves have packed it in for another ten months; and, my oh my, the Martin County Tigers have finally lost.

The localers, now 9-1, were defeated in the final of the Orlando Sentinel-Star basketball tournament by the Cocoa High School Tigers, who themselves have lost only once and were once ranked number one in the AAA poll.

Martin County's defeat only serves to further entangle the pollsters. Also falling under the stampede of Cocoa at last week was number one AAAA Orlando Evans, leaving number three Clearwater as the only logical contestant to the top position.

Had the (MCHS) Tigers been able to stop the Orlando tournament, a spot at the top of the AAAA ratings would have been easily theirs. But after three overtimes, and the second longest game in the history of the tournament, Cocoa had prevailed 58-57.

The defeat followed a pair of narrow victories, a 60-57 win over Winter Park, and a 68-63 conquest of Orlando Edgewater.

Martin County, which can't be expected to lose too much ground in the AAAA poll because of Cocoa's strength and respectability, now heads to St. Petersburg, where they will compete in the Roy King-Sunshine Classic.

And the competition? You guessed it. Clearwater enters the picture, as does last week's number one ranked AAA squad, Riviera Beach-Suncoast. In addition, Fort Lauderdale Nova and St. Petersburg Northeast will be in the eight-team classic.

SUNCOAST has since lost, bowing in overtime to WPB-Twin Lakes, 64-62, in the second round of the Palm Beach Times-Holiday Classic. This stunning result preserved Twin Lakes' undefeated status, if only for a night, but the Rams lost to Glades Central 52-50 in the semi-finals.

In the 16-team tournament, North Shore (8-2) emerged as the champion for the second consecutive season, as the Mustangs won the title game 57-51 over Glades Central. The Raiders (7-2) had lost only to Martin County before the North Shore game, and had defeated Deerfield Beach (70-60), Pahokee (66-63), and Twin Lakes in the prior rounds of the Christmas Classic.

The Mustangs had to fight their way past Forest Hill (63-49), Fort Lauderdale Piper (69-68 in overtime), and undefeated John I. Leonard (55-54) before downing Glades in the final.

Leonard and Suncoast had been expected to meet in the final, but North Shore, whose two losses came early in the season to a pair of number one ranked teams, Orlando Evans and Ocala Vanguard, stopped the Lancer 10-game winning streak when Derek Harper (the tourney's MVP) drove through the lane and scored on a layup with five seconds left in the game.

Surprising Twin Lakes, who must play Martin County in Stuart February 9, and in West Palm Beach January 16, got Suncoast's standout guard Anthony Carter in foul trouble and finally out of the game before the two teams battled into overtime. The Carterless Chargers (now 6-1) were no match for the Rams, who came out of the tournament with a 5-1 mark.

HERE'S THE WAY THE TOURNAMENT LOOKED:

FIRST ROUND--Pahokee 82 Towson (Maryland) Catholic 73; Twin Lakes 71 Live Oak-Suwanee County 52; Suncoast 70 Lake Worth 33; Leonard 61 Fort Lauderdale High 50; Palm Beach Gardens 77 Key West 54; North Shore 63 Forest Hill 49, Piper 83 Okeechobee 73.

QUARTER-FINALS--Twin Lakes 64 Suncoast 62 (ot); Glades Central 66 Pahokee 63; North Shore 69 Piper 66 (ot); Leonard 82 Gardens 50.

SEMI-FINALS--Glades Central 52 Twin Lakes 50; North Shore 55 Leonard 54.

FINAL--North Shore 57 Glades Central 51.

This tournament, although not involving any of the Fort Pierce or Martin County teams, was of extreme interest to the local area, because it showed exactly which teams have the strength to compete in the Suncoast Conference this season. Martin County plays a total of nine games against the eight teams that advanced past the first round, and fifteen of their twenty-nine games during the season are against teams entered in the tournament.

MEANWHILE, in Fort Pierce, John Carroll will host a Christmas tournament this weekend, featuring six teams, including one from Carbondale, Pennsylvania.

The Rams, 4-3 entering the tournament, could well be the favorite to win the event. Led by forwards Joe Paschal and Larry Kosakowski, guards Malcolm Delancy (from Jensen Beach) and Anthony Crocco, and center Karl Heffelfinger, the Rams have been playing exceptionally strong basketball since a dismal performance against Pahokee two weeks ago, their last loss.

Tonight's matchups for the tournament include: Orlando Bishop Moore vs. Lakeland Santa Fe at 7 p.m., and Daytona Beach Father Lopez vs. Melbourne Central Catholic at 8:30 p.m.

Tomorrow night (Friday), John Carroll will meet the winner of the Father Lopez-MCC game at 9:30 p.m., while Sacred Heart, the team from Pennsylvania, plays the Bishop Moore-Santa Fe victor at 8 p.m. In the preliminary, the two losers of the first round games Thursday night will meet for fifth-place honors.

The championship game is Saturday night at 8:30 p.m., at the John Carroll gymnasium. The gym can be reached by traveling north on US1 to Virginia Avenue in Fort Pierce; west to 25th Street; north to Delaware Avenue; and west one mile. The school is on the right.

Fort Pierce Central will compete in the eight-team Melbourne Optimist tournament tonight (Thursday) through Saturday. Central's first round opponent had not been determined at press time, but the favorite will certainly be Miami Central, the defending AAAA state champions.

THE MATCHUPS FOR THE Roy King-Sunshine Classic this weekend, featuring Martin County, will be:

Wednesday, December 27 (last night)--St. Petersburg Dixie Hollins vs. Riviera Suncoast; Clearwater vs. Tallahassee Godby; Manatee vs. Martin County; St. Petersburg Northeast vs. Fort Lauderdale Nova

Thursday, December 28 (tonight)--Dixie Hollins-Suncoast winner vs. Clearwater-Godby victor; Manatee-MCHS survivor vs. Northeast-Nova winner

Friday, December 29--Final game, featuring the winners of Thursday night's games

McCaughey, Wright are all-academic

The 1978 Fall Sports All-Academic high school teams were announced last week, and two familiar faces from the Martin County football Tigers were on the list.

Quarterback David McCaughey, a 5'11" junior, made the All-Academic offense of the football team, while defensive tackle Greg Wright made the defense.

McCaughey, who directed the Tiger offense to 2 points during the season, including a 22-21 conquest of arch-rival Fort Pierce Central, the first victory for the Tigers in the history of the series, joined three other area quarterbacks -- Todd Neal of North Palm Beach-Benjamin, Danny Barrett of Suncoast East champion Lake Worth, and Ronnie Osborne of Pahokee -- in the backfield of the squad.

Wright joined Lake Worth's Mark McConkey, Glades Day's Jon Scruggs and Pahokee's Osmond Edwards on the defensive line

COPING WITH INFLATION

QUESTION: What do you think of life insurance as an investment?

ANSWER: I don't consider life insurance to be an investment. I have always recommended that prospective investors first establish adequate term life insurance coverage to handle the problems created by death, but to cope with living problems they should look to true equity investment forms such as real estate or stocks.

Certain policies provide "living insurance" under which the company will promise to pay you back a set amount of dollars while you are still living--to create, in effect, an annuity. And they will pay you these dollars exactly as promised. The only problem is that the value of the dollars you receive in the future year will be seriously eroded by inflation.

If you arrange to receive $6,000 a year to send your son or daughter through college, you will receive $6 000 but to your surprise you may find that the tuition will cost over $15,000 per year.

If you have a policy that will pay an annuity of $200 per week, you will receive exactly that amount, but when you look around at what that $200 per week will pay for, you may be surprised. With daily hospital costs pegged at $400 and other costs correspondingly increased, you will wish that in 1978 you had looked carefully into equity forms of investment such as real estate.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-8747, or stop by:

GREAT BALANCE--Teachers Kathy King and Kay Hughes were the standbys last week, for the lithe young gymnastics students at Jensen Beach Elementary School. Tigers lose-others prepare for tourneys

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Santa is hard at work cleaning his sleigh and resting his reindeer after a long journey last Sunday night; his elves have packed it in for another ten months; and, my oh my, the Martin County Tigers have finally lost.

The localers, now 9-1, were defeated in the final of the Orlando Sentinal-Star basketball tournament by the Cocoa High School Tigers, who themselves have lost only twice and were once ranked number one in the AAA poll.

Martin County's defeat only serves to further entangle the pollsters. Also falling under the stampede of Cocoa last week was number one AAAA Orlando Evans, leaving number three Clearwater as the only logical claimant to the top position.

Had the (MCHS) Tigers been able to win the Orlando tournament, a spot at the top of the AAAA ratings would have been easily theirs. But after three overtimes, and the second longest game in the history of the tournament, Cocoa had prevailed 68-57.

The defeat followed a pair of narrow victories, a 60-57 win over Winter Park, and a 66-63 conquest of Orlando Edgewater.

Martin County, which can't be expected to lose too much ground in the AAAA poll because of Cocoa's strength and respectability, now heads to St. Petersburg, where they will compete in the Roy King Sunshine Classic.

And the competition? You guessed it. Clearwater enters the picture, as does last week's number one ranked AAA squad, Riviera Beach-Suncoast. In addition, Fort Lauderdale Novaand St. Petersburg Northeast will be in the eight-team classic.

SUNCOAST has since lost, bowing in overtime to WPB-Twin Lakes, 64-62, in the second round of the Palm Beach Times-Holiday Classic. This stunning result preserved Twin Lakes' undefeated status, if only for a night, but the Rams lost to Glades Central 52-50 in the semi-finals.

In the 16-team tournament, North Shore (8-2) emerged as the champion for the second consecutive season, as the Mustangs won the title game 57-51 over Glades Central. The Raiders (7-2) had lost only to Martin County before the North Shore game, and had defeated Deerfield Beach (70-50), Pahokee (66-63), and Twin Lakes in the prior rounds of the Christmas Classic.

The Mustangs had to fight their way past Forest Hill (63-49), Fort Lauderdale Piper (69-66 in overtime), and undefeated John I. Leonard (55-54) before downing Glades in the final.

Leonard and Suncoast had been expected to meet in the final, but North Shore, whose two losses came early in the season to a pair of number one ranked teams, Orlando Evans and Ocala Vanguard, stopped the Lancer 10-game winning streak when Derek Harper (the tourney's MVP) drove through the lane and scored on a layup with five seconds left in the game.

Surprising Twin Lakes, who must play Martin County in Stuart February 9, and in West Palm Beach January 16, got Suncoast's standout guard Anthony Carter in foul trouble and finally out of the game before the two teams battled into overtime. The Carterless Chargers (now 8-1) were no match for the Rams, who came out of the tournament with a 5-1 mark.

HERE'S THE WAY THE TOURNAMENT LOOKED:

FIRST ROUND--Pahokee 82 Towson (Maryland) Catholic 75; Twin Lakes 71 Live Oak-Suwanee County 52; Suncoast 70 Lake Worth 52; Leonard 61 Fort Lauderdale High 59; Palm Beach Gardens 77 Key West 54, North Shore 63 Forest Hill 49; Piper 83 Okeechobee 23.

QUARTER-FINALS--Twin Lakes 64 Suncoast 62 (ot); Glades Central 66 Pahokee 63; North Shore 69 Piper 66 (ot); Leonard 82 Gardens 50.

SEMI-FINALS--Glades Central 52 Twin Lakes 50; North Shore 55 Leonard 54.

FINAL--North Shore 57 Glades Central 51.

This tournament, although not involving any of the Fort Pierce or Martin County teams, was of extreme interest to the local area, because it showed exactly which teams have the strength to compete in the Suncoast Conference this season. Martin County plays a total of nine games against the eight teams that advanced past the first round, and fifteen of their twenty-nine games during the season are against teams entered in the tournament.

MEANWHILE, in Fort Pierce, John Carroll will host a Christmas tournament this weekend, featuring six teams, including one from Carbondale, Pennsylvania.

The Rams, 4-2 entering the tournament, could well be the favorite to win the event. Led by forwards Joe Paschal and Larry Kosakowski, guards Malcolm Delancy (from Jensen Beach) and Anthony Crocco, and center Karl Helfelfinger, the Rams have been playing exceptionally strong basketball since a dismal performance against Pahokee two weeks ago, their last loss.

Tonight's matchups for the tournament include: Orlando Bishop Moore vs. Lakeland Santa Fe at 7 p.m., and Daytona Beach Father Lopez vs. Melbourne Central Catholic at 8:30 p.m.

Tomorrow night (Friday), John Carroll will meet the winner of the Father Lopez-MCC game at 9:30 p.m., while Sacred Heart, the team from Pennsylvania, plays the Bishop Moore-Santa Fe victor at 8 p.m. In the preliminary, the two losers of the first round games Thursday night will meet for fifth-place honors.

The championship game is Saturday night at 8:30 p.m., at the John Carroll gymnasium. The gym can be reached by traveling north on US1 to Virginia Avenue in Fort Pierce; west to 25th Street; north to Delaware Avenue; and west one mile. The school is on the right.

Fort Pierce Central will compete in the eight-team Melbourne Optimist tournament tonight (Thursday) through Saturday. Central's first round opponent had not been determined at press time, but the favorite will certainly be Miami Central, the defending AAAA state champions.

THE MATCHUPS FOR THE Roy King-Sunshine Classic this weekend, featuring Martin County, will be:

Wednesday, December 27 (last night) -St. Petersburg Dixie Hollins vs. Riviera Suncoast. Clearwater vs. Tallahassee Godby; Manatee vs. Martin County; St. Petersburg Northeast vs. Fort Lauderdale Nova.

Thursday, December 28 (tonight)--Dixie Hollins-Suncoast winner vs. Clearwater-Godby victor; Manatee-MCHS survivor vs. Northeast-Nova winner.

Friday, December 29--Final game, featuring the winners of Thursday night's games.

The 1978 Fall Sports All-Academic high school teams were announced last week, and two familiar faces from the Martin County football Tigers were on the list.

Quarterback David McCaughey, a 5'11" junior, made the All-Academic offense of the football team, while defensive tackle Greg Wright made the defense.

McCaughey, who directed the Tiger offense to 2 points during the season, including a 22-21 conquest of arch-rival Fort Pierce Central, the first victory for the Tigers in the history of the series, joined three other area quarterbacks - Todd Neal of North Palm Beach-Benjamin, Danny Barrett of Suncoast East champion Lake Worth, and Ronnie Osborne of Pahokee - in the backfield of the squad.

Wright joined Lake Worth's Mark McConkey, Glades Day's Joe Scruggs and Pahokee's Osmond Edwards on the defensive line.

COPING WITH INFLATION

QUESTION: What do you think of life insurance as an investment?

ANSWER: I don't consider life insurance to be an investment. I have always recommended that prospective investors first establish adequate term life insurance coverage to handle the problems created by death, but to cope with living problems they should look to true equity investment forms such as real estate or stocks.

Certain policies provide "living insurance" under which the company will promise to pay you back a set amount of dollars while you are still living--to create, in effect, an annuity. And they will pay you these dollars exactly as promised. The only problem is that the value of the dollars you receive in the future year will be seriously eroded by inflation.

If you arrange to receive $6,000 a year to send your son or daughter through college, you will receive $6,000 but to your surprise you may find that the tuition will cost over $15,000 per year.

If you have a policy that will pay an annuity of $200 per week, you will receive exactly that amount, but when you look around at what that $200 per week will pay for, you may be surprised. With daily hospital costs pegged at $400 and other costs correspondingly increased, you will wish that in 1978 you had looked carefully into equity forms of investment such as real estate?

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-9747, or stop by:

A TUNEFUL TURNON–The fourth graders at Jensen Beach Elementary School filled the stage and the hearts of fellow students and parents on Thursday, with a rollicking Christmas pageant. The music, much of it original and very clever, was written by music teacher Delores Daniels, at piano, and the stage setting was designed and executed by art teacher Peggy Smith and her students. It was a triumphal prelude to the Christmas vacation the children are now enjoying.(Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Dale Hudson named 1st National President

DALE HUDSON, a lifelong resident of Stuart and son of the founder of First National Bank and Trust of Stuart, was elevated from senior vice president to president in an election by the board of directors of that institution on Dec 12.

Dale M. Hudson, a lifelong resident of Stuart and son of the founder of First National Bank and Trust of Stuart, was elevated from senior vice president to president in an election by the board of directors of that institution on Dec.12.

The new president has been with First National for 22 years. A veteran of the U.S.Navy, Hudson attended the University of Florida. An active leader in community affairs, he served as Martin Memorial Hospital fall chairman in 1976, and is currently vice chairman of the MMH advisory board.

He is a former vice president of the Stuart Chamber of Commerce; senior warden in St.Mary's Episcopal Church, and a trustee and former chairman of the St. Michael School board of trustees. He is also treasurer for the annual Blessing of the Fleet. He is active in the Florida Bankers' Association.

Others elected to the board of directors are local businessman Jeffrey C. Bruner, Charles P. McLeod, executive vice president of the bank, and Dennis S. Hudson, II, loan officer, who was named secretary of the board.

First National Bank is Martin County's oldest and largest bank. It has assets of nearly $150 million.

SMS remains unbeaten

STUART–Mike Bethel followed a 17-point performance with a 28-point evening as Stuart Middle School knocked off Murray Middle 58-52 in an exciting junior high school game.

The victory kept the Jaguars (3-0) undefeated, while Murray's Lions have yet to win. They are 0-2.

SMS led after the first period 15-10, tied at the half, 31-21. Murray began to show signs of life in the third period, but the Jaguars stayed even and still led by ten, 44-43, after the third quarter.

IN GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL action, Fort Pierce Central came up with a brilliant fourth quarter defensive effort en route to a 29-20 victory over St. John Carroll.

The win gave the Lady Cobras the championship in the Cobra Invitational for Girls, played at the Central gym last Tuesday.

Mina Mack's six final stanza points led the Cobras on a charge which saw them storm back from a third quarter deficit.

Lisa Tetsworth led the second-ranked AA Carrollers with 12 points, but the Rams, who led 18-17 entering the fourth quarter, scored only two points the rest of the evening.

Chris Flinn's 12 points led Central.

In first round games held earlier in the day, Central edged WPB Cardinal Newman 41-39, while Carroll squeaked by Westwood 33-30. Newman came back to take third place, 54-40, over Westwood.

A beautiful Christmas party

The Treasure Coast Congregate meals Christmas Party, Fri. Dec. 22 at Langford Field gave proof that the elderly can forget their inflation and health cost troubles, when given a chance. This party was such a good example of how the seniors can work together to make an event that was truly delightful (for them all, it will be described in some detail.

The hall was beautifully trimmed by Dorris Walker, mgr, Betty Mattix, ass t mgr, and willing helpers Ella Lee and Fran Runyan. There were wreaths, lights and tinsel on the walls, small lighted trees on piano and corner tables, main tables were decked with holly center pieces and individual place cards. It was festive just to look at.

The folks came early and soon there wasn't a seat to spare (even with 18 extra meals supplied by Arlen Fletcher, project director. The hubbub was deafening, as greetings went from table to table, but at 2 p.m. sharp the band struck up a lively "Jingle Bells" and the party was "off". The band consisted of Connie Betsch, piano; Marion Ross, banjo; Dick Aumiller, Banjo, Elliott Arluck, sax; Allen Betsch, drums.

The snappy music had the seniors tickling up their heels, from a dreamy waltz to a peppy Jessica Polka, even the shyest of shy joined to make dance around the tables. Then, a group came forward to lead in the carol singing, which got better and better as they found that their voices were almost as good as 50 years ago. To top of the singing Ralph Ortt sang some of the best known carols. And, before they realized, it was 4 p.m. and time to serve the meal, so the bank was given a standing ovation for such sparkling, foot tapping music.

During one intermission, many many door prizes supplied by Dorris and others were drawn and winners proundly showed their gifts to the others. Also, Santa left some special gifts and the members saw to it that Doris and Betty were not forgotten.

The meal was equal to the festive occasion, it consisted of slice of roast turkey, mashed potatoes, dressing, gravy, cranberry sauce, 3 bean salad, hard roll, , butter, mince pie, tea, coffee, milk and an extra cherry cobbler, supplied by Dorris. It can be well imagined how the seniors enjoyed this grand meal and to top it off, they were given super-supper bags for Christmas day, as no meal was to be served Monday.

For next few days, whenever participant met participant it was, "that's the best time I've had in years, forgot what fun it was to get together," even some remarked. "If there is that kind of spontaneous gaity, without any alcoholic beverage, with a few drinks the roof would have blown off." Most seniors have found they can make their own delightful fun without "don't drive" stimulants. This was just one wonderful affair for the seniors, and they will tell you so.

MCCA (Martin County Council on Aging) is also going to help seniors with a Christmas celebration for they deliver a special Meals on Wheels dinner on Monday, then they have prepared 50 baskets of Goodies and necessities, that will be given out as needed. For information 283-2242

The December "Community Health Notes" confirms what the seniors have suspected. Medical health costs are still increasing 50 to 100 percent faster than the general cost of living, going up 200 percent since 1965, while the cost of living has only gone up 65 percent.

However this issue does give the seniors a gleam of help as it points out that the tremendous health insurance costs have become more than business and industry can cope with. They can no longer past the increases on to the customers without risk to sales and profits. There they are now getting together through U.S. Chamber of Commerce to strive for Comprehensive Health Cost Containment Program." A letter to U.S. "C of " Washington, D.C. might help

There's a lull in activites over the holidays, so we have a chance to look back and see where we have come from and what we have accomplished

December 27, 1975: Seniors were bothered with inflation, could not understand $30 toys when 5 & 10's best was good enough for them. Card party in Harry Hoke Room use Riverside parking. There will be a Health Panel at the January meeting at the Community Church.

December 22, 1976. Inflation main concern of the seniors. Some working in local markets to help cope with skyrocketing food costs. At DEcember meeting, Dale Cassens officiated at the Installation and the Sailfish Sweet Adelines provided the entertainment. A Money Tree was donated by Edith Hill and won By Dan Picciulo with a beautiful poinsetta was won by Betty Sharp (a guest from N.J.) and finally, crips $1 bills were won by Ruth Pilkington, Mary Coughlin, Mrs. and Mrs. G.T. Gale, Arnout Hill and Mike Mann. Then this was the start of that Membership-Mirror deal (both for the regular price of the Mirror).

December 21, 1977. Returning snowbirds continue to rave about the wonderful Senior Centers they have in New Hampshire, New Jersey, Michigan, Tennessee, etc. The MacDonald coupon deal started about this time. Coupon worth $1 at MacDonalds were sold for $1 but were redeemed at 50 cents to the 5,000 tickets sold netted AARP & MCCA $2500.

The Free Blood Pressure, Martin County Health Dept. Clinic at Langford Field is proving to be very successful with 40 attending. Congregate Meal was having some growing pains, as Arlene Fletcher, Treasure coast Project Director explained that it was in no way a pauper program; all seniors rich and poor were qualified if they needed a good hot meal with congenial folks. Dale Cassen again conducted the installation ceremony. One table bazaar at back of hall netted $175. The Jungle Cruise is a sell out.

That is what the AAR ers were doing in yester year about this time. It looks like Card Parties never made it, but all other activities have survived to 1978, and inflation has always been worrying the seniors. So, let us proceed, with a Happy New Year ahead.

LETTERS FROM AARPERS

One past president wrote to another. Joe Paterson of Loconia, N.H. wrote recently saying some nice thing about the Golden Eagle and how it is passed around, until their District Officer gets it and says it is a terrific job (we sure like to hear from them, when they have such nice things to say. Then Joe says chapter has slipped. Can't get anyone to work (we thought that was just a southern problem). Regards to inflation, he suggests reading, "Australia Turnaround" in the December American Legion Magazine, explaining how in 6 years they have reduced inflation from 20 percent to 5.2 percent. Tell your Congressman.

RIVERSIDE VILLAGE

BY M JOHNSON

Santa lives in Riverside ! even caught myself waving hello to him as he drove by in his modern method of transportation-the auto.

Mr. Gus Schoenberg of 4th St. is Santa Claus. The week of Dec.18 he was playing the role he enjoys and has been playing Santa since his grandchildren started arriving in 1957. Tuesday evening he entertained the Environmental Rehabilitation children of Ft. Pierce at their Christmas party. Gus will also be Santa at our own Christmas party in Riverside Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlon King from Pulaski, N.Y., stopped in to visit Mr. and Mrs. Remi Rothy. Mrs. King is their niece. Mr. King is attending a business meeting at the Breakers in

Mrs. Gert Hume of 4th St. entertained Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bigham, Mr. and Mrs. D.L. White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Finella for Mr. Finella's birthday last Friday night.

Ocean Breeze: an idea come of age

BY SALLY LATHAM

In 1908, former advertising man Harry Hoke and his family came to Jensen Beach on invitation of some old friends.

They saw scraggly acres of sand, sawgrass and palmetto. They encountered an atmosphere so thick with mosquitoes you had to cut your way through with a machete.

Harry Hoke also saw a wonderland of natural beauty, stretching its way elegantly along the banks of the lovely Indian River. And he found some of the best fishing God ever provided for man.

In 1938, Harry returned, and the first seeds of a trailer town were sown.

With Harry and his lovely wife Queenie were sons Gene and Dick, able-bodied young men capable of providing the back-power for tackling the job of clearning the tract of land Harry had purchased, with the plan of establishing a fishing camp.

The only building on the acreage fronting on the river were an old house and a small garage. They knocked a hole in the side of the latter, to convert it to an office.

In 1938, for Florida, it was just another depression year, and word got around about jobs that might be opening up for men to feed their hungry families on. Hence, help was not hard to come by.

"That first morning," Gene Hoke recalls, "six blacks were leaning up against the shack, ready to go to work."

In that single day, the land was cleared for the fishing camp. The Hokes bedded their trailer down on it that night.

Trailer camping was nothing new to the Hoke family. Natives of Van Wert, Ohio, they too had been depression victims.

"Harry went broke like everybody else," his son Gene told The Mirror. "When I got out of high school, dad went into the flag and bunting business, doing the decorations for fairs and conventions. We traveled all summer, all over the country."

It was such a convention that brought the Hoke entourage down into Florida, and ultimately to Jensen Beach. Harry had heard about a possible job in Tampa. It fell through, but along the way they met their friends the Martins in Englewood, and through them, Harry learned about the beauties of the Jensen area.

The next year, they came back to fish here with the Martins, and the following year, 1938, they came back to stay.

Although Harry Hoke always was a man with big ideas, he little dreamed, in that first season, that his Ocean Breeze Fishing Camp would ever grow up to be a complete, self-contained incorporated town.

"We had 42 trailers the first year," Gene said. "We thought that was doing pretty good."

Of course, as anyone with memories of Florida of the pre-air-conditioning era will tell you, few stayed more than a month or two during the winter. Between the heat and the mosquitoes, the only summer survivors were the commercial fishermen and the pioneer families whose lifelong exposure to both had made them immune.

The came World War II and its strange aftermath that changed the way of life for a post-war generation. Before the war, trailers were really that--for the most part small mobile "tin cans" that rated socially with gypsy wagons.

"We used to hook up in the back of a gas station, and use their bathroom facilities," Gene remembers.

After the war, however, GIs were coming back to civilian life and going to college on their GI bills. College-town housing facilities became non-existent, and as a result, intellectually-oriented trailer villages m ushroomed up around campuses. The image began to change.

Then air conditioning became a household word, and trailers became something to live in, not just to camp in. The scatterfooted trailer came of age, and changed her name to Mobile Home.

Ocean Breeze was among the first "mobile home communities" to flourish along the Treasure Coast, largely because of Harry Hoke's advertising genius. His pamphlets extolling the virtues of the area went out all over the country. But better, those earliest residents--many of whom came in 1938 and kept returning--went north every summer, and simply by singing the praises of their great winter community drew more and more people each year.

Pay a visit to almost any given street full of happy residents and nine out of ten will tell you:

"I came here to visit friends--and decided to stay."

Harry's son Gene, who with his wife Ruth are now owners, Mayor and First Lady, is a little vague about the reasons behind the move to incorporate as a separate community within a community, but incorporate they did. The Town of Ocean Breeze was born Nov. 12, 1960, and as such, immediately received the nation's eye.

The main reason for all the nationwide attention was the fact it was only the second such "trailer town" in the country to incorporate as a municipal entity. Big stories about Ocean Breeze appeared in the Chicago Daily News and three national mobile home periodicals, the Mobile Home Journal, Travel Trailer Magazine and Trailer Topics.

The people attracted to this snug little town which has its own sewage system, post office, laundries, and broad recreation program are as interesting and diverse as the shole Treasure Coast area's populace.

"We have several millionaires," said Ruth Hoke, who serves as combination housemother and recreation director for the whole community. "Many of the residents have spent more money on their mobile homes than they paid for their homes in the north."

The mere fact that they can afford to maintain two homes and have exclusive use of them both bespeaks the affluence of most of the residents. Ruth was still sputtering over an article appearing in an area paper which implied that Ocean Breezers were near-indigent recipients of welfare handouts.

A tour of the community with Ruth proved that, indeed, Ocean Breeze people are interesting, and friendly. Like the writer, who with his wife has toured the world, and whose spacious, double-wide home is filled with intriguing travel relics--like the clever caricaturist whose artistic hand has gotten to the heart of the life in the village--like the beautiful ballerina whose background includes a colorful New York career.

In those 675 mobile homes, there are 675 stories to fill several worthwhile volumes.

It's a lovely way of life, they'll tell you. As one artistic resident told The Mirror.

"We travel all over the northwest and Canada during the summer, but it's always wonderful to get back here to out home again. This is where our friends are."

OCEAN BREEZE TODAY--If you have the opportunity to view Ocean Breeze from the air, you can understand that it is full- literally. As pictured, the incorporated mobile home town extends from the Florida East Coast Railroad to the Indian River, and from First Federal Savings and Loan to the Environmental Studies Center. At the back, along the railroad track, it has mushroomed to the south past the Royal Poinciana Cottages. (Aerial photo by Richard Campbell)

Name your game--you'll find it at OBP

If you're in the mood for cards or games of any kind, you'll find partners in the Ocean Breeze card room, beside the bank of shuffleboard courts.

The attractive multi-purpose building, where bridge, 500, rummy or pinochle may be going on any time of the day, is a point of pride with the residents because it was the handiwork of several of their number.

In the early days of the park, such activities were centered in the large hall which was the original recreation building. But by the mid-fifties, the diversity of uses to which the building was being put made it necessary to put in reservations in advance.

In 1955, the bridge, pinochle, 500 and cribbage clubs got together and approached the management with a proposition: you supply the materials, and we'll build it. Management agreed. That attractive building which now serves the purpose was built by all volunteer labor.

The park has also engendered its own experts at teaching beginners to play. Over the past years, top-ranked bridge players have come forward to instruct, especially in duplicate bridge. Ruth Hoke says the man who has been teaching most recently is bowing out, but she's confident that another will step forward to take his place.

THE KING AND HIS QUEENIE--The late Harry Hoke and his lovely wife Queenie were the beloved and universally popular reigning royalty at all the square dances, during the years before their death. Harry, an inna inate salesman, sold his community on life in Ocean Breeze so well there are now as many as three generations of one family among the residents.

VIEW FROM THE HILL--The tidy, well-landscaped terrain of Ocean Breeze Park is best seen from the elevation of the hill west of the railroad tracks, showing the town's proximity to the Indian River. The mobile homes belong to the residents, and some of them are more elegant inside than their owners' northern residences.

HALLOWEEN FUN--Every holiday is reason for a party, at Ocean Breeze. We can't tell you who these "bums" are, but they were part of the festivity at the Halloween ball in 1965.

MILLION DOLLAR GAL--The pride of the Sun Realty flock, at the annual Christmas dinner, was Lynn Kilgore, No.1 in the Sun Million Dollar Club. Seated, center, she gets congratulations from Tony Tesoriero, agency co-owner Shirley Hunter, and Jules Petito.

Sandpiper ladies play four-ball

WELCOME ENTRANCE–Ocean Breeze Park today is a far cry from those beginnings 40 years ago in 1938. Beautiful landscaping throughout the park has supplanted the sandspurs and scrub palmetto, and stately palms have replaced the gas pumps in front of the office building. The Ocean Breeze mobile home census is now 675. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

THE BIG GAME–Shuffleboard has been the favorite sport at Ocean Breeze almost since the park was first established. The original two courts, building built in 1940, have now grown to ten, with attractive sheltered benches on both ends. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

CERAMICS TEACHER–Belva Dean, instructor in the weekly ceramics class, pts ready to fire an attractive urn in the community kiln. Her class draws an enthusiastic attendance regularly throughout the season, and especially before Christmas when it's gift-making time. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

CERAMIC ART–The talented gals and guys in the crafts classes at Ocean Breeze don't have to worry about going out to buy their Christmas gifts. They turn out lovely creations like these in the weekly sessions in the clubhouse, where a common kiln is used for firing the glaze.

The laughter and joyful [illegible] at the Treasure Coast Congregate Meal Christmas Party, Fri. Dec. 22 at Langford Field gave proof that the elderly can forget their inflation and health cost troubles, when given a chance. This party was such a good example of how the seniors can work together to make an event that was truly delightful for them all, it will be described in some detail.

The hall was beautifully trimmed by Dorris Walker, mgr, Betty Mattix, ass't mgr, and willing helpers Ella Lee and Fran Runyan. There were wreaths, lights and tinsel on the walls, small lighted trees on piano and corner tables, main tables were decked with holly center pieces and individual place cards. It was festive just to look at.

The folks came early and soon there wasn't a seat to spare (even with 15 extra meals supplied by Arlen Fletcher, project director. The hubbub was deafening, as greetings went from table to table, but at 5 p.m. sharp the band struck up a lively "Jingle Bells" and the party was "off". The band consisted of Connie Betsch, piano; Marion Ross, banjo; Dick Aumiller, Banjo; Elliott Arluck, sax; Allen Betsch, drums.

The snappy music had the seniors kicking up their heels, from a dreamy waltz to a peppy Jessica Polka, even the shyest of shy joined to snake dance around the tables. Then, a group came forward to lead in the carol singing, which got better and better as they found that their voices were almost as good as 50 years ago. To top of the singing Ralph Ortt sang some of the best known carols. And, before they realized, it was 6 p.m. and time to serve the meal, so the band was given a standing ovation for such sparkling, foot tapping music.

During one intermission, many many door prizes supplied by Dorris and others were drawn and winners proudly showed their gifts to the others. Also, Santa left some special gifts and the members saw to it that Doris and Betty were not forgotten.

The meal was equal to the festive occasion, it consisted of slice of roast turkey, mashed potatoes, dressing, gravy, cranberry sauce, 3 bean salad, hard roll, , butter, mince pie, tea, coffee, milk and an extra cherry cobbler, supplied by Dorris. It can be well imagined how the seniors enjoyed this grand meal and to top it off, they were given super-supper bags for Christmas day, as no meal was to be served Monday.

For next few days, whenever participant met participant it was, "that's the best time I've had in years, forgot what fun it was to get together," even some remarked, "If there is that kind of spontineous gaity, without any alcoholic beverage, with a few drinks the roof would have blown off." Most seniors have found they can make their own delightful fun without "don't drive" stimulants This was just one wonderful affair for the seniors, and they will tell you so.

MCCA (Martin County Council on Aging) is also going to help seniors with a Christmas celebration for they deliver a special Meals on Wheels dinner on Monday, then they have prepared 50 baskets of Goodies and necessities, that will be given out as needed. For information 283-2342

The December "Community Health Notes" confirms what the seniors have suspected. Medical health costs are still increasing 50 to 100 percent faster than the general cost of living, going up 200 percent since 1965, while the cost of living has only gone up 65 percent.

However this issue does give the seniors a gleam of help as it points out that the tremendous health insurance costs have become more than business and industry can cope with. They can no longer past the increases on to the customers without risk to sales and profits. There they are now getting together through U.S. Chamber of Commerce to strive for Comprehensive Health Cost Containment Program." A letter to U.S. "C of " Washington, D.C. might help.

CHAPTER EVENTS

There's a lull in activites over the holidays, so we have a chance to look back and see where we have come from and what we have accomplished.

December 27, 1975: Seniors were bothered with inflation, could not understand $30 toys when 5 & 10's best was good enough for them. Card party in Harry Hoke Room use Riverside parking. Defensive Driving, in Harry Hoke Room, use Riverside parking. No picnic New Years Day but if members want, they will be resumed in Feb. Tom Tully to handle Employment referral and Margret McCuen to handle telephoning. Viscaya bus , trip sign up 33 right away. There will be a Health Panel at the January meeting at the Community Church.

December 22, 1976. Inflation main concern of the seniors. Some working in local markets to help cope with skyrocketing food costs. At DEcember meeting, Dale Cassens officiated at the Installation and the Sailfish Sweet Adelines provided the entertainment. A Money Tree was donated by Edith Hill and won By Dan Picciulo with a beautiful poinsetia was won by Betty Sharp (a guest from N.J.) and finally, cripe $1 bills were won by Ruth Pilkington, Mary Coughlin, Mrs. and Mrs. G.T. Gale, Arnost Hill and Mike Mann. Then this was the start of that Membership-Mirror deal (both for the regular price of the Mirror).

December 31, 1977. Returning snowbirds continue to rave about the wonderful Senior Centers they have in New Hampshire, New Jersey, Michigan, Tennessee, etc. The MacDonald coupon deal started about this time. Coupon worth $1 at MacDonalds were sold for $1 but were redeemed at 50 cents to the 5 000 tickets sold netted AARP & MCCA $2500.

The Free Blood Pressure, Martin County Health Dept. Clinic at Langford Field is proving to be very successful with 40 attending. Congregate Meal was having some growing pains, as Arlene Fletcher, Treasure coast Project Director explained that it was in no way a pauper program; all seniors rich and poor were qualified if they needed a good hot meal with congenial folks. Dale Cassen again conducted the installation ceremony. One table bazaar at back of hall netted $175. The Jungle Cruise is a sell out.

That is what the AAR ers were doing in yester year about this time. It looks like Card Parties never made it, but all other activities have survived to 1978, and inflation has always been worrying the seniors. So, let us proceed, with a Happy New Year ahead.

LETTERS FROM AARPERS

One past president wrote to another. Joe Paterson of Leconia, N.H. wrote recently saying some nice thing about the Golden Eagle and how it is passed around, until their District Officer gets it and says it is a terrific job (we sure like to hear from them, when they have such nice things to say. Then Joe says chapter has slipped. Can't get anyone to work (we thought that was just a southern problem). Regards to inflation, he suggests reading, "Australia Turnaround" in the December American Legion Magazine, explaining how in 6 years they have reduced inflation from 20 percent to 3.2 percent. Tell your Congressman.

RIVERSIDE VILLAGE

BY M.JOHNSON

Santa lives in Riverside. I even caught myself waving hello to him as he drove by in his modern method of transportation-the auto.

Mr. Gus Schoenberg of 4th St. is Santa Claus. The week of Dec.18 he was playing the role he enjoys and has been playing Santa since his grandchildren started arriving in 1957. Tuesday evening he entertained the Environmental Rehabilitation children of Ft. Pierce at their Christmas party. Gus will also be Santa at our own Christmas party in Riverside Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlon King from Pulaski, N.Y., stopped in to visit Mr. and Mrs. Remi Rothy. Mrs. King is their niece. Mr. King is attending a business meeting at the Breakers in.

Mrs. Gert Hume of 4th St. entertained Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bigham, Mr. and Mrs. D.L.White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Finella for Mr. Finella's birthday last Friday night.

Shuffleboard: the King of games

Shuffleboard is the king of games, at Ocean Breeze Park. Everyone, from the youngest to the oldest, enjoys the pleasant and sociable sport, and has since the park was still a fishing camp, back in 1940.

The growth of the shuffleboard court area is symbolic of the growth of the park. After the end of World War II, as the census in the trailer village began to multiply, the two courts soon became far from adequate. First two more were added, then in 1949, it was obvious more were needed.

The story of the construction of the present ten is told in the anniversary issue of the Mirror published in 1968:

"In the early spring of 1949, Warner Tilton,Jr., bought his first bulldozer and leveled the ground for the new shuffleboard courts. The job of running the concrete for the courts had barely started when Harry Hoke had a bad attack of cerebral schlerosis and was taken to Fort Pierce Hospital. Naturally, the whole park was very concerned as they look upon him affectionately as the head of their big family.

"It was decided to continue the work, so Russ Bolton, Wally Betham and several others started pouring concrete. At the end of a day's work, if any concrete was left over, it was used to lay walks in the drying yard close by. It was three weeks before Harry was out of the hospital and able to inspect the work, which was by then completed. Russ Bolton says that when Harry saw the completed courts he said,'You did just as well as if I had been here.' "

IT KEEPS 'EM HAPPY--The ten-lane shuffleboard courts at Ocean Breeze is the busiest spot in town, the year around. The lands were recently resurfaced, and the sun-shelter for the "bleachers" has recently been added. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

MAJOR PRODUCTION--Before the advent of television, the residents at Ocean Breeze were always staging some sort of entertainment to utilize all the talent among the community. The annual minstrels was a classic hit with everyone at the park.

OBP newsman Ernie C.--Man of many parts

Ernest C. Curwen, whose faithful reporting keeps all the residents of Ocean Breeze and members of the American Association of Retired Persons updated on news and political doings, is a man of diverse talents.

A native of Salem, Mass., he is married to the former Marion E. Paige, who came from Springfield, Mass. He graduated from Wentworth institute and the University of Massachusetts, with the goal of becoming an electrical engineer.

The greater part of his career was with Sylvania Electric Products in Salem where he was supervisor of research and development in the Illumination Division. He holds patents on equipment for making fluorescent lamps.

In 1950, he went with the company's branch in Los Angeles, where he was manager of the research and development section of the illumination laboratory at Richmond Field Station, working with sophisiticated test equipment.

He retired in 1960, and with his wife pursued his hobby of traveling. They covered all 48 states and the southern Canadian Provinces, as well as parts of Mexico and Central America. They also traveled on down to Peru, with most of it by travel trailer.

In addition to his writing, Ernie and his wife share the fun of square dancing at Ocean Breeze. He also enjoys photography, both still and movies.

More active in retirement than he was during the younger days of his career, Ernie is an alderman of the Town of Ocean Breeze Park; and its Civil Defense Director; Chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Treasure Coast Congregate Meals program; first vice president of the Ocean Breeze Camera Club; on the board of the Martin County Council on Aging; and president of the Martin County Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons No. 2223. He also retains membership in his professional organization, the Volunteers in Technical Assistance for Illumination Problems.

We join everyone in Martin County in wishing Happy 40 th Anniversary to Gene Hoke & the people of Ocean Breeze Park idents of Ocean Breeze Park have d a leathercraft class offered by ght years now, and each year the ly. Currently there are 28 students e are some of the class members. They are, from the left, standing: Belva Dean, Jeanette Morse, Ray Stewart, David Snyder, Earle Fisher; and Mary Strohm; seated, Ruth Fishpan, Pearl Atchison, Leonard Brunt, Dorothy Geeben, Muriel Woolley, Evelyn Haring, and Floyd Powell.

Leathercraft class is popular at OBP

At Ocean Breeze Park it seems there is always something to do, no matter what your interest is.

A wide variety of social, educational and recreational activities are offered for park residents, and a large number of the park's citizens are taking advantage of the opportunities to get involved.

One of the popular activities you'll find going on (at 1 p.m. every Thursday) at Ocean Breeze Park is a leathercraft class taught by Mary Strohm.

Mrs. Strohm has about 30 years experience working with leather, and has an enthusiastic class of students.

"I've been teaching the class at the park here for about seven or eight years now, and I really enjoy it," she says.

The class is sponsored by the adult education program, and registration for 12 weeks of instruction only costs $2.

Currently, Mrs. Strohm says she has 28 students in her class, and says she'll accept new students most anytime.

The current class is busy making Christmas gifts, and will continue until Jan. 13. Then, a new class will start.

Several of Mrs. Strohm's students have been taking her class since she first offered it at the park, and many others have been taking it for at least several years.

"I like the work, and so do my students. They enjoy making things that they can be proud of," she says.

...eden for a buck--with Ocean Breeze Camera Club

...take a trip to ...exico, but you ...just haven't got the cash or time to do it.

Well, if you're an Ocean Breeze Park resident, you can travel to far away places every week--without even leaving the park.

Now, there are ...features weekly showings of slides and films of distant lands visited by its members. This year's officers are, from the left: Mrs. Ray Ziegelhofer, president; Glen Roudebush, second vice president; Ernie Curwen, first vice president; and Frieda Peterkin, secretary. Each Thursday evening, scores of park residents gather for a visual visit to a distant country or state. The "trips" are sponsored by the Ocean Breeze Park Camera Club.

According to the club's secretary-treasurer, Frieda Peterkin, the idea for a camera club was suggested back in 1952 by park owner Harry Hoke.

"There was nothing much to do on Sunday nights. Harry said he felt we ought to have a camera club, to offer a little entertainment to the residents. So, on Feb. 18, 1952, a group of 18 park residents gathered and formed the club.

Though at times there have been lessons in photography, the main purpose of the club from its inception has been entertainment.

Over the years, the meeting time changed from Sunday evenings to Thursday evenings. But the bill of fare has remained the same: a film or slide show of a distant place.

"We used to get films from Fort Pierce when we first started, but not long after we got started, people started bringing in their own films and slides," Mrs. Peterkin said.

Mrs. Ray Ziegelhofer is the club's president this year, and already she says things are pretty well lined up for each week's showing. One week a resident may show slides of a trip to Mexico, and the next week, the Canadian rockies may be featured. Regardless of the place, the shows are invariably interesting, she says. And, to back up her point, she noted that club membership has grown from the original 18 members in 1952 to around 130 members today.

Mrs. Ziegelhofer says the club is active from November through March, with a different chairman appointed for each month to be in charge of the weekly programs. At the end of March the club has a very popular pot luck dinner and an election of officers for the next season.

According to the minutes of the first club meeting, which Mrs. Peterkin has kept throughout all these years, a Dr. Willey was the club's first president. Mrs. Peterkin, who moved to the park in 1947 and survived the 1948 hurricane that hit this area, said she did not recall the doctor's first name.

Another item gleaned from the first club meeting was the establishment of club dues. The original members agreed to set the fee at $1 per person. And, in spite of inflation, that's still the amount a park resident is charged for membership. And, as if that wasn't enough of a good deal, Mrs. Ziegelhofer says the $1 dues is good for a lifetime membership.

Mrs. Ziegelhofer, who has a fine camera of her own and who has traveled to Austria, Germany, Mexico, Canada and most all of the states in our nation, says many of the camera club shows are of overseas countries. "For some reason, the Scandanavian countries are popular this year. We've already had one presentation from that area and it looks like we may have a couple more before the season is over. But it doesn't matter if the same area is repeated, because everybody takes different pictures and has a different point of view about their trip," she said.

So, if you're a park resident and you've been missing out on the weekly travels, you ought to join in. You'd be surprised at how far you can travel for a dollar.

FIRST OFFICE--When Harry Hoke opened his fishing camp in 1938, the only office space was this small converted shed, on the banks of the Indian River. There were 42 winter visitors that year, and "we thought that was doing pretty well," says present owner Gene Hoke.

POPULAR ENTERTAINERS–The Ocean Breeze Square Dance Club, of which Ruth Hke is instructor, pleases not only the membership but everyone else around the area as well. A sample component, which includes (from left) Veronica and Pappy Snyder, Ernie and Marion Curwen, Len and Betty Brunt, and Ruel and Beula Mertz, provides lively entertainment for others including the Volunteer Firemen's Festival and other community efforts. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

PANCAKE FEAST–One of the popular parties at Ocean Breeze, for years, was the pancake breakfast, where residents combined feasting with civic welfare. "We bought a lot of equipment for the hospitals with those breakfasts," says mayor Gene Hoke.

The Christmas lights sparkled brightly all around the park with hardly an unoccupied home to be found as most of the snowbirds are here by now. Only 9 blew in last week to make the season total about 675, however there were grandchildren everywhere as they took advantage of a chance to spend the holidays in balmy Florida.

This week's batch of snowbirds were as follows: Virginia and Margarite Duncan; Walter & Viola Small; Ludwig & Mary Mayer; Robert & Harriet Holm; Adele Garison.

Town elections are over, the results of the Dec. 19 voting is as follows: Total vote, 79; Mayor Gene Hoke, 70; Aldermen, Betty MacNab, 64; Ruth Bowden, 61; Bill Jones, 47. They will be installed at the Jan. 15 Town Council meeting.

Folks have asked, "Where are those gorgeous petunias that Ralph usually has at the park entrance" and some have wanted to have a repeat on Ralph's formula for growing them. Ralph says, "Let's hold up on the formula, as I've just lost 3 batches of them due to a killing fungus and that's why there has not been an entrance display this year, but present batch of plants look as though they would make it".

PARK EVENTS

The Christmas activities started with Osgood's carolers, 50 strong lead by Bernie O'Neil wandering all around the park, Fri. Dec. 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. singing a carol or two at the homes of the shut-ins. This was a very happy event, enjoyed by carolers as much as by the shut-ins.

Then came the Kids Christmas Party, 11:30 a.m. Sat. Dec. 23 at the Clubhouse, trimmed with State of Maine Balsom. Tables were gaily set for the 25 young guests, by Orlee Ecklund, who has been doing it for 20 years, and Sue Bygd assisted in the serving as usual. Games were played until kids or grandparents were tired out, then Santa's assistant Dick Aumiller, appeared by the Christmas tree and distributed the individual presents. Finally it was time for the luncheon, which the very happy kids sure enjoyed. Then, after a final round of picture taking, all tiouped out, with wishes for a Merry Christmas.

The Christmas Dance was next on the schedule, so Sat. Dec. 23 at 8:30 p.m. the gals in beautiful long gowns and the guys in neat jackets with matching pants filled the clubhouse. They danced and danced, square, round and mixers with joyful cries of "Merry Christmas to you". The gift exchange brought many giggles, as folks watched others open strange gifts. It was a joyful affair.

John Leybeck's Christmas Carol concert at the Shuffle Courts, Sunday, Dec. 24, at 7 p.m. is getting to be an annual affair; well enjoyed by the OBPers.

The Christmas Church service, 7:30 a.m. Christmas morning was held in the Clubhouse, the same as it has been done for years and the OBPers were awaken early in true Harry Hoke fashion, by the P.A. system astonishing them. "Get up all you lazy folks, it is only half hour to church time." And that is what most of them did. The clubhouse was packed as usual.

Don't forget, next Sat. Dec. 30 at the regular dance there will be the traditional Ocean Breeze initiation of Newcomers, in true Harry Hoke fashion. Old Timers, see that the new folk attend, as one can't be a true OBPer, until initiated.

CAMERA CLUB will not meet Thursday Dec.28...will resume its slide shows Jan.4 at 7 p.m. in the Clubhouse, when Hugh Garside shows Spanish Bull Fights and the best of England and Ireland. All OBPers are invited. Those interested can join the club. Dues are $1 for as long as you live in the park. See Secretary Fred Peterkin at the door or Nina Ziegelhofer, president.

Shufflers didn't let the holidays interfer too much with their activities, but even the most ardent shuffler had to give a little ground to ol Saint Nick, but here is the latest.

Buckaroos posted these December winners: Bill Jones, Pete Muller, P.T. Mathy and Hugh Garside, all tied for first place. The Petticoaters had 8¾ courts of gals busy Tuesday, Dec. 19 (winners next week).

The Indian River team is still leading the league: OBP, 39; Spanish Lakes, 33; Ft. Pierce, 32; Stuart, 28. Central league team had a by last week, so they couldn't improve their standing.

The Bean Bagers are forming a league with a tournament game every Monday, 1:30 p.m. at Queena Park, next will be Jan. 8. So far 6 teams have signed up with the ladies winning most points to date. Sign up on Shuffle bulletin board.
